OUR CHURCH ABROAD

THE TYRANNY THAT SEEKS TO CHAIN IT IN ITALY AND FRANCE.

Even at the Very Altar Are the Priests Hampered, and Every Effort Is Made to Cripple Them In the Discharge of Their Sacred Duties.

In an article entitled "The Chains of the Church" our Italian contemporary, Unita Cattolica, describes the condition of the church in a country where a lay element hostile to the holy see imposes on the clergy obligations inconsistent with their rights and full freedom as ecclesiastics. This question of the relative powers of church and state, despite the prudence and patience of Leo XIII, is cropping up frequently in most of the continental nations. The theory proclaimed by Cavour was that all Italy wanted was "a free church in a free state." Where the Catholic forces are not strong the freedom seems to be all on the side of the state, and for the church there is little better than oppression. The Italian government by such acts as the suppression of Catholic organizations and parochial committees has made manifest to the world its intention of holding the church in servitude.

This attitude has been illustrated by more than one incident of late. The Catholic liturgy prescribes that only flags which have been blessed should be admitted into the churches. The regulation is of long standing and has not been drawn up in view of present circumstances. The societies who have had their flags blessed can enter a church in a body. When flags have not been blessed, they must be folded before the bearers are allowed in, and there must be no Masonic symbols, as the Freemasons are under excommunication.

Recently, in connection with some ceremony or other, an association of tailors visited Rome and presented themselves at the door of the Church of St. Andrea delle Frate, which is served by the Franciscans Minor. They carried a flag which had not been blessed, and the sacristan tried to prevent them from taking the profane emblem into the church. The tailors threatened him with violence. He procured assistance, and a struggle ensued in which the defenders of the liturgical regulation were unsuccessful. The association carried their flag triumphantly into the church, but the clergy withdrew into the sacristy, and no religious ceremony took place.

The bearers of the flag laid a complaint against the clergy before the civil authorities. The case went from court to court until it came before the council of state, a mixed body, both administrative and judicial, which discharges the duties of a final court of appeal. The council, having duly considered the matter, has decided that in refusing to allow the tailors to hoist their flag in the church the ecclesiastics outraged the national colors. The decision has been received with strong protests by the clergy and the Catholic press, for they feel that henceforward any society, however hostile, can enter a church for the purpose of disturbance if they only raise the Italian tricolor.

The clergy disclaim any want of respect for the national emblem. If a military detachment goes to church for a ceremony, no opposition will be offered to them in bringing the flag within the sacred edifice. The liturgy has provided for such a case and authorized an act symbolizing the good relations which ought to exist between church and state. But the flag is sometimes carried by societies to whose principles the church is utterly opposed, and the clergy strongly object to this insidious way of seeking a religious sanction for such principles. The objection is sound and reasonable, but the council of state has spoken, and the clergy will be forced to submit.

The incident is deemed all the more ominous as it is one of many evidences that state officials are determined to curtail the liberty of the clergy as much as possible and to treat them as mere salaried servants. For instance, the Unita Cattolica informs us that at Padua a Lenten service was stopped because a military review was held on the same day. "The idea is," says the Florentine Journal, "that the priest must obey the orders of the secular authorities. The state pays him, and he must do as he is directed to do by those who feed him. They give him a stipend hardly equal to that of coachman, and they think that the pastor whom the Lord has commanded to feed his flock ought to adapt himself to their wishes just like the coachman."

The subject has a very practical bearing on Catholic life. Throughout the continental countries in former days the spirit of the government was Catholic, and if there were occasional aggressions upon the church the general interests of religion rarely suffered. Under such conditions the union of church and state was essentially for the welfare of both. But in recent times, when men who have no love for the church or the holy see have succeeded in obtaining the reins of power, they have worked with might and main to tyrannize over the clergy and convert them into mere state functionaries. In France the policy has been to create a desert in and around the churches. For the state the union with the church means not any favor to religious work, but the exercise of authority in the ecclesiastical domain by the prefect and the minister of public worship. If the priest is faint hearted or lukewarm in his zeal, he is left alone. The prefect does not interfere with him, for he knows that it will cause a good impression at headquarters if he can report that indifference to religion is growing in his district. If the priest is energetic, his energy is checked, and he is made to feel in a hundred ways that his freedom of action is narrow and that to undertake any initiative measures would be dangerous. The state officials keep away from his church, and, as far as they can, discountenance attendance.

Under such circumstances it is difficult to see how anything like religious progress can be expected. In Italy the enemies of the church declare that the priests must be driven back into the churches, but even there they do not leave them in peace. They hamper and cripple them at the very altar, and the general result is pretty much the same as in France. It becomes impossible for the clergy to exercise sufficient power to win the people as a whole to their sides and to insure that progress which Catholic principles demand.

If the fettering of the church proceeds as it has now gone on for a good many years, the problem must sooner or later arise whether it is not better that the clergy should be altogether emancipated from the domination of a hostile state in order that they may exercise apostolic freedom in the discharge of their sacred duties.—London Catholic Times and Opinion.

BAPTISM.

Some Things Which All Catholics Should but Do Not Know.

A child should be presented for baptism without delay in the parish church at the proper time. If some grave reason impels one to have his child baptized outside of the parish, the written permission of the pastor is necessary.

There should be two practical Catholics for sponsors, a godfather and a godmother. In case of necessity one sponsor, of the same sex as the child, will suffice.

At least one Christian name should be selected for the child.

The godmother holds the child with the head resting on her right arm. The clothing about the neck of the child should be loose, so that the priest may easily anoint the breast and back. The responses are to be made and the Apostles' Creed and Our Father recited clearly and with sincerity.

The sponsors place their right hands upon the child at the pouring of the water. They also hold the candlestick when the priest presents it.

It is becoming for the sponsor and the father to present an offering in keeping with their means to the officiating clergyman.

No charge is made for the administration of a sacrament. Custom demands an offering or honorarium in proportion to the means of the ones concerned. Those who are in poverty are not required to observe the custom.

Parents should not baptize their own children, except in danger of death, when no one else is near.

It is proper for the mother to receive the blessing of the church after her child is baptized. The ceremony is called churching.

VATICAN AND QUIRINAL.

Will the Words of the Holy Father Prove Prophetic?

Some years ago my friend was at the Vatican in the pope's private oratory. Leo XIII seemed tired and worried, but was speaking in French in a loud and distinct voice. Suddenly raising himself by the aid of his thin hands from his seat, he went to the window from which the Quirinal is visible. With his tall figure, then still upright, enveloped from head to foot in white, he stood erect, inspired and powerful. "You went there yesterday," he said. "Were you not received by the king?"

Then, pointing to the Quirinal with outstretched arm, he continued: "These two houses cannot remain indefinitely divided, and I tell you that the day will come when they will work in concert for the glory of this church and of this country. As for me"—and his voice softened—"I do not cease to pray our Lord to enlighten the minds of those who direct the temporal destinies of the Italian fatherland that they may constantly labor for its true greatness and may comprehend that Christian Rome cannot prolong against its own church the persecution which caused the collapse of pagan Rome."

After this, as if exhausted by the effort, he reseated himself, leaned forward, and extending the pontifical ring dismissed my friend with a sovereign and affectionate gesture.—Paris Cor. London Times, March 16

What Have You Sown?

There is a flower called heartsease which flourisheth on the meanest soil when fed with good deeds and kindly thoughts, and 'tis worth a king's ransom to its possessor. That same flower hath its roots deep in the heart of God and its fruit unto eternity, where every good shall reap its unfailing harvest of weal and every ill deal find its just meed of woe. We need not think to cheat ourselves with the fancy that God's law can fail. Here and hereafter we shall reap as we have sown.

The C. Y. M. N. U.

Representatives of the Catholic Young Men's National union from Baltimore, Philadelphia, Albany, Newark, Trenton, Boston, Providence and New York met at the office of the national president, the Rev. T. McGurl of Brooklyn, recently, to arrange for the annual meeting of the union, which is to take place this year in Newark, the city in which it was organized a quarter of a century ago. The dates have been fixed for July 11 and 12.

To Teach the Deaf and Dumb.

The Sisters of St. Joseph who are to have charge of the deaf and dumb school which Mgr. Magennis has erected at Jamaica Plain, Mass., are preparing themselves for the better discharge of these functions by visiting deaf and dumb schools and observing the methods therein used. They have already visited such institutions at Buffalo, Northampton, Hartford and Philadelphia.

WOMEN'S REALM

A PRETTY EVENING DRESS.

Black and White Spotted Mousseline de Sole Over Pale Blue.

The engraving gives a good idea of a pretty costume for dinner or a small evening party, with effects produced by the blending of tulles one over the other. It is made of black mousseline de sole, with white silk spots embroidered on it in relief rather close together.

It is made up over a skirt of white satin, veiled with pale blue mousseline de sole which produces the effect of a shot material. The satin skirt is skin tight, the fulness increasing from about half-way down to about forty centimetres from the bottom, at which point it widens very considerably down to the ground. The two lighter materials are slightly supported around the waist, and follow the movement of the satin with a little more fulness. The skirt is trimmed around the bottom with six rows of black velvet No. 3, running all around the skirt and about their own width apart. The lowest row forms an edging.

The corsage is of the same material as the skirt. It is cut very low and square, all around it is gathered at the waist and widens "en corbeille" in the upper part. The edge is ornamented with a braid of blue and white shot, embroidered with a pompadour garland of small roses and foliage in their natural colors. The waistband is made of three rows of black velvet, showing the material of the corsage between them. It is wider at the sides than in front or behind and fastens in the centre in front with a long rocaille buckle in gold in two tones. The sleeves are long, with nothing between them and the arm. The material is slightly gathered in the upper part along the inner seam, so as to form a slight drapery. The lower part is ornamented with bands of black velvet running around in the style of the skirt. The cuffs are frilled and gathered and fall over the hand.

The headdress is composed of a tuft of pale blue feathers and a black aigrette placed in the centre of the hair rather far back.

Brushing Hair Backwards.

Have you tried brushing your hair the wrong way? I know a little woman whose hair had long been thin and scraggy. She was in despair, having used a host of different tonics wthout benefit, when a French maid suggested brushing the hair the wrong way, assuring her mistress that in Paris this was a favorite way of grooming the hair.

The American woman decided to try the experiment. Her maid carefully divided the hair into many small parts and then, with a huge and very stiff brush, began her work. Holding the extreme end of the strand to be brushed in her left hand, she started at the bottom of it and brushed upward toward the head. After each strand had gone through this process the maid smoothed each hair back into its original position.

Now the woman brushes her hair in this manner each night and morning. She declares it has proved more beneficial than an expensive tonic.

Eternal Youth in Skirts.

That is what this skirt shows. A dress will outlast its linings many times over. Especially that part of the lining which swings against the feet in walking. Cut the lining off as far up as it is worn, with a pointed edge. Then sew a band of fancy silk, different from the rest of the skirt lining, all around the bottom of the skirt, joining the pointed upper edge to the old lining with a row of braiding. Bind the skirt with one of those famous bindings warranted to tear up paving stones before wearing out, and the skirt will be as fresh and prettier than ever.

CARSON WILDRED'S CRIME.

A Detective Story of Two Continents,
by
HARRY WOOD REYNOLDS.

CHAPTER XXIV.

I went to bed determined not to sleep, but to keep my eyes open for any sound in the passage outside. Luckily there was a creaky board, on which he had stepped a few minutes ago. If he attempted to go away during the night he would very possibly step on it again.

But I was very tired after my long journey. Before I had been in bed an hour I was dreaming so vividly of pursuit of my quarry through the streets of San Francisco that I fully believed I had awaked, got up and gone after him.

In the end the dream seemed to change. The pretender had boarded a railway train and I was with the engine driver of another folowing at a dare-devil speed. In my dream I choked in the smoke, which flew into my face, and was dazzled with the red glare of the fire, on which the engine driver was piling great pieces of fat bacon. As we flew along the rails the the locomotive swayed from side to side, and I could hear a loud rattling of wheels and of window glass.

Suddenly a puff of smoke seemed on the point of stifling me, and I awoke to find myself sitting up in bed and gasping for breath.

I had not dreamt the rattling of glass nor the jarring sensation, nor yet the smoke and heat and lurid light. The walls seemed to shake with a dull vibration, and the window panes were like castanets. Through the glass transom over the door I could see a shimmering ruddy glow that rose and fell, and was brightened by bursting sparks and little darting tongues of yellow flame. Apart from this one lurid spot all was thickly curtained into darkness by a heavy pall of smoke.

Close at hand were my boots. I drew them on, and then fumbled about for one or two articles of clothing. The wild light that rushed past the transom told me that escape by the way of the passage was already cut off, and as I looked a small curling tress of flame blew in through the crack between the door and the window sill.

The window was less easy to find. As I felt for it through the veil of smoke strange conjectures stole into my brain What if this was the plan of Carson Wildred's wily accomplice for getting safely rid of me?

I had no intention of being got rid of thus easily, however. I found the window and opened the lower sash. With the rush of air from the outside my oppressed lungs got relief for a second or two, but the draught drew in the flames that rioted through the hall; the glass in the transom, already cracked, burst with a loud explosive sound, and torrent of fire and smoke poured in through the aperture.

Had I not leaped on to the window sill, and without an instant's hesitation let myself swing over, I could not have kept my senses in that raging furnace.

My room was on the second floor, high enough to give me a severe fall, perhaps a fatal one, and I felt that my life was of value now. Cautiously but hurriedly I reached out with one hand to the side of the window, banging with all my weight from the other, which clutched the sill. My groping fingers came in contact with a twisted rope of creepers, bare of leaves for Winter, and serviceable for the use I wished to put it to. I grasped the thick stems for dear life, and went down hand over hand, dimly hearing voices from below cheering me in my descent.

Where was Mr. Farnham? That was the question asked by the excited landlord, who, half-dressed, had come out to give what help he could.

I said nothing. I thought now that I understood the reason why my friend had taken the room in the frame addition to the Santa Anna Hotel. The plan commenced to take form in my mind, and I believed that the cablegram had only precipitated its execution.

CHAPTER XXV.

I tried to put myself in place of the man who had stolen his identity from the dead. Were I he, I thought, and had I done that of which I believed he he had been guilty. I would lose no time in putting myself beyond the reach of possible pursuit. I would have laid my plans with some exactitude, and would have been prepared for the necessity of flight. I would have thrown aside as many details of my likeness to Harvey Farnham as nature had not provided me with, and, having set fire to the room I had occupied, I would have got out of the hotel as quietly and quickly as practicable. If it had been a comparatively easy task for me to escape by means of the creepers which clothed the side of the house, the same means might well have been employed by the man whose movements I was mentally trying to follow.

Success having attended my movements so far, I should have gone straight to a railway station, and would never have breathed freely until I had left San Francisco well behind me.

My hands were burnt, I was practically without clothes, and had suffered a considerable nervous shock, which at another time I might have had leisure to feel and analyze.

But I did neither at the present uncture. I simply procured a stiff portion of brandy neat, and drank it at a gulp, purchased a few articles of clothing from an accommodating waiter, dressed myself with all speed, and set off to the principal railway station or "depot" of San Francisco.

As I got inside the station there was a certain bustle and stir of departure or arrival in the air. "Train going out or coming in?" I asked shortly of a sleepy porter.

"Going out—Salt Lake City," grumbled the man in reply.

I don't know why I instantly felt the conviction that the bogus Farnham was in that train, but I did feel it, and so intensly that when I saw the long line of cars beginning to move it seemed to me that not to reach it and jump on board would mean the ruin of my life.

I have a dim recollection of persons shouting at me, of feeling a detaining hand trying to drag me back. I remember, too, thrashing out with considerable force, ridding myself of my would be preserver, I caught on by the rear platform, and after flying hoplessly for an instant like a ribbon in the wind as the train increased its speed I got foothold, and climbed up the steps

At the top was a negro night porter, ash colored with fright. He helped to pull me on board, and I tipped him generously, (when I began to regain my breath and scattered wits) for agreeing not to make any excitement by reporting the affair to the conductor.

I told him that I wanted a berth, found there would be a vacant one on board the "sleeper" at my disposal, and sat down in the smoking room, ostensibly to wait while the bed was made up for me.

A man came into the smoking room I had been alone before.

We looked at each other. He was a tall, slim youngfellow, with a smooth face. At the sight of me he stopped short, flushed to the roots of his close cropped hair, and would have precipitately retired had I not taken one quick step forward and grasped him by the shoulder.

Gone was the padding from the chest and abdomen: gone was the curly wig, the beard, the lump on the nose, which had been modelled after Farnham's: gone was the green shade, the sling, and the limp; but much of the odd resemblance, which had been heightened in so artistic a manner, still remained.

CHAPTER XXVI.

"No, you don't!" I remarked cheerfully, and with the force of superior muscles I pulled him toward me. "Come, sit down here by me," I said "I want to talk to you." And somehow it came about that we subsided on the cushioned seat together.

"Confound you!" he exclaimed. "What are you about? You must be mad to attack a stranger without the slightest provocation. Let me alone, sir, or I'll rouse the car!"

"I wouldn't, you know, if I were you," I said, coolly, for the more excited he grew the more did my calmness come back to me. "You've been playing a dangerous game ever since you took passage in the American liner St. Paul (or, rather, since Carson Wildred took it for you) but you've never, perhaps, steered so close to the wind as to-night, when you resorted to incendiarism as a finishing stroke."

The fellow stared at me in simulated nonchalance and defiance, but my hand was on his shoulder still, and I could feel the shudder that ran through his body.

"I say you must be mad," he reiterated.

"I've been just three days behind you everywhere since you left New-York. I've got every link in the evidence now, and what with Bennett, of Denver, and the proprietor of the Santa Anna Hotel, and a few others, I can burst your wretched little soap-bubble plot in four-and-twenty hours. There's just one way in which you can stay my hand."

"What's that?" He had spoken out impulsively, before he had stopped to think. The instant the words were uttered he saw all that they admitted, and bit his lip. But it was too late; he was completely trapped.

"I GENTLY RAPPED ON THE WINDOW."

"I'll tell you," I said, keeping my hand on his shoulder, almost caressingly. "I'd listen attentively, if I were in your place. What you can do is to make a clean breast of your story from beginning to end. I'm willing to pay you more for confessing than Wildred did for plotting. Then you must go back to England with me, and stand by while the thing is made public."

When I had finished he sighed and dropped his head. His own hair which was very closely cut, was of a beautiful reddish color, much the shade of Karine Cunningham's, as the light fell on it from above. I thought of her with a great wave of passionate love, and more of hope than I had dared to feel for many a long day.

Perhaps it was the recollection of her lovely face and the wonderful halo of her hair which caused me for an instant to relax my grasp. I only became conscious of having done so when the fellow twisted himself from under my hand, and springly lightly to his feet, would have darted through the swing door had I not sprung after him like a tiger.

We fought together as the car swayed and bounded along its track. Once he dived under my arm and was almost out of my clutches, but I caught him by the collar with so fierce a grip that the linen of his shirt tore, and the garment ripped open to the waistcoat. Something which he wore beneath snapped as he still struggled to escape me and a bright object flashed under my eyes as it fell and dropped with a slight metallic noise to the floor.

Evidently it was to him an article of value. Impulsively he stooped, forgetful for a second of the object which had animated him, and thus the advantage became all mine again. I had him pinioned fast.

At our feet I now had time to observe, lay a gold broken chain and locket.

Twisting my hand firmly in his collar, I bent over and picked up the ornaments. Allow me," I said smiling. And as I was about to put the locket in his hand I could not avoid seeing the portrait that it framed. It was an open-faced, old-fashioned thing, set round with a rim of pearls. The crystal had been cracked across in the fall, but the delicately painted ivory miniature within was intact, and I gave a slight exclamation as I saw that it represented Karine Cunningham.

"Give it back to me!" he ejaculated, forgetting his evident fear of me for the first time, and speaking with a certain manly fierceness that thawed the chill of my contempt for him. "If I've got a right for nothing else on earth, I've got a right to that. It's a portrait of my sister."

"Here is the locket." I said. "I came from England to California to serve Miss Cunningham's interests and I will not lay my hand upon her brother."

"I don't know what you mean," he said sullenly.

"I'll tell you," I returned, "if you'll sit down here and listen to me for a few minutes longer. After that, as far as I am concerned, you are free to do as you choose. You look surprised—but whatever may have been your faults and your offences. I would stake my life you love your sister."

"She is the only thing on earth I do love," he replied, still half dazedly.

Then he sat down, his eyes furtively on me, and I seated myself beside him.

"She is sacrificing herself for some one." I remarked. "I think I begin dimly to understand now who that some one may be, I think, too, that circumstances have given me the right to be inquisitive, as I can still further explain to you later on. Is Miss Cunningham going to marry Carson Wildred to save you from any unpleasant consequences of the past, for instance?"

He started almost as though he had been struck.

"She is not going to marry Carson Wildred!" he exclaimed.

"Oh, yes, she is, unless it can be prevented. I see I have even more to tell you than I thought. Is it long may I ask since you have seen your sister?"

"Last November," he said, dropping his head, and bringing under my eyes again the hair that was like hers.

"Ah, that explains your ignorance. The man had not shown his hand at that time. Now, I am going to trust to your affection for Miss Cunningham, to your presumable wish to save her from unhappiness, and talk to you as though we had been allies instead of enemies. Perhaps I may be a fool for my pains; but something seems to say to me"—

"Something says right. Go on!" he ejaculated gruffly.

I told him the strange story of the past few weeks from beginning to end.

"He is doubly a murderer," I said. "And yet, unless you and I together can keep him from it, he will be your sisters husband."

"I'll kill him first!" exclaimed my companion.

"I think the trick can be done without resorting to such extreme measures as that." I returned, "especially if you are willing to come over from his camp to mine."

He looked at me sharply for a moment without answering, then he said:

"You seem pretty quick, I've noticed in what you've just been telling me, at putting two and two together. Well, you say you were at the Santa Anna Hotel the night the murder was committed ten years ago. You knew there were two men mixed up in it. You remembered one of them; would you remember the other?"

"He was a mere boy." I said, "and it's a long time ago. He must have changed almost beyond recognition."

"He's just twenty-nine at present; I've good reasons to know, for I'm he."

"WELL, IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN HIS GRANDFATHER'S GHOST, I DARE SAY," HE REMARKED.

It was my turn to be astonished, but it was not policy to show it. Therefore I merely said: "Oh, indeed!"

"You're not so quick as usual," he went on. "I'd been accused of the murder at the Santa Anna Hotel, I hooked it, and got over to Mexico, so to Spain and France. I'd always been a black sheep, you know, but that was the first really serious trouble I'd got into. However, as I said, five years later, when Wildred and I met in Canada, I'd turned actor (I'd always a little talent that way), and was doing pretty well. He pointed out to me, and I wasn't very long in seeing his point, that I was not so much changed but what I should easily be recognized by those who had known me during those wild days when I'd been under his thumb in San Francisco, and the authorities there would still be very glad to hear of me. He didn't happen to want anything of me just then, but he allowed me to understand that it was to my interest to keep sweet with him. And from that day to this he's had his eye on me."

"But it was he who was accused of that murder, not you," I said.

"What."

"He has told this same story to your sister, I would swear!" I exclaimed hotly. "It is for this reason that she has been persuaded into promising to marry him. Believing that he knows your whereabouts, and holds it in his power at any moment to have you punished, as a murderer—believing, too no doubt that you did commit the murder—she has been ready to save your life by the sacrifice of all that has made her dear."

"Curse him! I'd take my oath you're right!" he asseverated. "He's sly enough and vile enough for anything."

"Did you ever see Harvey Farnham?" I questioned.

"Yes, years ago I knew well and liked him immensely—as he did me, I think. It was in Tuolumne County, California, where he had a goldmine—the Miss Cunningham. It was I who named that, oddly enough it may seem to you, after my sister, of course. He wasn't aware of that, but thought it was just a whim of mine, that probably I admired some girl called Miss Cunningham, and wanted to pay her a compliment. You see, no one knew me by my right name even then.

"It was before that hateful time before I got in with Collins, or Wildred, whichever you like to call him, and not long after I'd run away from home and England under the assumed name of Hartly—it was my mothers maiden name. I was only seventeen or eighteen, but I was pretty sharp for my years, I'm afraid, for I'd been among a queer lot already, and one night I should have got into a row with some older man over cards, a row that might have ended badly, if it hadn't been for Mr. Farnham, who had dropped into the place to look on, and who stood by me for all he was worth.

"It seemed he noticed me the moment he entered the room, thinking that I looked enough like him to be his own son. Afterward he took me up, making a lot of me, wanting to find out where I'd come from, and all that. He thought my resemblance to him (which everyone who saw us together invariably remarked) a wonderful joke, and used to call me his 'boy,' and 'sonny,' getting it into his head that I was a sort of 'Mascot,' who brought luck to him in whatever he undertook. That was the principal reason, of course, that he was so keen on having me name his mine for him. I think, if I had sown all my wild oats and been willing to settle down a bit into a respectable member of society, there was a time when he wouldn't have minded adopting me, for some old unhappy love affair or other had kept him out of the marriage market, eligible as he was and he swore that he never meant to marry, even for the hope of having an heir to all his money. Yes, I might have been that heir if I hadn't been a fool, for Farnham certainly thought the world and all of me in those days. As it was he did me many a kindness."

"And now, by the way of repaying that affection and those kindnesses," I could not help exclaiming, with a returning touch of the bitter old contempt, "yo've undertaken to help his murderer to get off scot free. You've been masquerading in the very clothes the poor fellow wore, you've been using his luggage, trading on the likeness to him which once won for you his regard, heightened it in every way by artificial means, so that not only shall Carson Wildred, or Willis Collins, escape suspicion, but that he may enrich himself on the dead man's millions. You even set a hotel on fire to finish the whole fiendish plot with a fine dramatic effect!"

Four players of the Plainfield Juniors defeated the Klondikers by a score of 7 to 2. The battery for the Juniors was Sherwin and Sheppard, while Mullen and Creigor were the battery for the Klondikers. Yaeger played a good game at short-stop, while Bock did equally as good on first back. The features of the game was the heavy hitting by the Juniors. The Klondikers did not find the delivery of Sherwin until the last inning.

Pond's baseball club is looking up this year, and with the training and practice which the members of the team intend giving themselves, the nine bids fair to be a strong one. Captain Stevens is getting the best work out of his men, and Manager Charles A. Dixon is arranging for games with outside nines. Among them is the New Brunswick Y. M. C. A. with which team Dixon is trying to arrange a game for the near future. The grounds have not been decided upon yet.

The game with Newark High School has been scheduled by Manager William A. Fisher, of the Plainfield High School team, for Saturday afternoon. Owing to the fact that the game that Plainfield was to play against that team in Newark was cancelled it was only after much persuasion that the Newark High School boys could be persuaded to come to this city to play. As both teams have defeated the Newark Academy nine, the meeting of the two is watched with unusual interest. The game will start at 3:30 o'clock at the Crescent Oval. The admission to the grounds and grand stand is ten cents.

MIDDLESEX COUNTY SURPRISES.

Changes Made When the Board of Freeholders Organized.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 11.—The Board of Freeholders met yesterday afternoon, three hours past the time set. The delay was caused by the failure of the Democratic caucus to agree upon a slate. There was a fight for nearly every office. Asbury Fountain, of Madison township, and James Parsons, of North Brunswick, who was director last year, were rival candidates for that office. Fountain defeated Parsons for the caucus nomination by a vote of 9 to 7.

It has been confidently expected that Dr. T. V. Meacham, of New Brunswick, would be made County Physician, but Dr. Carroll, of Dayton, showed surprising strength in the caucus and defeated Meacham. The term of County Solicitor Willis does not expire this year, but the friends of Peter F. Daly, of New Brunswick, succeeded in having the caucus decide the office vacant and named Daly. David Serviss was made County Collector, and D. W. Clayton clerk of the board, without opposition.

The slate was put through at the meeting without any difficulty.

DOWN WITH THE TRUSTS!

The Farmer Orator Sees a Great Conversion of The Tribune.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—If any intelligent citizen doubted the argument put forth by the Democratic party as to the wrong and danger of high tariff laws and trusts, I must respectfully urge all such to read the editorial in last Saturday's New York Tribune on "Hoisting Prices"—wherein that protective organ speaks of the "tin plate trust as the worst sinner of them all," and further that "it is not the time to milk the country to the last drop," etc.

Yes, a protective tariff makes these damnable combination possible, and feeds them to gloating at the expense of the people. Their prime object of a trust is to hamper legitimate trade and to shut off competition.

It is ill time now for the Tribune to grow alarmed as to the result to the trade of the country, and danger to the Republican party, inasmuch "as the National policy has placed consumers at the mercy of all sorts of combinations which show no sense of regard for the public welfare.

The Slogan has gone forth "Down With Trusts," and with it will go the twin crime of a high protective tariff.

The Condition of Collin Jones.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—My attention having been called to the article in Monday's Press regarding Collin Jones' pitiful condition, I deem it best to make the following statement: The sick man is not or has he at any time been in need of anything that the city is unwilling to supply. His attendant was hired by me, and, as far as is known, is willing to remain for the price agreed upon. As we greatly appreciate the interest shown in this institution, it is but just to the city to say that it does not at any time need the contributions of private citizens to keep its inmates from suffering.

F., of Burlington, will appeal from the decision of Justice Clevenger, of Mount Holly, awarding John Hamilton, of Burlington, $193, which he claimed was due him from the lodge as sick benefits. A Modest Philanthropist.

Some man, too modest to give his name, has donated $1,000, the interest of which will provide for two prizes of $25 and $15 respectively each year for the two Princeton University students who, at the end of the junior year, shall pass the best examination in the academic junior German course.

He Said Grace.

The old United Presbyterian kirk at Savoch, in Scotland, had a minister some sixty years ago named David Caw, a very diminutive man, standing only about five feet two inches. He married a strapping, handsome lass, some five or six inches taller than he, and her name was Grace Wilson. The Sunday after the wedding he got a neighboring minister to preach for him, so that he could sit with his bride on the first Sunday. The minister was a good deal of a wag, so Mr. Caw made him promise faithfully that he would not allude in the sermon to him, his bride or the fact of the marriage, but Mr. Caw nearly sank through the floor when the text was given out, Ephesians iii, 8: "Unto me, who am less than the least of all saints, is this Grace given."

Writing on Glass.

A patent has been granted in Germany for a new method of writing on glass, using an aluminum point. The glass which is to be written on is first moistened with vinegar and the writing or drawing made with the point. Fine particles of aluminum adhere to the glass, which when dry shows the marking in silverly lines that cannot be readily removed by friction.

IMPERFECTIONS TO BE CORRECTED.

The Explanation Given for Holding up the Kean Franchise.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 11.—There was no meeting of the Elizabeth City Council last night to amend the Kean trolley franchise ordinance, as it was found that the time was too short in which to get the members together, and now no meeting will be held until next Monday.

The story of the holding up of the franchise caused quite a stir and the explanations now given is that there were imperfections in the ordinance that had to be remedied by the city attorney.

NEWARK WOULD LIKE PLAINFIELD TRADE

Board of Trade Wants More Trains on the Central.

A LITTLE ENCOURAGEMENT.

WERE INFORMED THAT ONLY THROURH TRAINS WILL STOP.

Passenger Agent Baldwin Says That the Trolley is Killing Their Local Business in This Section of New Jersey—Newark Business Men Think That the Trade in Plainfield is Worth Having Here.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, May 13.—Impressed with the benefits to be derived from closer trade relations with Plainfield, the Board of Trade a while ago set about getting more through trains to that town. It placed the matter in the hands of the committee on railroads and trade extension. The committee got to work at once. They found one train through from Somerville, arriving here at 8:34, and another to Somerville, leaving about 5:20 They brought all their weight to bear to get at least one more in-bound train. The answer made by the managers of the railroad was to this effect: That the one in-bound train be taken off next Monday.

The southern terminal of the Newark and Elizabeth branch of the Central Railroad is Roselle. All the trains to Newark excepting the 8:34 morning train from Somerville start from that point. That is some eleven miles this side of Plainfield, and travelers from all points south of Roselle, excepting those who get out early enough to catch the Somerville train, have to change either at Elizabeth or Elizabethport. A long wait is frequently necessary, and the consequence is that it takes a good part of the forenoon to make the journey from Plainfield or Somerville to Newark.

The attention of the Board of Trade was called to the inadequacy of the railroad accommodations by a merchant of this city. He had occasion to go to Plainfield recently. On his way down he had to change cars at Elizabeth and was kept waiting about half an hour. On the return trip he had to change again at Elizabeth. This time the Newark train was scheduled so late that he took the trolley and got home nearly ten minutes before the railroad train was scheduled to arrive.

The through morning train is for men whose business is in Newark. No shoppers come on it. It leaves Plainfield a good while before 8 o'clock and shoppers are not so anxious to come to this city on business that they would hurry out so early. There is an abundance of trains to New York. Shoppers can leave for that city any hour in the morning. The consequence is that New York gets about all the business of points on the Central below Elizabeth.

A committee was appointed by the Board of Trade to interview General Passenger Agent Baldwin about the matter of more through trains for Plainfield traffic to Newark. During the interview Mr. Baldwin said that it was contemplated to withdraw the one through morning train running now, as it did not pay them. The committee pleaded for more trains in the middle of the day, but it is said that they retired without much promise from Mr. Baldwin in that direction.

"We'll put on any number of trains if you'll guarantee to make up for any loss we may suffer. The trolley is killing our business between Elizabeth and Newark," said the general passenger agent.

The Board of Trade committee say they do not intend to give up the matter.

Profits for Mt. Bethel Chapel.

Under the direction of the women of Bethel chapel an entertainment was given at that place last evening by the young people. The programme consisted of recitations, dialogues, vocal and instrumental music. Miss Alice Maynard presided at the piano. The proceeds will be used for chapel work. Rev. Mr. Tilden, pastor of the chapel, was in charge of the programme.

Death of A. A. Anderson.

Andrew A. Anderson, aged 61 years, a native of Sweden, died last evening at the home of his son-in-law, on West Third street, where he has been living for about a month. Mr. Anderson has not been engaged in business for some time past on account of very poor health. He is survived by a daughter and her husband. Announcement of the funeral will be made later

Howard McGrath, of New Brunswick, has been visiting Plainfield friends.

FEW SOLDIERS ON HAND.

ELIZABETH COMPANIES HAVE A POOR TURNOUT FOR INSPECTION.

Unless a Better Showing Can be Secured the Companies Will Not be Accepted in the Present Reorganization.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 12.—Colonel D. B. Murphy, of Camden, Inspector-General, visited Elizabeth Wednesday night to inspect and muster in former Companies C and E, of the Third Regiment, into the new Second Regiment. Company C used to be the crack organization of the Third, but to the surprise of Major DeHart, who is to be captain of the new company, only twenty-five men presented themselves for inspection. Company E, under Captain Dennis F. Collins, who is ambitious to be either Lieutenant-Colonel, or Major of the Second Regiment, made a better showing, fifty-one men and three officers presenting themselves, but even this was below the minimum, which is sixty men.

Colonel Murphy was much disappointed with the poor showing made, especially by Company C, which will not, it is said, be accepted into the new regiment unless it brings up its quota to the regulation standard at the next meeting. Company E will be all right, as several of the men who intend enrolling themselves as members were prevented from attending Wednesday night's inspection,

Major DeHart, of Company C., is one of the oldest officers in point of service in the State National Guard, with which he has been connected over thirty years.

Captain Collins, who is an Elizabeth Alderman, entertained sixteen former officers of the Third and Colonel Murphy and staff with a banquet at Miller's Hotel after the inspection.

CLUB WOMEN TOGETHER

STATE FEDERATION HOLDS ITS CONVENTION AT RUTHERFORD.

Several Plainfield Women Present—Mrs. Hall Took Part in the Discussion—The Servant Question Aired.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rutherford, May 12.—About five hundred women, representing sixty clubs, attended yesterday the semi-annual meeting, in the First Presbyterian church of the New Jersey State Federation of Woman's Clubs.

The members of the Monday Afternoon Club, of Plainfield, who attended the State Federation of Woman's Clubs were the appointed delegates, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. George M. Randal, Mrs. William L. Patten, and the chairman of the educational department, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall.

Most important among the items of business which the women allowed to break in on the social meeting was the passing of the following resolution, introduced by Miss Elizabeth B Vermilye, of Englewood, first vice-president of the State Federation:

"Resolved, That the Federation of Woman's Clubs, of the State of New Jersey, hereby protest against the continuance of B. H. Roberts, polygamist, in a seat in the National Congress as a member from the State of Utah, and that said protest shall be communicated to the State Representatives with the request that they shall use all influence to secure the expulsion of the said B. H. Roberts."

Miss Vermilye spoke in favor of the resolution. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, of Plainfield, also spoke on the resolution and declared that the protest was against Mr. Roberts as a polygamist and not against his religion.

In the discussion on domestic service, which was opened by Mrs. H. H. Wells, of Short Hills, many opinions were offered in solution of the housekeeper's problem.

Mrs. G. W. Cushing, of Orange, emphasized the need of teaching children to respect servants and said that this always created an influence for good of the entire household. Mrs. Cushing said the respect shown by mistress and child raised a feeling of self respect in the servant. She told of the plan of rewarding those who handled dishes for a whole year without breaking any.

The ignorant servant, Mrs. Galloway, of Rutherford, said, was the easiest to train, and she did not want to be obliged to teach a servant who "knew it all." The discussion was closen by Mrs. Williamsan, who said it was a good plan to be interested in a servant to insure her interest for the good of the household.

A Birthday Surprise.

A surprise party was given Mr. Edward Luckhurst at his home in Greenbrook on Wednesday evening. There were eighteen of his friends from Westfield, New Market and Dunellen and vicinity to greet him with best wishes.

RECKLESS RUNNING OF TROLLEY CARS.

Bound Brook Residents Complain to Council.

MANY ACCIDENTS HAPPEN.

TROLLEY COMPANY MONOPOLIZE THE HIGHWAYS.

In the Last Two Weeks it is Said That a Dozen Accidents Have Happened—Vehicles Must Travel Over Other Roads if They Do Not Want to Imperil Their Lives — Council Will Act.

Since the Brunswick Traction Company has obtained the right of way through Bound Brook to Somerville, persons who are compelled to travel along the old turnpike have been forced not only to give the entire right of way to the trolley companies, but, if they fear to imperil their lives, they must travel over some other highway.

In the last two weeks not less than a dozen accidents have occurred. Among the serious ones was one Monday, when Irwin Miller, of South Bound Brook, was struck by car No. 110 and knocked twenty-five feet. He was badly injured. The same day Mrs. Freeling was struck by a car going at top speed, and thrown into the gutter and badly hurt. Tuesday Herman Goltra, eighty years of age, was looking at the battle monument, in the public square in Bound Brook, when a trolley car came bowling along, struck the old man and injured him severely.

While William Hamilton and his wife were driving toward Somerville, Wednesday, a trolley car came up behind them, frightening the horse, which ran away, throwing the Hamiltons out and bruising them badly. Bystanders say that the motorman did not slow up even when he saw the horse was about to run away.

A car from Somerville ran into Mundy Brother's wagon at Bound Brook yesterday, demolishing it and injuring the driver. The wagon had a load of 1,500 pounds, and the driver weighed over two hundred, and when the collision came the wagon and men were thrown more than fifty feet. Late this afternoon little Jimmie Vatelli was playing in the Main street, in front of his father's shop, and started to run across the trolley tracks when he was knocked down by a rapidly moving car, and but for the promptness of a policeman, who dragged the child from the tracks at the risk of his life, would have been killed.

Residents in Bound Brook have filed a petition to the Council, asking that some steps be taken to prevent reckless running through the town.

FOUGHT FIVE ROUNDS.

Fourth Ward Bully Knocked Out by a Volunteer Fresh From Cuba.

There was a quiet little prize fight yesterday morning along Green brook near Giraud avenue. A young man, recently returned from the war, had some words with a big Fourth Warder, who is said to pose as a leader in his crowd The Fourth Warder declared he could lick the soldier and all his family. It took the young soldier just five rounds to knock his opponent out for good.

The battle was fought in a sixteen foot ring with seconds, time keeper and all the proper surroundings for a prize fight.

PLAINFIELDERS ENTERTAINED.

Elizabeth T. A. B. Association Honored the Catholic Club.

The reception according the members of the Plainfield Catholic Club Tuesday evening by the Young Men's Father Mathew T. A. B. Society was a pleasant one. Some 35 members of the visiting club were present, accompanied by their lady friends, and with bowling and dancing the time passed right merrilly.

The visitors were met at the Elizabethport depot of the Central Railroad by Messrs. M. O'Leary, P. J. Boyle, Andrew Farrell and John Stanley, a committee appointed for the purpose, and escorted to the clubhouse. A bowling game was the first feature, and this was won by the T. A. B. team, by a score of 832 to 598. For the visitors Thomas McCarty did the best, bowling 142. For the T. A B. team Burke bowled 211 and Hefferman 206. —Elizabeth Journal.

EULOGY BY DR BLISS.

FORMER PASTOR SPOKE AT FUNERAL OF LATE J. S. SCHOONMAKER.

A Large Attendance of Friends of the Deceased—Comrades From G. A. R Post Present—Interment in Hillside Cemetery.

The home of the late Joseph Stockton Schoonmaker on Central avenue was filled with relatives and friends yesterday afternoon, who had gathered to pay their last tribute of love and respect to one whom they had known to admire for his many excellent qualities. That the departed was highly esteemed by all who knew him was evidenced in a great measure by the large attendance of mourners.

The services were held at 2:30 o'clock and were in charge of Rev. Dr. John C. Bliss, formerly a pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, where the deceased was a member, but now of New York. The words spoken by Dr. Bliss were from the heart and from one who had known Mr. Schoonmaker for forty years. He spoke of the Christian qualities of the departed, how devoted he was to his family and how closely drawn were the family ties that had bound each member of the family in the strongest love known to the human heart. He also spoke of Mr. Schoonmaker's earnest Christian life and how devoted he was to his church and to the cause of Christ. Dr. Bliss dwelt at some length on Mr. Schoonmaker's life in a business way, and how sincere and upright he was in all his dealings with his fellow-men.

During the service the quartette from the Crescent Avenue church, consisting of Mrs. Brooke, soprano; Miss Perry, contralto; Mr. Potter, tenor; Charles L Lewis, baritone, sang with much effect Tennyson's "Sunset and Evening Star," and "Hark! Hark! My Soul."

There were many floral tributes from associates and friends of the departed, and resting on the bier was a large American flag and a sword, as significant of the fact that Mr. Schoonmaker was a loyal man to his country.

Among those present at the services was a delegation from Lafayette Post, G. A. R., of New York, of which Mr. Schoonmaker was a member. They appeared in civilian dress and wore the G. A R. badge on the lapel of the coat.

The interment will take place at Hillside cemetery in the family plot, which is in accord with the wish of Mr. Schoonmaker, expressed some time ago.

FOR MEMORIAL DAY.

Arrangements for the Performance Perfected by the G. A. R.

The memorial committee of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., met with the committees from the Women's Relief Corps, the Sons of Veterans and the soldiers of the late war last night in Justice Moffett's office, on Park avenue, and made final arrangements for the observance of Decoration Day. This is probably the last meeting of the committees unless there is something important to be considered.

The post will have charge of the morning parade and the decoration of the graves. After the address in Music Hall in the afternoon by Rev. W. C. Snodgrass, Mrs. E. C. Morse, president of the Women's Relief Corps, will take charge of the exercises, which will consist of recitations and music by the young ladies.

Sunday evening preceding Memorial Day Rev. Dr. Yerkes will preach to the G. A. R. Men in the First Baptist church.

COLT DID A JIG OVER COOPER

Horseshoer Was in a Ticklish Position for a Short Time.

Howard Cooper, foreman at M. Quinn's horseshoeing shop on East Fourth street, had a narrow escape from serious injury yesterday afternoon. He was engaged shoeing a colt belonging to S. A. Cruikshank, of Belvidere avenue. C. C. Brower, of Park avenue, has been breaking the colt and brought it to be shod for the first time.

The colt soon began to plunge and kick. Cooper was thrown down and the colt stood over him, narrowly missing his head. The colt struck Cooper's left shoulder, badly bruising it, and stepped on his left hand, breaking the little finger.

Horse Fell in a Hole.

Last evening a horse and wagon owned by Fred J. Harris, of Clinton avenue, was driven into Mr. Wenzer's yard at 1352 West Third street, where there is a cesspool covered with boards. The horse stepped on the boards, which gave way, allowing the hindquarters of the animal to sink into the cesspool. With assistance the horse was rescued without sustaining any injury.

CALL MEN TO MEET MAYOR ROCKFELLOW.

Conference Called at Mayor's Office for Saturday Night.

ALL CANDIDATES INVITED.

TIME OF ACTIVITY IN FIRE DEPARTMENT PROMISED.

The Forty Candidates for Call Men Have Been Invited to Meet the Mayor—Names of Call Men Will Not be Made Public Until the Council Meeting Monday Night When They Will be Acted Upon.

His Honor Mayor Rockfellow has decided that he wants to meet and converse with the candidates who are anxious for a place on the Plainfield fire department as call men. He has consequently invited all the men, recommended by the fire committee and Board of Engineers, to meet at his office in the Coward building tomorrow evening.

There were some forty men recommended who have been invited to meet with the Mayor. From them, the twenty-four men to make up the four companies of call men will be chosen. Of course the Mayor is not compelled to confine his choice to these but he is likely to take the advice of the fire committee and Board of Engineers as far as possible.

In conversation with a Press reporter yesterday, Mayor Rockfellow said that his selection of men for the department would not be made public until Monday night, the time of the meeting of the Common Council. At that meeting the Mayor will present his list to the Council which will either ratify or reject.

The changing about of the apparatus and the opening of the new engine house in the West End will all come about the time when the call system will go into operation and there will be general activity in the department for a time. While no definite plans have been announced as yet, it is expected that the call men will have a rather lively time of it the first month in drilling in their new positions.

OLD OFFENDER UP.

Maggie Benford Turned Her Paradise Alley Home Into a Lively Place.

Maggie Benford used to be in City Court frequently. Of late her home in Paradise Alley has been quiet. Maggie has been ill and the city has been aiding in her support. Wednesday Johanna Haley, another old offender, came down from Westfield and visited Maggie. Last night John Fillmore and his wife, Delia Herbert, stopped in to see them. Filmore brought some beer.

Patrolman McCarthy heard the noise of the informal reception. Finally it quieted down as the beer took effect and Patrolmen McCarthy and Vanderweg raided the place.

The guests were scattered about the floor in various stages of drunkenness. They were promptly arrested. This morning the stories were so variegated the Judge sentenced the women to pay a fine of $10 or go to jail for 40 days. Filmore's trial will be held tomorrow morning.

For permitting such disorderly conduct to go on within her rooms the city will stop its support of Maggie Benford.

JURY APPEALS TRIED.

MORE CASES IN THE SOMERSET COUNTY COURT.

The Famous Thatcher-Debele Case is Finally Settled in Favor of the Plaintiff—Verdict for $95—Other Cases.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 12—The jury appeal cases in the Somerset County Court of Common Pleas began here yesterday before Judge Bartine. There were some fifteen cases to be disposed of, but few were of interest to North Plainfielders. The celebrated case of Howell Thatcher, a minor, against Charles Debele, was finally settled, the jury bringing in a verdict of $95 for the plaintiff.

This case was tried in 1897 before Justice Thomas, when the defendant won the case. It was alleged that Thatcher, a young man, was hired by Mr Debele for a term of years, and in addition to the clothing, spending money, etc., that he was to receive, he was also to receive a present of $100 when he became 21 years of age. When the young man became 16 years of age, three years after he was hired, he left to secure a place where he was to get more money. He then sued Mr. Debele for wages. After the first trial the case was transferred to a higher court. The lawyers for the defendant applied for a rule to show cause why the verdict should not be set aside, after the verdict of $95 for the plaintiff was given. Judge Bartine granted the rule, and the case will be argued again. The defendants claimed that the verdict was against the weight of evidence presented.

Lawyer Winfield S. Angleman represented Thatcher in the various suits.

The case of Stephen Bicknell against Mrs. Anna H. Underhill, in tort, was started and will be completed Monday.

On motion of Lawyer Robert M. Clark, the case of Hastings against Osborne was put on the calender for this term of court and will be tried Monday. The appeal was from Justice Smalley's court.

STARTLING DEPRAVITY

SOMERSET FARMER IN JAIL ON A SERIOUS CHARGE.

Accused of Kidnapping a Girl Not Yet Sixteen Years Old—Culprit is Fifty Years of Age—A Well-to-do Farmer.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 12.—Peter von Twistern, a well-to do farmer of North Branch, was sentenced to two months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $400 in the Somerset county court yesterday on a charge made by Mary Gillen, a girl not yet sixteen years of age, who formerly lived in New York.

Von Twistern kept a confectionery store several years ago in the city, and the child came there for candy. Von Twistern induced her parents to let the girl come to his farm after he moved to North Branch. The girl has told a shocking story of her treatment since that time. A child which was born a few months ago is now in the Von Twistern family, and is being cared for by his wife.

Von Twistern is a man of fifty years of age, and has a family of children. Besides the criminal indictment against him, the father of the girl has instituted a civil suit for $15,000. He is also wanted in Hudson county on a charge of kidnapping the infant, and a Deputy Sheriff lodged a capias with the Sheriff of this county yesterday morning.

The Biscuit was Not Hurt.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS MAKE GOOD SOLDIERS.

Reviewed in Crescent Rink By Lieut. Col. Holly.

MADE FINE APPEARANCE.

COL. MURPHY, OF GOV. VOORHEES' STAFF, INSPECTS THE CORPS.

Three Medals Were Awarded for Perfect Attendance and General Excellence—Won By Lieut. Fosgate, Corporal Bridgman and Private Mason—Honorable Mention Also for Three.

It was a great surprise to Lieutenant Colonel John I. Holly, of Park avenue, who is quartermaster of the New York National Guard, to find a well-drilled cadet company almost at his very door. Last night he reviewed the cadet corps of the Plainfield High School in the presence of three hundred of the relatives and friends of the cadets.

The success that the High School cadets have made under the direction of Captain George F. Edwards was fully demonstrated. The drill was very successful, the corps making an excellent showing. As the company is a recognized military organization of this State, it was intended to have the regular State inspection take place yesterday at the same time with the review. Owing to some misunderstanding at the headquarters of the New Jersey National Guard, the State orders set the inspection for 2 o'clock. The orders did not reach Captain Edwards until last night, too late to obey them.

Colonel Murphy, of Camden, inspector-general of the State staff, came to Plainfield to inspect the company. It was not until the drill was partially over that he found that it was to be held in the evening and so did not have to don his uniform but hurried to the rink in citizen's clothes.

Captain George F. Edwards, commandant of the company, was in command of the corps. There were thirty of the boys in line and they made an excellent showing. To show the proficiency of the officers as well as the men, the company was turned over to Cadet Captain William A. Fisher and Cadet Lieutenants Radford and Fosgate, each of whom directed the maneuvres of the company without mistake.

The bronze medals, offered by Captain Edwards for 100 per cent. efficiency, were presented by Lieut. Col. Holly with a neat speach. Medals were awarded to Second Lieutant Blanchard Fosgate, Corporal Linden Bridgeman and Private Fred Mason for perfect attendance and prompt obedience of all orders and commands. Honorable mention was given to First Lieutenant Roy H. Radford, Corporal Harold Phillips and Private John Phillips, who would have received medals but for the fact that they had been late to one drill.

DEATH OF E. J. GALBRAITH.

Consumption Was the Cause—Formerly Ran a Saloon.

Edward J. Galbraith, aged 27 years, of West Third street, died this morning after a long illness with consumption. He and his brother Daniel Galbraith were engaged in the saloon business on West Third street. Mr. Galbraith was born in this city, and has lived here all his life. He was very popular in a large circle of friends and acquaintances, all of whom will mourn his death. He is survived by his parents, four brothers and one sister. Announcement of the funeral services will be published later.

Fair Cyclist's Bad Fall.

Miss Emma Ammon, daughter of John F. Ammon, of Elm place, had a bad fall from her wheel last evening while riding. She had been in the borough and as she rode down the descent leading from the bridge over the brook, the wheel slipped and threw her to the grouud. William Laing and R. Sutton, who happened to be near, saw the accident, and hurried to her assistance. Miss Ammon was carried into the house, where here injuries were found to consist of a lame arm and a scalp wound.

DONE AS SPIRITS ORDERED

Bertha Beilstein, of Pittsburg, Says Ghosts Told Her to Slay Her Mother.

EVIDENCE IS STARTLING

Went Into Room Where Her Mother Was Lying Ill and Calmly Shot Her Four Times.

Spiritualists of Pittsburg and Vicinity Wrought Up Over the Testimony—Defense Endeavoring to Secure an Acquittal on the Ground of Insanity—Claim Father's Death Upset Her Mind.

Pittsburg, May 12.—The biggest crowd that ever attended a trial here gathered at the court house hoping to get a chance to hear testimony in the case of Bertha Bellstein, on trial for murdering her mother.

The evidence brought out on the trial of this young woman of twenty-two has startled the city.

She calmly swears under oath that the spirit commanded her to slay her mother, and that she then went into the bedroom where Mrs. Bellstein lay ill and calmly shot her four times.

"The spirits ordered me to do it," she said. "They came to me in my sleep and gave their commands. I had to obey, although I hated to kill my mother."

The Spiritualists of Pittsburg and vicinity are greatly wrought up over the statements made by the girl. Most of them declare she is crazy, although some of them say that she may really have received advice from her spirit friends.

The defence, however, is ignoring the spirits theory, and will endeavor to secure an acquittal on the ground that the young woman is insane.

They take the view that the tragic death of her father upset Bertha's mind, and that she then committed murder and endeavored to take her own life as well.

District-Attorney John C. Haymaker devoted himself to showing by Bertha's own evidence that she had not been driven insane by her father's sudden death, and drew from her a detailed account of her most trivial doings down to the day before the murder.

Frederick W. Bellstein, her Chicago cousin, was a witness for the defence. For several days after the murder Bertha had maintained that her relations with her cousin were of a nature to disgrace her, and that she killed her mother in order to spare her the knowledge of her shame. Yesterday on the stand she swore that her relations with her cousin had been proper, and that she remembered nothing that she had said after the murder and her attempted suicide. Frederick Bellstein denied on the stand all the stories of improper relations.

The District-Attorney drew from his admissions that Bertha and he had exchanged letters written with milk characters that became legible after being rubbed over with burnt cork. In one of these letters he said he had advised her against committing suicide.

New York's Invitation to Dewey

New York, May 12.—Mayor Van Wyck sent out two communications having to do with the homecoming of Admiral Dewey. To the Admiral himself, by direct cable, the city's official message was addressed by Mayor Van Wyck as follows:

"Admiral George Dewey, Manila:

"The people of the city of New York desire an opportunity to officially welcome you on your return home. They earnestly request that you first reach America at the city of New York, the metropolis of the Western Hemisphere, where the fullest opportunity can be given the people of this country to do appropriate honor to the hero of the Spanish-American war.

"ROBERT A. VAN WYCK, Mayor."

To the Secretary of the Navy the following message was sent by telegraph:

"New York, May 11, 1899.

"The Hon. John D. Long, Secretary of the Navy, Washington, D. C.:

"The people of the city of New York intend to extend an official welcome to Admiral Dewey when he comes to the city. It is their earnest desire that the great Admiral should first reach the American continent at the port of New York. They sincerely hope that the United States Navy Department can so arrange his homecoming.

After New York Property.

Chicago, May 12.—An association of heirs, with George W. Mills, manager for the United States Flour Milling Company, as president, has been formed in Chicago to recover an estate consisting of sixty acres of property in the heart of New York and Brooklyn, valued at $200,000,000.

This estate belonged to Alexander Montgomery, a noted Tory, who fled from New York when Gen. Howe evacuated with the British forces. To preserve his interests Montgomery leased his entire holdings for ninety-nine years, and since then, beyond a few spasmodic efforts no attempt has been made to dislodge the present owners.

Mr. Mills has consulted attorneys in New York as to the status of limitations, and has received the opinion that the heirs still have twenty years of grace before their lien upon the estate expires.

Off a Trestle.

Newcastle, Pa., May 12.—A bad accident occurred on the new grade being made on the Pittsburg & Western Railroad, near Chewton, at 4 o'clock this morning. The night crew was crossing a seventy-foot trestle at Spangler's Run on the work train when it jumped the track.

All the cars and the locomotive fell to the rocks below. Two men were killed outright and two died soon afterward. Five more may die. Several received slight injuries. The cause of the accident is unknown. The injured will be brought here.

Eighty per cent. of all the plough makers in the country have given options on their plants for the purpose of entering the new trust to be known as the American Plough Company.

MAN IN TROUBLE.

Accused by Girl Who Lives at His Home—Sentenced to Jail.

Somerville, N. J., May 12.—Peter Von Twistern, a retired New York merchant, who has a summer place near here, was sentenced by Judge Bartine in the Somerset Court to serve two months in the county jail and to pay a fine of $400 for committing an assault upon his ward, Mary Florence Gillian of Jersey City, who is not yet 16 years old.

Von Twistern is a married man and lives with his wife at their summer place on Sand Hill. It was made known to the Judge that VonTwistern induced his ward's grandparents to allow her to live at his home as a companion to his wife when she was less than 12 years old.

When less than 15 she gave birth to a child. She then accussed Von Twistern of assault. The child is now at the Von Twistern home being cared for by Mrs. Von Twistern. In view of the circumstances, the sentence is considered extremely light.

Former Prosecutor William V. Steele has begun a civil action in behalf of the girl, asking for $15,000 damages and the authorities of Hudson county placed in the hands of Sheriff Schoonmaker here a capais for Von Twistern's arrest on his release from the county jail. Mary Gillian's grandparents have charged him with kidnapping her infant from her home in Jersey City.

Heroes in the Philippines.

Washington, May 12.—In a report to the Adjutant-General of the army, dated Malolos, Luzon, April 2, 1899, Brig.-Gen. Harrison Grey Otis, commanding the First Brigade of the Second Division of Major-Gen. E. A. Otis's corps, tells of the operation of his command up to the fall of the insurgent capital. In the coure of the report Gen. Otis describes an interesting incident as follows:

"The advance of the 20th Kansas, including Company H under Capt. Clarke, having also encountered a sudden and severe fire from the enemy's entrenchments on the north bank, the men of the first line with some men from other regiments, rushed gallantly down the steep bank into the unknown stream, wading or swimming it under a telling fire, which resulted in eight casualties in the one Kansas company alone.

"The rush of our soldiers was so sudden and impetuous that the enemy were unable to escape, and nearly the entire detachment according to information subsequently derived from a native—the detachment numbered thirty men—died where they fought, having been attacked in both front and flank by the impetuous volunteers, and shot down at short range. Out of the whole number of Filipinos engaged at that particular point twenty-six were killed outright, two mortally and one slightly wounded, and only one appears to have got away."

In conclusion Gen. Otis says:

"It is my grateful privilege to again highly commend the conduct of the officers and men of my command throughout the campaign. They have shown in an eminent degree the qualities of good soldiers: obedience, discipline, endurance, courage, steadiness, patriotism and the most magnificent order in battle. The regimental commanders, Col. Harry C. Kessler, 1st Montana Infantry; Col. Fred Funston, 20th Kansas Infantry and Major W. A. Kobbe, commanding the two battalions of the 31st United States Artillery, serving as infantry, have again proved in actual field service their capacity and fitness for their responsible posts, and their skill and gallantry under fire. I again recommend them and each of them for such special mark of distinction as the commanding General and the War Department may be pleased to confer upon them on their merits."

Members of Filipino Congress Want Peace

Paris, May 12. ## HAILED WITH GREAT JOY

Passage of Gunboats Through Macabebee Country Greeted With Joyful Demonstrations.

Volunteers Understand They are to Return to United States Latter Part of Month—Realize Importance of Presence in Philippines at Present Time—Senor Paterno Wants Peace.

Washington, May 12.—Several important despatches were received at the War Department from Gen. Otis. One was in reply to the request by Secretary Alger for information as to when the volunteers would begin to leave Manila. Gen. Otis's answer accorded with the belief that the volunteers would not begin to depart until the latter part of this month, by which time several regiments of regulars will have arrived in the Philippines to take their place.

The message from Gen. Otis follows:

Manila, May 12.

"Adjutant-General, Washington:

"Volunteer organizations first to return now at Negros and forty-five miles from Manila at front; expected that transports now arriving will take returning volunteers; volunteers understand they will begin to leave for United States latter part of month; know importance of their presence here at this time, and accept sacrifice which United States interests make imperative. Hancock now entering harbor. Transports returning this week carry sick and wounded men; Pennsylvania and St. Paul not needed longer in Southern waters, where they have been retained, hence despatched; transports Nelson and Cleveland brought freight; return without cargo. OTIS."

Regarding the present situation in the Philippines Gen. Otis in another despatch an hour later said:

Manila, May 12.

"Adjutant-General, Washington:

"Situation as follows: Succeeded in passing army gunboats to Calumpit for use in Rio Grande; railway connection with that point secured this week; passage of gunboats through Macabebee country hailed with joyful demonstrations by inhabitants. * * * In country passed over by troops temporary civil administration inaugurated and protection to inhabitants against insurgent abuses given as far as possible. Signs of insurgent disintegration daily manifested; obstacles which natural features of country present can be overcome.

OTIS."

Gen. Otis also reported the Hancock's arrival saying: "Health conditions troops arrived on Hancock excellent; two deaths en route—Privates D. F. Jones and Elmer H. Chevalier, Companies I. and E, 21st Infantry, April 24 and 26."

The Hancock sailed from San Francisco on April 18, carrying the 21st Infantry and Light Battery E, 1st Artillery; 39 officers and 1,451 enlisted men, Col. Jacob Kline, 21st Infantry, commanding.

Filipino Leader Wants Peace

Manila, May 12.—Senor Paterno has declined to accept the proffered Presidency of the Filipino Cabinet until the native Congress which is now in special session at San Isidro authorizes him to treat with the Americans.

Mr. Higgins, President of the Dagupan Railway, has just returned from within the Filipino lines. He says that the native refugees are suffering from lack of food and that the rebel army is becoming demoralized because of the small support given to it by the inhabitants, whose homes have been looted by the soldiers. Paterno's house in Mexico was ransacked and $2,000 in money stolen.

The Filipino leaders, Mr. Higgins says, are planning to make a vigorous stand near San Fernando, where 14,000 men are strongly entrenched on three sides of the town.

The arrival of the transport Hancock from San Francisco with the 21st Infantry and a battery of the 1st Artillery was most opportune, as Gen. Mac Arthur is in need of reenforcements, his troops showing the effects of their prolonged and arduous campaign.

There are persistent reports, which, however, are not confirmed, that the French Baron du Marais, who went into the Filipino lines in behalf of the Spanish prisoners, has been assassinated by the rebels.

Leading Filipinos living in Manila held a meeting yesterday and decided to publish a newspaper to be called the Democracia, to advocate the establishment of peace.

The rebels in the Cavite province are fortifying and entrenching the principal towns.

Cheap Chicago Millionaires

Chicago, May 12.—Chicago has some "cheap" millionaires, according to William Broadwell, a butter dealer who testified before the Pure-Food Committee.

"Its the strongest kind of game," Mr. Broadwell said to Senator Mason. "It would knock you dead if you could learn of the millionaires that come into my store every day and carry home their little package of oleomargarine and then palm it off on their swell friends as the real butter."

Boy Scared to Death

Binghamton, May 12.—Sudden fright, caused by the noise of a railroad wreck killed the little son of George Boomhower, of Unadilla. The boy's home is near the railroad track and the lad had been ill with pneumonia. He was recovering when a freight wreck occurred, which, while not serious, made considerable noise. The child sprang from his bed in a fright and dropped back dead.

THE LATEST NEWS.

BAR IRON TRUST RAISES WAGES

New York, May 12.—Another large combination of iron and steel interests was launched yesterday when a Board of Directors of the Republic Iron and steel Company was elected, with August Belmont as its chairman. Randolph A. Warner was made president, and Myron C. Wick chairman of the Executive Committee.

Rather an unusual, if not a surprising, thing was done at the first meeting of the new company in deciding to raise the wages of the puddlers and finishers in all of the thirty-six companies within the organization. Hardly was the meeting called and the officers elected than a resolution was passed giving an advance of twenty-five cents per ton to all puddlers, with a corresponding increase in the wages of the finishers.

The argument used in support of this, and which received the hearty concurrence of the officers of the new company, which represents the bar iron interests of the country, was that conditions in the iron and steel trade had so improved that higher wages could well be paid, with a promise of a still more tangible recognition for the workers in the future. So the general advance in wages was announced simultaneously with the election of the officers of the new combination.

WOULD NOT SUBMIT TO THE KNIFE.

Chicago, May 12.—Mrs. Adlai T. Ewing, sister-in-law of former Vice-President Stevenson, died here without medical attendance under Christian Science treatment. Mrs. Ewing was a devoted member of the Christian Science circle in this city. Mrs. Ewing suffered from an internal disorder which physicians had pronounced fatal unless relieved by the knife. She refused to accept medical aid and clung to the tenets of her faith. Little bodies of Christian Scientists gathered around the suffering woman's bedside and strove by word and joint prayer to encourage her to an invincible faith. Mrs. Ewing underwent intense agony and displayed extraordinary fortitude to the last. It is said that the members of her family called in a surgeon and that she sternly refused to submit to any human aid. This report Judge W. G. Ewing, her brother-in-law, denies, saying: "Mrs. Ewing had no medical attendance before she died."

USE OF TOBACCO CAUSES TROUBLE.

New York, May 12.—At the seventy-eighth annual conference of the Afro-American M. E. Church, which is being held in the Zion Church, in West Tenth street, the Rev. T. O. R. Williams conducted the devotional exercises.

Bishop J. W. Hood read the fourteenth chapter of Revelation, and declared that in the defeat of Spain and the destruction of her fleet the prophecy was fulfilled. The reading of the reports of the committees followed and a discussion was brought about by a clause in the rules as to the use of tobacco. The rule as it stood was that tobacco should not be used anywhere in the vicinity of the church where the conference was in session. An amendment was carried by a vote of 24 to 7 which forbade the use of the weed by the brethern anywhere in the city.

CONVICTED UTAH MAN OF POLYGAMY.

Tooele, Utah, May 12.—At an adjourned terms of the District Court, William Strong was found guilty of polygamy and was sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and serve five months in the State prison.

It was alleged that the defendant, who married his second wife a few months ago, had separated from his first wife and that he had not lived with his first wife from the separation up to the time of the second marriage.

This is the first conviction of this kind for several years, and the church organ tries to make it appear a case of bigamy. The last arrest on the charge of polygamy was in the case of John Beck, but it never was tried, and the case was finally dismissed.

GEN. GOMEZ DISCHARGES HIS STAFF.

Havana, May 12.—Gen. Gomez has decided to abandon Quinta de los Molinas, the old summer residence of the Captain Generals, where he has been living, and to take a house in the city or to live with friends here. His plan was announced to the members of his staff, who were instructed to repair to their homes. The order aroused considerable resentment among them, all accusing Gomez of deserting them and declaring that they have neither homes, work nor money. The disagreement is serious, especially as the anti-Gomez papers continue to attack the settlement of the amount the Cuban soldiers are to receive.

DEAD SAILOR'S MEMORY HONORED.

Tiffin, Ohio, May 12.—The funeral of George B. Meek, the first sailor killed in the war, was held in Clyde and was attended by 6,000 persons. The body was buried in McPherson Cemetery, and addresses were delivered by Senator Foraker, Governor Bushnell, Lieutenant Governor Asa Jones and other prominent men. Meek served on the torpedo boat Winslow and was killed in the engagement off Cardenas on May 11, 1898, by the explosion of a Spanish shell. He fell shortly before Ensign Bagley was killed. His last words were, "Tell them I died like a man."

THE POPE MAKES 1900 A JUBILEE.

Rome, May 12.—The Pope handed to Mgr. Marini a bull declaring a universal jubilee in the year 1900. The bull was afterward promulgated, according to custom, in the sevtibule of St. Peter's.

TWO SAVAGE MURDERERS

Nettlinger of Pennsylvania and Harvey of Michigan Do Wholesale Killing.

USED KNIFE AND PISTOL

Harvey Shot and Killed Wife, Uncle and Grandmother Wounded and Child, Father-in-law and Self.

Nettlinger Held at Bay Many Citizens and Several Police—Finally Fled to Room and Attempted Suicide by Cutting His Own Throat—His Death is Only a Matter of a Few Hours.

Pottsville, Pa., May 12.—John M. Nettlinger, a breaker builder of Jalappa, a suburb of this place, is dying at the hospital from wounds self inflicted, after having cut his wife's throat and made an unsuccessful attempt to kill four children and his sister, Mrs. John Heiser.

Nettlinger became violently insane. After coolly sharpening a huge jackknife he rushed into the room where his wife was ironing. He pinioned her arms and threw her head across his knee and gashed her throat.

A brother-in-law frustrated Nettlinger's attempt to slash his four children. The crazy man next attacked his sister in an adjoining house, but she escaped, but not before the lamp was overturned in the scuffle, setting the house on fire. Neighbors promptly put out the flames.

A large crowd of citizens and three policemen were held at bay by the frenzied man for some time. Nettlinger stood in the doorway, bloody knife in his hand, threatening to kill any one who came near him.

Finally, fleeing to an upper room, he locked himself in and attempted suicide. He cut his throat, nearly hacking his head off, and stabbed himself in the left arm and left lung.

It was only after he had been weakened from loss of blood that the door was broken open and the frenzied man dragged out. His death is a matter of but a few hours.

Another Bloodthirsty Wretch

Howard City, Michigan, May 12.—"Joe" Harvey, aged thirty, shot his wife, his baby, his father-in-law, John Logenslayer; his grandmother, his uncle and himself last evening. The wife, grandmother and uncle are dead.

The killed are: Robert Pierson, Harvey's uncle; Mrs. Harvey, his wife, Harvey's grandmother.

The wounded are: Harvey's infant child; mortally wounded; John Logenslayer, Harvey's father-in-law, Harvey himself.

Harvey's uncle and grandmother lived one mile north of this town. Harvey went there. He claims his uncle and grandmother were quarreling and that he interfered, when his uncle stabbed and killed the old lady, after which he shot his uncle.

He then returned to his home, about two miles southwest of town, where he fired two shots at his wife, killing her instantly.

He then shot his little three months-old baby, the ball striking the child in the arm.

His greed for blood not yet being satisfied, he went into his father-in-law's room and shot him twice. Neither wound will prove fatal.

Harvey then turned the revolver on himself, shooting himself in the neck and inflicting what will likely prove a fatal wound.

Harvey's wife was sitting up with the remains of her mother, who died the day previous, when she was killed.

After shooting his uncle, Robert Pierson, Harvey stabbed him three times. There are signs of a desperate struggle between Harvey and his grandmother. There is talk of lynching him. The murderer is under arrest. He himself told the Sheriff of his crime.

An Underground City

A subterranean city exists in Galicia, Austrian Poland, which contains a population of over 1,000 men, women and children, many of whom have never seen the light of day.

GROWING GOLD.

The Mystery Explained by a Chemist's Experiments.

It is generally supposed that the nuggets which are found in the river gravels of Klondike and other auriferous regions have been brought down by the rivers direct from the reefs in which the gold originally lay.

Many practical miners and scientific men, however, have long been of the opinion that this cannot be the case, for no masses of gold of so large a size are ever found in the reefs themselves. They believe, on the other hand that the nuggets have grown where they are now found, just as a crystal of salt will grow is strong brine; but with so insoluble a substance as gold it is difficult to understand how such growth could take place. Experiments carried out in Australia have shown that decaying vegetable matter will cause the deposition of gold from solutions of gold salts, but these salts are not known to occur in reefs.

The mystery is now solved. A Slavonic chemist named Zzigmody has just shown that gold itself can exist in a soluble form. By acting on a slightly alkaline solution of a gold salt with formaldehyde and submitting the product to dialysis he has succeeded in obtaining gold in a collodical condition, in which state it is soluble in water and may be precipitated by the addition of common salt. It is washed out by the rain, carried away in solution by the rivers, and deposited in the river gravels whereever there is anything containing salt to cause its precipitation. In the course of ages a large nugget may be formed in this way.

Courageous Animals.

In North America one of the largest of the weasel family is the "fisher," a very large, long-furred polecat, living mainly by the waterside, and, like many others of the tribe very partial to fish. It weighs about sixteen pounds, and its long, richly colored fur is exported in great quantities to different parts of Europe, though not often used in this country. A trapped "fisher" will attack anyone who comes in reach of the trap chain, and when free will beat off any dog of twice its size. But perhaps the most striking example of the courage of the smaller species yet recorded is that known as the fishing cat, which, though no relation, to the Canadian "fisher," is quite as courageous. One of these, which was kept in a menagerie, broke through into the next cage, and there attacked and killed a leopard which was three times its own size.

The Indian mongoose possesses all the courage of the polecat, together with amiability and a "regulated" mind. It turns its pluck and prowess to good ends, and we imagine it to stand at the head of the list of the smaller animals if quality as well as quantity is demanded as a mark of intrepidity. There is no doubt that the mongoose realizes the deadly nature of the cobra's bite. Its intense excitement is strong evidence of this. But a mongoose has been known to fight just as bravely against other foes. One was seen to attack and drive off a large greyhound which it fancied was hostile to it.

Plague of Caterpillars.

Montreal, May 12.—Caterpillars which last year played havoc with apple and sugar orchards, seem to be more numerous than ever at St. Hilaire. A crusade against them was formally opend in the parish church. Mass was celebrated, after which a religious procession headed by the priest and choir boys, marched through the infected section with fervent prayers asking divine assistance in their battle against the plague.

Northport Has a Mystery.

Northport, L. I., May 12.—The mystery surrounding the death of George W. Robbins whose body was found in the harbor here, has not been solved. Dr. John P. Hogan made an autopsy which points to the idea that Robbins was alive when placed in the water.

Woman Burned to Death.

Mount Vernon, May 12.—Mrs. George Schuster of 17 Grand street, this city, was burned to death while lighting a fire in her kitchen. Several painters who were working nearby were alarmed by screams and through a window saw a blaze in the Schuster kitchen.

CHRISTIAN SCIENTISTS

Attacked by the President of the Health Board of New York.

New York, May 12.—Deaths following treatment by sorcerers, Christian Scientists and faith healers of various kinds have become of such startling frequency that the Health Board inaugurated a crusade to stamp out the practices.

Michael C. Murphy, president of the Board, issued this order:

"To the Sanitary Superintendent:

"Dear Sir—You are hereby requested to direct the assistant sanitary superintendents of the various boroughs of this city to use all means in their power to discover and locate persons practising medicine without diplomas. Recent events have shown this department that uneducated ignorant and those whom I believe to be evil-minded people go from house to house and take advantage of their more ignorant neighbors, professing that they are endowed with wonderful healing faculties. If this system is allowed to proceed great evil will result.

"In your endeavors to suppress the practise, I would suggest that you immediately communicate with the medical societies of the several countries comprising the entire greater city, and either make an engagement to meet in consultation to advise what is the best method to adopt, or receive their communication in writing and afterwards adopt some broad system that the object in view may be accomplished. It is only by the aid of the medical societies, this department can meet with success, and to them we must look both for advice and example. I am, sir, respectfully yours,

"M. C. MURPHY, President."

Extra Session Possible.

Washington, May 12.—So far as known President McKinley has decided on no date for the calling of an extra session of Congress. In fact, it is not certain that there will be an extra session at all, despite some published reports to that effect. Just before the President left Washington for the Virginia Hot Springs it was said on high authority that there was no certainty that Congress would be called together in October or at any other time in extraordinary session. The possibility that Congress would be assembled before the regular meeting time in December was admitted, but the chanses were believed to be, if anything, against it.

The fact is well established that President McKinley has recently mentioned the subject of an extra session to some of his official visitors and that he has mentioned October as the time for calling such an extra session. If it should be found desirable to have for or against an extra session until affairs in the Philippines have reached a more advanced stage. In fact, it is likely that the President will listen to a personal report from Admiral Dewey himself in regard to the exact Philippine situation before deciding on any action.

Trust Inquiry.

Washington, May 12.—James W. Lee, of Pittsburg, attorney for pipe line and oil companies, testified before the Industrial Commission, which began an inquiry into trusts, that the effect of trusts is to raise prices until they become extortionate.

Trusts, he said, were organized to establish a monopoly and close up rival businesses.

Witness said that in 1896 the Standard Oil Company cut the price of oil from 9½ cents to 5½ to destroy the Pure Oil Company when it went into the New York field as a rival to the Standard. The first price was extortionate and the competition had saved $3,000,000 to the people of greater New York.

Witness estimated that the Oil Trust had swallowed about one hundred companies in twenty years. He believed the Standard was still getting rebates from the railroads. He thought this was done by paying exhorbitant prices for lubricating oil.

The Thresher Trust.

Richmond, Ind., May 12.—The announcement was made here that the capital of the thresher trust now being formed would be $100,000,000. Twenty-eight factories are to be united. It is said that $40,000,000 will be set aside for the purpose of building an immense factory in Russia to be located in the vicinity of the Caspian Sea, in the heart of the Russian wheat belt. The consideration received for the plant of Gaar, Scott & Co., of this city, which will be absorbed, is said to be between $5,000,000 and $6,000,000. The plant of Robinson & Co., of this city will also be taken. It is expected the details of the trust will be arranged in the next sixty days.

Simpson Says He's a Freak.

Wichita, Kan., May 12.—The first number of ex-Congressman Jerry Simpson's weekly newspaper is out. The leading editorial is a denouncement of ex-Speaker Reed. Simpson says Reed would like to be the next Republican candidate, and notwithstanding his objectionable nature is the strongest man in the Republican party. Simpson denounces trusts in scathing terms. He also says Kansas is tired of sending freaks to Congress and that is why he is out. He says that the newspapers in the East ridiculed him and were the cause of his downfall.

48,000 Men May Strike.

Reading, Pa., May 12.—Forty-eight thousand men threaten to strike next week—Friday, May 19—if the mine owners do not discharge all non-union miners. Union men have been forbidden by President Duffy, of the United Mine Workers, to work with non-union men after that date. Soft coal has so cut into the consumption of hard that the anthracite miners are idle half the time, which brought about the present crisis.

Arm Broken by Dead Man.

Fishkill Landing, May 12.—An unidentified man was struck by a New York Central passenger train at Dutchess Junction.

The body was thrown violently for many feet, knocking down Peter Bernbe, who was near the tracks. Bernbe's arm was broken.

Peace Envoys Leave London.

London, May 12.—The American delegation of the International Peace Congress to meet at the invitation of the Czar in the Hague left for Holland.

After Plainfield Trade.

It is a compliment to Plainfield that the merchants of Newark are making strenuous efforts to secure a train service between the two cities that will tend to carry the trade of this city to their places of business. It is evidence that Plainfield is no "small potatoes" as a community of worth and character.

The action of the Newark Board of Trade in regard to this matter, the essential points of which will be found in the news columns of today's Press, comes as a warning to the merchan's of Plainfield that they must be up and doing every moment in order that the trade of their home city may not be diverted from its natural channels into the big retail emporiums of the State's metropolis. It is and always will be impossible for the local tradesmen to monopolize all the patronage that their townsmen possess, but there is a vast amount which comes to them now that would undoubtedly be attracted to Newark merchants if there was better train service to that city.

It behooves the local merchants, therefore, that when they take a step it should be one of progress rather than of retrogress. In volume and variety of stock carried by local merchants there are no towns in the same class with Plainfield that equals this city, and it ought to be an easy matter for the merchants te compete successfully with the larger, but no better, stores of Newark, if they are alert and enterprising at all times.

And one of the best and most effective ways of doing this is liberal advertising in The Daily Press. Newark merchants are extensive advertisers and if Plainfield tradesmen would keep up with the procession they must get well up in the publicity column.

ADMIRALS OF THE UNITED STATES NAVY.

George Dewey is the third officer of the United States navy to wear the title of admiral. David G. Farragut was the first admiral. The grades of vice admiral and admiral were created as rewards for distinguished service he rendered during the civil war. He became admiral in July, 1866. When he died, in 1870, Vice Admiral David D. Porter was made admiral. Porter died in 1891, and we have not had an admiral since until the elevation of Dewey. There is at present no vice admiral in our navy.

"True Value" of Real Estate.

"True value" of real estate is a subject of great elasticity, and generally depends upon the point of view as to whether the man who is to name the true value is the owner or the prospective purchaser. Therefore when the State Board of Taxation orders the assessors of Passaic to hereafter assess all property in that city at true value it offers room for argument as to what constitutes that essential of property.

This latest edict of the State Board of Taxation, accompanied by previous instructions from Supreme Court Judges to Grand Juries to indict assessors who have put values on property which are conceded to be but a percentage of their actual worth, shows that the trend of events in taxation is towards higher valuations. Such a course eventually means a lower tax rate in the communities where the "real value" rule prevails. Though a high tax rate and low valuations or high valuations and a low tax rate are synonimous conditions, it is a fact that the average taxpayer prefers the former method of paying his share to the support of government.

The time is coming, however, when it will be the rule to make assessable valuations as near the true value as is possible, but the adoption of that process by assessors will be accompanied by a world of complaint. When finally accepted, however, it will be found best for all interests concerned.

To Investigate Corporations.

Information from Washington is to the effect that the Industrial Commission will investigate the subject of trusts in the state of New Jersey. The secretary has secured some official information about 256 such corporations formed from 1890 to 1899, and it is proposed to have a full statement of all necessary facts relating to organization, management, purposes and effects on business, etc., made out for the use of the commission and for the elucidation of the whole question.

These corporations are chartered by the State under its laws, and have offices within the State for the transaction of business. They are not in all cases incorporated by citizens of New Jersey, but are formed by citizens in other states, who nevertheless do business in the state in accordance with its laws.

Directions were given for special inquiries as to the incorporation of industrial combinations in New Jersey, because it had become known that a great majority of the syndicate derived their charters from that state.

The celebrated curfew ordinance of Vineland is to remain as a law of that city. One of the new Councilmen, who was supposed to be anti-curfew, has voted in favor of the retention of the law, and that settles the question for a year in favor of the curfewites. The Council, however, had previously voted to abolish the steam whistle as the curfew signal, and the noise that will accompany the procuring of another signal will not be a harmonious one, if we are to judge by indications.

New Jersey will probably be honored by the chairmanship of the United States Industrial Commission falling to Congressman John J. Gardner, of the Second district. Senator Kyle, who was appointed to the position, has resigned.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Plainfield has just organized a paid fire department in place of the volunteers. The new system will be in vogue in a few days, and the experiment should be watched for the future information of Passaic. After a year's trial there, some conclusions should be accessible.—Passaic News.

There is plenty of politics in Union. The County, that just has produced a Governor and a United States Senator is going to elect a Senator, a Sheriff, a Surrogate and three Assemblymen in next November. And so well is the Republican machinery of the County in hand that it may be written as certain that every candidate on that ticket will be elected. The contests for the nominations will absorb all the interest, and they are on already.—New York Press.

* * * * *

The National Guard is under the laws of the State, the same as every institution, and it is to be assumed that even the general officers of that organization have no right to do anything contrary to the statutes. It is claimed that the reorganization is a violation of the laws relating to the matter, and it is intimated that some of those who feel that they have been unjustly dealt with may appeal to the courts. Many officers and men of the National Guard regard the new plan as very unfair and unjust and they are much incensed over it. The present indications are that it will not be permitted to pass without some sort of a legal protest.—Paterson Call.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"The Boy From Boston," written expressly for the talented Elmore Sisters, was the play presented by the Mitchell's All Star Players at Music Hall last night. The little artists covered themselves with glory in respective characters, and were ably supported by Eunice Fitch, the authoress of the piece, who sustained the role of Delilah, an adventuress, Miss Mary Horne as Flora, Grace Beebe as Maria, "a tough case," and Messrs. Mackay, Porter, Crane and Parkinson. Tonight the company will appear in a comedy drama entitled "The Middleman," said to be a most interesting play. Tomorrow afternoon "The Two Kids," another special play of the Elmore Sisters, will be presented and tomorrow night for the last performance "Kidnapped" will be performed. Ladies and children are especially invited to attend the reception to be given by the Elmore Sisters after the matinee performance and in presentation of "The Two Kids" they will certainly be highly pleased.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address.

THE COST OF DRESS.

The Secret Does Not Lie In Extravagance.

Elegance does not consist in richness of material and trimming, fortunately; it resides in the cut, fit and general style of the costume, its appropriateness to the occasion upon which it is worn and the way the wearer carries it. While it is always advisable to buy material of sterling quality it is by no means essential to purchase the most costly kinds. It is better to save on the expense of the goods and pay more for the making. A well made gown is a thing of beauty, and, if not a joy forever, it is a joy much longer than is an ill made one, which vexes its owner and makes her feel uncomfortable every time she puts it on. Very pretty gowns are to be had ready made now. They require refitting of course, but that does not cost a great deal in addition and will be well done by the establishment which sells the gown. There is, of course, the objection to be made that ready made gowns are constructed by the wholesale, ever so many just alike, but the purchaser can always change hers and give it a look of originality by putting on new buttons, adding a little braid or passementerie, facing the revers with lace or making some similar variation.

The cut depicts a walking gown of silver gray cloth, the skirt being simply decorated by three stitched folds of cloth. The closed bolero is laid in horizontal stitched and corded plaits and fastened by round gold buttons. The revers are of black velvet embroidered with gold and gray, and the plaited chemisette and cravat are of gray mousseline de soie. The upper part of the tight sleeves is corded like the bodice. The hat of gray straw is trimmed with gray tulle and plumes.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

SHIRT WAISTS.

Their Decoration Is More Varied This Season.

Shirt waists maintain the same general form as ever, but the decoration varies. A new design has a front faced on of the same color as the waist, or white, just exactly like a man's plain shirt bosom. Another idea is to have revers of one form or another. Waists without these additions are finished with alternate tucks and bands of embroidery or lace arranged vertically, horizontally or in vandykes. White shirt waists trimmed with bias bands of plaid zephyr are a novelty.

Silk shirt waists are usually of taffeta or of a soft sort of satin and are frequently corded or tucked. In the more elaborate forms they cease to come under the head of shirt waists. Cravats are an essential accompaniment and are shown in a number of forms. There is the little butterfly bow, the Spanish cravat and a diversity of plaited ones of lace or crepe lisse. Liberty silk scarfs and big net or tulle neckties are worn, tied in a large bow, and stock collars with ends coming around to fasten in front.

Crepes and crepons in all varieties are to be much worn and will be trimmed with lace—point de Venice, point de Paris and guipures. Applications of lace on tulle will also be used, and there will be a revival of the bodice entirely covered with lace or guipure.

The cut shows a pretty gown of cyclamen bengaline. The skirt is quite plain. The bodice is gathered slightly at the waist and has a yoke and deep plastron of white guipure over straw silk, the guipure being embroidered with cyclamen and straw silk. The guipure decoration covers the top of the sleeves, and the double bertha of plaited straw mousseline de soie crosses the upper part of the arm. The tight sleeves are plain, the belt of cyclamen satin. A white tulle toque is worn trimmed with large, deep red roses.

HOW TO DRESS THE HAIR

Pretty Coiffures That Are Becoming to Any Style of Beauty.

There are various ways of wearing the hair, but they are all founded upon one way—the loose coil at the middle of the back of the head, with an environing puff all around. The variety is achieved by having the coil low or high; by parting or pompadouring the front hair, and, lastly, by wide range in fancy pins and head-dresses that is offered just now. There is nothing of more consequence in coiffures than

how the back of the hair looks. It gets by far the largest share of the hairdresser's attention, and all appreciative women themselves fully realize the new importance which this always important detail has attained. In the first cut we have a rear view of the conventional coiffure of the hour. Instead of the three puffs, a less complicated coil is often seen, but the crimped all-around pompadour effect, the Empire comb thrust just below the puffs and the small tuck comb above the nape of the neck are typical of nine out of every ten heads one meets everywhere.

What sounds like an anomaly, but which is really a very pretty style of wearing the hair, a parted pompadour, is shown in the second cut. The hair is elaborately waved and rolled back as in the regulation pompadour. The puff is at its broadest at either side, however, for directly in the middle there is a deliberate part. A few short curls on the forehead add to the unusualness of this coiffure. In the back the hair is twisted quite low near the nape of the neck.

A generally becoming way of wearing the hair is that represented in the third illustration. It is a happy compromise between the aggressive pompadour and the straight brushed-back style. The hair is crimped slightly and thrown back from the forehead in a graceful fluffy puff that has nothing artificial about it, in appearance at least. There are a few tiny ringlets upon the forehead. The back hair is coiled quite high and is supported by an Empire comb.

A Coat That Cost $1,000,000.

The most expensive coat in the world, worth $1,000,000, is owned by Lady Brassey, of London. She recently lent it to a charity bazar to place on exhibition, after insuring it for $500,000.

Outside the fact of the fabulous price attached to this remarkable coat it is a work of art. The foundation is of the hemp grown in the Sandwich Islands, and to it are sewn with fine thread the softest feathers of birds found only in the Hawaiian Isles. The feathers are arranged as smooth and as thick as they grow on the breast of birds.

Around the mantle runs a border of crescent shaped figures made of crimson and gold feathers. The yellow plumage is of priceless value, as it is plucked from one of the rarest birds of the island. Black feathers from the back and head of the same bird enter largely into the composition of this wonderful cloak, which was twenty years in making.

The great skill with which the feathers are attached to the hemp foundation, and the vast amount of labor required to complete it, make it the most marvelous piece of feather work in the world. The market value of the feathers determines the price of the cloak, and in that way it has been adjudged worth $1,000,000.

Get Plenty of Sleep.

Sleep starvation is a common fault, especially of the young. Dancing all night two or three times a week is possible for a time, but there is harm in it. In general, it may be said that any one who has to be alarm-clocked out of bed every morning isn't getting sleep. The evil effects may not at once be felt, but they exist. A person should feel perfectly rested upon arising in the morning.

CARSON WILDRED'S CRIME.

A Detective Story of Two Continents,
by
HARRY WOOD REYNOLDS.

CHAPTER XXVII.

The poor wretch, who had made such a wreck of his young life, was white as death and shaking like an aspen. I could see the beads of sweat oozing out on his pale forehead. "For God's sake," he implored, "dont say that to me; I can't bear it! Until you told me just now I swear to you by all I hold sacred—by my sister's love, which I so little deserve—that I never dreamt of Harvey Farnham being dead. A cablegram came from Wildred commanding me rather than asking me to go to England, saying that it would be much to my advantage to do so, and that my fare and all expenses would at once be sent me in advance. I didn't mean to let my sister know of my presence—I would have spared her that—but I fancied myself standing among the crowd in the park, watching her drive by, or something of the sort. Even a glimpse of her face would have been sweet.

"But when I arrived one of the first things Wildred did was to tell me that he had heard my sister often speak of me, and that he would secretly arrange a meeting betwen us. I could not resist the temptation of having a few words with her when it was offered for the asking, and I saw her at the house by the lock. An excuse was made to bring her and Lady Tressidy there—something about a portrait of Karine that was in a queer room he called the 'studio'—and while Wildred was showing Lady Tressidy over the house I saw my sister and had a talk with her.

When I had been in England about three or four weeks, keeping out of the way of any one who might possibly remember me, Wildred suggested the scheme of my traveling back to America, impersonating Farnham, and finally finishing the plot as I did finish it to-night. He admitted that it was for this that he had sent for me, but swore Farnham himself was in the thing as deep as he; that it meant a fortune to them both, which they were to share, and which could be had in no other way. He explained that Farnham had had bad luck in speculations, was bankrupt, hadn't the pluck to begin over again on the lowest rounds of the ladder, nor to undertake carrying out this plan himself. He would funk the fire business, Wildred said, and might, instead of escaping, actually be burnt to death. The object to be gained, of course, I was made to believe, was getting the life assurance. Farnham was supposed to have several policies, each one for an enormous sum; he had left everything of which he should die possessed, life assurance and all the rest, to Wildred, who would actually go halves with Farnham when the money should be secured.

"Of course, I had sense enough to know that it was a villianous fraud, but I've never been very scrupulous, and it was easy to persuade myself that I owed Harvey Farnham a good turn for what he did for me in the past. Besides, I wanted the money, and there was five thousand in notes (Wildred was too sly to give a check) on the table for me to take or leave. I didn't see that I was going to do much harm to anybody except the insurance companies, who are rich enough to lose, as Farnham hadn't a relative in the world; but before Heaven, if I dreamt of the truth I'd have let Wildred do his worst before I'd have gone in with him!

"As for the Santa Anna, I knew that every board of the hotel was assured—the landlord would lose nothing—and after I'd kindled the fire I knocked like mad on your door. I fancy, though you didn't know it, it must have been that which first began to rouse you. I didn't give myself much time to get out, after taking off the disguise (which I flatter myself I did pretty well), but I just managed it. I tell you I was desperate when I walked in here and found you; but now I was never so thankful for anything in the course of my life."

"The present question is, then," I said, "whether you will go straight to England wih me and tell all you know about Carson Wildred? If we stop on this side to prove things step by step as we went, we would labor under two disadvantages. It would mean indefinite delay, and you would get into trouble about that business at the hotel to-night. To sail at once for England and let matters here take care of themselves for the present is our only plan, I think. What do you say?"

"THERE STANDS THE MURDERER, GENTLEMEN," HE HAD SAID.

"You are sure that Wildred can't swear my life away?"

"As sure as I am that we are both alive at this moment."

"Then I'm in your hands. I'll save my sister and get even with Wildred for making a tool and a dupe of me."

"By the time we have landed on the other side," I answered, "there'll still be a clear fortnight to do the first, and I think we may accomplish the latter transaction simultaneously."

We had a stormy passage, and arrived at Southampton four-and-twenty hours later than we should have done. It was Cunningham who bought a paper as we got into the train. I was too completely preoccupied to have absorbed a line of news, even had my eyes mechanically perused the printed matter. Cunningham, who was also restless, and who could not bear to be left to the mercy of his own thoughts, read incessantly, however, and at the end of a half an hour or so handed over his paper to me.

"Look at this," he said with some eagerness, pointing out a paragraph. I glanced at it carelessly at first, but in an instant I was as keen as Cunningham had been.

"Another Fortune for a Millionaire," the paragraph was headed, and beneath was set forth the interesting fact that Mr. Wildred Carson, who was shortly to marry Miss Cunningham, the celebrated beauty and heiress, had just heard of a legacy of half a million pounds left hm by an American friend, Mr. Harvey Farnham, lately burned to death in a San Francisco hotel.

"So you see, it wasn't only the mine and the money he would have paid for the mine, he wanted," said Cunningham. "Oh, he's a marvelous chap, this Wildred."

I acquiesced in this opinion, and recalled a remark made in the club by a mutual acquaintance. "Carson Wildred is always inheriting fortunes from some chaps that die in the four corners of the globe," he had curiously remarked. "I wondered grimly, as I remembered the speech, whether all these benefactors had met their death after the manner of poor Harvey Farnham.

Time was pressing now, and our idea was to go straight to Karine, I to appear only as the supporter of her brother. A desire for the punishment of Wildred might have held a prominent place both in Cunningham's mind and mine, but our first thought was to save Karine from becoming the murderer's wife. So we started at once for Haslemere.

The door was opened by a smiling footman. He was not the man I had previously seen, and evidently, judging from the genial flush on his face and the twinkle in his eye, something agreeable or amusing had taken place. He tried to draw his countenance into the conventional lines of footman-like solemnity, but his eyes lighting upon Cunningham, the expression changed to one of surprise. Very possibly he noted the similarity of coloring between the brother and sister, and a certain vague haunting likeness that would show itself at times.

"If Miss Cunningham is at home, tell her that her brother has come and wishes to see her immediately upon a matter of importance," said my companion, valiantly taking the bull by the horns.

"Miss Cunningham is not at home sir," replied the servant. "She—that is—in fact, sir, she has just left us for good and all. She—she was married sir, at half-past ten o'clock this morning and the wedding breakfast's only been over since an hour ago."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 14—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—God's covenant and ours.—Ps. cv, 1-10. (A Christian Endeavor pledge meeting.)

A covenant is a mutual compact between two or more persons. Abraham and Abinelech made a covenant. Joshua made a covenant with the people. Jonathan and David made a covenant. The covenants of God with man practically partake of the same characteristics. It is obvious, however, that in any covenant between God and man God must make the initial movement. God agrees or pledges Himself to do certain things dependent upon certain action by man. In the covenant of works He promised man eternal life on condition of perfect obedience. In the covenant of grace He promises to man eternal life, dependent upon man's faith in Christ. God's covenant has been essentially the same in all ages, though its form has been constantly changing to suit the changed conditions of human life. At one time it was the promise of the woman's seed; to Noah the promise of forbearance; to the patriarchs the promise of a son; to Moses the promise of a prophet; to the monarchy the promise of a king; to Isaiah the promise of a suffering servant, and then at last in Christ all forms men realized. The incarnate son of God was the woman's seed, Abraham's son, David's royal child and successor and Jehovah's servant. Thus God always has and always will keep his covenant.

But we also may covenant with God. We may make solemn and sacred pledges to God that we will perform certain duties in life. Every Endeavorer has made a covenant with God. The Endeavorer's covenant is the Christian Endeavor pledge. God's attitude toward His covenant with us should decide for us our attitude toward our covenant with God.

1. God remembers His covenant. "He hath remembered His covenant forever." God never forgets His promises to us, but, alas, how often we forget our promises to Him! How many Endeavorers have forgotten their solemn covenant with God. Let us take God as a model and not forget our covenant.

2. God is impressed with the solemn and sacred character of His covenant. He confirmed it with an oath, swearing even by Himself that He would perform it. How lightly many Endeavorers esteem their promises to God! They would not fail to meet a friend upon appointment, yet how often they fail to keep their appointments with God.

3. God's covenant is an everlasting covenant. It was not for a day, but forever. There should be more of this divine character of permanence and perpetuity in our covenant with God.

Our Work Done by Others.

It is often said that our work is done in these days by other pulpits, presses and churches. If it is so, the fact is our condemnation. For our work no one can do unless we fail to do it ourselves. This is a point worth dwelling on. It is the willingness to see our work done by others that affords others their opportunity. Somebody must do the work, the Lord's work certainly. We are set to do our share. Nobody else is appointed to our task nor will be till we slight it. If we do, the work will not go undone, we may be sure of that. No matter. Spring to the task before thee, O brother; fling away doubts and fears; put a cheerful courage on; let the strokes fall; be sure thy share in the completed result will be as large, as important, as glorious, as thy fidelity in the work. The only way any one can take away our reward is by taking away our task, and no one can take our task if we are prompt and willing to do it ourselves.—Universalist Leader.

The Sensational Preacher.

One of the most serious obstacles in the way of the church of Christ in our day is the sensational preacher. The freedom permitted in some churches for the eccentric utterances of men under the pretense of preaching destroys the sanctity of the pulpit and brings untold damage to the influence of divine truth among men. Egotism, the seeking of notoriety, the ad captandum vulgus, are disgusting exhibitions of a rotten humanity wherever found, but in the Christian pulpit they are criminal. No doubt all the denominations have had their mortifications in this line. If church discipline cannot be brought to bear, the weight of public opinion in the churches and out of them should be felt. Stay away from such a ministry, and let your absence be your witness.—Central Presbyterian.

Prayer For Colleges.

Our colleges for the most part were founded by Christian men. The great universities of the world were religious in the origin. Our American colleges were theological before they were biological or philosophical or sociological institutions. In most of the charters of the older institutions of learning religion holds a prominent place. What the fathers planted posterity should foster. Prayer for colleges is but the expression of this important truth.—Christian Intelligencer.

The Two Candles.

I saw two candles; one unlighted lay;
The other lighted stood,
And a pale man beneath its slender ray
His nightly toil pursued.

In patient zeal he drew his failing sight
O'er many a mystic page,
And with the harvest of that quiet night
He turned to bless his age.

But when the pearl of dawn dissolved in day
The candle flashed its last,
And yet that other candle perfect lay,
Unchanged by all had passed.

"Better," I said, "to live and waste in living
Than lie in useless sleep.
Who gives to others what is worth the giving Cannot both give and keep."

—Wade Robinson.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL.

LESSON VII, SECOND QUARTER, INTERNATIONAL SERIES MAY 14.

Comments by Wm. R. Fisher—Subject: Christ Betrayed and Arrested, John 18: 1-14—Golden Text: He Is Despised and Rejected of Men, Isa. 53: 3. (Commit Verses 3 5.)

"When Jesus had spoken these words, he went forth with his disciples over the brook Cedron, where was a garden, into which he entered and his disciples."

It is supposed that this was between 12 and 1 o'clock Friday morning. "These words" were "the discourse and the prayer at the supper in the upper room."

Eidersheim says: "The streets could scarcely be said to be deserted, for from many a house shone the festive lamp, and many a company may still have been gathered; and everywhere was the bustle of preparation for going up to the temple, the gates of which were thrown open at midnight."

"And Judas also, which betrayed him, knew the place; for Jesus oftimes resorted thither with his disciples."

Eidersheim says: "It was a quiet resting place, for retirement, prayer, perhaps sleep, and a trysting place also, where not only the twelve, but others also may have been wont to meet the Master."

"Judas then, having received a band of men and officers from the chief priests and Pharisees, cometh hither with lanterns and torches and weapons."

Prof. A. A. Wright says: "We believe their first move was to the house where the supper had been celebrated. Learning that Jesus had left it with His disciples, Judas next directed the band to the spot he knew so well—to Gethsemane. A kiss was agreed upon as the signal to mark the person they were seeking. As the band reached the garden, Judas went somewhat in advance of them (Luke 22; 47), and reached Jesus just as He had aroused the three disciples on guard after his third season of prayer, and the final victory. He saluted Him, "Hail, Rabbi," so as to be heard by the rest, and not only kissed Him, but covered Him with kisses, kissed Him repeatedly, loudly, effusively (Matt. 26; 49), "rained kisses upon Him. A clearer picture of depravity could not be drawn. Dante has placed Judas in the lowest circles of the damned, as the sole sharer of Satan himself of the very utmost punishment."

Jesus being not only God, but also man, felt the great trial He was to go through, and He looked to the Father for help and strength, and so got the victory, and was ready to ask those whom He knew had come to find Him, "Whom seek ye?"

The answer they made to Jesus Dr. Schaff says may reveal the light in which Judas had represented Jesus to the Roman authorities—"of Nazareth, a Galilean, prone to revolt."

"As soon then as He had said unto them, I am He, they went backward and fell to the ground."

It has been suggested that this going backward and falling to the ground may have been caused by a manifestation of superhuman power from Jesus, or, acting with the terrors of the night, and the greater terrors of a guilty conscience, the fact that they were in the presence of the great miracle worker may have caused them to fear that He was about to exert on them His power over life and death.

Peloubet says: "He asked them again, Whom seek ye, to emphasize the reasons for this exhibition of power, and to show that He surrendered himself willingly to God's plans and not to man's power."

In the eighth verse Jesus not only shows the characteristics of a good shepherd in wanting His sheep to be allowed to go, although His life was to be taken, but He allowed the fidelity of His disciples to be tested, in letting them show "how closely they would, of their own accord, cling to Him in His hour of trouble."

"That the saying might be fulfilled, which He spake, Of them which thou gavest me have I lost none."

It is a comfort to know that this was not a complete fulfillment of these words, but one instance of their fulfillment, and that "they still refer to our bodily safety as well as our spiritual salvation."

"Then Simon Peter, having a sword drew it and smote the high priest's servant and cut off his right ear. The servant's name was Malchus."

"The cup which my Father hath given me, shall I not drink it?"

W. N. Clarke says: "In Luke this scene is very beautiful, the Lord saying, 'Suffer ye thus far;' that is, 'Permit me thus far the use of my hands,' and touched the ears with healing power." Glover says: "The healing of the smitten ear is of interest as Christ's last miracle; full of gentleness, mercy, forgiveness."

Dr. Clark says: "Jesus was led first to Annas, because this old man had formerly been high priest, and, though deposed by the foreign power that ruled Judea, was still the legitimate high priest, according to the law of Moses, the office being for life."

"Now Caiaphas was he, which gave counsel to the Jews, that it was expedient that one man should die for the people."

One commentator says that this fact was probably referred to perhaps to show why they took him to Caiaphas, as one committed to condemn Jesus, since he was willing to destroy even an innocent person to save the nation from what he considered a great peril, from the Roman power.

The Dog Surgeon.

For some time past a large battalion of dogs has been drilled in the vilage of Lecrench, near Cologne, to operate in conjunction with the German Ambulance Corps. Each dog is supplied with a saddle, in which are pockets containing all that is necessary for the first dressing of a wound, also a large gourd of brandy.

Elongated Bread.

The largest loaves of bread baked in the world are those of France and Italy. The "pipe" bread of Italy is baked in loaves two or three feet long; while in France the loaves are made in the shape of very long rolls, four or five feet in length, and in many cases six feet.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 14, "Coming to a Kingdom." Text, I Kings ii, 1-4.

"Be thou strong and shew thyself a man." The king was old and infirm. He knew and all around him knew that he could not live long. Who shall succeed him as king? He had many sons, and more than one of them had strong hopes of the crown. More than one of them had shown himself unfit to be ruler of the nation by his failure to rule his own evil passions. One son had risen in open rebellion and had paid the forfeit of his life for his treason, even though he was his father's favorite.

The young son of Bathsheba is the chosen one. He is preferred above an older son, who also raises an ineffectual insurrection. Absalom, the beautiful and ambitious, ruined himself. Adonijah, the vicious and cowardly, is rejected, and Solomon, the peaceful, is chosen for the place.

David has been a soldier and familiar with camps and battle, yet from boyhood he has reverenced God. His life dream has been to unite all Israel in the worship of Jehovah according to the commands of Moses. A central sanctuary in the capital city, Jerusalem, has ever been in his mind. He gathers treasures to build it. Wars and insurrections give no time for the work until old age compels him to yield the scepter to younger hands.

This boy must take up the task. What qualities of heart and mind he will need! His father can give him a throne, a kingdom and great wealth, but he cannot give him wisdom and virtue and godliness. Only the Jehovah can impart these. Without them the kingdom is worthless to him, and he is worse than worthless to it.

The times need a man. He must be a strong man, well balanced, just, prudent, broad minded and above all God fearing.

The charge of David to Solomon is timely. "Keep the charge of the Lord thy God, to walk in His ways, to keep His statutes and His commandments, that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest."

To each one of us there is the inheritance of a kingdom in prospect. To obtain it, we need to be strong and truly manly. It can be given only to the worthy. Are you fitting yourself for rulership, are you taking possession of your kingdom and crown? "Hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown."

The World Made Beautiful.

It seems scarcely possible for any one to live in the genial days of spring and be insensible to the charm of beauty that pervades the whole world of nature. Birds, trees, flowers, clouds and winds, with glorious sunshine, combine to make life joyous. We take too little time to see and feel it all. The grind of daily cares makes us dull of sight and hearing, and the rush of social calls blunts the sensibilities. Yet it remains true that every one owes it to himself to take time for enjoyment of the glory spread so lavishly around us. It is our duty to relieve human misery and suffering and save men from sin. It is no less duty and right to listen to God as He speaks to us in the aiding seasons. Our Father has made all things beautiful in their time, and we should take time to understand the message He would send us. The Bible is by no means the only way in which we can learn God's will. The hum of bees and dash of waterfalls, the soughing of winds in the pine trees and ripple of waves on the sand, the music of ocean surges and the myriad sights and sounds of the world of things will bring the weary soul to God if it will only open ears and eyes. David and Job and Jesus saw God in all His works and worshiped Him.

Be Genuine.

We see so much of "gush" in manners and speech that the sight of a genuine boy and girl is refreshing—not the kind that talk slang and are loud in speech and bold in actions, but sincere and gentle, without softness or affectation. Sentiment is always relished, while sentimentality nauseates.

It is a mistake to be too effusive in greetings and too intense in expression. A person who is so "very, very glad" to see each and every different person who calls is soon estimated by friends as affected and fails to secure that genuine regard and friendship given one who speaks from the heart, but more moderately and guardedly.

Don't affect or "put on" what you don't feel or mean. What shall we do? Think how you ought to feel toward each person, be truly friendly even to the less agreeable, then greet them openly, candidly, kindly, with gentle courtesy. Be honest and true and cultivate the best spirit and manner, but don't prevaricate by affecting to feel what you do not pretend or to be what you are not.

Gifts and Loans.

Schools of all trades are needing more and better equipment than ever before. Apparatus of the most approved patterns must be had. Specialists in various departments must be retained. Buildings must be erected and furnished. Fees from students can never meet these expenses. Large gifts have been made in the years gone by, and still larger are needed for the future.

Multitudes of our young people look with longing desire to the schools, but have not the funds to pay even the moderate fees and expenses. To many such the funds of the Educational society come as a godsend. We must increase these aids and use them so as to foster the spirit of self helpfulness in our young men and women. Those aided in time past are the ones who in present prosperity pour out of their abundance to help others.

The "twentieth century thank offering" should lift many of our needy schools and scholars into positions of greater usefulness.

The Plainfield baseball enthusiasts are getting a pretty good article of ball since the High School nine has been playing at the Crescent Oval every Saturday afternoon. Particularly is this so considering that the price of admission to the games is only ten cents.

The baseball nine from the Crescent Carpet Works and Pond's nine will cross bats Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on the Washington avenue grounds. The game is expected to be a sharp one, as Pond's men have so far won all three games they have played. The other nine have been practicing hard this spring, and are in good form for playing. Pond's men have their new uniforms.

The Newark High School nine comes to Plainfield tomorrow afternoon to meet the Plainfield High School boys at base ball at the Crescent Oval. The game is called for 3:30 o'clock. It was only after much difficulty that Manager William A. Fisher secured a promise on the part of the Newark management to paly here. Both teams are in good condition and will doubtless play a close and interesting game. Edwards will pitch for the home team.

CYCLING COMMENT.

The rain yesterday morning interfered with the Y. M. C. A. bicycle run at night so it was postponed until this evening. Six enthusiastic wheelmen appeared upon the scene at 7:30 o'clock, and so a run was made to Metuchen and back via Park avenue. The roads were found to be in a pretty fair good condition except in Plainfield and Metuchen, where the mud was thick. Tonight the run will be taken to Westfield, via the Springfield road, and home via South avenue. The start will be made at 7:45 o'clock. A nine-mile an hour pace will be set, so there will be no scorching.

FIVE RACES OF OUR NEW POSSESSION.

Interesting Address on the Peoples of Hawaii.

BY AN AMERICAN PASTOR.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION.

Address by Rev. D. P. Birnie, Forme Pastor of the American Church at Hawaii—Told Interesting Facts Concerning the Five Races That Predominate in the New Possession.

Hawaii, the new American possession, is a fascinating subject at all times, but when treated by one who has lived there himself, and, in the advantageous position of pastor of a church in the beautiful capital of the island, learning to know the various races that make up their composite population, it becomes doubly so. An unusually interesting talk on "The Five Races in Hawaii," was given last night under the auspices of the Woman's Association of the Congregational church by Rev. D. P. Birnie, for three years pastor of the American church in Honolulu. The address was the principal feature of the annual public meeting of the association.

Mr. Birnie spoke first of the native Hawaiians, a brown race, tall and well-made, easily led, either for good or evil, with little idea of the value or use of money. The Chinese of the islands, on the contrary, he called the financiers of Hawaii. They own a large amount of property, and are remarkably successful in business. Mission work among them is slow but sure, as when once converted they are thoroughly so.

The Japanese of Hawaii are more numerous than the Chinese. They are always courteous and agreeable, chaming to deal with, but whether their word is to be depended on is another matter. Mr. Birnie said it took a large amount of gospel to convert a Japanese to truthfulness. They are bright and clever, with great ability in many directions, but have little staying quality.

The large Portugeese population thrive in the hot climate; there are more Portugeese children in the islands than children of any other nationality. Protestant mission work is very successful among them. The white population includes nearly every white race. Many are the children of missionaries. There are some men in the islands who have made the most of a great opportunity to do a good work, and there are others who have used their opportunity to oppress those of weaker races.

In closing, Mr. Birnie spoke very hopefully of the future of missions in the islands. He does not think the Christian nations altogether understand the unevangelized people as yet, but he has seen proof that the religion of Jesus Christ is suited to every nation on earth.

Other features of the evening were a report of the work done by the woman's Association during the year, given by the president, Mrs. M. E. Dwight; an instrumental trio by Mrs. B. T. Barnes, organist; Mrs. Dwight, pianist, and P. Ludwig Conde, violinist; and a violin solo by Mr. Conde, accompanied by Mrs. Dwight. Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the church, presided. The programme was followed by a social hour and the serving of refreshments.

JONES WILL SUE THE DOCTORS.

Wants $25,000 Damages Because He Was Sent to Asylum.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 13.—Peter Jones, of Easton avenue, whose summary arrest and incarceration in the Trenton Insane Asylum some time ago was followed by his immediate release, has decided to bring suit for $25,000 damages against Drs. Meachem and Skillman, who signed the recommendation for his arrest.

Crazy Man Stole a Cow.

John J. Cullen, at one time a prosperous produce dealer in Summit, was arrested yesterday for stealing a cow from Tax Collector Baldwin, of Chatham. The cow was found later two miles away in Ellis Baldwin's barn. Cullen claimed that he had taken the cow away from a thief, but gave such a contradictory account of the affair that City Physician William H. Lawrence and Dr. John Burling testified that he was insane and he was taken to the State Insane Asylum at Morris Plains.

Mrs. Whittemore,

Of the "Door of Hope" mission for women in New York City, will speak in Warren chapel tomorrow night at 8 8 o'clock. You are invited.

MOTHER GOOSE A HOSTESS

THE OLD WOMAN AND HER FAMILY WILL BE ON HAND.

Unique Entertainment to be Given Under the Auspices of the Church of the Redeemer — Many Attractions.

"Sing a song of sixpence,
A pocket full of rye:
Four and twenty blackbirds
Baked in a pie.
When the pie was opened
The birds began to sing;
Was not that a dainty dish
To set before the King?"

Equally dainty and equally surprising will be the fare or fair which Mother Goose and her children will set before the kings and queens of Plainfield the 19th and 20th of this merry month of May.

The entertainment will be under the auspices of the Guild of the Church of the Redeemer, and will be held at 20 Willow avenue, the scene of last year's successful bazar. As before the admission is free

All the nursery favorites will be in evidence. The old woman who lived in a shoe will be there with her numerous small fry; Little Miss Muffet will appear under the watchful eye of the alarming spider, and Mistress Mary will have a row of unusually pretty maids in her garden. Pussie will be in the well and blackbirds will nip the noses of the laundry maids. Mother Hubbard's cupboard has been enlarged and stocked with dainties for the occasion; and the queen in the kitchen, expecting company, will prepare something more than her usual frugal repast of bread and honey.

Success is assured since everything is lovely when the goose hangs high.

TREMBLY'S AILMENT IS CHRONIC.

That is Why He is Not Allowed to Stay in the Hospital.

William Trembly, residing at the corner of West Fourth and New streets, was sent from the hospital to his home last Monday. Some time ago he met with an accident, and this together with a complication of diseases, necessitated his removal to the hospital for treatment. As soon as it was determined that the case was a chronic one, the physician in charge decided to have him removed to his home.

It is not generally understood that the hospital is solely for acute and emergency cases, and not chronic cases. If the latter class was admitted there would be no room for other cases, hence the constitution and rules do not allow a patient to remain at the hospital as soon as it is discovered that it is chronic.

This statement is made for the benefit of those who have been inclined to find fault with the action of Mr. Trembly. It is said that the family are in reduced circumstances and cannot afford the expenses they are under. If this be true there are other sources whereby relief can be obtained.

NEW MARKET FOR ELIZABETH.

Attempt To Capture Some of the Trade Now Going to Newark.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 13—This city is to have a new market, which is to be erected on Morris avenue, near Westfield avenue, by the public-spirited enterprise of William Clark, treasurer of the New Jersey State Agricultural Society. Westfield avenue and Morris avenue are the chief county roads, along which the Union County farmers pass on their way to Central Market in Newark, Mr. Clark's scheme is, by locating an Elizabeth market close to the interestion of these two thoroughfares, to catch a great part of the patronage of sellers of country produce, who now haul their crops of garden truck to the Newark market.

A Musicale.

A musicale of more than usual excellence will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of that church. It will be free and all members of the congregation and their friends are invited to attend. Miss Laura Bellini, of New York, who was prima donna for Joseffy, the famous pianist, during a two years' tour abroad, will be present and sing several solos. P. Ludwig Conde, the violinist, will take part also, together with other local artists of talent.

When Dewey Comes.

We have been a long time saying "There's a good time coming," but we are sure it's coming now when Dewey comes. Won't we have a good time! Well, well, well! And that's what your clocks and watches will have when cleaned and repaired at Collier's.

Dr Kempshall Much Better.

Rev. Dr. Kempshall, the anti-race-track crusader, who went to California for his health, is back in Elizabeth for a short visit, after which he goes to the Adirondacks to spend the summer. He is much improved in health.

APPEAL FOR BABY CAMP

ARRANGEMENTS BEING MADE BY THE KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Total Loss of the Camp by Fire Recently Makes it Necessary to Start all Over Again, and Contributions are Asked.

At a meeting of the Executive Board of the King's Daughters Union yesterday a committee was appointed to carry on the Camp work for the summer. Each King's Daughters Circle is represented by one member on this committee.

Owing to the total loss of our Camp by fire it has hampered the progress we anticipated making in this branch of the work. Definite arrangements will not be made yet until we know how large our contributions will be. It is our idea to secure some place for the time being to care for the little ones during the heat of the coming months. Our expenses will be heavier than they were last year and as our funds are low will not the people of Plainfield give us their co-operation as well as their money in our efforts to care for the little children in our town.

As our furniture has all been destroyed we will have to commence over again and if any one has an ice box, water cooler, oil stoves, baby carriages, hammocks, cots or rocking chairs they will be greatly appreciated,

We will be glad to have the little people in our town become interested in our work for the babies as well as the churches, Sunday-schools and other societies that are interested in the comfort of the poorer people around our homes

The committee hope for a hearty and generous response to their appeal.

All contributions of either furniture or money can be sent to Miss E. Little, 144 East Ninth street.

BROKE INTO THE CHURCH.

All Souls' Edifice Invaded by Thieves or Tramps, Who Slept There All Night.

Sometime during last night someone broke into All Souls' church, on Park avenue, but got no further than the basement. The janitor, Mr. Hughson, discovered the fact this morning when he went to open the church for his Saturday's cleaning.

He found one of the cellar windows broken and indications inside as if some one had spent the night there. The door leading from the basement or kitchen to the church was securely locked, so the invaders were foiled in their attempt to reach the upper floor.

There is nothing of value kept in the church, not even a silver communion set, as is the case in most all churches of other denominations. It is not known whether they were tramps or boys, probably the former, as they spent the night in the basement, making a bed of a quantity of bagging found and a bundle of newspapers for his head rest.

HURRAH FOR THE CIRCUS.

J. H. LaPearl's Great Two Ring Show Coming to This City.

Novelty, excellent, originality and magnitude are striking characteristcs of J. H. LaPearl's circus performances this season. In this department are seen a multitude of new features; so many new displays are presented this year as to give the circus a new character throughout. So vast is the array or arenic talent that for three solid hours, two rings and elevated stage, a world of aerial apparatus and immense surrounding race course are occupied with sensational displays participated in by over 100 peerless artists. New features are the rule, the old-time worn numbers have been discarded to make room for the many superb attractions gathered from all parts of the world. In the two rings, elevated stage and upon the aerial apparatus contained in J. H. LaPearl's Colossal Pavillion, the champions of every country meet in friendly rivalry for supremacy, and compose the most varied and grandest arenic exhibition ever seen under canvas. Will exhibit at Plainfield, May 24th.

Stealing a Ride on a Freight Train.

Frank Little, aged twenty-one and Irving Gould, aged seventeen, left Chicago on March 2d on their to Union Hill. Last night Patrolman Vanderweg found them hidden away on a freight train, bound for the Jersey City yards. They were in company with Martin Donnelly, of Newark, who was going home from Somerville. The three were arrested and arraigned this morning before City Judge Runyon. The Judge suspended sentence.

The New Standpipe

The Plainfield Water Supply Company has laid pipes to where the new stand-pipe is to be built on the mountain. The stand-pipe will be 35 feet high and 75 feet in diameter, making it of the same capacity as the one at Netherwood.

ROANTREE IS FOUND GUILTY OF STABBING.

Jr. O. U. A. M. Figured Prominently in the Case.

PIZIE A MEMBER OF ORDER.

HE WAS HURT IN A FRACAS IN A NEW MARKET HOTEL.

Defense Was That Roantree Was Teased, Tormented and Abused and He Only Used a Knife When Other Methods Failed to Stop the Abuse—Jury Found Him Guilty—To be Sentenced Today.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 13.—The trial of Theodore Roantree, of New Market, charged with stabbing George Pizie, was continued in court yesterday, when the lawyers summed up. H. B. Cook appeared for the defendant. The witnesses examined in the case yesterday were: George Pizie, Frank Nelson, Dr. William J. Nelson, Louis Harris, Fred Clausen and Luther Mundy, for the State, and William B. Smith and Theodore Roantree, for the defense.

Pizie is a member of Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., of New Market, and it has been stated that the members of that council have interested themselves in the prosecution of Roantree. Each witness for the State was asked if he is a member of any organization of which Pizie is also a member.

The defense in the case was that Roantree was teased, tormented and abused by Pizie and his companions and that he only used the knife when all other methods failed to make Pizie desist from his abuse. The case went to the jury and it returned yesterday afternoon with a verdict finding Roantree guilty and recommended him to the mercy of the court.

RID OF A BAD PRISONER.

COUNTY JAIL IS NOW FREE FROM CRAZY DWYER.

Taken to the Morris Plains Asylum by Sheriff Kirk and Warden Dodd Yesterday—Murdered His Sister-in-law.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 13.—John Dwyer, who is under indictment for murdering his sister-in-law, Catherine Dwyer, was taken to the Morris Plains Insane Asylum yesterday by Sheriff William Kirk and Jail Warden Charles W. Dodds. Justice VanSyckel ordered his removal to the asylum to determine whethere he is sane, since the question was raised, and if he is found to be insane the State will be saved expense of fighting the case through all the courts.

Dwyer is a powerful man and has been a constant source of trouble to his keepers since being lodge in jail. Several times he attempted to murder the warden and his assistant, and when he was wanted in court recently there were not enough deputies in the county to get him out of his cell. He says that everybody wants to hang him, but he don't know for what, and he does not intend to let them do it.

It was expected that he would be troublesome yesterday, but he went as lamblike as possible. He was taken by trolley by way of Newark, but his attendants were prepared for trouble.

BOARD OF TRADE HAS HOPES.

Faithful Ones Will Try to Hold a Meeting Monday Night.

The Board of Trade is going to make another attempt to get together. Monday evening is the time set for a regular meeting of that organization. Last month there was no meeting, owing to a lack of a quorum. The interest in the organization doesn't seem any brighter now than it was then. The faithful ones, who always turn out, still believe that a quorum may be obtained and the wheels of business, now rusty and clogged, set in motion once more.

Silas D. Drake may turn up at the meeting and infuse some of his glowing enthusiasm into the Board, which is now sadly in need of something to stir it up. It is to be hoped that the members will try a little harder than usual Monday night to get to the meeting.

Philmore Didn't Appear.

John Philmore was not tried this morning. The Judge was in the City Court, so were the police and Philmore's legal representative. The only thing lacking was Philmore himself. Yesterday, when his wife and friends were tried, he was released in the custody of his lawyer. Now the police are looking for Philmore, and he is likely to have things go hard with him if he is haled before the City Judge again.

SOMERSET STONE ROADS.

APPLICATIONS FOR 61 MILES BEFORE THE FREEHOLDERS.

Farmers Are Now Thoroughly Awakened to the Advantage to Good Roads—But Nine Miles Can be Built.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 13—The most difficult problem that confronts the newly organized Board of Freeholders of Somerset county is to satisfy the demands from the township for stone roads. Three years ago the county newspapers were urging the farmers to take advantage of the State appropriations for stone roads.

The farmers have gradually awakened to the fact that any kind of a stone road is better than a dirt road and there are now on file with the Board of Freeholders petitions for over sixty-one miles of stone roads with a total estimated cost of $227 527.

The present appropriation limits the building of stone roads in the county to about nine miles a year, and at this rate it will take about seven years to construct the stone roads now on file. With the exception of Burlington County, Somerset has now on file petitions for more miles of roads than any county in the state.

Last year the county expended $30,000 for its roads. This amount will have to be greatly increased during the present year to satisfy one-half the demands made upon the Board. The stone road craze is creating no end of strife in the towns and in the rural districts. The merchants of Somerville and Pluckamin are now clamoring for a stone road from Bernardsville to the county seat to offset the macadam road now being built from Bernardsville to Morristown.

$100 WATCH RECOVERED.

Nine-Year-Old Boy Stole to Buy Food for His Folks Who are Poor.

Last week a gold watch valued at $100, and owned by a coachman in the employ of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Conway, 920 West Seventh street, was stolen. Every effort to find it was unavailing until yesterday when it was learned that Bruno Tablet, of West Eighth street, had the watch. The boy is about 9 years of age, and took the watch, he says, to sell so that he could get money to buy something to eat for the house as the family were in reduced circumstances. The boy was suspicioned, and yesterday the young lad's brother said that his younger brother had the watch, and it was returned to the owner.

New Schedule for the Running of Trains on the Central.

Tomorrow the new timetable goes into effect on the Central Railroad, with some important changes. A train for Philadelphia will leave New York Sunday nights at 9 o'clock, stopping at Elizabeth and Plainfield.

Train No. 15 will not be run beyond Easton, but No 19 will be run through Maunch Chunk and Tamaqua and connect with Allentown. Train No. 16 leaves Scranton at 4 o'clock instead of at 3:20 o'clock.

DR. TRACY'S FUNERAL.

HIS REMAINS ARRIVED IN THIS CITY TODAY.

Funeral Services to Be Held From the Home of His Parents Tomorrow Afternoon—Interment to be in Hillside.

The remains of the late Dr. Robert S. Tracy, whose sad death by drowning has been recorded in these columns, arrived in this city from Saranac Lake this morning.

The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the home of the parents, 440 West Eighth street. Rev. Dr. K. P. Ketcham, of Freeport, L. I., and Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, of this city, will have charge of the services. The interment will take place in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. Tracy was born in New York city October 6th, 1871, and received his early education at home and in John Leal's school for boys. He was graduated from Mr. Leal's school and entered Yale College in 1891, from which he was graduated in 1893, and the same year entered the College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York. He was graduated from that college in 1896 and in January, 1897, entered the New York Hospital, where he served as assistant for eighteen months, the last six months as house surgeon. After leaving the hospital July 1st, 1898, he served for a short time as assistant in the Bloomingdale Asylum, and later served for some months in the Sloane Maternity Hospital in New York. In December last, somewhat worn by years of exhausting labor, he went to spend a few months in recuperation at Saranac Lake, where he was accidentally drowned April 13th.

WAR ON DUMPING GARBAGE

Robert Randolph Pleaded Guilty and Judge Suspended Sentence.

Health Inspector Addis has declared war against all ashcarters who dump garbage in the public dump. Beginning with May 1st, all the private dumps were closed and now the public one on East Third street, near Johnston avenue, is the only one where ashcarters may deposit their gatherings within the city limits. Special Officer O'Gorman is on duty there to prevent the dumping of garbage and refuse there. This morning he appeared as witness against Robert Randolph, colored ashcarter, who was arraigned in city court several days ago.

Randolph pleaded guilty to dumping garbage there but not in such quantity as Inspector Addis claimed. He explained that some of his customers hid the garbage in their ash barrels and he knew nothing of it until the officer at the dump discovered the refuse hidden in the ashes.

The Judge heard the stories of both sides and decided that Randolph was not a wilful offender although guilty. He therefore suspended sentence.

PLANNING FOR MORE SCHOOLS.

Important Problem Under Consideration in Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, April 13—The Board of Education met the advisory committee, consisting of Messrs. James T. Pierson, president; A. L. Russell, secretary; C. F. Conant, S. W. Reese and N. S. Welch, which was appointed at the March school meeting for the purpose of arranging for better school facalities The committee reported that they favored building an eight-room brick building at a cost of $22,000, this amount to include the furnishings. They recommended that the lot at the corner of Elm and Orchard streets be purchased for a site at an amount not to exceed $4,000. They also recommended the building of a two-room building at Mountainside borough at a cost not to exceed $4,500, including furnishings. The question was thoroughly discussed after which it was decided to receive it and place it on file and hold another meeting next Tuesday evening, when final action will be taken.

RAILS ARE COMING FOR 'PLAINS TROLLEY.

Long Delay in Construction of Line Nearly Over.

ARE EXPECTED NEXT WEEK.

IT WILL NOT TAKE LONG WHEN WORK IS ONCE BEGUN.

Great Rush at Rolling Mills Has Delayed the Shipment of Rails For Scotch Plains Extension—First Lot of 1,000 Tons Has Been Started—Work Will Be Begun Probably Next Week.

The trolley cars cannot run to Scotch Plains without tracks to run on and the tracks cannot be laid until the steel rails are here to use in their construction. Such has been the predicament of the trolley capitalists who are planning to unite Plainfield and Scotch Plains by some means of transit faster than a stage. The city has granted the required permission, so has Fanwood township. The capitalists are ready, so are the contractors, but the rails are not. There now comes the welcome intelligence that the first shipment of 1,000 tons of steel rails has been started to its destination, Plainfield.

The contractor, Lemuel W. Serrell, Jr., who is building the Scotch Plains extension for the Plainfield Street Railway Company, has been greatly hampered by the delay in the arrival of the rails. The preliminary grading has been about completed and all that was needed to start a big gang of men at work was the materials for the tracks. The order was in long ago, but the demand for rails has been so great that the rolling mills have been working night and day and are then unable to supply the demand.

The first shipment has been started, however, and should reach Plainfield the first of next week. It will then take two or three days to unload the rails and transport them to Scotch Plains, where the work will be begun. Mr. Serrell now expects that his active campaign will open the latter part of next week or the first of the week following.

The prediction that the cars would be running to Scotch Plains the first of June seems hardly probable now, owing to the delay in starting the work. It is the intention of Contractor Serrell to put a big gang of men at work and it will not take long to run the line after it is once started.

NEW RULES FOR FARMERS.

Founder Bradley to Exclude Wagons From Streets After Noon.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, May 13.—Monmouth county farmers are aroused over a sweeping resolution of the Asbury Park Council, passed at the suggestion of Founder Bradley, which excludes their wagons from the city streets after 12 o'clock noon. The farmers claim that the prohibition is unjust, in that it prevents them from serving orders to their regular customers at such times as are selected by their customers.

Under the ordinance they are permitted to serve from their wagons at a point to be designated by the City Council. This concession is regarded, however, as a pure farce. Legal action will ensue if the ordinance is enforced.

Ripley Manor Property

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, May 13—Since the Riker trolley will pass through the Ripley farm at this place to connect Rahway and Elizabeth with Westfield, a land company, of which James S. Irving is president and Wm. S. Welch secretary and treasurer, has had the farm cut up into 500 building lots, which will soon be placed on the market. The scheme is one of the largest property booms started at this place in many years past. The property is beautifully located and will be known as Ripley Manor.

To Improve the Courthouse.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 13—The Middlesex County Board of Freeholders, in adopting its budget for the fiscal year yesterday, included an item of $8,000 for an addition to the County Courthouse in New Brunswick. The addition will contain a retiring room for judges, a waiting room for women and a room for a law library, improvements which have been long needed.

Funeral Services of E. J. Galbraith.

President McKinley Sends Dispatch to Otis With This Instruction.

FORCE THE FIGHTING.

Cable Dispatch in Cipher and a Long One—Gave Explicit Instructions to the American Commander

Dewey Coming Home at Once—Will Return by Suez Canal Route to New York—Order For the Disposition of Olympia's Mail Posted in the Bureau of Navigation.

Hot Springs, Va., May 13.—President McKinley has sent a cable dispatch from here over his own signature to General Otis at Manila, instructing him to push the war into the interior of Luzon and capture or kill every fighting Filipino.

The cable dispatch was in cipher and was a long one. It gave explicit directions to the commander of the American forces in the Philippines.

General Otis was instructed to force the fighting to the limit from now on.

The sending of the dispatch followed the receipt from Secretary Alger of copies of yesterday's messages from Otis showing that the rebel forces were breaking up and that herculean action at once might bring the insurrection to a close.

The President is much improved in health by his warm mineral water baths, and as a result is showing increased energy and hopefulness.

Dewey Coming Home

Washington, May 13.—It has been settled that Admiral Dewey shall return at once by the European route through the Suez Canal. An order was posted in the Bureau of Navigation directing that all mail for the Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship be sent to R. F. Stevens, 4 Trafalgar

ADMIRAL DEWEY.

Square, London This is done that it might be forwarded to different ports along the Suez route, and indicates positively that Admiral Dewey will return in the Olympia by the European route and come to New York.

New York, May 13.—Admiral Dewey will land in New York when he returns to this country from Manila. Mayor Van Wyck received the following letter from the Secretary of the Navy:

"Sir—I am in receipt of your telegram with regard to the return of Admiral Dewey, and expressing your desire that he arrive in New York. The time of his return has not been fixed, and Department has taken no other action than to auhorize his return whenever the conditions of the Peace Commission shall permit. As to the route he shall take in returning, the Department is inclined to leave that to him. He has served with great ability, and must necessarily feel so much the effect of his arduous labors in a trying climate and under trying circumstances that the Department is disposed to let him govern himself in this respect largely by the consideration of his own personal convenience and wish. It is understood, however, that Admiral Dewey will elect to return to New York. Very respectfully,
JOHN D. LONG, Secretary.
The Hon. Robert A. Van Wyck, Mayor of the City of New York.

Ready For Battle

Manila, May 13.—Two battalions of the 17th Infantry have been sent to reenforce Gen. MacArthur at San Fernando, and two companies of the 9th Infantry, with one gun have reenforced Gen. Lawton at Balinag. The army tugs have passed the Rio Grande Bridge at Calumpit, preparatory to cooperating with Gen. Lawton's troops. All of the lines are quiet.

Transport Buford Arrives

New York, May 13.—The United States transport Buford, Capt. Stinson, arrived from San Juan, Porto Rico; Ponce, and Santiago, having on board 600 discharged soldiers from various regiments which have been doing garrison duty in Porto Rico. They were in charge of Lieut. Heavy of the 11th United States Infantry. There were also on board twenty-eight cabin passengers. Among them were Major H. B. May, J. W. Fogler, S. S. Harvey of the Paymaster's Department and Frank G Carpenter.

On the night of May 10 Frank Sheeran, a discharged soldier of Company M, 11th Infantry, attempted suicide on board the Buford by shooting himself while suffering from delirium tremens. The wound is serious but not necessarily fatal. Sheeran will be transferred to the hospital on Governor's Island for treatment. The Buford brought among her passengers a number of discharged civilian employes of the United States Government. She anchored off Redlow's Island and will probably will probably dock at the quartermaster's pier to-morrow.

TO SUE FOR DAMAGES

West Virginia Physician Says There Was a Conspiracy to Send Him to an Asylum.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 13.—More developments are expected in the Hissom insanity case, which resulted on last Friday in the discharge from the Spencer insane asylum of young Dr S. K. Hissom, who was charged by his father with being of unsound mind Charging there was a conspiracy to put the physician in a madhouse, lawyers will at once prepare heavy damage suits.

When Dr. Hissom was arrested last February, immediately after his return from Germany, where he had completed his medical studies, unusual interest was aroused by the discovery that under the loose laws of the State a person might be sent to an insane asylum upon the mere affidavit of anybody interested in him. The defendant had not even the right to summon witnesses or have them examined in his behalf. Dr Hissom retained S. G. Smith, one of the most prominent men at the West Virginia bar, who is well versed in constitutional law, and prepared to fight the case to the highest court if necessary.

Capt. Ray's Plans in Alaska.

Washington, May 12.—Capt. Ray who is to command the military district of Alaska, will start for his new post in July. He will sail from San Francisco or Seattle, with supplies for a company for one year. He expects to establish headquarters on the Yukon at Mission Creek, near the boundary line, where he will build a regular military station. A forest reservation also will be established, so that there may be no question about a supply of timber for the military station.

Capt. Ray believes in the practicability of the Conner River route, which Assistant Secretary Meiklejohn has ordered established, and which will be examined by Capt. Abercromble. Capt. Ray proposes to establish stations along this route twenty miles apart, placed in charge of natives. By this system, he claims, it will be possible to reach the Yukon country at all seasons of the year.

The Kotzebue Sound Prospectors.

San Francisco, May 13.—The barks Alaska, Jane A. Falkenburg and Catherine Sudden are being fitted out for Kotzebue Sound, and the steamer Townsend may be added to the fleet. Considerable anxiety prevails regarding the prospectors who have wintered at Kotzebue. Several hundred men were landed there last summer, and not a word has been heard from them since the ice closed them in. According to all accounts, provisions are plentiful and there is no fear of starvation. Among the prospectors about to sail for the Sound are Banker J. D. Tallant and party.

Flying Machine Stopped.

Washington, May 13.—Prof. S. P. Langley Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, the inventor of the aerodrome, who was given $25,000 by the Board of Ordnance to experiment with his flying machine for war purposes, made his first test at Quantico, Va.

The machine was launched from the top of a house boat anchored in a broad sweep of the Potomac, about three-fourths of a mile from the island.

The result was not so successful as were former experiments with the smaller machine. The machine soared aloft at a height of 500 feet, but descended after a horizonta. flight of 800 feet.

M. Lasies Makes a Furious Onslaught Upon the Government—Denounces Premier Dupuy and Foreign Minister Delcasse as Liars—Delcasse Repels Insults With His Foot—A Duel Will Probably Result.

Charleston, S. C., May 13.—A lively scene occurred at the convention of the Sons of Confederate Veterans when the election of officers was called. R. E. Lee, Jr., of Washington was nominated. James Mann of Virginia got up and bitterly opposed the nomination. He was applauded and hissed. The name of Lee was hissed.

Commander-in-Chief Smythe of Charleston, who was presiding, was then nominated for re-election. He was also hissed. Smythe's own camp and State were instructed to vote against his nomination. The scene during the stir was exciting, and a member arose and said it was a shame to hiss the name of Lee. "We are veterans," he shouted, "and not a mob." Many of the speakers left the stage. Smyth withdrew his name. The convention refused to accept Lee's withdrawal. A motion was made that all members hissing be put out of the hall.

W. T. Colquit of Georgia was finally nominated and elected Commander of the Sons of Veterans, defeating Lee.

Lee is a grandson of Gen. R. E. Lee. The Virginia Sons of Veterans opposed his election because he was not connected with their organization. He is a member of a camp at Washington that refused to go under the Virginia branch. The hisses aimed at Lee were from friends of Colquit and Smythe who feared that his name would sweep the convention. Lee was elected a member of the camp only yesterday, and it was asserted that he was not active enough in the work of the general organization.

The Committee on Resolutions of the United Confederate Convention in session here made a report this morning expressing sincere appreciation of the utterances of President McKinley at Atlanta last December concerning the care of the graves of Confederate dead by the national Government. Appreciation is expressed of every kindly sentiment in this connection and any legislation is welcomed which will result in the care of the graves of Confederate soldiers in the Northern States by the Government, but in respect to those buried in the Confederacy and in Maryland, it is declared that the care of their final resting place is a sacred trust dear to the hearts of Southern women, where it can safely remain.

Sympathy is expressed with the work of the Government in making the battlefields at Gettysburg, Chickamagua, Shiloh, Vicksburg and elsewhere permanent memorials. The Southern States are urged to construct monuments on these fields. The appointment of a committee of three is recommended to consider the question of uniformity of the Pension laws.

The report is non-committal on the subject of the purchase of Beauven, the Mississippi home of Jefferson Davis. The admission of California veteran organizations is recommended, and the erection of the Winnie Davis cottage at Surry, Va., for orphans is approved.

Paris, May 13.—Scenes of great disorder were caused in the Chamber of Deputies when M. Viviani, Radical Socialist, and M. Lasies, anti-Semite, interpellated the Government upon the publication of confidential letters belonging to the War Office.

PREMIER DUPUY.

M. Krautz, Minister of War, explained that the publication of the letters was due to Capt. Cuignet's indiscretion. Cuignet, he said, communicated the letters to Judge Grosjean, who gave them to the "Petit Journal." An indescribable tumult ensued, M. Lasies making a furious onslaught upon the Government. He denounced Premier Dupuy and Foreign Minister Delcasse as liars because of their explanations of the resignation of M. de Freycinet from the War Office. The order of the day was passed by a vote of 389 to 64.

After a number of violent speeches M. Delcasse declared that he repelled with his foot the insults addressed to him by M. Lasies last Monday. M. Milleveye asked him to retract his words or give reparation for them. M. Delcasse reaffirmed his words and refused to make reparation. A duel will probably result.

SEVERAL DEAD IN BAD WRECK.

Reading, Pa., May 13.—An accident happened on the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad at Exeter Station, five miles southeast of Reading. Full particulars of the disaster are as yet unknown, but it is known that at least five or six persons were killed and a large number injured.

The accident happened in this way. The train leaving Reading for Philadelphia was about a half hour late in leaving this place. At Exeter Station the train stopped for orders. A special train which left Harrisburg carrying excursionists from the Hartranft monument unveiling, ran into the first train with terrific force and fearful results.

The special was running at least forty miles an hour, and the crash as the engine plowed itself into the train in front, was terrific. Those who lost their lives were in the rear car of the waiting passenger train. The smash-up of the colliding locomotive and coaches was frightful.

The bodies of the dead were badly mangled, and the horrors of the scene were added to by the shrieks of the injured.

The exact cause of the accident is not known at this hour, but it is presumed that wrong signals were shown and that the second train signals were shown and that the second train had and that the second train had no notice that the first had come to a stop.

FORMER GOVERNOR FLOWER DEAD.

New York, May 13.—Former Governor Roswell P. Flower died suddenly at Eastport, L. I., in the house of the Long Island Country Club. Acute indigestion was said to be the cause, although the symptoms were at first regarded as those of apoplexy.

He had been at Easport for several days with a party of friends, and until yesterday appeared to be in his usual and high spirits. Not long after sunrise yesterday he complained of stomachic pains and a local physician was sent for.

The patient did not appear to respond to the treatment, and a dispatch was sent to New York for the family physician. All efforts to save his life proved unavailable and he died at 11 o'clock last night.

GRAIN SCOOPER'S STRIKE NOW ENDED.

Buffalo, May 13.—At a largely attended meeting in St. Bridget's Hall, the striking grain shovelers resolved to accept the proposition of William J. Conners submitted by the Lake Carriers' Association. They will abide by any action their committee of twelve may take toward making a binding agreement to this effect.

A preliminary conference was held at Bishop Quigley's residence. From there the Bishop, Father Cronin, Father O'Connell and Daniel J. Keefe and other labor leaders repaired to St. Bridget's Hall, where Bishop Quigley presided The settlement means that Conners retains his contract and Bishop Quigley will name a man to supervise the grain scooping in the interests of the men.

WASHINGTON HOTELS WIN A CASE.

Washington, May 13.—Judge Kimball, in the Police Court, decided that the sale of liquor on Sunday in Washington hotels was legal under the act of 1893. Congress at its recent session enacted a law prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday by makers, brewers, distillers or their agents, "or other persons or corporations," and a test case was brought, it being contended that the recent act repealed the law of 1893, which permitted the sale of liquors by hotels under certain conditions. Judge Kimball decided that the act of 1893, as it related to the sale of liquor in hotels on Sundays, was not repealed by the recent act.

AFRICAN AGREEMENT REACHED.

An important feature of the agreement provides for an equality in the commercial treatment of the territory between Lake Tchad and the Nile.

Death List May Reach Fifty.

Dallas, Tex., May 13.—Advices received from the scene of Wednesday night's cyclone in Northern Mexico say the number of bodies so far recovered is fourteen. The list of dead may reach fifty.

The cyclone swept the northern sections of the states of Nueva Leon and Coabuilsa, and extended nearly to the Texas border.

The Hondo and Sabinas coal mines were wrecked and much damage was done to property. The Mexican International Railway Depot at Hondo, the general offices, hotel and pumping station were demolished. Supt. McKinney was badly injured and his son, Lawrence, was killed.

A relief train, with surgeons and medical supplies, under charge of General Manager Johnson and traffic Superintendent Dickey, is trying to work its way over the road through the cycle-swept districts.

Telegraph wires are down and such general destruction wrought that reports are slow coming in, but the calamity is known, to be the worst that has visited Northern Mexico in years.

Put His Kiss Was a Fiction.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 13.—Just to excite their envy the prettiest girl in the high school senior class here told her girl classmates that Henry Miller, the handsome language teacher, had kissed her.

The matter created such excitement that the school and town were in a fury of gossip. The Board of Education, after an official investigation, announced that the girl had not been kissed.

The young man had excited the young women in his charge by his cool treatment of them. They discussed his looks and all expressed a desire to be kissed by him.

Several asserted that they would see that he did kiss them. The admiration of the girls was so open that the teacher became colder and colder, until finally came the report of the alleged success of the class beauty.

The local paper published a report of the kiss, mentioning no names. The board thereupon called the alleged principals of the affair before it, and the young woman confessed. A card was inserted in the local paper by the board stating that the kiss was a fiction.

The amount and kind of property owned by the corporation in the United States is declared to be as follows: Value of real estate, $450,000; value of leasehold, $22,500; value of farm colonies in fee, $49,250; value of farm colonies leasehold, $40,000; personal property, $183,500; local, $545,250. All the moneys received by the army are to be devoted to its religious, charitable, educational and missionary work.

Town Marshall Kills a Man.

Edwardsville, Ala., May 13.—D. R. Burgess a former United States Deputy Marshal, was shot five times and instantly killed by Town Marshal A. C. Sorrells. There was an old feud between the two men. Sorrells was employed by Burgess when Burgess was deputy marshal, and there was a misunderstanding about the pay. Sorrells resigned and was elected Town Marshal. Charges were filed against Burgess later, and he lost his place. He charged it to Sorrells, it is said.

The trouble originated when Sorrells threatened the arrest of a drunken man. Burgess went into a saloon, and thinking that he was going for a pistol, Sorrells shot him as he stopped and turned at the door. Sorrells ran into the Court House and the building is now surrounded. Burgess has a father and brother and a number of friends in Edwardsville, an das Sorrells is very popular, serious trouble is feared.

Reducing the Seal Herds.

San Francisco, May 12.—The coast seal herds are to be reduced without interference by the Government. The Treasury Department has indorsed the movement, and instructions have been issued to Commander Sebro of the Twelfth Lighthouse District, to allow the California Fish Commission to send deputies to the Farallons, Ano Nuevo, Point Reyes and other reservations for the purpose of killing seals, which prey upon the fish

San Francisco Harbor Defense.

San Francisco, May 13.—The defenses of this harbor are rapidly being strengthened. Eight of the sixteen new mortars on the bluffs back of old Fort Winfield Scott are already in position. The new mortars are 12 inch steel breech-loading weapons, throwing a shell weighing 1,000 pounds. A 12-inch rifle and disappearing carriage of the newest model are ready for shipment from the East.

Wool Combers Combine.

London, May 13.—A combination of Bradford wool combers has been formed with the object of putting a stop to the cutting of prices. It is rumored that a combination has been arranged comprising all of the British firms in the wall paper trade with a capital said to reach millions of pounds.

TROOPS ASK FOR RELIEF.

News Comes via Hong Kong That Nebraska Troops Have Memorialized MacArthur.

ARE BADLY EXHAUSTED

Many of the Boys Have Been Unable to Even Have Their Clothes Washed for Months.

Compelled to Wear Uniforms Night and Day in Order to be Ready for the Fighting—Officers State that Men Have Been Worked Beyond Endurance and Should be Given Relief.

Manila, May 8, via Hong Kong, May 13.—The First Regiment, Nebraska Volunteer Infantry, is taking the unusual step of respectfully petitioning the Division Commander, Major-Gen. MacArthur, to temporarily relieve them from duty at the front.

The regiment is badly exhausted by the campaign in which it has taken an active part, and not many more than three hundred men of the organization are at present fit for duty. On Sunday last 160 men of this regiment responded to sick call.

The men, in view of the facts, have prepared a respectful memorial to Gen. MacArthur asking that their regiment be withdrawn for a short time from the fighting line, in order that they may recuperate. The memorial states that the men are willing to fight, but are in no condition to do so owing to the strain of long marching, continual fighting and outpost duty in which they have been engaged.

It is added that many of the men have been unable to have their clothing washed for months past, having been compelled during all that time to sleep in their uniform to be in readiness for fighting. The memorial says that since Feb. 2 the regiment has lost 225 men in killed and wounded, and 59 since the battle of Malolos.

Officers of the regiment said that they thought that the men had been worked beyond endurance and should be given relief, some of the regular regiments which are now guarding the city being sent to the front.

The wounded were all suffering acutely and showed the effects of exposure to the sun when they arrived. Three days' rest has already worked wonders.

Since the army entered Malolos the soldiers have had little water to drink except that which was brought on railway trains from Manila, and that was of poor quality. The artesian wells at San Fernando are doing much toward making the men contented.

Hartranft's Statue Unveiled.

Harrisburg, May 13.—The unveiling of a handsome equestrian statue of Major-General John Frederic Hartranft in front of the Capitol was the occasion of a large assemblage of the veterans who fought under Hartranft during the Civil War. Among the distinguished guests were Secretary of War Alger, Major-General Nelson A. Miles, Postmaster-General Charles Emory Smith, Adjutant-General Corbin, General Kyd Douglass, the famous Confederate general, and others. The ceremonies incident to the unveiling too kplace in the presence of a great crowd.

What Carnegie Sold.

New York, May 13.—The Iron Trade Review publishes an official list of the properties turned over by Andrew Carnegie and H. C. Frick to the syndicate which will capitalize it at $500,000,000. It represents properties which last year turned out 17 per cent. of the pig iron product of the United States, and 22 per cent. of the bessemer steel production. The finished output for 1899 is figured at 2,500,000 tons.

Big Fire in Boston.

Boston, May 13.—The Brighton district of Boston had a scare when one of a block of a dozen unoccupied tenement houses was discovered to be on fire. Four alarms were sent in. The houses owned by George W. Hollis and J. A. Hahaway were destroyed. Assistance was received from Cambridge, Watertown and Newton.

Queer Bread.

The Swedes, as the people of Sweden are called, bake their rye bread only two or three times a year; and what a oaking it is, to be sure! It lasts for a week or more, and how busy every one is! They do not bake this bread in loaves, but they make it in flat cakes about the size of a dinner-plate with a large hole in the middle.

Artificial Wine.

About 250,000 gallons of artificial wine are being made from barley every year in a large factory in Hamburg. The medical profession in Germany thinks very highly of the wine, and recommends it in the hospitals of that country.

Clay Pipes.

The British museum contains a very full collection of clay pipes, dating back as far as the sixteenth century. The custom of waxing the pipe to prevent it sticking to the lips was introduced by the Dutch about the year 1700.

Destroying City Streets.

The manner in which the employes of the Plainfield Street Railway Company have left the roadbed of Grant avenue, after having gone along their tracks at that point and tore up the macadam to repair the rail joints, is an outrage. Grant avenue was recently repaired and put in splendid condition as to the surface of the roadbed, but no one would ever know it now that the Street Railway Company have done their work.

At short intervals all along the road where the tracks are laid the macadam has been replaced in a most shiftless manner, and the numerous bumps and deviations in the heretofore smooth surface makes it decidedly uncomfortable, if not dangerous, for bicyclists to use the thoroughfare. The city officials should see to it that when the Street Railway Company repair their tracks and tear up the city streets they should leave the road in as good condition as they found it.

The need of this repair work by the Street Railway Company is caused by the cheap and faulty construction of the road when it was originally built. When the franchise was first granted to the company it was on the distinct understanding that road should be built in a substantial manner, but instead of this it is shown by later developments that the road was put down in the cheapest possible manner. It was undoubtedly the intention of the stockholders to sell out their rights long ago to a bigger syndicate, but there plans went amiss. If they had worked out as they expected, however, this repair work would have had to be done by the new owners and in this way the blame would have been shifted from the ones upon whom it should fall.

It can be depended upon that President McKinley is leading a very quiet life on his western trip when the reporters that accompany him are compelled to devote their energies to such silly stories as the ones about having his trousers creased in a new style and adopting a different handshake from the one he has used for these many years in "swinging around the circle."

BRIGADIER GENERAL FRED FUNSTON.
The president has appointed Colonel Fred Funston of the Twentieth Kansas a brigadier general of volunteers. Next to Admiral Dewey Colonel Funston is the hero of the war in the Philippines. No obstacle has proved insurmountable to this intrepid leader. In front of his command he plunged into rivers when no bridge was at hand and, still leading, faced and silenced avalanches of lead.

The monumental nerve of the New Brunswick Home News is unparalleled. In referring to the fact that Newark merchants are desirous of securing more trade from Plainfield, the Home News says that "perhaps the Newark people are jealous of New Brunswick, which has made a bid for Plainfield trade by extending her trolley road up that way." Think of it!

The Syracuse Post-Standard sees signs of the end in Philippine campaign, and says: "If formidable and tinued resistance on the part of Aquinaldo were possible, Admiral Dewey would not now talk or think about New York banquets, and neither would the department at Washington make arrangements for the mustering out of the Philippine volunteers."

The Hoboken Health Board intends to adopt an anti-expectorating ordinance similar to that in effect in other cities. It will provide that no one will be allowed to spit in public conveyances, ferryhouses, public buildings, etc. It is said that this will be a hardship to the tobacco chewers in the City Hall.

It is announced that Colonel James Kilbourn, of Columbus, will stand as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor of Ohio. He is one of the leading manufacturers of the State and in accord with his party on all public questions.

Governor Voorhees has appointed the Elizabeth Journal as one of the papers in the State to publish the list of corporations delinquent in their taxes. In the language of the art preservative of arts is a job known as "phat."

Hear the "bloated-bondholders" of the corporations of New York State crying for corner before the Ford bill, as just a measure as was ever enacted!

The Union County Grand Jury is after some Plainfield coal dealers who, it is alleged, have fixed the standard weight of a ton of coal at 1,500 pounds. This is taking liberties with the old familiar table of avordupois weight, and deserves the severest condemnation on educational grounds, not to mention the fact that the bills were invariably rendered for a ton of 2,000 pounds.—Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

When the new timetable went into effect on the Central Railroad November 20th last, a new Philadelphia train was put on, leaving New York at 7:45 A. M. The train was scheduled to stop at Plainfield on signal to pick up passengers for Trenton and Philadelphia. But so far every morning since that train has been put on it has had to stop. The train men think that the company might just as well have it stop here regularly.

A beautiful illustrated postal card showing several scenes in Jerusalem, and dated that place, has just been received in this city by Rev. Dr. Lowry, of Madison avenue. It was sent to him by Mulford Estil, a member of the Honeyman party now travelling abroad. It is dated April 4th, and reads as follows: "I send you and Mrs. Lowry my Easter greeting from this wonderful city. As we stood upon the bank of the Jordan where our Saviour was baptised, we sang your beautiful hymn "Shall we Gather at the River." I am well and enjoying everything."

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 13.—At the meeting of the school board Thursday night the resignation of L. H. VanSyckle, superintendent of schools, was formally accepted. The resignation was accepted without comment or discussion, and takes effect at the end of the school year. His successor has not yet been appointed. The board also re-appointed the old teachers, Miss Fisher, Miss Wilgus, Miss Weatherwax and Miss Lloyd, to the Whittier school, and Miss Fannie Smith and Miss Fulper to the Lincoln school. Miss Fisher resigned, however, so another teacher will be appointed in her place. The meeting then adjourned.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Presbyterian church gave Rev. A. I. Martine, their pastor, a donation party last night. Mrs. Martine was in the secret, but her husband was not. The guests began to come soon after 8 o'clock, and when they were all there the tables were spread and a bountiful supper provided. There were all kinds of provisions, and cakes in abundance. When the people left, there was a good store of provisions in the preacher's kitchen, and they also left something more substantial—a purse of money.

The committee in charge of the Children's Day exercises in June in the Presbyterian church, consists of Rev. and Mrs. A. I. Martine, Mrs. T. C. Bodine and Mrs. L. Schneider.

The W. C. T. U. will celebrate their fifteenth anniversary tomorrow night by holding a union meeting in the Baptist church. Mrs. Bourne, State president, will make an address.

There will be a full celebration of the Holy Communion in Holy Innocents church tomorrow morning. Rev. C. E. Phelps, of New Brunswick, will officiate.

Rev. E. S. Jamison will give a special talk to the young folks of the Methodist Sunday-school tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Miss Annie Campbell, of Bedminster, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. J. N. Apgar, has returned to her home.

Miss Addie Fenner, of Pluckamin, has been spending the past week with her sister, Mrs. H. J. Swackhamer.

J. G. Taylor has rented a house in Plainfield, and expects to move there about June 1st.

Rev. L. E. Livermore, formerly of New Market, has been visiting friends in the borough.

Miss Mabel Jamison will leave Monday to spend a week with relatives in Boonton.

John Runyon and William H. Terry spent yesterday in Martinsville.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph spent Friday with relatives in Bound Brook.

Russel Carter, of Brooklyn, is visiting at Cedar Cottage.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, May 13—Work on the trolley extension is being pushed rapidly, and in a few days the contractors expect to have the road graded and ready for the laying of ties through to the Plainfield line.

Cedar, a valuable collie dog, the property of G. W. Marsh, died yesterday, after a very short and mysterious illness. He was a great pet of the family, always accompaning the children and watching after their safety.

The gypsies, encamped on Mountain avenue, continue to be the drawing attraction for the surrounding country. Tomorrow a large crowd is expected as this will probably be their last week in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Leoard Hyams and daughter, of New York, visited Mr. Hyams' mother, Mrs. Elias Hyams, yesterday.

The Christian Endeavor Juniors held one of their pleasant meetings in the Baptist church parlors yesterday afternoon.

Miss Johnston, of Tenafly, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Johnston.

Miss Emma Adams is visiting her parents in Middletown, N. Y., for a few days.

Mis Siedler, of New York, was the guest of friends in town yesterday.

C., Wednesday of next week.

Messrs. George B. Dickerson and M. A. Dewey, late members of the Seventh Regiment, of New York, are organizing a Boy's Brigade for Westfield and a large number of boys have been enrolled. The drills will be commenced sometime during the fore part of this month.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address.

WHITE SATIN TEA GOWN

Full Explanation of This Pretty and Effective Indoor Dress.

The indoor dress shown herewith is of white Liberty satin. It is made in the princess style. The corsage is cut low and round, and is slightly draped on each side over a front of white mousseline, de soie, across which is a St. Andrew's cross in English application insertion. Down the sides of the front run bands of bison fur, which are continued round the shoulders and down the skirt to the ground. The edge of the decollete is ornamented with English application insertion, bordered with scalloped ruches of white mousseline de soie. The sleeves are full length, and descend very low over the hands; they fit tightly and are ornamented at the shoulders with a sort of drapery, forming jockeys, which are cut by the fur trimming.

They are trimmed round the wrists with insertion and with gathered lace undersleeves, which fall over the hands. The skirt is long all round and has a short train. It fits very closely in the upper part round the sides and back, the front being quite flat. It increases gradually to about half way down, whence it develops into godets, extending to the bottom. The satin is ornamented with four rows of English application of equal width, which run round the sides in a downward direction, coming closer together at the back. The satin skirt opens over a broad gathered apron of white mousseline de soie over satin of the same color, which is ornamented with a St. Andrew's cross like that of the corsage, with the upper part prolonged into a square and the lower part running down to the bottom of the skirt. The fur trimming down the sides of the apron continued round the sides and back of the skirt. The waistband is of white satin, quite narrow, and is fastened in the centre, in front, by a large enamel buckle in the Byzantine style.

The Art of Crying.

"Very few women know how to cry properly," said a cold-blooded observer, "but if they realized how potent tears are as a weapon they would spare no pains in learning to shed them gracefully. As a rule brunettes cry much better than blondes. I call to mind, for instance, a very pretty little lady who was a litigant in court some years ago, and who wept when a certain portion of the testimony was reached. As the critical moment approached her eyes began to swim. They seemed to grow larger and darker, and they took on a wistful and appealing look that made every man in the jury box feel as if he wanted to climb right out and hit the plaintiff with a club. Her lips were quivering and presently two great tears rolled softly down her cheeks. That settled it. I was foreman of the jury, and we were exactly a minute and a half in giving her a verdict. Now, if that had happened to some other woman, equally worthy, but of lighter complexion, the chances are her nose would have turned pink and her eyes would have assumed a slightly inflamed appearance that would have been—er—very damaging to her cause. If she had sniffed, as they usually do, I can't say what the result might have been. A woman who can cry artistically can have anything she wants. I'm surprised it isn't taught, like Delsarte movements."

Queer Things Given to Queen Victoria.

Among the most curious of Her Majesty's perquisites is her right to every whale or sturgeon captured on the coast of the United Kingdom and brought to land. Both of these perquisites date back to the days of the Norman kings, and it appears that in the case of the whale the monsters were divided between the sovereign and his consort, the Queen taking the head, in order that her wardrobe might be replenished with the whalebone needed for the stiffening of her royal garments. Another of the Queen's perquisites is a certain number of magnificent cashmere shawls, which are dispatched to her every year from the Kingdom of Cashmere. They vary in value, as a rule, from $300 to $1,250 apiece, and the Queen is accustomed to present one of them as a wedding present to every young girl of the aristocracy in whose future she is in any way interested.

Japan was originally civilized by way of China; to-day Japan sends scholars and men of science to instruct the Chinese.

SUMMER GOODS.

Light Materials and Their Preferred Trimmings.

Batiste is much in favor for summer gowns and is shown in many varieties, the most attractive having printed flower designs in chine style, or bars, lines and other designs formed by openwork spaces like hemstitching or by heavy threads of silk.

Toile de soie and the new foulard merveilleux, which is a material between ordinary foulard and satin merveilleux, compose charming costumes, the preferred decoration being lace or guipure of an old ivory tint.

Baby ribbon forms tiny ruffles for the decoration of revers, yokes and collars, the little ruches made by shirring the ribbon being arranged to form designs in which silk cord or very fine, narrow passementerie also appears.

Jackets are short and are little trimmed. In bright colors, which are still fashionable for them, they finish a neutral tinted costume very prettily. Bright blue is, of course, the first choice, but green, purple, scarlet and white are also worn besides the delicate tones of mastic and gray. It frequently occurs that stitching of silk of a contrasting color is the sole ornamentation. For example, a little jacket of blue cloth, with a straight front, is bordered with lines of white stitching, which also designs a sort of yoke and stole effect, crossing the upper part of the sleeves.

The cut shows a costume for a girl of 12 years. The plain skirt is of green and white wool plaid, with threads of light blue. The redingote, of plain green wool, opens over a plaid plastron and has large revers of white satin bordered with little plaitings. The sleeves are plain, the collar and belt of light blue silk. The hat, of white straw, is trimmed with fawn feathers and blue and white fancy ribbons.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

CLINGING GOWNS.

Their Arrangement Is Modified to Suit the Figure.

The clinging costumes now in vogue are worn by every woman, whether she is robust or slender, but the arrangement of the gown is subtly varied by the skillful dressmaker according to the figure of the wearer. If she be slender but well rounded, the dress is kept quite smooth, without a plait or gather anywhere, but if there is a tendency to plumpness and too great rotundity of contour folds are introduced here and there to obscure the actual lines of the form.

One difficulty about these tight costumes is the fastening. Certain of the skirts fold over at the side, and these, of course, are closed under the fold. In the case of a redingote effect of trimming on a tight skirt, the fastening may be under the trimming where it runs up to the waist. The tunics and princess gowns often close in the middle of the back with buttons, lacings or even snap clasps.

The costume shown in today's illustration is of black silk. The trained skirt is cut with a redingote effect and trimmed with five scant circular ruffles which diminish to nothing in front. The ruffles are edged with yellow silk. The redingote opens over a tablier of yellow silk covered with black tulle embroidered with jet. The bolero has a triple collar and revers edged with yellow silk and loose inner parts also of yellow silk. The sleeves have three scant circular ruffles at the wrist, bordered with yellow silk, and the crossed chemisette is of embroidered tulle over yellow silk. The cravat is of white tulle, the hat of black straw trimmed with yellow tulle and golden brown feathers.

LOST ILLUSIONS.

I used to think that marionettes
Were people live and true;
That Judy and Punch and the baby dear
Were living people, too.
And now I know that they're only dolls
Which do what they're made to do.
But, oh, dear, nothing is half the fun
That it was before I knew!

THE MOUND BUILDERS.

The Very Peculiar Manner in Which They Buried Their Dead.

Several centuries ago the great plains along the rivers in the southern and central part of the United States were occupied by bands of people called now the Mound Builders. Their chief occupation was hunting and fishing, but what I wish to speak about is the way in which they buried their dead. They buried them with all their weapons, for they thought that when they got to the Happy Hunting Grounds they would want them. They did not bury their dead the way we do. But would sit them all up on the ground with all their possessions and cover them up with earth, and when more would die they would put them right on top of the others and cover them up with dirt, so in the course of years these mounds would grow until some of them would get to be more than a hundred feet high. Think of all the work it took to build these mounds, for all the dirt had to be brought in little baskets by the women and children. Don't you think that this was a curious way to bury their dead? About two miles from where we used to live there are two of these big mounds right on the banks of the river. We used to dig in them for arrow heads and pottery. In one of these mounds we found part of a tunnel, but this great race of people has passed away, leaving nothing but these huge mounds for us to remember them by. So our race will pass away, leaving nothing but the ruins of our vast buildings to mark where we have worked, lived and died.

Men and Women With Horns.

Villereuve, a French authority, has been at some pains to collect many instances of men and women who have had horns.

In the British Museum is the largest specimen of a human horn. It is eight inches in length and ornamented the head of a noble Englishman. In the seventeenth century a Mrs. Allen, of Leicestershire, England, had a pair of horns. Another Englishwoman of the same town, known as the beautiful Mary Davis, had a pair of horns, which were regarded as an addition to her charms. She had them cut off four times, but they grew again. One growth was presented to King Henry IV., of France.

In 1887 M. Lamprey relates he found in the African territory of Ganim several imposing types of horned men and women. One of these was a majestic-looking negro with two horns, which in his case sprang one from each side of the nose. A Mexican named Rodrigues is described as having a horn on the side of his head about seven inches long, with three branches.

There are cases of similar horns being found on dogs, horses and hares.

Malpigh calls such excrescences "a nervous prolongation of the skin." Bieschi calls them the result of a morbid secretion. They are in substance analogous to the horny growth of the human finger nails and the claws of beasts.

The Magical Knot.

A very amusing trick, consisting in simply tying one knot with two ends of a handkerchief, and, by apparently pulling the ends, untying them again.

Take two ends of the handkerchief, one in each hand, the ends dropping from the inside of your hands. You simply tie a single knot, when your hands and your handkerchief will be in the position shown in the cut. Instead of pulling the ends C and D, grasp that part marked B with your thumb and forefinger, dropping the end D, and pulling upon the end C and the bend B, when, instead of really tying, you unloosen the knot.

All this should be done as quickly as possible, to prevent detection. Examine the engraving closely, and you will more readily understand the explanation.

Speed of the House Fly.

When a common house fly is alarmed its rate of speed in flight amounts to over one hundred and fifty feet a second. In normal flight its wings make 800 beats a second, sending it through the air twenty-five feet in that space of time.

Pure Air.

Some scientists assert that the purest air in cities is found about twenty-five feet above the street surface.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Die Waarenausfuhr aus dem hiesigen Konsulatsbezirk nach den Ver. Staaten ist im letzten Vierteljahr um $42,266 gegen die gleiche Zeit des Vorjahres zurückgegangen. Die gesammte Ausfuhr betrug $213,028.—Der Verein Dresdener Lehrer hat in seiner letzten Versammlung die Erklärung angenommen, die Unentgeltlichkeit des Volksschulunterrichts und der Lehrmittel sei ein nothwendiges Korrelat des Schulzwanges. Der sächsische Landtag ist stets gegen diese Forderung gewesen; erklärte doch einst der Abgeordnete Konrektor Dr. Straumer die Unentgeltlichkeit des Unterrichts als eine unsittliche Forderung.

Freiberg. Die Ausländerfrage hat an der hiesigen Bergakademie folgende Verordnungen des königlichen Finanzministeriums gezeitigt. Auch von Ausländern, welche bisher ohne Aufnahmeprüfung zum Studium zugelassen wurden, wird in Zukunft für die Einschreibung als ordentliche Studirende ein dem deutschen Reifezeugniß gleich zu achtendes Zeugniß des Auslandes und für die Aufnahme als Hospitanten eine dem deutschen Berechtigungszeugnisse für den Einjährig-Freiwilligen-Dienst entsprechende Vorbildung verlangt; ferner haben Ausländer außer den Vorlesungs-Honoraren weitere 100 Mark für das Semester an die Akademiekasse zu zahlen.

Leipzig. Die Leipziger Sozialdemokraten haben sich den Beschlüssen der Landeskonferenz, der die Betheiligung an den sächsischen Landtagswahlen vorschreibt, nicht gefügt. Sie wollen, geführt von Schoenlank, an den Wahlen sich nicht betheiligen, weshalb der „Vorwärts" ihnen Bruch der Parteidisziplin vorwirft.

Poppitz. Innerhalb weniger Stunden starben die Ehefrau des Arbeiters Hentschel nebst drei Kindern, und zwar verschieden in Folge Diphtheritis ein vierjähriges und ein zweijähriges Kind, jedenfalls in Folge der gehabten Aufregung die Mutter der Kinder, und bald darauf dann noch ein circa einjähriges Kind.

Unterstützengrün. Unter dem Verdacht der versuchten Brandstiftung ist der 31 Jahre alte Sticker Groß verhaftet worden. Er soll im Hause des Stickereifabrikanten Falk, woselbst er arbeitete, einen Haufen Grummet vorsätzlich angezündet haben, um das Haus in Brand zu setzen.

Zittau. Ein Weber in Großschönau versuchte, seine Familie, Frau und neun Kinder, durch vergifteten Kaffee zu tödten. Der Thäter wurde verhaftet.

Thüringische Staaten.

Arnstadt. In dem Dorfe Gossel feierten Maurermeister Siebold und Frau das Fest der eisernen Hochzeit. Der Jubilar zählt 92 Jahre, die Frau 86 Jahre.

Gera. In der Wiede'schen Papierfabrik in Rosenthal bei Blankenstein sind durch eine Dampfkesselexplosion sieben Menschen getödtet worden.

Jena. Dieser Tage feierte die „Jenaische Zeitung," das älteste Blatt Thüringens und eines der ältesten Blätter Deutschlands überhaupt, das Jubiläum ihres 225jährigen Bestehens. Das Blatt befindet sich seit seiner Gründung ununterbrochen im Besitze der Familie Neuenhahn, die jetzt gerade 275 Jahre in Jena ansässig ist.

Koburg. Im nahen Dorfe Seidmannsdorf erstach der Korbmacher Karl Grosch seinen 24 Jahre alten Bruder Johann Grosch, mit dem er schon längere Zeit nicht im besten Einvernehmen lebte.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Der langjährige Generalkonsul der Republik Haiti, E. Nölting, ein sehr bekanntes Mitglied der Hamburger Kaufmannschaft, ist im Alter von 85 Jahren gestorben.—In große Lebensgefahr kam die Gattin des belgischen Generalkonsuls E. L. Behrens dadurch, daß die Pferde ihrer Equipage scheuten und durchgingen. Frau Behrens sprang aus dem Wagen und zog sich dabei schwere Verletzungen zu.

Bremen. Die erfreuliche Nothwendigkeit, bei der Stadt Bremen einen zweiten Freihafen zu bauen, ist jetzt eingetreten, nachdem sich der Verkehr im alten innerhalb der letzten zehn Jahre von 254,000 Gütertonnen auf 1,063,000 gehoben hat und das Anwachsen sich neuerdings beschleunigt. Die Deputation für Häfen und Eisenbahnen verlangt von Senat und Bürgerschaft 1,500,000 Mark als erste Rate. Da der Bau des ersten Freihafens rund 30,000,000 Mark gekostet hat, so wird man ungefähr abschätzen können, welche Summen beim zweiten in Frage kommen, zumal die Tiefe des zweiten Beckens noch erheblich größer werden soll, als die des ersten, um bei dem erfreulichen Erfolge der Unterweser-Korrektion noch größeren Schiffen als bisher den Zutritt zu gewähren.

Lübeck. Die Kaufmannschaft bewilligte 100,000 Mark für Bugsirdampfer und Hafenanlagen.

Oldenburg.

Ermke. Feuer zerstörte das Anwesen des Landmannes Grote. Nur das Vieh konnte gerettet werden, das todte Inventar verbrannte.

"No, sir. I heard Lady Tressidy say only this morning that even she hadn't been told. Mr. Wildred had some idea of a surprise, I believe, sir."

At Haslmere station they could only inform us that the party of which we were in search had had tickets for London, and had left about three-quarters of an hour before our arrival.

Even if we could have told our story with sufficient succintness to have Wildred met at Waterloo by the police there would have been no time to do so. We must simply follow as we could. Luckily there was a slow train due in a few moments, otherwise I think we (I at least) must have gone mad with the strain of waiting.

At Waterloo we heard of them. A porter had taken their luggage and put it on a cab. The gentleman and lady had driven away in a private carriage. What direction had been given to the coachman or the cabman he had not happened to hear.

I now proposed that Cunningham should proceed immediately to Scotland Yard, while I busied myself elsewhere. He was the one who could tell of the plot by which he had personated Farnham in America, by Wildreds desire and in the hope of obtaining a substantial bribe. The authorities were already in possession of such separate information as I could give, and now that they would learn from Cunningham how Farnham had never gone to America at all, a very different and more lurid light would be shed upon the past.

Meanwhile I would drve to Charing Cross and might yet be in time to intercept the couple if they were intending to depart for France.

At Charing Cross they had not appeared, and, hastening to a telegraph office, I sent messages containing Wildred's description and Karine's to every one of the principal railway stations in London. Replies were paid, and were to be received for me at Charing Cross Hotel. Having done so much, I drove to the piers from which the Holland boats sailed; then, having discovered nothing, back to Charing Cross again. The train which would catch the night boat at Dover was just about going out, but Wildred and Karine were not visible.

Meanwhile I would drive to Charing and gone I betook myself to the hotel, where my telegrams were to await me. I also looked for Cunningham, who was to have met me there, after Scotland Yard, and decided upon forthcoming arraignments. Dispatches were awaitng me from the head porters of the various stations—Victoria, Euston, Paddington and so on—but no Cunningham had as yet appeared.

I opened the message from Paddington last; the others had no news for me, but it seemed that at Paddington a lady and gentleman, apparently answering the description given, had taken tickets for Maidenhead. All the blood in my body seemed to mount to my head. Unless there had been a mistake in the identity, Wildred must have carried Karine off to the House by the Lock!

It was horrible to me that she should be there. The thought of the house and what I believed had happened to Harvey Farnham under its roof, was abhorrent. Why had he chosen to take his young bride, on the day of their marriage to that gloomy and accursed spot? A strange thrill of apprehension, vague, yet none the less dreadful, shook my nerves.

I consulted the latest A. B. C. timetable, which lay in the reading room of the hotel. In exactly an hour another train would leave Paddington for Maidenhead and Marlow (the nearest stations to Purley Lock), and after that there would not be another until 10 o'clock.

I should not have much more time to catch the former. If I intended to go by it—and I did intend to go. Exactly what I was to do, how I was to get Karine away from her husband, I did not dare stop to think, but somehow I would do it. So great was my dread of Wildred as a criminal, and my respect for him as a schemer, that I even feared dimly for Karine's safety with him. It was madness to entertain such a doubt, I assured myself, for, great heiress that she was, Karine was lovely enough and sweet enough to inspire genuine love even in so cold-hearted a villian as Widred.

He might tire of her in the end, but for the present her life at least, would be safe with him. So I repeated mentally, over and over again, but still I was pricked with a boding fear for more than her peace of mind. Why had he taken her to that grim, hateful house by the river?

I would have wished to wait for Cunningham, both because I wanted him with me, and because I was anxious to hear what he had done at Scotland Yard. However, he did not come, so I wired him to the latter place, left a short note for him also at the hotel to be kept till called for, and started off in a cab (when I dared delay no longer) at breakneck pace for Paddington station.

I just caught the train I wanted changed at Maidenhead, and arrived at Marlow by half past eight o'clock. This time I had neither leisure nor inclination to walk, as upon my first visit to the place on Christmas Day, but took a fly, and offered the man an extra fare if he would make haste.

I went up the path, knocked and rang the bell, which sent back jangling echoes, such as belongs in ones fancy to an uninhabited house. From a distant kennel a dog began to bay. Otherwise I was not answered, and as I rang and thundered on the knocker again, the animal's voice at length subsided into a protesting whine.

I ought by this time to have been sure that Wildred and Karine were not in the house, but, on the contrary, I was by no means certain of the fact. Mentally I argued that, if the master was absent, a caretaker would certainly have been left, and unless a stone-deaf person had been selected for the post my violent alarms would have brought him to me.

If any reason existed, however, why the door should not be opened, it would be easy to understand how and why the caretaker might be suddenly afflicted with an inability to hear.

Instead of being plunged into discouragement, an ever-kindling fire of rage mounted within me. Rather than go away ignorant as to whether Karine was hidden in this hateful house or not, I would force an entrance. I sprang down the steps and went to one of the bow windows nearest the door.

Not an instant's hesitations had I in kicking in one of the panes of glass, but, as it happened, I had only my trouble for my pains. There were solidly barred shutters inside, so heavy, that even I, strong man as I was could not break them open.

Furious now, I ran up to the door again, and drove my gloved fist through the glass in one of the curious six-inch window panes that ran the length of the door on either side. The shivered glass jingled sharply on the polished wood of the floor inside, and I thrust in my arm up to the elbow, hoping to get at the lock on the door within. As I did so footsteps came running in the distance.

"Here! here! What's the matter with you," cried an imperative voice.

I had heard it before I remembered. It was that of the eminently respectable looking servant, who had so cleverly defended his master's reputation on the occasion of my former visit to the House by the Lock.

"If you're a burglar," remarked the voice, "you'd better go away while you can. I have a revolver and my hand is on the trigger now."

"I am no burglar," I returned. "This is not exactly the time of night to expect such gentry, is it? But you've kept me waiting out here long enough. I wish to see your master and mistress, who I happen to know are here this evening, and I don't mean to go away without doing it."

The man inside chuckled.

"Nice way of amusing yourself, ain't it, sir? But as it happens you'll have to go elsewhere to see my master and the new mistress. I don't know where they are—it ain't likely I should—but I do know they aren't in this house, where there isn't a solitary soul but me. As for the time of night, that's neither here nor there so long as I'd chosen to go to bed; and I can't dress all of a minute to please anybody that likes to come banging at the door. You deserve to be had up for damaging the house, that you do, whoever you may be."

There was a ring of indignation in the voice, and for a few seconds' length I hesitated. Perhaps after all the fellow was telling the truth. I was very certain of his capacity for lying, but it might well be that Wildred and Karine had not really come here. Still—

Far away a door slammed sharply, and just in time to decide me.

My heart seemed to leap in my throat. I could feel the blood throbbing almost to bursting at my temples.

"You liar!" I roughly exclaimed. "They are here and I will see them, if I have to break the door down!"

"Try it, then!" the man cried tauntingly. "Just try it—and you may try all night. Ta, ta! Good by, and good luck to you!"

I heard his feet flapping along the uncovered floor as he ran away. Another door was opened and closed, and he was out of earshot.

Desperately I again endeavored to find the lock. It was no use. Thrust in my arm as far as I could, I could not touch it, and though I broke the narrow pane on the other side as well, the fastenings of the door were beyond my reach.

With all my strength I flung myself against the panels of the door, but the heavy wood stood firm as though it had been a sheet of iron. There was evidently no hope in that direction, and, dizzy with my own rage and desperation, I began attempting some of the windows. But all were secured bars inside, and it would have seemed that the inmates of the House of the Lock were prepared to stand a siege.

MY GIRL.

Her bright blue eyes, her golden hair
Her charming features all so fair
Entranced my heart.

Her winning ways, so debonair,
Her 'witching smiles, her saucy stare
Through me did dart.

And then I wondered, could it be
That such a prize was meant for me;
I scarce could realize.

So, fearful! trembling with dismay,
My fortune at her feet I lay,
And plead with deep emotion.

I waited then—'twixt hope and fear;
She spoke so low I scarce could hear,
I was in such commotion.

And blushing, she gave her sweet consent;
Modestly her eyes to ground were bent,
And now I was content.

Young men, I say, go do the same;
Life without wife is all too tame,
And weary years misspent.

NOT GUILTY.

The famous Lambton diamond threw back the light from its many facets and strange, brilliant colors shot from its depths. It was the finest stone I had ever set in my life.

The ring, now that it was finished, was fit even to adorn the hand of Lady Gwendolen Forrest, the beauty and heiress of the season. But I did not envy young Lord Lambton his fiancee; and as pretty as any in the land.

I was about to take the ring to Mr. Nugent when Nell herself ran in. She was my employer's daughter, and his house was upstairs over the large show-room in Clifford street. It was in my own Nell I had a girl as good against all custom for Nell to come down to my workshop, for her father disapproved our engagement. But today she had not been able to resist the temptation of having a peep at the Lambton diamond.

Just as she had slipped it on her finger, and was dancing about twisting her hand, that the marvelous stone might catch the light, the door opened and Mr. Nugent entered. I prepared to defend Nell from a harsh reprimand, but none came. Her father appeared oddly preoccupied, merely took the ring from her, examined it earnestly, and, snapping the lid of the case down upon it, placed it in his pocket and walked away.

Next day I was sitting at work when I saw a hansom drive up and Lord Lambton jump but. He came hastily into the showroom, which adjoined the one where I was sitting, and where Mr. Nugent was.

"Scoundrel!" I heard him say, and could scarcely believe my ears. "You thought to fool me easily by a false stone; but I am as good a judge of jewels as you are. You are a thief, sir! What have you done with the diamond I intrusted to you?"

I sat still. I understood very well that Lord Lambton had deliberately accused my employer of trying to palm off upon him an imitation diamond, yet I knew that I had set the true stone and delivered it to Mr. Nugent only yesterday.

My employer himself was a skilled workman, though not a good designer, and in the time that had elapsed between my handing him the ring and his transferring it to the owner he could have removed the stone and replaced it by another.

As I thus speculated on the astounding accusation, Mr. Nugent himself opened the door of the workroom. He looked keenly at me, as if wondering if it would be safe to trust me.

"Did you hear anything of what passed in the next room?" he questioned.

I admitted that I had.

"Of course, I shall be triumphantly acquitted," he announced, clearing his throat huskily as he spoke. "Still, Lord Lambton can make things disagreeable. And look here, Wade, I haven't always been as friendly to you as I might, but I can trust you. You'll be an important witness. Do what you can for me, for the girl's sake."

I was given no time to answer, for at that moment Lord Lambton returned with two Scotland Yard men. My employer was given into custody and taken to the police station to be charged, the detectives remaining to search the premises.

Mr. Nugent being a widower, with only one child, the management of the business practically devolved on me, and as the detectives ransacked the place, they put many questions to me as to where the stones were kept. The safes were all pointed out to them, but they seemed disappointed with their operations.

Late in the evening they came to me in the workroom, and holding out the ring that I had made for Lord Lambton, one of them said:

"This is your work, we understand. Is that the stone you set?"

I glanced at it, but I only replied: "I don't call myself an expert in precious stones, and all I can say is that this one precisely resembles in size, shape and appearance the one given me to set."

While this statement was practically true, that one glance had been enough to show me that I was not looking at the Lambton diamond.

I was about to lock up the place for the night, when Nell came in. It was the first time she had let me see her since her father had been taken away.

"There's something I must say to you," she panted—"something I've been wild to say all day lest it should be too late, but I dared not let any one suspect. A month ago father confided to me that he had lost a great deal of money—and he showed me how to open a secret drawer in his Chippendale bureau. 'If ever anything happen to me,' he said, 'don't lose a moment, but look into this drawer; throw away everything that you will find in the left-hand partition, and keep what may be in the right.'"

Together we ransacked the old bureau, and at length Nell touched the spring which opened the secret drawer. The light of the candle which I held struck out a gleam from a pile of exquisitely made false stones, which lay in a partition on the left hand, while on the right was the Lambton diamond.

"My poor father," she moaned, as I held her. "He is ruined forever—and I, too. The daughter of a convicted thief is no fit wife for an honest man."

"My darling! You are a wife for a king, and as for your father, I swear to you that I will save him yet."

Even as I spoke an idea had flashed into my head which startled me by its audacity. In a moment I had thought out every detail.

I made up the stones, Lambton diamond and all, into a packet, carefully closing the secret drawer, and contriving to get away without being seen, and went straight to my brother's house in Kent, managing to avoid the service of a subpoena. Thus I was not present at the police court proceedings.

Mr. Nugent was committed for trial, and meanwhile I stayed in the country, working each night in my locked room, with the tools I had brought with me, until the gray dawn filtered under my closed shutters.

When I saw my old employer in the dock at the trial I was shocked at the ghastly change which had come over him.

The evidence at first went steadily against him. Lord Lambton swore that the stone in the ring delivered to him by Mr. Nugent's own hand was not his diamond. One expert testified that not only was the stone he now saw not the Lambton diamond, but not a genuine jewel at all, but a marvelous imitation. Another was not so positive. Indeed, he was not prepared to swear that it was false.

Then I went into the box. I was very cool now, for the game I had determined on had cost me many a qualm of conscience. But I had no intention of cheating Lord Lambton, swearing falsely or tarnishing my personal honor.

The preliminary question of the prosecuting counsel brought out the fact that I had designed the ring's setting, and done all the work upon it.

"What sort of stone was it your employer gave you to set?" was the next question.

"An extremely valuable white diamond," I replied.

"Do you swear that you set the genuine stone, and delivered the ring when finished to the prisoner?"

"I do."

"Do you consider it possible that that stone might have been taken out and an imitation one substituted?"

"Certainly. But I could tell whether the ring had been tampered with since it left my hands."

"Take this then, examine it, and inform the court if that is the stone you set."

The ring was handed to me and a hush fell upon the court. The kind of lull which denotes that a vital point in a case has been reached.

I put my hand in my waistcoat pocket for my jeweler's glass, and the sharpest eye could not have seen that I also drew forth a new ring, made in the secret hours of night—an exact counterpart of the other, save that it contained the real Lambton diamond.

At length I returned the glass to my pocket, and with it the ring with the false stone. I could hear my own heart beating, but, handing to the court usher the new ring, said firmly in reply to the snappish "Well?" of the prosecuting counsel:

"I swear unhesitatingly that the setting of this ring has not been tampered with, and that this is the genuine diamond which was given me to set."

The doubting expert pricked up his ears, the prosecuting counsel, with Lord Lambton and the treasury solicitor, were whispering over the ring.

"M'lud," said the counsel, "I ask permission to recall the expert."

I stepped out of the box and the expert stepped in. The new ring was put into his hand, a friendly ray of sunshine lighting up the jewel.

"This is very remarkable," he said at last. "It's the first time I have ever made a mistake. This stone is genuine. I cannot doubt it."

And so the prisoner was free; but when the verdict of "Not guilty" was pronounced, a faint groan echoed it, and a dead man was taken from the dock. A spasm of the heart had proved fatal.

* * * * *

Six months later Nell and I were married. On our honeymoon we were walking in a lane near Ilfracombe when we came face to face with Lord Lambton, who was stopping with his bride in a neighboring country house.

"Ah, Mr. Wade!" he exclaimed. "I haven't seen you since that very mysterious case of mine. Do you know, I have always since thought of you—as—a very—clever man?"

"Thank you," I said quietly. "Will you allow me, my lord, to present you to my wife—the only daughter of the late Mr. Nugent."

Lord Lambton raised his hat, looked keenly at pretty Nell, shook hands with us both, and murmured:

"Ah, I understand!"

The law students of this city have organized a baseball nine again this year, and expect to challenge the lawyers to a game or a series of games through the season. William V. Nash has been elected captain and Charles McCann manager.

The students at the Rutgers Prep School, of New Brunswick, feel their defeat at baseball by the Plainfield High School very keenly and are making every effort to have their nine at its best when the return game is played in New Brunswick, Wednesday afternoon, May 24th. The Rutgers boys expected an easy thing when they came here and received an unexpected surprise when the local team defeated them. So they are particularly anxious to win the game that is to be played on the Brunswick diamond.

Aaron M. Powell Making an Address at Fatal Moment.

FAMOUS FOR REFORM WORK

NEWS OF THE DEATH CAUSES PROFOUND SORROW IN PLAINFIELD.

He Was Active in the Highest Walks of Life—A Noted Anti-Slavery Advocate Once and of Late Years Editor of the Philanthropist and a Public Speaker on Temperance and Other Great Subjects.

A sad fatality resulting in the death of Aaron M. Powell, the noted anti-slavery man, temperance worker and writer, residing at the corner of East Sixth and Washington streets, occurred in Philadelphia Saturday afternoon, and was a terrible shock to the ministers and elders in attendance upon the opening session of the Friends' yearly meeting being held at the Fifteenth and Race streets meeting house. The sad news reached this city Saturday evening at 10 o'clock, when Dr. Edward Rushmore, of Park avenue, received a telegram from G. Harold Powell of Philadelphia. Mr. and Mrs. Powell left Plainfield Saturday morning for Philadelphia to attend the meeting and Mr. Powell was in his usual good health.

Yesterday morning Dr. Rushmore received a letter from G. Harold Powell, which stated that Mr. Powell passed away suddenly and quietly just as began an address. The letter also stated that the body would be taken to Ghent, N. Y., today, where the funeral services and burial will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Powell will not return to Plainfield for several days.

Further particulars regarding Mr. Powell's death are as follows:

The meeting was nearly at an end, about 4 o'clock, when Mr. Powell, who was a visiting Friend, rose to address the meeting. He was apparently in good health, and spoke for a moment with much earnestness. Suddenly, and without warning, the aged speaker fell forward from his seat and lay unconscious. Aid was promptly given him, and Dr. Joseph Foulke was summoned. All efforts at resuscitation were futile, however, and the end came in a few moments. With him at the time of his death were his wife, Mrs. Anna M. Powell, and his sister Elizabeth Powell Bond, dean of Swarthmore College.

The suddenness of the affair greatly shocked those present, many being close personal friends of the dead man. The greatest excitement prevailed for a time, and the meeting was abruptly adjourned.

Mr. Powell was a member of the New York Monthly Meeting, and went to Philadelphia as an honored guest to the Yearly Meeting of the Hicksite Friends. He and his wife were guests of Samuel S. Ash, of No. 1717 Vine street, and the body was taken to that residence.

The news of Mr. Powell's sudden death was received at the Plainfield meeting of Friends yesterday morning, and it cast a gloom of sadness over all present. Although no action was taken at the meeting, no doubt the local members will suitably recognize the death of one who has been a leader and a guide for so many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Powell came to Plainfield from New York about twenty years ago and have lived here ever since. Mr. Powell was a native of Ghent, N. Y., where he has one brother living at present.

Mr. Powell was 67 years of age and was well known on this and the other side of the Atlantic on account of his association with the National Purity Alliance movement. He made a number of trips abroad where he met many of the most prominent men and women in foreign countries. He was graduated from the State Normal School at Albany, N. Y., and while a student his sympathies were enlisted in the anti-slavery movement. During the war, together with William Lloyd Garrison and Wendell Phillips, he was associated in the publication of the Anti Slavery Standard, which was later called the National Standard. He was also the moving spirit in the American Anti-Slavery Society. Mr. Powell was also a well known temperance worker and the National Purity Alliance, of which organization he was president. For several years he was editor of the Philanthropist, published in New York. Besides his editorial work Mr. Powell was a prolific writer on all topics relating to political and social reform subjects, contributing largely to various publications for a number of years.

He was married many years ago to Miss Anna M. Rice, of Worcester,

CLIMAX WON THE SHOOT.

OPENING OF CENTRAL NEW JERSEY TRAP SHOOTERS' LEAGUE.

Held at Dunellen Saturday Afternoon—Annual Election of Officers—Bound Brook Has Withdrawn—First Shoot Held (Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 15.—The drizzling rain of Saturday afternoon dampened neither the ardor nor the powder of the trap-shooters who gathered on the grounds of the Dunellen Gun Club to attend the first meeting for the year of the Central New Jersey Trap Shooters' League There was a good attendance.

The clubs represented were the home club, the Climax Gun Club, of Plainfield, the Reservoir Gun Club, of New Brunswick. The Bound Brook Club has decided not to join the League this year but its place will probably be filled by another club from New Brunswick where the interest in the sport is quite high.

The annual election of officers was held and resulted as follows: President, John Lindsey, of Dunellen; vice-president, Thomas H. Kellar, of New York; secretary and treasurer, R. Smith, of New Brunswick. The shoots will be held every other week. The next one will be at New Brunswick Saturday afternoon, May 27th.

T. H. Kellar, who was one of the organizers of the league, came out from New York, accompanied by his son, Hazlewood, to attend the shoot. As the Brunswick team was short one man, Mr. Kellar helped them out. The three teams, of five men each, shot a match at 25 targets each. The traps were fitted with new springs and the targets flew hard and fast. The grey skies made them hard to see so the scores were low.

The Climax team won by a total of 91. Dunellen was second with 85, and the Reservoir third with 81.

MET THE MAYOR.

Prospective Call Men in the Fire Department Presented Themselves.

Mayor Rockfellow met the applicants for positions of call men in the fire department Saturday night in his office, and talked with them about their duties as such. There were nearly thirty men present, a few more than the number needed. The men were instructed to hand in written applications to the Mayor not later than this noon, and these applications will be acted upon. The appointments will be made tonight at the council meeting.

It is not the intention of the Mayor and council to discharge the present chiefs, drivers and tenders, but to retain them, and appoint two or three more men, who, with those first mentioned, will be considered regulars. They will receive a stated salary of from $50 to $60 a month.

EPWORTH LEAGUE IS IN ITS TENTH YEAR.

Anniversary of the Great Methodist Society Celebrated.

SPECIAL SERVICES HELD.

MEMBERS OF THE LEAGUE IN CHARGE OF PROGRAMMES.

Celebrations Held in the First Methodist, Monroe Avenue and Grace Churches—In the Latter Church Visiting Members Were Present and Made Addresses About the Work of the League.

The tenth anniversary of the Epworth League of the First Methodist Episcopal church was celebrated last night. The exercises were held in the body of the church.

The members of the League were seated together in the front of the church, and at the opening of the service twenty-five members of the Junior Epworth League, under the charge of their superintendent, Miss Susie Davies, marched in singing, and took their place in front of the members of the older society.

Prayer was offered by H. A. McGee, and the Scripture lesson was read by Robert W. Davis, a former president. The programme also included four short addresses. The first was a historical sketch by Charles W. Sprague, the secretary of the society. He first gave a history of the Epworth League movement as a whole, and then very briefly reviewed the history of the chapter connected with the First M. E church. This League has now a membership of 106. This was followed by a summary of the department work of the League, given by the pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass. The president of the chapter, Harry Gee, spoke on "The Spiritual Aim of the Epworth League," and Miss Susie Davies followed with an address on "The Breadth and Intensity of the Epworth League as Expressed in Our Mottoes."

The exercises were closed with a prayer and song of consecration, expressing the desire to go on to still higher service in fighting the battles of their great Commander.

The tenth anniversary of the Epworth League was appropriately celebrated last evening at Grace M. E. church. E. E. Winckler, president of the local chapter, presided, and after the opening exercises, which included Scripture reading, an anthem by the choir, a vocal solo by Miss Carroll and a prayer by Hon. H. K. Carroll, he also gave a few words of welcome. Miss Uessing, of Cranford, third vice-president of the District League, was the first speaker introduced. Miss Uessing spoke of the growth of the league from twenty-seven members to a million and a half. She also related some touching personal incidents in connection with her Christian life.

F. B. Ham, of Westfield, who is first vice-president of the District League and chairman of the devotional committee, spoke of the growth in the league and how it could continue.

The last speaker was Miss Carlton, of Elizabeth, who is fourth vice-president of the District League, and chairman of the social committee. Her remarks were along the line of the necessity of individual growth in the love of Christ. Miss Carlton then conducted a short consecration service.

At the Monroe Avenue M. E. church the services were in charge of Edward Beekman, president of the Epworth League of that church. There was a large attendance of interested ones and the whole service was given up to the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the birth of the society. The history of the League was read by Mansfield Smith, and an address was delivered by Dr. Whitney. The singing was under the directing of William Tallamy.

HOW WOMEN AID IN THE WORK OF CHURCH.

Anniversary of Woman's Christian Work Society.

HELP TO TRINITY CHURCH

EIGHTEENTH YEAR STARTED UNDER AUSPICIOUS CIRCUMSTANCES.

In His Sermon for the Occasion Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck Dwelt Particularly on the Condition of Women of Today and What Valuable Workers They Are for Christianity—Reports of Officers.

The Woman's Christian Work Society of the Trinity Reformed church celebrated its eighteenth anniversary last night, and listened to an address from its pastor. Reports of the secretary and treasurer were presented, and those showed something of the work done by the women of Trinity Reformed church during the past twelve months.

Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph D., used as the subject for his remarks the different conditions of woman now, as compared to their state before the birth of Christ. He spoke of the degraded lives females used to endure in lands not accustomed to the civilizing influences of the Gospel, and said that even today in heathen lands they do not occupy the exalted station of American and English women.

Mr. Schenck also alluded to the value of woman in the church. She is better adapted for some kinds of work than man, and her social position adds to her usefulness. He ended by urging the women of the Christian Work Society to redouble their efforts along those lines already mapped out by them.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. A. L. Marshall, gives an idea of what the society has been doing during the past year. It was as follows:

Another year has rolled away and again we meet to celebrate the anniversary of the society. The past year has been a prosperous one and it is with pleasure that we look back at the work which has been done, and the help we have given to others for the Master's sake.

During the year four new members have been added. One has resigned for other fields. The "Angel of Death" has entered our midst and taken from us one of our faithful and earnest workers. The meetings of the society were held once a month in the ladies' parlor. We have a membership of 52 active and 8 honorary members, average attendance 22. The Devotional committee has been engaged in furnishing leaders for the half-hour prayer service each month.

The Missionary committee have collected from the 5-cent-a-month plan $63.10, which was equally divided between foreign and domestic missions. A number of silk bags were donated by a friend of the society which were sold. The proceeds went to missions. A box of clothing, kitchen utensils and canned fruit was sent to Rev. Stegernan in the West, valued at $86.40. A parcel of clothing was sent to the Schofield school in South Carolina, valued at $25. A sewing class committee collected quite a little money, which was used for garments for the missionary box. A very handsome comfortable was pieced and finished by the ladies for this same box. The visiting committee have made 192 calls during the year on the sick and new members of the church. Social committee gave an entertainment in October called the birthday social and realized $94.50. In December the committee canvassed the ladies of the church for 10 cents donation and realized $14.90. In January they gave the usual annual supper and realized $189.

The society gave the consistory $50 toward the running expenses of the church. The usual amount of $5 was donated to the W. C. T. U. Chairman of the sewing guild received 22 garments, 20 of which were returned for the Mission box. The flower committee have worked very faithful and we are sure we have the voice of the congregation when we say the church was handsomely decorated on special occasions.

All of our committees have worked faithful. And have we not cause for encouragement? Let us strive for still greater things and be faithful to him who said "inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me"

Respectfully sunmitted,
MRS. A. L. MARSHALL,
Secretary.

The report of the treasurer, Mrs. O. W. Dunham, was read by the pastor,

FINED $100 FOR FISHING.

BOYS CATCHING SHAD ILLEGALLY IN THE RARITAN RIVER.

Game Warden Miller Makes the Arrest But Previously Had Let Two Men go—Boys Were Released Under Bail. (Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, May 15.—Under the law of 1896 fishing with hook lines or nets is prohibited 900 feet below or above the dam in the Raritan River one mile south of Bound Brook. Many shad are caught in the Raritan at this time of the year and many fishing parties have tried their luck the past week. Early the past week George Miller, of Finderne, the new Fish and Game Warden of Somerset county, caught Charles R. Brokaw and Edward F. Brady fishing with a net for shad within 100 feet of the dam. He warned them to desist and let them go.

Later in the week he found Field Garretson and Fred Coleman, both twelve years old, trying to secure a mess of fish for breakfast, by actual measurement, 893 feet from the dam, although there is no stake or mark to show the lawful fishing line. Miller arrested the boys on a warrant and took them before Justice Sutphin, in Somerville.

Edward S. Fisher, the boys' counsel, showed by the testimony of Fish Warden Miller that he did not know really know how far from the dam the boys were fishing, but Justice Sutphin convicted the boys and fined them $100 each, in default of payment of which he sent them to the County Jail for three months.

Fisher took an appeal to the Somerset Common Pleas, and the boys were released under bail on the order of Judge Bartine.

IN THEIR OWN CHURCH.

Calvary Baptist Edifice Worshipped in for the First Time.

Although their new stone church on Central avenue is not quite finished yet, the members of the Calvary Baptist church worshipped there yesterday for the first time. The services were held in the Sunday-school room, in the basement of the church, which is finished.

The windows are still to be put in the church part, and a little work will have to be done about the walls. This work is expected to be finished by Sunday.

The members of the church have already paid $1,100 to Contractor Smith, as per agreement, and will borrow $3,000 more for a period of eleven years.

The sermons yesterday were preached by the pastor, Rev. Scott Wallace, in the morning, and by Rev. E. E. Jackson, of Mt. Olive Baptist church, in the afternoon, and by Rev. J. A. Harris, of Orange, in the evening.

CHARMING MAY TEA.

Miss Alice Thompson Entertained in Honor of an Easter Bride.

One of the most delightful teas of the spring time was given Saturday afternoon by Miss Alice Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson, of Rockview Terrace. The tea was given in honor of Mrs. Edmund Rushmore, a bride of Easter week. The house were artistically decorated with roses, the effect of which combined with the light gowns of the young girls made a veritable springtime scene.

Miss Alice Thompson and Mrs. Rushmore received the guests in the parlor, assisted by Mrs. David Thompson, the Misses Emily and Mary Thompson, sisters of the hostess, and the Misses Clapp, Wells, Schroeder and Beardsley, of Berkley Heights. In the dining room Mrs. Samuel St. J. McCutchen and Mrs. Charles Reed presided at the table, assisted by the Misses Horne, Barlow, VanDeventer, Anderson and Alice Rushmore.

DISASTROUS DEFEAT IN DRIZZLING RAIN.

The Plainfield High School Boys Were Demoralized.

A SCORE OF SPECTATORS.

NEWARK BOYS WON GAME BY A SCORE OF 20 TO 8.

Poor Exhibition of Baseball on Muddy Oval—Game Was Played in the Rain—Local Infield Collapsed—Edwards Hit Very Freely at Times—The Plainfield Boys Couldn't Bat—Were Demoralized.

Before a single score of spectators and in a drizzling rain, the Plainfield High School received a sound drubbing at the hands of the Newark School nine Saturday afternoon at the Crescent Oval. It was by far the worst exhibition of baseball that the High School boys have given. The Newark team won by a score of 20 to 8.

The day was a very unsatisfactory one for baseball. The Newark boys considered the question and finally decided to come. After they reached the Oval it began to rain quite heavily. Only a few spectators reached the grounds before the downpour. Manager Fisher, of the Plainfield nine, decided to call the game off, but when there were signs of a letup it was decided to have some kind of a game as long as both teams were there. The ground was wet and slippery and half the game was played in the rain.

Whether it was the wet and slimy ball or the general unpropitiousness of the weather, it is hard to tell. At any rate the local players were completely demoralized. Both teams played a sluggish game at the start, but the visitors braced up as the game progressed and they won without any trouble.

Edwards did not pitch his usual excellent game. The visitors batted him freely. In the sixth inning they fell upon him with much ardor and scored seven runs. They repeated the operation in the ninth. Besides Edwards' poor work the Plainfield infield, so strong, usually, couldn't seem to stop. Ball after ball went through Fisher, the crack shortstop. Craig, at third, wasn't able to hold anything. Everybody seemed to have an off day and there was a host of errors in consequence.

Despite his weakness Edwards managed to strike out ten men. The Plainfielders lost their knack of batting and were not able to run bases when they did reach first. The team did not seem like the same one that played Newark Academy a week ago. An effort will be made to get the Newark High School team to come again and give the local boys a chance to recover their lost honors.

The High School was represented by the usual team. Edwards and Squires were the battery, with Morgan, Mason and Craig on the bases and Fisher at short. Radford, Droll and Miller were in the field. Charles Mumford umpired the game.

IT CAN'T BE DONE.

No One Can Remain Well, No Chronic Disease Can be Cured Unless the Stomach is First Made Strong and Vigorous.

This is plain because every organ in the body depends on the stomach for its nourishment. Nerve, bone, sinew, blood are made from the food which the stomach converts to our use.

How useless to treat disease with this, that and the other remedy and neglect the most important of all, the stomach.

The earliest symptons of indigestion are sour risings, bad taste in the mouth, gas in stomach and bowels, palpitation, all-gone feeling, faintness, headaches, constipation; later comes loss of flesh, consumption, liver and heart troubles, kidney diseases, nervous prostration, all of which are the indirect result of poor nutrition.

Any person suffering from indigestion should make it a practice to take after each meal one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing it to dissolve in the mouth and thus mingle with the saliva and enter the stomach in the most natural way. These Tablets are highly recommended by Dr. Jennison because they are composed of the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which assist the stomach in digesting all wholesome food before it has time to ferment and sour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists, full sized packages at 50 cents. They are also excellent for invalids and children. A book on stomach diseases and thousands of testimonials of genuine cures sent free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

Orrell, Harry, Philadelphia; engineer of the second train.
Everett, W. L., Philadelphia, fireman of the second train.

The express train for Philadelphia was about half an hour late in leaving. Meantime many passengers on the train from Harrisburg went aboard the Philadelphia Express train while it stood in the station at Reading, but the number of Harrisburg passengers being too great to be accommodated on the express train, it was decided to send an extra rain to Philadelphia to run as a second section to the express.

The extraordinary travel from Harrisburg was due to the number of people who went to the State capital to witness the exercises connected with the unveiling of the Hartranft Monument. The second section left here about twenty minutes after the express train had departed.

At Exeter station the first train stopped for orders, and while standing still was crashed into by the second section with terrific force the latter train at the time running at great speed. The locomotive ploughed clear through the two rear cars, reducing them to splinters, and then mounted the end of the third car from the rear. The first car of the second train was also wrecked.

The havoc wrought to the occupants of these cars was appalling. Many were crushed to death instantly, while others were mangled and maimed in a horrible manner. Norristown was the home of the late Gov. Hartranft, and many of that town had gone to Harrisburg to do honor to his memory by participating in the unveiling of the monument.

The first train consisted of two express cars, a mail and baggage car, a combination car, two day coaches, a parlor car and a day coach in the order mentioned. The second train consisted of the Sixth Regiment, National Guards, whose headquarters are at Norristown, and another car contained members of the Montgomery Hose Company, of Norristown.

The other four cars had regular passengers, including about twenty survivors of the Fifty-first Pennsylvania Volunteers, Hartfrandt's old command. Upon recovering from the effects of the shock those who escaped injury, or who had been injured but slightly, set to work to rescue their more unfortunate fellow passengers.

Telegrams were hastily sent to Reading for assistance and two relief trains with surgeons and nurses were despatched to the scene. Medical aid was promptly rendered to the injured upon the arrival of these trains at the scene, and those who could be removed were placed on trains and brought to the hospitals here. The bodies of twenty dead were also brought here.

The signal man should have displayed the red and green signal for the special, but it is said he failed to do so; whether on account of the signal failing to work or not, is not known.

While the express was standing on the tracks the crowded special came thundering along. On account of a curve the engineer of the special could not see the train standing on the tracks ahead of him until too late. The special tore into the express with a crash, and shrieks of agony filled the air.

The railroad at the scene of the accident runs over a hollow, and the embankment on which are the tracks is about fifty feet high.

Several passengers were hurled to the bottom of the embankment, but the cars all remained on the roadbed.

Gen. E. Burd Grubb, of New Jersey, former United States Minister to Greece, and United States Senator Bois Penrose, of Philadelphia, were among the passengers on the Pullman car, on the first rain. Both were badly shaken up, but neither sustained any injury. Senator Penrose, when questioned by a reporter regarding the accident, said:

"When the crash came I thuoght we would have been all killed. It was a terrific crash; people were thrown in all directions, and those who were not injured by broken wood were more or less injured by being bumped against the sides of the cars. The scene was a most distressing one, and I shall never forget it."

Philadelphia, May 14.—The Pottsville express, which was run into at Exeter arrived here after midnight with a few of the injured. They were:

Barney, B., Philadelphia, arm and hip badly crushed.

Beaver, C., Philadelphia, arm bruised and head cut.

Kucker, George W., Common Councilman of the Twentieth Ward, this city, injured about the legs.

Steinbeck, Francis T., Camden, N. J., cut about the head and bruised about the body.

Three cars of the ill-fated second section which crashed into the first section of the "Cannon Ball" express train at Exeter arrived here with a large number of the injured and others who escaped injury. Some of the injured were taken off at Potstown, and fifteen were removed to hospitals at Norristown. While the train was standing at the latter place two of the injured expired before they could be removed. Their names were not learned.

When the train arrived here there were on board Harry Orrell, the engineer of the second train; his fireman, W. L. Everett, both of whom were hurt. There were also on the train half a dozen of the uninjured passengers, all residents of this city.

The railroad employees warmly congratulated the engineer and fireman on their miraculous escape from death. As the oil-begrimed railroaders shook hands tears came to the eyes of many of them. Orrell had been reported dead but the only injury he received was a scalp wound. His head was bandaged and blood covered his face, hands and clothing. His fireman was slightly injured about the back.

Orrell said he could not account for the accident. He said:

"We left Reading a little late. We were going at the rate of between thirty-five and forty miles an hour, and everything appeared to be all right. Just before reaching Exeter there is a curve. After we had rounded it and had straightened out I was horrified to see loom up a few hundred yards ahead the first section.

"I instantly reversed the lever, but before I could stop the engine we went into the rear of the train ahead with a terrible crash. My engine ploughed through the day coach which in turn crashed half way through the coach in front of it.

"I did not know where I was for a time but finally discovered myself imprisoned among twisted iron, splintered wood and broken glass. I got out of the wreck unaided. How I escaped without more serious injury I cannot tell. I do not know how many are dead and injured, but they tell me the number is large."

Orrell and Everett were taken to the hospital where their injuries were dressed.

Everett escaped serious injury by jumping from the rear of the tender.

WILL MEET DEWEY

Ships of North Atlantic Squadron to Accompany the Olympia From Newfoundland Banks to New York.

Washington, May 15.—It is intended by the Navy Department that Rear Admiral Sampson and the ships of the North Atlantic Squadron shall meet Admiral Dewey and the Olympia off the Newfoundland banks and escort Dewey the rest of the way to New York.

The squadron of reception will probably consist of the cruisers New York and Brooklyn and the battleships Indiana, Texas and Massachusetts and possibly the cruiser Buffalo.

Thus the two notable commanders of the naval operations in the war with Spain will meet, and every ship save the Massachusetts and Buffalo, will sail into New York Harbor with a proud war record to add to the distinction of the escort.

It is hoped that the Olympia will succeed in reaching here by July 4, so that the day will be one of the most notable of all the Nation's holidays.

Secretary Long has directed the Admiral to turn the comand over to Captain Barker, of the Oregon.

It is possible that Dewey will sail on Monday. He will go to Hong Kong first, stay there four days to have the Olympia's botto mcleaned. Then he will sail home by way of Singapore, Colombo, Port Said, Gibraltar and the Azores.

No Soldiers Left Penniless in Porto Rico.

Washington, May 15.—After having an investigation made of the reports from Porto Rico that United States volunteers had been discharged there and left penniless, Adjt.-Gen. Corbin said that some of the volunteers had been discharged in Porto Rico at their own request. These men, he said, had received travel pay to the United States in every case a considerable amount, and if they were penniless it was because they had squandered the money. The War Department, however, has no information to confirm the reports of distress among these men, and the Adjutant-General has telegraphed an inquiry on the subject to Brig.-Gen. George W. Davis, commanding the Department of Porto Rico.

Bank Robbers Secure $3,600 in Iowa.

Webster City, Ia., May 15—The State Bank of Ellsworth, in Hamilton County, was entered by several men, who blew open a safe, secured $3,685 and escaped. They stole a team and light buggy, which were later found three miles from Ellsworth. The bank officials have offered a reward of $1,000 for the arrest of the men.

FEELING IN CUBAN ARMY.

Soldiers Do Not Want to Give Up Their Arms When They Are Paid.

GOMEZ IS VERY ANGRY.

The Publication of Gen. Brooke's Terms of Distribution Raised a Howl From the Army.

Cuban Generals Pass Resolutions to the Effect That It Would Be Shameful for Cubans to Surrender Arms for a Monetary Consideration—Gomez Declares That the Army Must Keep Their Arms.

Havana, May 15.—The situation here with reference to the distribution of the $3,000,000 among the Cuban soldiers has reached a crisis, and the relations between Gen. Brooke and Gen Gomez are strained to the point of breaking. The Cuban Generals appointed to serve with the American officers in the distribution of the money refuse now to serve and there is danger of a nasty entanglement. Gen. Brooke, however, is handling the matter with tact and in a spirit of conciliation, and it is anticipated by the military authorities that the tangle will be unraveled within a few days without serious consequeneces.

The stumbling block in the negotiations is the question of giving up arms. By the terms of the agreement drafted by Gen. Brooke each man turning in his arms and equipment is to get $75. Gen. Gomez agreed to this and appointed Cuban officers to co-operate in the distribution of the money. Then came the trouble. The publication of the terms of the distribution raised a howl from the army element, and the cry was taken up by the Havana press that the laying down of arms was dishonorable. The news went by wire throughout the provinces, and from the interior, especially from Santiago, came mutterings of discontent. Although the terms did not say definitely that "arms" meant rifles and that they must be given up in order to get the money, the conditions were so interpreted and warnings of trouble came when Generals Betancourt, Monteagudo and Nodarse, offering one excuse or another, refused to serve, and others followed their example. At a meeting of Cuban Generals they all decided to refuse to take part in the distribution of the money.

In the meantime Gen. Gomez had his ear to the ground. He heard the words of discontent in the army and knew that popular sentiment was against him. He had failed in his scheme to form a militia, to raise up a new army in place of the old one, over which he would have command, and when the storm broke he went to the army's side. Now he finds his former bitter enemies, the Generals of the Assembly, standing with him once more in opposition to the American military government.

Gen. Brooke denies that there is any friction between himself and Gomez, but Gomez openly asserts and La Lucha his organ, semi-officially publishes the statement that he is angry at Gen. Brooke, and that he is preparing a proclamation embodying all the negotiations concerning the payment of the troops.

The meeting of the Cuban Generals was held at the Quinta de los Molinos. The Generals were all Gomez's friends. They passed resolutions to the effect that it would be shameful for the Cubans to surrender their arms for a monetary consideration. A copy of the resolutions were sent to Gen. Brooke. Later Major Kennon went to the Quinta with a message from Gen. Brooke, explaining that the American Government must have the arms of the Cuban soldiers, but Gomez might arrange the other details.

Upon the receipt of this communication Gomez declared that Gen. Brooke had been constantly an obstacle to his (Gomez's) policy of peace. He had been called to Havana by President McKinley, and came expecting to exercise authority and have his advice followed. Gen. Brooke, he said, had stood in his way, and the public offices had been given to the enemies of peace an concord. The Civil Governor of Havana should have been Gen. Emilo Nunez lon gago, but he was not yet appointed.

"I am not disposed," he continued, "to continue this situation when the public offices are given to the enemies of peace and my advice is not heeded."

Gen. Gomez declared firmly that the army should keep their arms as trophies of their glory. Gomez is now draughting his manifesto.

In the camp of Gomez's opponents the feeling is even more outspoken. Gen. Mayi Rodriguez received a telegram from the veterans of Santiago declaring that they would not lay down their arms. Rodriguez answered that a meeting of the Veterans' Association of Havana would be held to decide what should be done. The meeting will be held in the house in which the Cuban Assembly met, and certainly will be a fiery one.

Gen. Gomez narrowly escaped arrest for interfering with an American policeman who was arresting a Cuban. The American did not know Gomez, who persisted in his interference, and was taking himto the station house, when a Cuban Lieutenant of Police came up and caused his release.

Bandits are committing frequent outrages in the Puerto Principe province. A despatch to La Lucha says that two merchants, Isidro Fernandez and Juan Parrado, were murdered by bandits near Puerto Principe city, and their money and jewelry taken. Bandits in great numbers are reported along the borders of Santiago province. A party of 200 American cavalry with a detachment of the rural Cuban guard has started for Puerto Principe to suppress the bandits. The American force took along fifty mules and six wagons loaded with provisions, fearing that the campaign against the bandits may be a long one.

The commission appointed to visit Washington in the interest of the mortgagees, composed of Drs. Ignacio Ramirez, Fidel G. Pierra, Aquilino Ordonez and Emilio Junio, lawyers, and a number of influential business men, will leave to day.

"I am cashier in a large Philadelphia grocery store and taste everything that comes along," writes a young lady who requests that her name shall not be given. "I have suffered from dyspepsia," she adds, "for twelve years. I first had heartburn and afterward typhoid fever. Have suffered a living death, taking all kinds of medicine, and all for no good. I have been so bad that I would almost go out of my mind. Life was not really worth living. I bore it until I was taken with typhoid a second time. While in Cincinnati the doctor there said I had a fourteenth stomach. I could not keep medicine on my stomach, so I came home. I had been taking doctor's medicine ever since last June. Some weeks ago I saw the Ripans Tabule ad in the Philadelphia Record and determined to try them, 'till or cure.' Now I am able to eat a great many things in moderation that I had not touched for years. With the distress there used to come a bunch of flesh that appeared just where the ribs come together. Nothing seemed to prevent its coming. It would burst anything I put on, and it had a heavy, distressed, dull feeling for about thirty minutes, then disappeared as quickly as it came. The inside of my stomach seemed like a big ulcer that gathered and broke and then gathered again. At times I would have a feeling as the winding of a clock. I also had a very bad skin, which was of a mean color and I have been told I was of the color of a dead chicken. I am thirty-two years old and if I live to be a hundred I will always take Ripans Tabules as long as I can buy them. By using them I have gained twenty-two pounds since I recovered from the fever, and can fill my position just as well as any of the other cashiers."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES packed in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (60 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, [illegible] Spruce Street, New York. A single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. RIPANS TABULES may be said ahead of some grocers, general storekeepers, news agents and at some liquor stores and barber shops. They banish pain, induce sleep and prolong life. One gives relief.

DR. BRIGGS ORDAINED A PRIEST.

New York, May 15.—Dr. Charles Augustus Briggs, who was suspended for heresy by the Presbyterian Church, was ordained a priest of the Episcopal Church in the Pro-Cathedral, in Stanton street, by Bishop Potter. There was no protest of any kind presented in answer to the Bishop's formal challenge. The Rev. Charles A. Snedeker was advanced to the priesthood at the same time.

Before the service began the Bishop gave to the newspapers a statement of his position in the case wherein he said he had no sufficient reason for refusing to ordain Dr. Briggs, and declared that the outcry against the doctor's book was to be deplored chiefly because "it betrays such a lamentable ignorance of the the progress of sound learning and the judgment of the best Christian scholars"—phrases regarded by many of his hearers as meant for Bishop Nicholson, of Milwaukee; Prof. Richey, of the General Theological Seminary; Dr. Clendenin, of St. Peter's, Westchester; Dr. De Costa, of the Church of St. John, the Evangelist; the Rev. Aban Richey, of Trinity Chapel; Dr. Van Winkle, of St. Clement's, and many other men prominent in the ranks of the Episcopal clergy

FIERCE MOB FIGHTS AT PITTSBURG.

Pittsburg, May 15.—Penn avenue and Twenty-second street was the scene of a riot which threatened for a time to result seriously. A Consolidated Traction car struck and horribly mangled Katie Three, a Polish child. While the body was being taken from under the car a crowd of several hundred, principally Poles, gathered and became so insensed at the sight that they attacked the motorman and conductor, with the intention of killing them. By this time the patrol wagon arrived, and one of the officers jumped onto the car and succeeded in getting the occupants out of danger.

Michael Bigge, another policeman, was then pounced upon and badly beaten. He succeeded in holding on to one of the ringleaders until a squad of reserves came to his rescue. When the officers attempted to put the arrested man into the wagon the mob made a dash to rescue him, and a desperate battle followed, lasting half an hour, by which time the reinforcements arrived, and the rioters were dispersed, many of them being roughly used. Five of the ringleaders were arrested.

A BROTHER AVENGES ASSAULT ON HIS SISTEP.

Bridgeport, May 15.—For attempting to assault the daughter of Antonio Cabazzi, a child five years old, Louis Mannot, an Italian 44 years old, was shot to death by the girl's brother, who, upon being informed by his sister of her experience, swore to have the life of her assailant before sunset. Her father and brother started out. The two found Mannot in a barroom in Lexington avenue. The father invited Mannot to drink. They left the place together, and had gone only a few steps when the son took a revolver from his pocket and fired three shots. One entered Mannot's heart, causing almost instant death. Young Cabazzi was arrested. He acknowledged his guilt, and says he is glad he shot the man.

IRVING STRICKEN; NOW SERIOUSLY ILL.

London, May 15.—Sir Henry Irving, whose recent work in the title role of Sardou's drama, "Robespierre," at the Lyceum Theatre, has been exceedingly trying, was taken seriously ill with an affectation of the throat. Dr. Fara, a specialist, immediately was sent for, and, as the result of his advice, it is announced that Sir Henry's part for the present week will be taken by his son Lawrence. The announcement of the illness brought a large number of professional callers to Sir Henry Irving's home in Grafton street, but his medical adviser has forbidden him to receive any one at present.

BOERS ARE READY TO GO TO WAR.

London, May 15.—The Cape Town correspondent of the Daily Mail says: "At a meeting of the commandants of the western border of the Transvaal, instructions from Pretoria were issued to take the field at a moment's notice. Mr. Chamberlain, British Colonial Secretary it is said, will not assent to the conference unless the Transvaal Executive pledges himself to initiate bona fide reforms."

INSURGENTS ATTACK SPANISH TROOPS.

Washington, May 15.—The War Department has received the following despatch:

"Manila, May 15.—It is reported that at Zamboagna insurgents attacked Spanish troops, 11th inst., using quick-firing guns and arms captured from Spanish gunboats. Spanish General and two officers wounded. Few casualties among troops. Spanish garrison now besieged. Water supply cut off and troops calling for relief.

Examine the new oil cloth on the kitchen floor; its color and gloss are being destroyed and you may see where a cake of common soap fresh from the hot water in the scrubbing bucket has been laid on it for a moment, the free alkali having eaten an impression of the cake into the bright colors.

A more careful examination will show small "pin holes" here and there where the alkali has cut through the surface to soak into and gradually weaken the whole floor covering.

Filipinos Send Another Envoy to the American Commissioners in Manila.

TRYING TO GAIN TIME.

Aguinaldo Said to Be About Ready to Give Up the Fight---Funds Nearly Exhausted.

Priest Brings Tidings That Two Thousand Natives South of Manila Want to Surrender—Peaceful Conditions In Manila Have Caused Curtailment of One Hour From Curfew Order.

Manila, May 15.—Lieut. Reyes, representing the Filipino General, Gregorio Pilar, entered the American lines on General Lawton's front with a flag of truce, and requested the permission of the Military Commission to pass on to Manila for the purpose of conferring with the American Philippine Commissioners. Lieut. Reyes came to Manila and called upon Gen. Otis, who told him that the Americans would at any time permit white flags to pass through the lines. He added, however, that he would leave the matter to the discretion of General Lawton. This is probably another attempt on the part of the Filipinos to gain time.

A Filipino priest from the province of Cavite brings in information that 2,000 insurgents are under arms in the province, but they desire to quit fighting. The priest also says that Gen. Trias, who is in command of all the Filipino forces south of the Pasig, has said that he would surrender if he would receive the promise of a pardon. Gen. Trias received a letter from Aguinaldo recently stating that the Filipino funds were almost exhausted and the soldiers worn out. Aguinaldo suggested submission to the Americans and asked Gen. Trias's advice in the matter. Gen. Trias replied favoring surrender.

The Filipinos, the priest says, have started a new powder mill at Bueno Vista, obtaining their sulphur from a volcano and their supply of saltpetre from a recently discovered mine.

The priest also reports that Private Coates, of Company N of the First California Infantry, who has been held a prisoner at Paranaque, has been transferred to Batangas. Lieut. Gilmore, of the gunboat Yorktown, and his fellow prisoners are at Biacnabato.

The peaceful condition of Manila has caused an extension of the order requiring the inhabitants to be in their houses at 7 o'clock in the evening to 8 o'clock.

Thirty scouts, under Capt. Birkheimer, have captured the trenches at San Ildefonso after a brisk fight, in which the Americans had two men wounded.

Closing in Pun's Army.

London, May 15.—A despatch received here from Manila says that the Filipino troops have been driven from behind their strong fortifications at San Ildefonso.

Washington, May 15.—The first information received by the War Department about the capture of San Ildefonso by Gen. Lawton's command was conveyed in press despatches. War Department officers said that Gen. Otis has made no announcement of the capture, but this is probably due to his waiting further developments before sending a despatch. It is probable, however, that the capture of San Ildefonso is a movement made to take the insurgents in the rear. The town is near the railroad and north of Bacolor and San Fernando, the headquarters of the rebel forces. The relative positions of San Ildefonso and Bacolor indicate that Gen. Lawton has accomplished the important task of getting in the rear of the Filipinos. It is, therefore, almost certain that he will move south upon Gen. Luna's army, while Gen. MacArthur's forces will move northward to attack them from two sides.

Toledo, May 15.—Percy Burrill, of this city, was shot and instantly killed by Marshal Heidley at Bryan. Three men walked into the Reilly jewelry store and stole a quantity of jewelry. The other men gave themselves up. Burrill leaves a wife and baby daughter here. He was considered upright. The other men refuse to give their names. If bees made glucose some dealers would adulterate it with pure honey.

If the street sprinkler throws water on a man it doesn't cool him off.

If it is true that the apparel makes the man some men ought to change tailors.

If an employe never pretends to be busy when he has nothing to do he is trustworthy.

If people would reflect more they would be brighter and if they were brighter they would reflect more.

If a man's wife can read the war news without wishing she was a man he will never experience the pleasure of being henpecked.

PRECIOUS PROVERBS.

One touch of love mends all a heart's punctures.

Some men marry maids and some are married by widows.

When it comes to manual labor the average man is an immune.

The man who looks upon the wine when it is red may feel blue later.

A woman changes her mind so often that it keeps her busy speaking it.

Be sure you are right, then go ahead, regardless of the road others take.

Lots of people are too conscientious to lie and yet manage to suppress the truth.

Life may be a grand, sweet song, but one can't get much harmony out of it in "A flat."

Self-praise is like a church steeple—the higher it goes the narrower it becomes.

SELECTED SAYINGS.

Don't spare the rod if you expect to catch any fish.

Don't trouble about trouble that doesn't trouble you.

Don't expect to find uniformity of opinion on any subject.

Don't condemn a thing until its inefficacy has been proven.

Don't be ungallant—look at the faults of a lady with closed eyes.

Don't get discouraged because you are unable to understand everything.

Don't try to fence in a bow-legged man—he always has an open gait of his own.

Don't hit a man when he's down—it's safer to throw rocks at him when he's up a tree.

Don't marry for money, but always for love—but if a girl has money there's no harm in trying to love her.

Don't spread an ill report about your neighbor unless you are positive it is true—and don't do it then if he's bigger than you.

FOUR TRUTHFUL FACTS.

Exalt a harmless indulgence into the domain of sinfulness, and you will be sure to make it wonderfully popular.

A woman either fears or hates the man who knows just how old she is. He is liable to give her away at any moment.

Lying might be a very profitable thing if one held a monopoly in it, all other persons being compelled to speak the truth. But, when anybody can lie if he wants to, mendacity does not amount to much.

It is funny, but there is nothing that sounds so silly as the talk of two lovers who think they are beyond the hearing of anyone; and yet there is nothing in life that is one-half so intoxicating as this same silly talk.

TEETH.

If you have any to be extracted remember you will not be hurt in the slightest. My local anaesthetic is the best that can be obtained and is not known to the other dentists in this city. Gas strictly fresh administered by an expert if you want that. If you need artificial teeth you may rest assured that the greatest care will be exercised in selecting shape and color to harmonize with the face, also to restore the features to their natural expression and fullness. This is most important.

COMING EVENTS.

May 15—Concert at Casino for benefit of the Hospital.

Death of Rev. A. M. Powell.

The death of Rev. Aaron M. Powell deprives the world of a noble man who occupied a prominent position in a peculiar sphere of life's activities. The news of his sudden death was received in Plainfield with profound sorrow, as well as it might in view of the general recognition of the sterling qualities that went to make up his character.

There is probably no man in the country whose death will be a more distinct loss to the Friends' Society than that of Mr. Powell. He was conspicuously identified with this sect, and was looked upon by the Quakers as a leader who could be trusted to be in the right at all times and under all circumstances.

Not only will the death of Mr. Powell deprive this locality of a worthy and respected citizen, but it will be a loss that will be felt throughout the world, for in certain lines his influence and activity was not confined to this country. During his life Mr. Powell has been associated with some of the most notable reformers in the history of this country, and in his death a life-link connecting the stirring scenes of fifty years ago with the present is severed.

A Lenient Policy Needed.

The editorial printed in these columns last week calling the attention to the need of the Common Council acting leniently with the Martin Act tax delinquents, has resulted in a petition being circulated around the city for signatures to urge upon the Council the policy of postponing the date of redemption of real estate under the operation of the Martin Act.

The petition will probably be presented to the Council this evening, and if it is it should be taken under careful consideration with a view, if possible, of complying with the requests made therein. Some plan might be devised whereby property owners could pay their delinquent sums in instalments without injustice or loss to the city, which would certainly be of a great benefit to the ones cted by the law.

GENERAL LUNA OF THE FILIPINO ARMY.
Americans in the Philippines agree that General Luna is the most courageous commander of the Filipino forces. He it was who rode up and down the lines at Calumpit, urging his men to come out into the open and fight like soldiers and brave men. It was General Luna who sent envoys to General Otis to sue for peace.

School children have a practical illustration of the "how little drops of water" and "little grains of sand" make ocean and land in the statistics of the School Savings Banks of the country, says the Newark Advertiser. These are in vogue in only 351 schools in eighty-nine cities. Last year a total of $649,247.01 was deposited by school children in trifling sums computed in pennies. There was $441,825.83 withdrawn, and a balance of $207,425.18 remains to the credit of the little depositors. If the savings bank system should be established in all the public schools of the country the deposits would be up among the millions, and if invested would be no inconsiderable factor in financial operations.

A minister who has been reading the newspaper accounts of divorces among the rich has been condemning New Jersey's laws on divorce unmercifully, evidently supposing that they are the same as those of other States. As a matter of fact, the laws in this State are strict, recognizing only such causes for divorce as have always been recognized as sufficient. The courts enforce them fairly and do not err, as a rule, on the side of liberality. Jersey may have too many trusts, but it doesn't approve the violation of the marriage bond in its laws.

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A Mississippi editor makes this appeal to delinquent subscribers: "Fish down into your pocket and dig up dust, the editor is hungry and the paper 'bout to bust. We've trusted you for several months, and did it with a smile, so just return the compliment and trust us for a while. Our wife she needs some stockings and baby needs a dress; Jimmy needs some breeches, and so dees Kate and Bess, Pud is on the hog train and Peggy sick with grief, and good gosh almighty, can't you give a man relief. Shell out those nickels and turn loose the dimes, turn 'em loose and whistle and we'll have better times; there will be fewer patches on the bosom of our pants, and we'll make the paper better if we had half a chance. Don't give us that old story, long gone to seed, 'bout taking more family papers than the family want to read, but help to feed the printer, and he'll help our town to grow, and thus escape the sulphur in the regions down below"

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

The regular season of Music Hall closed Saturday night with the final performance of "Kidnapped" by the Mitchell players. Although the house will be opened several times yet before the heated season arrives it will only be rented and Manager Edwards will have nothing to do with its conduct. Mr. Edwards has enjoyed a fairly prosperous season, and is already making plans for next season, which he is confident will be more successful in several respects—especially with reference to the class of attractions that are booked. The majority of bookings for the theatre will be made by Klaw & Erlanger, of New York, the biggest theatrical agents in the country. During the summer months the theatre will be overhauled and cleaned throughout. The regular season will be opened August 21st with the Kennedy players, well-known to Plainfielders, who will appear here for a week in a reportoire of players. The week previous, however, George Thatcher's Minstrels will make their debut in Music Hall. After several seasons without a company of his own the merry George will start out this fall with one of the best minstrel companies on the road. Associated with him in business management will be D. W. Trust, a manager of ability and long experience. The company will rehearse in Music Hall for a week or ten days before their appearance in Music Hall.

NOTED QUAKER DEAD.

Mass., also a person of strong character, and she was a great help to her husband in his wide field of labor.

Since Mr. Powell came to Plainfield he was closely identified with the interests of the city, county and State, and his strong influence was felt in many channels. His death will be a severe blow to the Society of Friends. He will be greatly missed in this city in more ways than one, and the peculiar line of work he carried on will suffer beyond estimate as a result of his death. There is probably no Plainfield who has been associated with or met as many prominent men as Mr. Powell.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press)

Westfield, May 15—Opposition to having the houses numbered is developing in Westfield, and James Campbell, who is doing the work, is not meeting with a cordial reception in many instances. The butchers, grocers and dry goods men are against it, arguing that if the numbering of the houses is a prelude to free mail delivery, it will hurt business, because people go shopping when they go to the postoffice for their mail. So far, not half of the householders are having the numbers put on.

An umbrella mender, who imbibed to much of Westfield's rum, lay down on the tracks near the Central avenue crossing Friday evening and was taking a nap when Constable Keester noticed him and got him off of the tracks just as a train dashed by. The man refused to give his name when arraigned before Justice Toucey Saturday morning. He was allowed to go on his promise to leave town at once.

There was no game between the High School baseball team and the Outing Club team, of Plainfield, Saturday, as a death in the family of one of the Outing Club's team prevented them from coming here.

A team of ball players calling themselves the Yellow Jackets met the third team of the Cranfords on the Broad street grounds Saturday morning, and were defeated by a score of 17 to 9.

—Tomorrow evening at Grace M. E. church Hon. H. K. Carroll, commissioner to Porto Rico, will deliver an illustrated lecture on Porto Rico. The views are of the finest and anyone interested in this country's new possessions should not fail to attend the lecture.

The Appetite of a Goat

Is envied by all poor dyspeptics whose Stomach and Liver are out of order. All such should know that Dr. King's New Life Pills, the wonderful Stomach and Liver Remedy, gives a splendid appetite, sound digestion and a regular bodily habit that insures perfect health and great energy. Only 25 cents at any Drug Store.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Glorious News

Comes from Dr. D. B. Cargile, of Washita, I. T. He writes: "Four bottles of Electric Bitters has cured Mrs. Brewer of scrofula, which had caused her great suffering for years. Terrible sores would break out on her head and face, and the best doctors could give no help, but her cure is complete and her health is excellent." This shows what thousands have proved—that Electric Bitters is the best blood purifier known. It's the supreme remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poisons, helps digestion build up the strength. Only 50 cents. Sold by L. W. Randolph, druggist. Guaranteed.

A REMARKABLE FAMILY.

"Paw's" Effort to Give His Boys a Good Start in Life.

The lad was only about four feet high, but he had a coonskin cap and a pair of rawhide boots which looked as if they had been made to order for a giant. The man who was touring through that neighborhood, on government business bent, stopped his horse at the log house to make some inquiries as to the roads. He introduced the conversation with the patronizing inquiry:

What is your name, my little man?"

The boy looked up at him with stern gravity and answered:

"Doctor Hawkins."

"Why—how long have you been a doctor?"

"About fourteen years."

"Are you the head of the family?"

"No. I recon you'd call General Hawkins the head of the family. He keeps store down in the gap. Though Baron Hawkins—he's the brother between general and me—helps a lot. He's mighty good to maw, baron is."

"Are there any more distinguished people in your family?" said the astonished stranger.

"Well I dunno as they're so 'nation distinguished. But there's Admiral Hawkins and Perfessor Hawkins in the house now."

"They—they are spending a little time at home are they?"

"Yep. They've got to. They ain't big enough to go to work yet. Admiral's only four years old and Perfess is just cuttin' his teeth."

"What's your fathers name?"

"Paw? His name's Jim. You see, he 'lowed he wasn't goin' to let his boys go through life without the advantages he'd been deprived of hisself. But at the same time he w'an't goin' to give up no money to the colleges. So he took time by the forelock, and give us our names when we was baptized, Which I recon is about as bindin' and lawful as anything you could fix up. Paw's about the most prudentest man in the whole country, pawis, "

It Wasn't Her Baby.

The street car conductor was not in good humor. Someone had passed a bad quarter upon him, and that accounted for his starting the car before the three women and a child were fairly aboard.

One of the women was mad at being dumped without warning into a seat; the conductor saw that as he started to collect their fare, but he was mad, too.

"Madam," he said as she tendered her fare, "this child that is with you will have to be paid for as well."

"I haven't the slightest idea of paying its fare," snapped the woman.

"Then I shall put it off," answered the conductor, reaching for the bell rope.

"You don't dare," flashed the woman.

Ting! The conductor brought the car to a stop, picked up the child and deposited it upon the street and rang to go ahead.

"Madam," he said grimly, "you will find your child back there on the corner."

"My child?" snapped the woman. "It isn't my child."

"Whose is it then?" gasped the conductor.

"I haven't the slightest idea," she answered coolly.

Then the child's mother, who had been engaged in an exciting discussion with a friend over the merits of a new gown, awoke to the fact that her child was missing, and then the fireworks that played around the unfortunate conductor's head reminded him of a Fourth of July display.—Detroit Free Press.

Indifferent as to the Kind.

He was a fragile youth and didn't dance all the dances.

"Let's sit it out," he said to his pretty partner.

"Where?" she asked.

"On the stairs."

So they went up a little way and sat down.

"Wh-why, what's the matter, Mr. Stackpole?" cried the fair girl. For the young man had hastily risen and was gasping for breath. He could not reply. His face was livid, his eyes were rolled up, and with one shaking hand he clawed feebly at the skirts of his Tuxedo.

"What kind of an attack is it?" she gasped.

At this question his voice came back to him.

"What difference does hat make?" he harshly growled. Then, without a word of apology, he dashed up the stairs and flung himself into the men's coatroom.

And how was she to know that it was an ordinary carpet tack that the man who canvassed the stairs had carelessly left standing on its head?

MOST REMARKABLE RING

Was Originally Made for a Hindoo Rajah and Cost $27,000.

The most remarkable ring in New York is owned by Mrs. Clarence Mackay. It cost $27,000. It is the only ring of its kind in America. It was made originally for a real Hindoo Rajah.

This new addition to her collection is really three rings in one, and is a copy of an ancient Hindoo ring of a Ranee of Peshawur. Not so long ago, however, it was owned by a Hindoo Rajah, whose financial condition forced him to part with it.

The ring is heavy and massive, and the old yellow Chinese gold setting most curious. There are three rings almost invisibly attached to each other, but so arranged that one cannot be worn apart from the others, and each ring has to be worn on a separate finger. In the centre of the middle ring is a most superb ruby, which alone is valued at $15,000. Below and above the ruby are emeralds of exquisite color, which are a trifle taller in size than the matchless ruby, and at either side of the ruby are beautifully cut diamonds. Altogether the gold setting holds five gems. In length the ring measures two and a half inches, and it is one and a half inches high. The setting is most curious, and in itself is a work of art. It is delicately carved with tiny dragon's head, while around the edges are the gleaming, pointed teeth. The jewels are set at the back so that the ring may be easily cleaned.

To Keep Clothes New.

Garments hanging in a wardrobe or folded away in a drawer shold be frequently taken out, shaken and aired, while those which are in actual use ought at night, or whenever the wearer changes them, to be carefully disposed, so that they may not be tumbled and crushed. The adoption of this simple precaution will prevent the rapid wear and tear which make clothing look old while it is still in reality new. The neglected frock or coat shut up in a closet and forgotten for weeks may easily be a prey to the moths, and the gown which never sees the sunshine emerges from its seclusion subtly the worst for wear, though it has not been worn.

Woe to the reckless person who never brushes his clothing when he takes it off at night and who tosses it hither and yon or throws it down in a heap in his hurry to be rid of it. He will go about with an air of having slept in his clothes and will appear at a manifest disadvantage when compared with the neat and tidy individual to whom the clothes are a possession to be cared for and an acknowledged responsibility. Not, of course, a responsibility of the highest order, but still one to be considered and taken into account.

There is an art of the housewife which "gars auld claithes look amaist as gude as new," and he or she who regards this will see that loose buttons are fastened securely, and that trimmings are freshened and renewed whenever they become soiled or limp. Care of detail in the daily mending and brushing, the occasional sponging and pressing, and, in short, the intelligent and systematic supervision of clothing will prove the wisest economy, lessening expense in the end and adding to the refinement of pleasure which the wearer of good clothes is supposed to enjoy.—Harper's Bazar.

A Japanese Bride Tree.

At the birth of a Japanese baby a tree is planted which must remain untouched until the marriage day of the child. When the nuptial hour arrives the tree is cut down and a skilled cabinetmaker transforms the wood into furniture, which is considered by the young couple as the most beautiful of all ornaments of the house.

To Polish Furniture.

A good furniture polish that will remove spots and brighten the wood is made of half a teaspoonful of turpentine, two of sweet oil, and one of vinegar. The mixture should be applied with flannel and rubbed thoroughly.

Putting Away Silks.

Silks and ribbons should never be put away in white paper, for it contains chloride of lime, which will discolor them. Brown paper should be used for this work.

Wash Your Plants.

As plants breathe through their leaves, and absorb air in this way, it is just as essential to keep them clean and free from dust as it is to wash your hands and face.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Mecklenburg.

Schwerin. Auf dem in der Nähe von Neukalm belegenen Rittergute Rey hat sich der dortige Inspektor B., welcher eben erst eine heftige Lungenentzündung überstanden hatte, in einem unbewachten Moment die Halsadern durchschnitten. Der Tod trat bald darauf ein.

Braunschweig.

Braunschweig. Auf der Grube Trendelbusch der braunschweigischen Kohlenwerke brannte der Förderschacht-Schuppen mit 20,000 Centnern Briketts ab. Der Betrieb wird dadurch auf einige Wochen gestört sein.

Großherzogthum Hessen.

Darmstadt. Finanzminister Küchler, der sich vor Wochen im Krankenhause zu Charlottenburg einer schweren Operation unterzogen hat, ist hierher zurückgekehrt und hat seine dienstlichen Funktionen wieder aufgenommen.

Mainz. Vor einer Reihe von Jahren wurde der Stadt ein Kapital zur Verfügung gestellt unter der Bedingung, zu gelegener Zeit eine Blindenanstalt einzurichten. Dieses Kapital ist jetzt auf rund 90,000 Mark angewachsen. Da sich zur Errichtung einer Blindenanstalt ein Bedürfniß bis jetzt nicht ergeben hat, wohl aber ein Bedürfniß nach einer Augenheilanstalt vorhanden ist, so hat der städtische Finanzausschuß angeregt, das Kapital zu diesem Zwecke zu verwenden.

Worms. In einer Besprechung hiesiger Großindustrieller, welcher Vertreter des Ministeriums, des Kreisamtes, der Bürgermeisterei und der Handelskammer beiwohnten, wurde beschlossen, zur Milderung der Arbeiternoth die Eisenbahndirektion zu ersuchen, auf den rechtsrheinischen Linien bis nach Bensheim und Lampertheim Arbeiterzüge einzulegen. Die Eisenbahndirektion Mainz hat nunmehr dem Kreisamte die Mittheilung zugehen lassen, daß den Wünschen der Großindustriellen entsprochen würde.

Bayern.

München. Eine Anlage vor der Kreisirrenanstalt wird auf einem zehn Tagwerk umfassenden, von einem Konsortium an die Stadt geschenkten Grundstück angepflanzt. Es entsteht dort ein Brunnen mit Grotte, den Bäume umgeben. Die Gesammtkosten betragen 25,650 Mark; 14,000 Mark sind schon im Etat eingesetzt, 2400 Mark steuert das Konsortium bei, so daß noch 9250 Mark von der Stadt aus dem Reservefonds zu decken sind.—Hier hat der am Volkstheater gastirende Schauspieler Rickmann Selbstmord begangen.

Bamberg. Das Magistratskollegium hat den Entwurf einer ortspolizeilichen Vorschrift, betreffend die Erhaltung historisch und architektonisch bedeutungsvoller Bauten (nach dem Beispiel Nürnbergs), einstimmig angenommen.

Deggendorf. Wegen Brandstiftung wurde der 17jährige Dienstknecht Kaspar Schreiner von Guglöd, der das Anwesen seines Dienstherrn, des Bauern Lechner in Schlag, vorsätzlich angezündet hatte, zu vier Jahren einem Monat Gefängniß verurtheilt.

Fürth. In der Wohnung seines Vorgesetzten hat sich der Bursche des Oberlieutenants Kirchhoff aus Furcht vor Strafe—er hatte einen Posten angerempelt—erschossen.

Karlstadt. Im Fieberwahn lief die schwerkranke Bauersfrau Geiger von Thüngersheim um Mitternacht in einem unbewachten Augenblicke in die Küche und steckte den heißen Kopf in einen Wasserbehälter, in dem sie erstickte, oder vom Schlage getroffen wurde. Ihr Mann war, von der Nachtwache ermüdet, eingeschlafen und fand seine Frau dann, nachdem er aufgewacht war, todt vor.

Lohr. Eine Rieseneiche, eine der letzten 1000jährigen Eichen aus unserem herrlichen Spessart, wurde dieser Tage, mit Tannenbäumchen reich geschmückt, zum Bahnhof gebracht. Das prächtige „Stück Holz" kostete 1111 Mark.

Nürnberg. Das jetzt beendigte Heeresmusterungsgeschäft für den Stadtbezirk hat ein sehr ungünstiges Ergebniß geliefert. Von den 6019 Mann, die in die Listen eingetragen waren, wurden nicht weniger als 3002 zurückgestellt. Im vorigen Jahre wurden von 5051 Mann nur 1759 zurückgestellt.

Regensburg. Hier sollen in nächster Zeit drei neue Kirchen erbaut werden. Je eine im Osten der Stadt und im Vorort Reinhausen soll durch Kirchenbauvereine zur Ausführung gelangen, während die dritte im südlichen Kumpfmühl durch das hiesige Karmelitenkloster erbaut wird.

Sonthofen. Dem Eisenbahnkomite Hindelang wurde auf Nachsuchen die Bewilligung ertheilt zur Vornahme technischer Vorarbeiten für eine normalspurige Lokalbahn von Sonthofen nach Hindelang, die von der Lokalbahn-Aktiengesellschaft München vorgenommen werden sollen.

Tittling. Auf bedauernswerthe Weise hat der hiesige Gemeindediener Josef Kohlhofer sein Leben verloren. Scherzweise packte ihn der Gastwirth und Oekonom Habereder am Arm und drückte ihn so heftig, daß wahrscheinlich eine Vene zerrissen wurde und alsbald Blutvergiftung eintrat. Trotz sofortiger ärztlicher Hilfe starb der kräftige 56 Jahre alte Mann; er hinterläßt eine Frau und acht Kinder.

CARSON WILDRED'S CRIME.

A Detective Story of Two Continents, by HARRY WOOD REYNOLDS.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Whether it was Karine whom I believed I had heard weeping or not, I could not be sure. I could not have taken my oath that there had been a sound at all, but I was morally certain of it.

I ran all round the house trying in vain to batter in a side door, and was met everywhere by silence and darkness. At the side, however, I came at last upon the extension, from the tower from which I had seen the suspicious smoke and flame pouring on that memorable Christmas afternoon. Over the roof of the low "studio," which possessed no windows, I could see a faint yellow glow, like a luminous halo or crown, and sudenly, as I stood regarding it in some bewilderment, I recollected the skylight which I had observed from within.

If I could in some way climb to the top, break through the glass and let myself down, the problem as to how I should get into the house would be effectually solved.

I dragged a rustic seat across the grass and set it in an angle between the tower and the low building of the studio. I gave it a certain slanting inclination, that it might not fall when burdened with my weight, and then I scrambled up, not venturing to pause for an instant at the top, for I could feel that the thing was slowly beginning to slide from under me.

With a leap I caught the ledge of stone that ran around the roof and setting my knee against the wall, helped myself up. It may read simple enough when written down in black and white, but it was rather a difficult task in the accomplishment, and I felt that I had reason to congratulate myself on my own success when it was done.

Framed in a margin of dark roof eight to ten feet in width was the skylight, through which penetrated a subdued radiance.

Cautiously, noiselessly, I crawled to the round bubble of glass and looked down. A curtain of embroidered Indian silk was drawn half across, but through the open space that was left I could see something of the interior.

As I looked a figure passed into my line of vision. It was Wildred walking restlessly up and down with his hands behind him. I could hear the murmur of his voice, though through the glass of the skylight the words were not distinguishable. Suddenly there came a sharp exclamation in a woman's voice, and my heart gave a responsive bound. Wildred was talking to Karine, and it was she who had answered him with a cry.

I had not expected, when I decided upon trying to enter like a burglar through the skylight, that Karine would be in the studio. It would, doubtless frighten her very much if I should suddenly make my appearance beside her amid a shower of broken glass, and I hesitated so to alarm her, unless the man down there was already commencing to use his power to torment her. If she would only go out and leave me to give Wildred a surprise I should have been thankful; but as I could not hope for her to do that, I determined to know what her companion was saying to her, which had caused her to exclaim in astonishment, or perhaps in fear.

I took out my pocket knife, and, with great care to avoid all noise I began to loosen one of the small panes from its leaden setting. As soon as it was released at one end I slipped the point of the knife underneath and so raised it that there might be no danger of its falling downward and startling those within the room.

I bent my ear over the tiny aperture. It made all the difference in the world. I could now hear every word that Wildred was saying.

"I have always, and with some reason, I think," was the first sentence that I caught, "considered myself a man of more than average mental ability. I am usually prepared for any traps which can possibly be sprung for me, but in this instance I find I have made my one mistake. I believed in a womans devotion. Probably it serves me right to have been deceived. Since you have found it all out through her, I may as well admit to you that it is true. She was here. Nobody suspected her presence, or even her existence. She was very useful to me in many ways. If she had proved troublesome I could have rid myself of her at any time, and she knew it. Instead of doing what I ought to have done, I believed that she was willing to go away without betraying me, and I let her go free, with a present of a thousand pounds. She could even have asked for more when that was gone, and I would not have refused her. I was a fool ever to marry her, but she was the handsomest woman I had seen at that time, and, as you know, I was some years younger, some degrees more impulsive, than I am now. I was still more of a fool not to have put her out of the way, knowing what she did, but, as I remarked, that was the mistake of a lifetime. She has told you my secrets, she has shown you certain things in this house which have very naturally displeased and shocked you. She timed her return to this house very well—jealous idiot!—but she will pay for what she has done."

"How will she pay?"

I could not see Karine, but I could hear her voice, vibrant with the fear and horror that she felt.

"Better not ask; the question doesn't concern you. She will simply become familiarized with the secrets of the House by the Lock in a manner upon which she didn't count—that's all."

"I had never pictured Satan himself so cruel, so horrible as you," cried Karine. "I thank Heaven, now that I know, through this wretched woman, what you really are, that not I, but she, is your wife.

"Yet you must remain with me, as though you knew nothing, but what I would have had you know, for your own sake and your brother's."

"Had it not been for that foolish woman, who has ruined herself in trying to ruin you and me, we might have been happy together, Karine. I admire you more than any woman on earth, for you are certainly the most beautiful, and your coldness to a man of my temperament, has only added to your attractions as a girl. As a married woman it would have been different. I meant to make you love me; and even now, Karine, what has happened that need change anything between us? You are not a conventional little fool, as are some women I could name, and the love of a man like me must create some impression on your nature. The obstacle which you think stands between us shall be removed, the marriage ceremony can again be performed over us—secretly if you choose. No one will be the wiser, and as in any event you must stay here in my house"—

"I will not. Somehow God will help me to escape, and then, when I am free from you, I shall let such friends as I may have left deal with you as you deserve."

"It's difficult to see how you will get away. It's true I did not dream that Marion would be here to greet us, or I would not have brought you to this house. But now that you are in it you will stay. No one knows that we are here—no one in your world, at least—and I intend that we shall have a protracted honeymoon. You heard how some vagabond, some tramp, who wished to get in, failed just now? Well, it is just as difficult for strangers to escape from the House by the Lock as it is for them to effect an entrance. For instance, you and I are now cut off by means of a sliding iron door from the old portion of the house. From this, there is absolutely no way out, unless I allow it, save one.

STRANGE FREAK OF NATURE

How a Caterpillar's Body Becomes the the Root of a Bulrush

From some of the newer countries, so-called on account of the lack of definite knowledge regarding them, reports of strange freaks and curiosities constantly appear, and, as a rule, they are laughed at, but once in a while they turn out to be the truth. It is this way with the strange freak of nature called the bulrush caterpillar, which is indigenous to New Zealand. This report, which stated that at certain seasons a large black caterpillar would bury itself in the ground, and be converted into the root of a bulrush, was laughed at, like the rest, but now an English scientist, who recently gave an exhaustive investigation of the strange phenomenon, stated that in many respects the statements are strictly true. From this report it has been learned that the caterpillar grows to about three and one-half inches long and when about to assume the chrysalis state buries itself in the ground, and in doing so it is frequently infected by the spores of some fungus, which becomes involved in the scales in its neck. These the larvae is unable to expel, and the vegetation thus set up rapidly extends throughout the entire body, replacing each animal cell thus destroyed by vegetable matter, and finally converting it into a comparatively dense vegetable structure, which retains every detail of the body, even to the legs, mandibles and minutest claw. From the neck, the portion first infected, there then shoots up a single stem, which grows to the height of eight or ten inches, resembling very closely the clubheaded bulrush in miniature. It has no leaves, and if the first stem be broken off another rises in its place, though two stems never grow simultaneously from the same "caterpillar."

ON THE DIAMOND.

On the Washington Avenue grounds Saturday afternoon the Pond's baseball club crossed bats with a team from the Crescent Carpet Works, which resulted in a victory for the men at Pond's by a score of 18 to 16. The game was started in a drizzling rain, which lasted up to the fifth inning. Until that time it looked like a walkover for Pond's, as Squires fooled the Carpet Works men with his pitching. After that Squires was taken out of the box and Dodd put in his place. This new arrangement did not last long, and J. Scott took his place. Squires was eventually put back, however. The Carpet Works team was made up of several cracks, among them being Cooney, Moran, Johnson and Doyle. They put up a good game, and it made the Pond's men work hard to beat them. The teams lined up as follows:

| POND'S. | | CARPET WORKS |
|---|---|---|
| Stevens | 1st base | D. Kane |
| D. Scott | 2d base | Cooney |
| Muldowney | 3d base | Fleming |

Capitalists Didn't Come.

The New York capitalists who were to come out here Saturday afternoon and take dinner at the Mountain Park Inn, did not come because of the rain. They will probably come next week.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

BOWLING ON THE GREEN.

MIDDLESEX CLUB OPENS ITS SEASON IN THE RAIN.

Meeting at the Home of Christian Schepflin, Dunellen, Who was Elected President—The Club Starts With 26 Members.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 15—In spite of the rain Saturday afternoon, the Middlesex Bowling Green Club met on Christian Schepflin's green and organized for the season. No match games were played, however, but the members went out in the rain and rolled several games by themselves.

Previous to their coming to Dunellen the club met in New Brunswick, where most of the members live, and organized for the season. Officers were elected as follows: President, Christian Scepepflin, of Dunellen; vice-president, L. A. Poulson, of New Brunswick; secretary, H. Brewster Willis, of New Brunswick; treasurer, Peter W. Fick, of New Brunswick.

In addition to the officers there is a special board of governors, who assist the officers. They are Frederick Weigel, C. A. Schenck and R. M. Pettitt, all of New Brunswick.

The club this year starts with twenty six members. The green is in fine condition, and a pleasant season is expected. Refreshments were served Saturday, and a social time enjoyed in connection with the games. The next gathering of the club will be held a week from Saturday.

It is probable that there will be two or three medals to be played for this year. Ladies' day will be observed several times as usual.

Ludwig Conde, the violinist, accompanied by Miss Jessie Utter, will render the first movement of the celebrated Concerto of Mendelssohn.

Dished a Wheel.

Suspended Sentence.

Max Garfingle, a shoemader, of Park avenue, was caught taking coal from the Central Railroad yesterday, and was arrested. He pleaded guilty this morning and Judge Runyon suspended sentence on him.

MAYOR APPOINTED THE CALL FIREMEN.

New Ordinance Will Go Into Effect at Midnight Tomorrow.

CHIEF NAMED THE FIREMEN.

PETITION RECEIVED IN RELATION TO MARTIN ACT TAXES.

The Application of Michael Welsh for a Saloon License in the West End Was Opposed by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell and Was Finally Laid on the Table—Other Business Considered.

The most important matter decided upon at the special meeting of the Common Council held last evening was the abolishing of the present fire department system and the organizing of a paid department. Mr. Corlell offered a resolution to the effect that the Council deemed it wise to increase the fire protection of the city, and that the Chief of the department give notice that the services of the volunteer men shall cease tomorrow night at midnight, when all property held by them belonging to the city shall be turned over to the city. Mr. Corlell expressed the highest appreciation of the Council to the volunteer firemen for the excellent service performed by them, and said that the officials would be pleased at all times to receive advice and suggestions from the exempt firemen.

In connection with the above Mayor Rockfellow presented to the Council his appointments of the officers, paid and call men, who are to serve under the new system. The appointments were made pursuant to the provisions of the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to establish, regulate and control a fire department in the city of Plainfield, approved May 6th, 1899." The officers appointed are those who, under Section 2 of said ordinance, are required to be retained in office. The list is as follows:

Chief Engineer, T. O. Doane; first assistant engineer, J. W. Murray; second assistant engineer, A. D. Jennings; drivers, W. F. Townley, James F. Daly, George Feiring, William Ross, Fred Breeme, J. E. Bailey; tillerman, H. C. Bush; engineer for steamer, Frank Schuck; veterinary surgeon, L. S. Pocock; full paid men, L. M. Dunavan, George Mehl, Jr.; call men, D. S. Dunavan, William Newman, D. V. Force, F. C. Putnam, L. J. Spicer, Frank Hart, R. B. Rogers, A. Kahrman, C. W. Smith, W. C. Chamberlain, Walter Harrison, Edward Vail, W. H. Addis, E. McCann, Harry Kesselring, J. Kline Charles Graves, H. Manning, Francis Marsh, Joseph Clark, J. B. Cose, W. P. Henderson, Geo. H. Freeman and Alex. Muir.

Following the above appointments the following were designated by Chief Doane to serve as foremen of the various companies: Hose No. 1, D. S. Dunavan; hose No. 2, R. B. Rogers; hose No. 3, Charles Graves; hook and ladder No. 1, W. H. Addis.

All of the above appointments were confirmed by the Council and the men will commence duty at 12 midnight tomorrow.

Another important matter was the action taken regarding the license application made by Michael Walsh to establish a saloon on Grant avenue. A recess was taken to consider the matter, during which the Council received Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel, who desired to have something to say about the licensing of the place. After the Council had been out nearly forty-five minutes, they returned and upon a motion offered by Chairman Leifke, of the license committee, the license was laid over. It is now hardly probable that it will be brought up again by the present Council.

The routine business of the evening was taken up and considered as follows:

Three bids were received for macadamizing West Third and Fourth streets, as follows: C. M. Meeker, West Third street, 77 cents per lineal foot; West Fourth street, 30 feet wide, $1 35 per lineal foot; 40 feet, $1.60 per lineal foot; A. J. and N. B. Smalley, West Third street, 80 cents per lineal foot; West Fourth sireet, 30 feet wide, $1.28 per lineal foot; 40 feet, $1.56 per lineal foot; John Y. Wilson, West Third street, 83 cents per lineal foot. Mr. Wilson did not bid on West Fourth street. All bids were referred to the street committee and the successful bidders will be announced at a later meeting.

An electric light was petitioned for to be located on Hillside avenue, between Lake and Highland avenues. Patsy Christmas asked for more time to start work on the Park avenue

18 MONTHS IN PRISON.

THEODORE ROANTREE SENTENCED FOR STABBING GEO. PIZIE.

His Mother Made a Scene in Court When Sentence was Pronounced—Judge Strong Delivered a Severe Lecture.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 16.—Theodore Roantree, of New Market, who was found guilty last week of stabbing George Pizie, of that place, was sentenced to eighteen months in State prison yesterday by Judge Strong. The young man's mother was in court and created a scene by loudly crying. One of the constables tried to quiet her, but she only shrank from him.

Judge Strong, in sentencing the man, said that there was no doubt in his mind but that the stabbing was the result of an old grudge, and that the claim of self defense was not justified. He spoke feelingly to the man, saying that he had more sorrow for his mother than for him. This same woman, who was in the courtroom imploring the Judge, with tears in her eyes, to be lenient, was led to swear out a complaint of threats against him and compel him to give bonds to keep the peace some time ago. The Court spoke of these things and said that the man was not entitled to any clemency. He had intended to sentence him to State prison for two years, but owing to the recommendation for mercy made by the jury, which found him guilty, he reduced the sentence six months, making it eighteen months.

TURNED BROTHER OUT.

AN UNUSUAL CASE HEARD BEFORE JUSTICE COLLINS.

Jacob J. Holmes Alleges That Henry J Holmes Took Forcible Possession of a House to Which He Had no Claim.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, May 16.—The first case of forcible entry and retainer tried in Union county in twenty years took place in the town rooms yesterday when the case of Jacob J. Holmes against his brother, Henry J. Holmes, was heard before Justice E. P. Collins.

C. H. Angleman, of Plainfield, appeared for the plaintiff and Levi E. Hart looked after the interests of the defendant. Jacob J. Holmes was the first witness and he swore that he had possession of the property on January 3d but that his brother broke into the house while he was away from home and put his things on the porch and moved his own in. He also testified that his brother had threatened to kill him for not getting off of the property before. Anson McDede, who had been hired by Mr. Holmes to look after the property, testified that he was in the the house on January 3d and that Henry J. Holmes had broken into the door and gained an entrance. He said that Holmes had offered him $5 to say nothing.

Henry Holmes swore that he had gone to the house and entered by the back door to which he had a key. He said that he had never threatened to hurt his brother and that he was only taking possession of his own property. Charles Bainster swore that he was with Henry Holmes and that he had entered the house by unlocking the door with a key. The jury went out at 3:30 and came in at 5 o'clock with a verdict of guilty and the defendant to pay treble costs.

He must vacate the house within eight days.

CITY STREET WORK.

Street Commissioner Busy Putting Thoroughfares in Good Condition.

While the stone is being spread on the lower end of Central avenue the steam roller is being put to use on Liberty street, near Front street. Several spots have been patched there, and the Street Commissioner has been waiting for some time for an opportunity to roll them down.

The Street Commission is anxious to roll down those streets where loose stone has been spread during the spring. Among the places are Plainfield avenue, Rahway road, the south end of Belvidere avenue, East and West Front street. This work must be done at once.

Fourth street will be macadamized from curb to curb, while the macadam on Third street will be only sixteen feet wide.

Rev. Mr. Newell to Talk.

The semi-annual meeting of the City Union, King's Daughters, will be held in the parlor of Trinity Reformed church Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Rev. G Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel, has kindly consented to take charge of the devotional exercises and to give a short address on the work of the society. All interested are cordially invited to be present.

IMPROVED STREETS FOR BOROUGHITES.

Council Talked About the Matter Very Earnestly.

ANXIOUS TO GET TO WORK.

COUNCILMAN VALIANT WANTS THE SPRINKLING DONE BY BOROUGH.

He Believes That It Would Better Preserve the Streets if the Roadbeds Were Wet Two or Three Times a Day—He Would Have it Paid for by Additional Tax—Can't Start This Year.

A special meeting of the Borough Council was held last night, principally to talk over matters pertaining to the streets and crosswalks. All the members were present except Councilman Swackhamer.

Before the discussion upon the street work, two communications were read. One was from the Memorial Day committee of the G. A. R., signed by E. C. Morse, chairman, and Elmore D. Moffett, secretary, inviting the Mayor and Council to attend the Memorial Day exercises in Music Hall. The invitation was acknowledged.

A petition came from the residents of Steiner place and Linden avenue, asking that a crosswalk be laid across Linden avenue at Steiner place. This communication was referred to the committee on streets. Warrants for the payment of $225 worth of bills for labor and materials furnished on the streets, was ordered drawn.

The meeting was here thrown open for discussions upon street work. The Mayor said that the street committee was anxious to get at the street work right away before hot weather comes. He said he would like to have the petition for macadamizing Orchard place sent in.

Mr. Valiant suggested that the borough take up the subject of sprinkling their own streets, a matter which met with favor. Mr. Valiant proposed that the borough provide itself with two carts and four horses, also men to drive them, and add what the cost is to the tax bills.

As an argument Mr. Valiant spoke of the benefit it would be to the roads to give them a systematic wetting twice or three times a day. The Mayor expressed himself as in favor of it, but pointed out the impossibility of doing anything with it this year, because the contracts for wetting the streets had been awarded to private individuals.

Mr. Valiant made a motion, which was passed, that the street committee be empowered to look into the matter, see what the cost of wagons and horses will be, and report at a regular meeting of the Council The proposition is to water all of the streets in the borough.

Mr. Clark spoke of the way French's men allow the water from the wagons and hose to leak out over the streets when they are filling the water wagons, and the Mayor proposed that he, as chairman of the committee on streets, send Mr. French a note explaining the matter. The Council then adjourned.

ENGLISH ARCHITECTURE.

Interesting and Instructive Lecture Before Monday Afternoon Club.

A very interesting lecture was given yesterday afternoon before the Monday Afternoon Club at the Casino by A. D. F. Hamlin, professor at Columbia University. His subject was "The Manorial and Public Architecture of England in the Time of Elizabeth and the Early Stuarts," and was illustrated by the use of a fine lantern in the hands of a skilful operator. Prof. Hamlin described the transition in English architecture from the rough, dungeon like castles to the artistic manor houses with many windows, a variety of chimneys and styles borrowed from the south of Europe. He said an Englishman regarded building as a diversion and a duty. He quoted largely from Bacon whose idea is that houses should not be built for show but places to live in.

Among the castles and manors of especial interest thrown upon the canvas were Kenilworth Castle, Hardwick Castle, Hampton Court, Hadden Hall, Holyrood and Crewe Castle. The lecture closed with illustrations of some of the famous universities of learning like Trinity College, Eton and Oxford.

This lecture concludes the meetings of the club for the season.

Cat Killed by Trolley Car.

Dr. J. B. Probasco, of East Front street, is mourning the loss of a pretty maltese cat. The little creature was struck by a trolley car this morning while returning from one of of its nocturnal visits and instantly killed.

DINNER MAY BE GIVEN.

BOARD OF TRADE TALKING OF HOLDING SUCH AN AFFAIR.

S. D Drake Attended the Meeting and Tried to Stir Up Some Interest—He Exploited His Usual Enthusiastic Views.

The Board of Trade tried hard to hold a meeting last night, but it was useless in so far as its being a formal gathering. The faithful few were on hand to the number of seven or eight, but as there was not a quorum no business could be transacted.

Silas D. Drake, the irrepressible real estate boomer, was on hand and indulged in airing his views as to what was needed to give Plainfield an awakening. In its languishing position Mr. Drake realized that the Board of Trade would be unable to undertake a very great project, but he proposed that some attempt be made to stir up interest. One of the things he proposed was to rent Music Hall for one night and to secure a number of lively and able talkers to appear and discuss the advantages and needs of Plainfield.

Mr. Drake argued that if such a meeting was held it would result in some good anyway, and might be the means of starting the ball rolling so that an enterprising movement would be undertaken and result in material benefit to the city. From the views and ideas expressed and exploited at such a meeting enough might be gathered for a nucleus to build on, Mr. Drake said, that would gather force as the time and energy of a few was given to it till the outcome would result in material and lasting benefit to the city.

Mr. Drake also suggested the idea of a Board of Trade dinner, although he said he was not in a position to know how the financial end of it would be met. He referred to the fact that Elizabeth and Rahway held such events once a year and the good that resulted from gathering around the festive board and hearing admirable and progressive addresses was felt for a year afterward.

In an informal discussion of the few present the idea of a dinner seemed to find favor, though in the present condition of the Board of Trade none of them were enthusiastic over the matter.

It was decided to hold a meeting next Monday evening when Mr. Drake will be present and exploit his ideas to a large number of members, if it is possible to get them to attend the meeting.

BEAUTIFUL CYCLING TRIPS.

Physical Director Heywood Laying Out the Routes Now.

Physical Director C. E A. Heywood, of the Y.M.C.A., has arranged a number of interesting runs which will be taken this summer by the members of the association The runs will take two, three, four or five days, some of them, and will be planned with a view to taking in the prettiest parts of this adjacent country.

Most of them will be through New York State, or on Long Island. One is to take the boat up the Hudson river to Poughkeepsie, and then ride down along the river to New York, visiting all the prominent places on the route.

Another one is to take the boat from New York to New Haven, and then wheel up the Connecticut Valley as far as Springfield, Mass, around the Berkshire Hills, and home by way of the Hudson. This is the longest trip and also the most beautiful.

Another pretty one, but a short one, is around part of Long Island. Mr. Heywood will accompany the boys on any or all of these runs, which will be taken under the personal supervision of the association.

THE FIRST PATIENT.

An Old Lady Secures Instant Relief and is Made Happy.

Promptly at 9 a. m. yesterday, Dr. Brown's office was opened for business. The first patient was a very old lady, Mrs. John Wellner, who lives near Westfield. She was lucky in getting to the office early as there was a large number of ladies in the parlors awaiting the opening hour. During all last winter Mrs. Wellner could not wear shoes, her bunions were so painful and sore, at times discharging matter and puffed out half the size of hen's egg. It did not take the doctor many minutes to get the joint back to its proper or natural position. The old lady went away happy and told our reporter it did not hurt a bit, said she felt better all over and laughed heartily when the reporter remarked that the bay windows had disappeared from her shoes. Dr. Brown's office is at 145 West Second street.

Fred Adams, of Newark, spent Sunday with his parents in Netherwood.

STREETS MUST BE REPAIRED RIGHT.

Notice Served on the Street Railway Company.

BOROUGH IS UP IN ARMS.

COUNCIL HAS TAKEN OFFICIAL ACTION ABOUT IT.

Superintendent Adelman Notified by Commissioner of Highways Dowd That Where Roadbed is Torn up to Make Repairs the Macadam Must be Put Down in Good Condition Without Delay.

If the Plainfield Street Railway Company fails to do the right thing in the borough they will hear about it very quick, as the first gun has been fired in the campaign that will be waged against the trolley company for any infraction of the ordinance or agreement between the borough and company.

During the past few days the company has had men substituting new bond wires for old ones along the Somerset street route, and in consequence the road has been torn up to a certain extent, making travel somewhat a nuisance. This the people were able to stand very well, but after the job was completed and the road left in an unsatisfactory condition many complaints were received by the councilmanic street committee. The number of these complaints led the committee, as well as the council, to think that something should be done. Accordingly Councilman Clark, chairman of the street committee, communicated with Superintendent Adleman today, and informed him that it was the desire of the committee and council that Somerset street should be placed in as good condition as it was before the trolley company disturbed it. Mr. Clark also informed Mr. Adleman that the officials would like to have the work attended to at once so that no unpleasant features would follow.

This morning Superintendent of Highways Thomas Doud met Mr. Adleman and gave him the communication from the street committee. He also informed Mr. Adleman that it would be expected that the street would be fixed at once.

Mr. Adleman remarked that it would be impossible to put the street in the same condition, but Mr. Doud replied by saying that the work could be done and the company is expected to do it. He said that in other places companies were compelled to comply with the law and this case would be no exception.

As the road now stands it is dangerous for light wagons in crossing the tracks as wheels are liable to be dished and wagons having rubber tires are apt to be cut with sharp stones that are lying about the street as a result of the recent tear up. Mr. Doud intends that the street shall be put in condition and he will personally see that the work is done.

This afternoon a horse and cart and two laborers are going over Somerset street fixing up the defects that were called to the attention of Superintendent Adelmann by Mr. Doud this morning. The action of the borough officials ought to be emulated by the city officials.

CHALK TALK ON "POWER."

Rev. Mr. Ladd's Interesting Lecture Before the Primary Teachers.

There was a large attendance of the members of the Primary Teachers' Union and their friends at the First Baptist church last evening, when a meeting of special interest was held. Miss Beeching, president of the Union, was in charge, and made a few remarks of welcome to those present, after which she introduced Rev. Mr. Ledd, of Jersey City, who gave an intensely interesting chalk talk on "Power." Mr. Ladd is a man of great ability, and his illustrations of his subject were much enjoyed.

After the chalk talk Mrs. Powlison led the devotional exercises, and then W. D Murray, of this city, was introduced. Mr. Murray taught the Sunday-school lesson for next Sunday on the subject of "Ingratitude." He taught the lesson just as though his audience was composed of children, this method being in vogue at the regular meetings of the Union. Altogether the meeting was one of great help to all present.

Walsh is a Motorman.

Michael Walsh, of this city, who applied to the Common Council for a license to sell liquor on Grant avenue, where Michael Watson formerly kept, is a motorman on the street railway. There was evidently much pressure brought to bear on the license application, hence its refusal at the meeting last night.

TO EXTEND THE LINE.

BRUNSWICK TRACTION COMPANY TO TAP SOUTH AMBOY.

Active Work to Be Undertaken to Secure Necessary Franchises—It Will Be a Big Stroke for Brunswick Company.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 16th—The Brunswick Traction Company has acquired the right of the Sayreville Electric Light and Power Company to the proposed electric trolley line from the terminus of the Brunswick Traction Company's New Brunswick-Sayreville line to South Amboy, and active steps are to be taken to secure the necessary franchises and consents. Formal application for franchises is to be made tonight to the Borough Council of South Amboy and the Town Council of Sayreville.

When the New Brunswick-Sayreville line was built some years ago, the Brunswick Traction Company met with opposition in its efforts to secure franchises to South Amboy, and the line from Sayreville to South Amboy was not built. Recently the Sayreville company applied for franchises and arranged for the public meetings required by law. The Brunswick Traction Company has made an arrangement with the Sayreville company, and there will be no opposition to the franchises asked by the Brunswick Company.

The construction of the line from Sayreville to South Amboy will give the Brunswick Traction Company control of a line from Raritan and Somerville through Bound Brook, New Brunswick, and South River to the shore of Raritan Bay, at South Amboy.

MUSIC OF A HIGH ORDER.

CONCERT GIVEN BY METRONOME BANJO AND MANDOLIN CLUB.

Proceeds for the Benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital—Greater New York Quartette Unable to Appear at Casino.

A large and fashionable audience gathered in the Casino last night and heard the rendition of a fine programme under the auspices of the Metronome Banjo and Mandolin Club, a local organization that is possessed of more than ordinary musical ability. The proceeds of the affair will be given to Muhlenberg Hospital.

Unfortunately, the Greater New York Quartette was prevented from appearing, but the loss of this feature was compensated for in the solos which Alfred Holmes was prevailed upon to render at the last moment to fill the numbers assigned to the quartette. The excellence of Mr. Holmes' voice and his popularity with Plainfielders was sufficient to keep up the standard of the talent promised.

The playing of the club, which opened the programme with the "Napoleon March," was excellent. Under the able direction of Fred Van Eps the players are working in unison so that they take high rank among the musical clubs of the metropolitan district.

The previous debut of Miss Marion Short, the elocutionist, made her appearance anticipated with pleasure by the audience. She was at her best during the evening, and was given several encores in appreciation of her entertaining qualities.

Miss Marian Rummler, of New York, rendered two contralto solos in fine voice. Her voice shows excellent training, and her singing was much appreciated.

Fred VanEps distinguished himself with his banjo solos. On this instrument Mr. VanEps is an artist of rare ability, and in the rendition of in two solos he pleased the audience an exceptional manner.

FIRST AID TO INJURED.

Instructive Lectures Being Given by Dr. Hedges.

The lectures that Dr. B. Van D. Hedges is giving to the Young Woman's Club on "First Aid to the Injured," were continued last night, and several new features were taken up. Last week Dr. Hedges stopped with accidents by burning, and began last night with freezing.

He illustrated the treatment of sprained bruises, fractures of all kinds, and told how to sober up a drunken man. His remedy was an emetic, or a cold bath.

The lecture ended with an exhibition of how to resuscitate a drowning person, and to ward off the effects of poison.

Dr. Hedges will continue these lectures until he has covered a complete course. With the help of a small boy the Doctor also explained how bandages were made, and showed how to set a broken leg or arm. The lectures are given free to the members of the club, and it is hoped that as a result they will be better able to be of service in times of accident.

WANT PLAINFIELD TRADE VERY BAD.

Newark Advertiser Agitates for More Through Trains.

THE CENTRAL'S POSITION.

LEHIGH VALLEY EXPECTED TO AFFORD FACILITIES SOON.

By Having a Trolley Line From Plainfield to Oak Tree or South Plainfield it is Anticipated That Many People Would go to Newark by Taking Lehigh Trains at Their Stations.

The Newark Advertiser has taken up the matter of increased train facilities between that city and Plainfield on the Central Railroad in a thoroughly aggressive manner. Yesterday's Advertiser says:

Before the summer is gone there will be two ways of getting to Plainfield by rail besides the Jersey Central Railroad. One will be by trolley all the way, the other by junction of the trolley and the Lehigh Valley Railroad. In case the Central persists in refusing to put on the requested through trains the business men of this city say they will find it to their interest to push travel over the lines of communication to the determinent of the Central.

The projectors of the trolley line between Plainfield and Elizabeth expect to be running cars over their road by July 1 The work of construction has already been begun. A big force of men and many carts have been employed for a week or more grading the road. The work is being pushed rapidly between Roselle and Plainfield.

As yet no franchise has been acquired between Roselle and Elizabeth, but it has been practically settled that the franchise can be had when wanted. It will not be wanted until the tracks are laid between Plainfield and Roselle.

It is believed by business men here that the Lehigh Valley is destined to play an important part in the development of the relations of Newark and Plainfield. A trolley line is to be constructed this summer to connect the road with the heart of Plainfield.

The Lehigh Valley runs to South Plainfield. Its station at this point is 3 miles from the centre of Plainfield. A trolley road is to be constructed this summer to traverse this 3 miles. The section traversed is now being built up rapidly, and, it is said, will soon be the finest part of Plainfield. The distance which the road runs can be covered in about fifteen minutes.

The are several trains on the Valley between Newark and South Plainfield; some of them make no stop between. The distance is made in about twenty minutes. Therefore, it will be possible when the projected trolley line between Plainfield and South Plainfield is in operation to come to Newark from the heart of the Union county towns to this city in about thirty-five minutes, and from many parts of it in a much shorter time. It now takes nearly if not quite an hour to come from Plainfield over the Central.

By trolley the fare from Plainfield to Elizabeth will be 12 cents, to Newark 22 cents; for the round trip 44 cents. The round trip fare on the Central is 75 cents. Those who are willing to give a half hour longer time to the trip to this city will save 31 cents by traveling by trolley.

"One of the reasons given by the Central management for not putting on through trains to Plainfield," said a well-known business man today, "is that such trains will not really add to their business, as the people of Newark would not go down that way to live. I believe the Central people are entirely wrong. I feel certain that if the railroad accommodations were good at least one third of the people who now go out on the Morris and Essex would go down in the direction of Plainfield.

"That city is a very desirable place to live, more desirable in my opinion than any point on the Morris road, not excepting Morristown. But the Central Railroad's policy has been so niggardly and the accommodations it gives Newark so mean and inadequate that it has repelled those who desise to go down along their line for the summer."

Exempts to Gather at Orange.

Tomorrow the annual State meeting of the Exempt Firemen's Association will be held at Orange, and as business of importance to Plainfield will be considered, a large delegation of the members will go from this city.

Reducing the Mortgage.

Today the German Aid Society of the German Lutheran church paid $100 more on the mortgage of the church, which leaves a balance of only $1,400. The original sum was $2,000.

PLENTY OF IT.

Lots More Proof Like This, and it is all From People You Know.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the Union has sufficient proof that the representations made for a household necessity are true, that place is Plainfield. If the cures in Plainfield numbered some half dozen there might be grave doubts about their genuineness. That many people in a place the size of Plainfield might have based their opinions on pure imagination, but when public endorsation reaches scores, and as many more endorsers are willing to testify to the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, the evidence and the proof is incontrovertible. Investigation, the most superficial, will prove that Doan's Kidney Pills are an actual household necessity in Plainfield. Here is one of our endorsers:

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis, of No. 212 Somerset street, foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Mfg., Co., says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. A bladder trouble set in. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment by the time I had finished the third box the pain in my back and the lameness disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and I gladly recommend them as such whenever I have a chance."

THE TROUBLES IN IDAHO.

Crisis Expected on Thursday, the Last Day of Application for Permits.

AN OUTBREAK IS FEARED

Mines Will Be Inspected and Every Mine Employing Men Without Permits Will Be Closed.

Union Men Still Refuse to Make Application for Cards—Owners of Mines Have Rapidly Decided to Close Them During the Continuance of Labor Troubles—No Miners Imported.

Wardner, Idaho, May 16.—The crisis in the labor troubles here will begin Thursday of this week. Should the period pass quietly no more outbreaks need be looked for. On the other hand, should there be any clash this week between the soldiers and the lawless element it is impossible to tell what bloodshed may occur. Thursday is the last day allowed under the recent proclamation for working miners to apply for permits to remain in underground employment. On that day the inspection of the mines all over the Coeur d'Alenes will commence. It will be a rigid examination and it will be conducted by the military and the civil authorities. Every mine which on that day is employing men without permits will be summarily closed, its pumps drawn and a guard placed over it.

Up Canyon Creek, where none but union miners are employed, they still sullenly refuse to make application for the cards. In order to secure a permit the miner must renounce membership in the "society which has favorer or encouraged" the recent lawlessness in the district. The union is not, however, named outright in the printed forms to which the applicant must subscribe. Only about a dozen men from the Canyon Creek district have secured their cards. Of those who remain many are determined to stick to the union to the last. Others are afraid to take out cards until after the end of the week.

The owners of the mines up Canyon Creek are rapidly deciding to close them down absolutely during the continuance of the labor troubles. It has been decided not to import miners.

SAYS SMITH TO MERRIAM

No Arrests in Montana Without Proper Authority From the State.

Helena, Mont., May 16.—Governor Smith has addressed a letter to General Merriam, Commanding General of the military forces in the Coeur d'Alenes while that district is under martial law, to the effect that no more arrests of persons suspected to have been implicated in the Wardner riot may be made in Montana, without proper authority from the State.

A committee from the Butte labor unions has represented to the Governor that General Merriam is preparing to arrest all miners in Montana suspected of leaving the Coeur d'Alenes, and that if the military are permitted to do this many innocent men will be deprived of their liberty without process of law.

Department Upholds Merriam's Order.

Washington, May 16.—The action of Gov. Smith in notifying General Merriam that no further arrests must be made except by acts of civil authorities, is believed to foreshadow serious trouble between the military and civil officials.

War Department officials sustain Gen. Merriam in his position, and say that while the disorder continues, the authority of the United States is supreme, and that as the troops were asked for to suppress lawlessness, there can be no question of a clash between Federal and State authority.

In other quarters, however, General Merriam is condemned and Governor Smith upheld. State rights come first, it is argued, and the War Department is ignoring them.

"Governor Merriam will obey his orders," Adjutant-General Corbin said. "There will be no trouble between him and Governor Smith."

Kansas Miners Against Strike.

Pittsburg, Kan., May 16.—A majority of the coal miners in this district, ordered out last week by National President Mitchell, of the U. M. W. A., have gone to work. Mass meetings against a strike were held in the various camps. It is believed that but a very small percentage of the 12,000 men affected by the strike order will obey it.

Tennessee Miners Strike.

Chattanooga, May 16.—Three hundred coal miners of the New Soddy Coal Company, in this county have struck. The company recently discharged a number of men because they belonged to the Mine Workers' Union.

No Extra Session of Congress.

Washington, May 16.—A member of the Administration who is in a position to know the views of the President on the subject, said that the probabilities were against an extra session of Congress. He thought that the President had given the subject some thought, but he was reasonably sure that no call would be issued, except in case of some unlooked for contingency.

Insolvent Bank Dividends.

Washington, May 16.—The Comptroller of the Currency has declared dividends in favor of the creditors of insolvent National banks as follows:

Ten per cent., the First National Bank of Ithaca, Mich.; 5 per cent., the Consolidated National Bank of San Diego, Cal.; 5 per cent., the Union National Bank of Denver Col.

Railroad President Killed.

De Soto, Mo., May 16.—H. N. Halladay, president of the Williamsville, Greenell and St. Louis Railway, was shot and killed at Williamsville by Monroe Johnson, a prominent lumberman.

MORE DOCK TROUBLE

Buffalo Shovelers Refuse to Return to Work Unless Workers are Discharged.

Buffalo, May 16.—There was a hitch in the settlement of the grain shovellers' trouble at the docks. Several hundred of the men who had been out of work since the season opened reported at the elevators with their dinner pails and shovels, but refused to go to work unless the men who had been working for the contractor was discharged. There is nothing in the text of the agreement signed at he Iroquois Hotel calling for the discharge of these men, and the contractors have stated that they would not discharge the old men.

The so-called strikers say they will not work unless the men they call "scabs" are discharged. The men voted to accept the agreement but not until after it had been asserted from the platform by Rowland B. Mahany that the contractors would discharge the old men. The indications are that the trouble is still far from settlement.

When several hundred scoopers appeared at the Dakota, Coatsworth, Great Northern and other elevators they were told that they would not be allowed to work without cards from W. J. Conners, the contractor. Others at the Erie, Export, Electric and other elevators were allowed to work, owing to a misunderstanding of Mr. Conner's orders, but were afterwards called out by order of the union.

About 300 men assembled near the City Elevator, where they found between 30 and 40 men working. They became very angry and the police refused to allow them on the dock. Some of the monthly men threatened to quit unless the men at work were discharged. After a short discussion Superintendent Cutting decided to suspend operations.

Business was at a standstill at the coal and ore docks, but the railroads had men at work on their docks handling freight. Thirty-five levee negroes from Cincinnati, were put to work on the Central docks. The "monthly men" from the elevators held a meeting at Nagel's Hall and determined to order out all the men who manipulated the steam shovels. The situation had not been so serious before. The "monthly men" at the various elevators have determined to strike. This will completely tie up the elevators.

LATER. The monthly men all went out. Every elevator was completly tied up.

HOUNDS CATCH A NEGRO.

After Long Chase Quarry is Run to Earth by Bloodhounds in Tennessee.

Chattanooga, May 16.—Bloodhounds after a long chase have run down a negro who attempted to assault a young girl at Dayton, sixty miles above here, on May 4.

The people of the place are infuriated, and it is feared that the prisoner will be lynched.

When the dogs finally snuffed out the negro's hiding place, they were with difficulty prevented from tearing him to pieces.

The intended victim of the negro was Miss Bessie Sparks, the eighteen-year-old daughter of a well-to-do citizen of Rhea County, who was visiting the family of J. T. Dean, president of the Dayton Banking & Trust Company.

THE LATEST NEWS.

HYPNOSIS AS CURE FOR INSANITY.

Paterson, N. J., May 16.—An operation has just been performed in the General Hospital in this city by Dr. John C. McCoy, one of the leading physicians, whose office is at No. 138 Broadway. The subject was a young woman of good family. She was sent to the hospital by her relatives in a condition of insanity brought on by disgrace consequent upon her misplaced confidence in a young man's promises. She was insane. The physicians of the hospital agreed to that, and unless some unusual treatment could be had there was no escape for her from confinement in an institution. Dr. McCoy is a thorough student, rated as a clever surgeon, and has practiced hypnotism. He determined to try hypnosis on the young woman. He did so, and with results which, if they are to be believed in their entirety, mark an epoch in the advancement of psychical accomplishment. In four days the young woman was cured of her insanity by the complete eradication from her mind of all memory of her disgrace. At the end of that time she left the hospital in good health and otherwise completely unchanged from her normal self, except, it is asserted, in these particulars. She has completely forgotten her disgrace as much as if it had never happened.

RIOTING GOING ON IN CIENFUEGOS.

Cienfuegos, May 16.—A gang of Cuban dock laborers called upon Captain Barker, Captain of the Port, and made a demand for back pay. As they were violent Captain Barker drew his revolver. The laborers retired, but returned soon after with fifty others and made a similar demand, insulting Captain Barker and making threats. The Cuban police were ordered to arrest the malcontents, and a general street fight followed, in which one laborer was killed and seven persons were wounded, including three members of the police force. As the Cuban populace became very insulting and threatened revenge, an outbreak was expected, and the Second United States Infantry Regiment was ordered into the city. The troops are patrolling the town this evening. The Cubans are well armed.

LICENSE FOR THE CONEY ISLAND A. C.

New York, May 16.—The Police Commissioners granted to the Coney Island Athletic Club a license, thus assuring that the big fight between Fitzsimmons and Jeffries will be held in this city.

Lord Salisbury Has Wired the Legation at Pekin to Support the Chinese Foreign Office in its Refusal to Grant Russia New Railway Concessions Connecting Pekin and Manchuria.

London, May 16.—Lord Salisbury has wired to the Legation at Pekin to support vigorously the Tsung-li-Yamen (Chinese Foreign Office) in its refusal to accede to Russia's demands for a new railway concession connecting Pekin with Russia's system, now under construction in Manchuria.

The concession asked for would ruin the existing northern railways in which British capital to the amount of over £2,000,000 is invested.

CZAR OF RUSSIA.

The Russian demand was made on behalf of the Russo-Chinese Bank, immediately after the Tsung-li-Yamen was notified of the agreement that had been reached between Great Britain and Russia regarding spheres of influence in China.

Replying to this application, the Tsung-li-Yamen recalled the circular that was sent to the various legations last Autumn declining to grant any further railway concessions until the lines already proposed were in working order.

It says it refused on this ground to grant to a British syndicate a concession to build a line to connect Chentu and Canton, and that it could not therefore grant to Russians what it had refused to the British.

The Chinese are greatly alarmed over this latest Russian demand realizing that such a railroad concession would mean the occupation of the northwestern province of China Proper and perhaps the capital city itself, by Russian troops, as they already have occupied a large section of Manchuria.

Britain sees in the Russian move a plan to parallel the New Chawang Railroad, which connects Pekin with Manchuria, by way of Tien-Tsin. This line was built by British capital, and is under Chinese control.

The Hague, May 16.—Delegates to the Czar's Peace Congress are beginning to arrive, and every preparation has been made for the opening session on Thursday, but war news occupies more of their attention than peace plans.

An army of secretaries and other attaches of the various delegations have been busy for a week arranging the preliminaries, and only a few minor details remain to be settled.

Navy Loses Prize Money.

Washington, May 16.—The United States Supreme Court decided the prize money case of the French steamer Olynde Rodriguez, the first of the naval prize money cases growing out of the Spanish war, to reach the court.

The decision was announced by Chief Justice Fuller and directed that the vessel, which was captured off San Juan, Porto Rico, on the 17th of July last, and has been held since by this Government, shall be returned to its owners, on the ground that it was not proven that the steamer's officers intended to enter the blockaded port. The court held incidentally that the blockade of San Juan was effective.

The President's Western Tour.

Hot Springs, Va., May 16.—President McKinley has practically promised to make a visit to Minneapolis and St. Paul this summer or fall in connection with a Western trip. Congressman Fletcher, of Minnesota, arrived and presented to Mr. McKinley an invitation to visit that State. Unless conditions beyond the President's control prevent, he will include St. Paul and Minneapolis in his tour.

Mr. Chapin Brown, of Washington, acting for the National Peace Jubilee to be held there next week, notified Mr. McKinley of some changes in the programme.

We won't say anything about our 20c Coffee. Everybody uses it.

A young man in Barre, Vt., twenty-two years of age, had acquired the horrid cigarette habit, and for five years was such a slave to the craving that his health was all used up. He was finally influenced by a good woman, who took an interest in him, to make an effort to break away from the disgusting practice, and for the headache, heartburn and other ills incident to the loss of the accustomed stimulant she induced him to take a Ripans Tabule whenever occasion required. He is now entirely cured, and for the good health he now enjoys gives R·I·P·A·N·S all the credit. He still takes a Tabule now and then if any craving or other indication of his former weakness threatens or overtakes him.

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (120 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York. A single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. RIPANS TABULES may also be had of druggists, general storekeepers, news dealers and at liquor stores and barber shops.

A Cablegram From Hong Kong Says Aguinaldo Refuses All Terms. Will Fight to the End.

"Luna's Reported Overtures of Peace Untrue—Heat and Rain Causing Many Deaths in American Army—Volunteers Abused and Given Scanty Rations—Discontented Americans and Europeans."

Manila, May 16.—The gunboats Laguna de Bay and Cavadonga and a launch, under Capt. Grant, ran into a nest of insurgents concealed in the bushes on both sides of the Rio Grande River, three miles above Calumpit, and were received with heavy volleys at short range.

A sergeant of the Utah Battery was killed and one private wounded. Opening with their rapid-firing guns, the Americans killed twenty of the natives and wounded sevreal others, filling the jungle with a hail of shot for a half hour, until the enemy fled

London, May 16.—The Filipino Junta here has received the following message from Aguinaldo cabled from Hong Kong.

"The Filipino Government, in accordance with the general feeling of the country, has decided to continue the war at all costs until independence is secured.

"The Filipinos energetically refuse the American peace overtures, based on restricted autonomy, coupled with promises of subsequent self-government.

"The Filipinos demand a strict fulfilment of the articles of the American Constitution and treaties contracted by the American representatives when imploring a Filipino alliance in combating the Spaniards.

"All the Filipino Generals support Aguinaldo. Gen. Luna's reported overtures for peace are untrue. Our army is near Manila simultaneously attacking the whole American line.

"The heat and rains are causing many casualties in the American army. All the hospitals are crowded with sick and wounded.

"Four hundred of the Cincinnati regiment have been imprisoned by Gen. Otis for insubordination in refusing to fight.

"The regular troops quartered in Manila and other towns are quiet. The volunteers are abused and are always at the front with scanty rations.

"The discontent between the Americans and Europeans is general."

Two Transports Arrive.

New York, May 16.—The United States transport Kilpatrick, Capt. Charles T. Baker, arrived from Havana via Nuevitas. She brought 409 soldiers of the 8th Cavalry, who, having served their terms of enlistment, will be discharged at this port. The men are in charge of Lieut. G. E. Stookle and Dr. R. H. Zanner, A. A. S., U. S. N. The Kilpatrick was inspected at Quarantine at 11 A. M. and proceeded to pier 22, Brooklyn. The transport will undergo extensive repairs at this port.

The United States transport Florida, Capt. Allen, arrived from Nuevitas, Cuba, with 337 officers and men of the 15th United States Infantry and 8th United States Cavalry, most of whom are discharged from service. The time of passage was more than the necessary quarantine period of five days, and the transport was therefore permitted to proceed after the usual inspection and disinfection at Quarantine.

Engineers for Manila

Willetts Point, N. Y., May 16.—The Engineer detachment, the eighty members of which volunteerd two weeks ago to go to reenforce Company A of the Engineer battalion at Manila, started on its long journey under command of Lieut. Chase Doster of the 21st Infantry who is also on his way to join his regiment there. The men turned out in heavy marching order in front of Company B barracks, where Lieut. Alstatter of the Engineers turned them over to Lieut. Doster. Then, headed by the post band playing patriotic airs, they marched to the pier and took the steamboat Gen. Meigs for Jersey City.

This is the second body of well trained men that Major Knight has sent to the Antipodes. The men will go from Jersey City over the Pennsylvania Railroad to San Francisco. They will sail for Manila on May 22.

Filipino Clergy Appeal to the Pope

Rome, May 16.—A memorandum from the Filipino clergy has been received by the Pope. It is supposed to be a request to lodge a complaint against American "atrocities" in the Philippines. The details of the communication are kept most secret, as the Pope is powerless to intervene in the Philippines, inasmuch as his intervention has not been solicited, and he cannot take the initiative after President McKinley declined the Papal intervention in Cuba.

Fifty Ambulances Sent to Gen. Otis.

Washington, May 16.—Quartermaster-Gen. Ludington recently shipped to Manila nearly fifty ambulances for use by the American troops. It is probable that half of that number have already arrived and twenty-four are expected to reach there within the present week.

Filipinos Inoculate With Leprosy

Milwaukee, May 16.—Frederick W. Schneider, late of the First South Dakota Infantry, has just arrived in Milwaukee and tells a remarkable story about the manner in which the Filipino insurgents inoculate the American soldiers who taken prisoners with the virus of leprosy.

ROW AT PRINCETON

College Students Attack Pawnee Bill's Circus Parade—Several Seriously Hurt.

Princeton, N. J., May 16.—A riot occurred when the Princeton students and Pawnee Bill's cow punchers Cheyenne and Sioux Indians and South American bola throwers came together on Nassau street, in front of the telegraph office, in a hand-to-hand fight.

An old colored man named Dillon was struck by one of the bola throwers, and was carried bleeding and senseless to Dr. Bergen's house. He is seriously injured.

Oscar Gardner, of Iowa, of the class of 1891, was also hit by one of the bola throwers and was seriously bruised about the head.

"Rube" Willie, the Roman standing rider, of Pawnee Bill's show, was hit with a rock that followed the bola throwing, and was knocked senseless.

A number of students and cow punchers, besides several Indians, were struck by missiles, butts of guns and bolas, and were more or less seriously injured.

The trouble was precipitated by the students throwing cannon fire-crackers under the feet of the Indians' horses.

Hurrying Soldiers Home.

New York, May 16.—The War Department has entered vigorously upon the work of transporting discharged and overtime soldiers from Cuban and Porto Ricon ports to this country, and it was said at the Army Building that all the soldiers whose terms of service have expired and all the regiments that have been ordered home would be brought North within the next three weeks.

Three transports having on board 1,200 discharged soldiers and two entire regiments still in service, are expected to arrive in this port within the next two days. These transports are the Dixie, which left Manzanillo on May 11 with the 4th immune Regiment on board; the McPherson, which left Santiago on May 12, with Gen. Guy V. Henry and 600 men, due here to day, and the Meade, which is on the way from Ponce, bringing the 19th Regular Infantry. The transports carrying the 4th immunes and the 19th Infantry will be ordered to proceed direct to the foot of Bay street, Jersey City, where the men will disembark, proceeding by train to Camp Meade, Pennsylvania. There they will be paid off and many of them mustered out of the service.

In order to expedite the work of paying off the discharged soldiers, officers of the Paymaster's Department will go by the Government steamboat Gen. Meigs to meet the transports at Quarantine and the men will receive their pay while the transports are coming up the Bay.

Col. A. S. Kimball, Assistant Quartermaster-General, said this afternoon that the Department had no accurate records of the number of men who are to leave Cuba. All soldiers in the regular regiments, he said, who enlisted for the war, were now receiving their discharges and would be sent home as rapidly as the number of transports at the disposal of the War Department would allow.

Not an English Victory.

London, May 16.—The cable dispatches, announcing that Dick, Kerr & Co., of London, have secured an order for 300 tons of steel guard rails to be used on the new Boston elevated railroad, have been treated by the newspepers here as an industrial victory for Great Britain an das a reply to the granting to a Philadelphia firm of the contract to erect a bridge over the Atbara River, in the Soudan. A representative of the Associated Press saw Mr. Kerr, the senior partner of the firm. He said: "It is no victory at all. Three contracts, from New York, Boston and Philadelphia, were given to us without solicitation, and simply because the American mills are over-crowded. A few years ago English firms had all this branch of the business, and they held it until the American mills took up the work."

Tube Works Consolidated.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 16.—Officers of the Syracuse Tube Company in this city to-day stated that the National Tube Company, a consolidation of the principal mills in the country making wrought iron and steel pipes and tubes, would probably be effected this week. It will have an annual tonnage of 1,000,000 tons tubular goods and will be capitalized at $65,000,000. The local plant will be purchased outright by the new concern, but will be continued, it is believed, as at present.

Kansas City, May 16.—Friends of Gen. Fred Funston say that he will not accept any political office, but that the daring volunteer soldier is anxious to see his father returned to Congress. # HEROES IN APIA FIGHT.

Ensign Monaghan Dies in the Act of Defending His Superior Officer.

CAUSE OF THE DEFEAT.

Admiral Kautz Reported That Disaster Occurred Because Colt Gun Failed to Work.

It Was Supposed by All the Officers That the Force Was Ample to Do the Work—Twice the Colt Gun Refused to Act—Many Officers and Privates Commended for Bravery.

Washington, May 16.—Secretary Long has made public so much of a recent report from Admiral Kautz upon Samoan affairs as touches upon the killing of a number of American sailors by Mataafa adherents near Apia on April 1.

No mention is made of the reported participation in the affray of the German, Hufnagel, the manager of the plantation where the fight occurred. It is shown that the failure of the Colt gun to work properly was, in a large measure, the cause of the American and British defeat.

Admiral Kautz says that it was the opinion of all the officers that the force was ample to do the work without risk, especially as it was to move along the beach and return the same way, under the protection of the guns of H. M. S. Royalist.

Admiral Kautz appends the reports of the surviving officers of the expedition, which were transmitted by Captain White of the Philadelphia. In his letter of transmittal the captain commends in the strongest terms the work of Passed Assistant Surgeon G. A. Lung. He says: "At all times, when the fire from the concealed natives was thickest, he encouraged the young and inexperienced men to the proper performance of duty. On the completion of the work of his profession he assumed command of our bluejackets and marched them to the United States Consulate.

Captain White describes at length the happenings of April 1. He says that several excursions had been made from the beach back of Apia in the last ten days of March. Few natives had been observed; and, when seen, they always fled when fired upon by the Colt automatic gun. Lieutenant Lansdale set great store by the gun and frequently operated it himself. Says Captain White:

"He appears to have depended greatly upon the gun when the party was ambushed on April 1. Twice it did not act, time was lost in overhauling it and great delay was consumed in trying to get it through the wire fence.

"Lieutenant Lansdale was wounded below the knee soon after the Colt was abandoned, and rendered incapable of marching. He was assisted by his men, one of them, N. S. Edsall, a seaman, being mortally wounded while so doing. It is not clear when Mr. Lansdale received the wound in his chest. It is in evidence most clear that when Ensign Monaghan discovered that Lieutenant Lansdale was wounded he used his best endeavors to convey him to the rear, and seizing a rifle from a disabled man made a brave defense; but, undoubtedly, he fell shortly after joining him, and the hostiles, flushed with success, bore down on our men.

"The men were not in sufficient numbers to hold out any longer, and they were forced along by a fire which it was impossible to withstand. Ensign Monaghan did stand, however. He stood steadfast by his wounded superior and friend;—one brave man against a score of savages. He died in heroic performance of duty.

"Private Henry L. Hulburt, U. S. M. C., informs me that he saw both Lieutenant Lansdale and Ensign Monaghan after they were killed; that he had been near them a few minutes before and that he had assisted in covering their retreat. He is mentioned by Lieutenant Perkins for bravery and good conduct.

"James Butler, coxswain, was killed instantly while standing and firing against the enemy.

"I have to commend the conduct of F. D. Fisher, in charge of the Colt automatic gun, in coolness and steadiness in twice dismounting and overhauling the gun under fire."

MAN SHOT DOWN ON CROWDED STREET.

New York, May 16.—While Grand street, between the Bowery and Chrystie street, held two great streams of men and women hurrying from work to their homes there came two pistol shots and the cry of a wounded man One man was left alone on the sidewalk, holding a pistol in his hands. Patrolman Black was by his side and had taken the weapon from him before his victim was seen. The man who had been shot was Michael Kivelin, head shipping clerk for Lord & Taylor, and he had just left the store, at the Chrystie street corner. The assailant was John Healey of No. 410 East Tenth street, who was discharged from the store a month ago.

"He killed my child. What would you have done if he had killed your child?"

This was Healey's wail when he realized that he was under arrest. He had lain in wait for his victim on the edge of the sidewalk. When Kivelin passed, Healy darted up behind him in the crowd and shot him twice in the shoulders.

Healey has a wife and four children. A year ago he went to work in Lord & Taylor's store and be began to show signs of mental derangement soon afterward. An infant child died and Healey became despondept and morose. He hd threatened a man named Morrison and others in Lord & Taylor's, among them being Kivelin.

Since his discharge he has said that he believed Kivelin had something to do with him losing his place. He was employed as a packer.

At the Eldridge street police station Healey would give no further explanation of the shooting beyond his remark to the policeman showing that he held Kivelin responsible for the death of his infant child.

Hitting the Newspapers.

The Morris County Board of Freeholders has been struck with a spasm of economy, and in looking around for expenses to lop off they have fell on newspapers. For years it has been the practice of that county to pay for the publication of the report of the County Collector every three years in a number of newspapers in the county.

[illegible] the example of their predecessors, the New Jersey [illegible] Morris county legislature decided to stop this business and of printing the report in places they will be [illegible] of the bailiwick, [illegible] direct route to [illegible] by having them printed. The Colonial [illegible] the most important [illegible] county and [illegible] holders owe it to the facts [illegible] read be[illegible] what will [illegible] persons. [illegible] on of [illegible] will [illegible] in[illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible] ket [illegible] et fo[illegible] one of [illegible] ents of th[illegible] h the Free[illegible] uents to have [illegible] this report s[illegible] c in a manner t[illegible] gest number of p[illegible] that the distributi[illegible] containing the report [illegible] ctive in spreading the [illegible], although we suppose t[illegible] ers will doubtless hold up th[illegible] action of the New Jersey [illegible] ture in abolishing the printing [illegible] session laws as ample precedent [illegible] air conduct.

[illegible] money appropriated for newspaper advertising is judiciously and [illegible] tively used, but money expended [illegible] printing a pamphlet containing [illegible] substance of this report is thrown [illegible] way. It is not the sort of economy [illegible] hat is best for the interests of the [illegible] community.

A perusal of the men appointed to [illegible] the position of call firemen by Mayor [illegible] Rockfellow at the meeting of the [illegible] Common Council last night, will show [illegible] that they are a class of citizens who [illegible] have taken to fighting fires in the past [illegible] ndily as a duck takes to water in [illegible]

GOVERNMENT HOUSE AT APIA.

Recent events have drawn attention to Samoa, and at least three governments are deeply interested in the history that has been made in the Southern Pacific. Apia is the principal town in the Samoan group of islands and it is there that the seat of government is located. The town is crescent shaped, following the shore of the bay. The foreigners, of whom there are about 400, occupy the center of the crescent, while the natives live at its two ends. The illustration shows the government house at Apia.

a rain storm. It can be truly said that firemen are born, not made. The list of appointments made under the new ordinance is comprised of the men who have been the best volunteer firemen in recent years. The amount of pay they will receive is not very great, and if it was not for their natural inclinations in the fire fighting line it is doubtful if any of them would care to enter into the strict contract with the city which their acceptance of the appointment carries.

Governor Voorhees has selected the design of the medals to be presented by the State to the soldiers and sailor volunteers in the Spanish war. The design will be a modification of a maltese cross of bronze, and about the size of a silver dollar. The front will be decorated with a laurel wreath. The obverse side will bear the inscription, "Presented by the State to ——," sailor or soldier, as the case might be. The medal will be pendant from a bronze bar, to which will be attached a blue ribbon. It is expected that the medals will be presented to the volunteers of the State about the Fourth of July.

As a municipal corporation Plainfield will probably gain a little in finances by the enforcement of the Martin Act, but as a city bent on real estate development and activity the enforcement of this law, and the consequent disclosures it has made in regard to the involved properties that were thought to be entirely free and clear of encumberances, has done more injury than the amount of money to be received will ever do good.

The fact that the people of Somerset county have petitioned for three times, as many miles of macadam roads as can be built under the law within the next year by the Board of Freeholders, shows a proper appreciation of the improved highways that have already been constructed. There is no greater boon for all classes of citizens than good roads.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The largest demands for improved roads come from Somerset and Burlington counties. The farmers have learned that good roads mean less wear and tear on horses and wagons and reduced cost of transportation.—New York Tribune.

* * * * *

The Brooklyn Bridge has built up Long Island at the expense of New Jersey. If that great structure had not been built the section of this State north of the Raritan would now be much more densely populated, and there would be prosperous communities built up in East Jersey where now there are unoccupied hills and valleys. The completion of a tunnel under the East River, which will be in operation in less than three years, will make another important outlet from New York into Long Island and must have an unfavorable effect upon the growth of New Jersey until the proposed Hudson River bridge is built. That enterprise, when carried out, will restore the natural advantages enjoyed by New Jersey and turn a tide of population westward from the metropolis.

PASSING COMMENT

[illegible]gs that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

[illegible]day morning, April 23d, Miss [illegible]e G. Hawkins, of LaGrande [illegible] had the pleasure to receive [illegible] of Plainfield's party visiting [illegible] and, a letter dated "Jerusa[illegible] Easter Day, April 2, 1899," [illegible] preparations were being [illegible] to Calvary. The com[illegible] closed a letter testifying worth of the late French; also a card [illegible]ber of "Flowers of Gethsemane,"

A well-know boroughite aged three points above forty was asked by a chance acquaintance in a noted hotel reading room up in New York State one evening last week if he knew a man named Peter P. Voorhees, who resided in Plainfield during and after the war. The boroughite replied that he knew almost every man, woman and child of that period and for twenty years following, and said that the party inquired about lived then on the Webster farm and that he committed suicide in the middle of the sixties dy drowning in an unused cistern on that place. The chance acquaintance was surprised at the boroughite's memory and they smoked and chatted the evening away together. The Webster farm is the property opposite Uncle Isaac Brown's place on Watchung avenue. How many are there about here who can remember this event.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. ## MATERIALS AND COLORS.

Sheer Fabrics and Brilliant and Delicate Shades.

This season's fabrics are ravishingly pretty. They have borrowed the tints and lightness of the butterfly's wing and the flower's petal, and dainty delicacy reigns supreme. Airy materials are in the very van of fashion, not merely the usual mousseline de soie, tulle, crepe de chine, gauze and lace, which are becoming an old story, but all sorts of variations of these themes. Nor is this airiness confined to silks. Lawns and muslins and similar wash goods are of the sheerest description, and even the new wools are light and transparent. Wool canvases and grenadines are hardly heavier than cambric and are seen in equally delicate colorings. Veilings, too, are among the favored fabrics, while, returning to silks, there is the whole range of liberty gauzes and even a very light, thin velvet. Summer is coming, if the market is to be believed, and it will be a summer of most attractive fashions.

Among colors blue of an entirely frank shade may be reckoned as the leading favorite. A most trying color it is, too, for the average complexion, but that makes no difference when fashion is in question, and so blue gowns and blue hats predominate among the advance models. So also bluets are again in strong evidence among flowers, and unpardonable liberties have been taken with the vegetable kingdom, in no way more strikingly than in the construction of vivid blue roses, which are placidly accepted by the fashionable woman with no logical uneasiness.

BLUET HAT.

The illustration depicts a pleasing hat of deep periwinkle blue straw, the brim of which forms a sort of double puff, the crown being of shirred mousseline de soie of the same color. At the left side of the brim, next the hair, is a group of bluets mixed with blue mousseline de soie and blue ribbon, and the trimming at the top of the hat consists of a piquet of shaded bluets rising from a knot of light periwinkle satin.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A WHITE SEASON.

Pique, Muslin and Other Wash Goods In Their Glory.

It is to be a white season again, and during a white season wash fabrics are in their glory. There is no white cotton fabric which is not pressing well to the front now—dotted muslins and mulls, duck, pique both plain and fancy, sheer white swiss muslin, lawn, all over embroidery, nainsook tucking, varied by strips of insertion or puffing and perhaps, prettiest of all, sheer white dimity with tiny lines of corduroy, than which nothing is more dainty and simple. Barred muslins, oddly enough, are less prominent than usual, but perhaps the universal favoritism of pique has crowded them to one side.

In the list of model costumes of wash goods swiss muslin and pique are foremost and are represented with about equal value, but they do not clash, as pique naturally falls into the tailor made class, while swiss muslin belongs to the soft, vaporous and elaborate order. It is never seen alone, but is always enriched by quantities of lace, usually valenciennes, which, either in the form of edging or insertion, is placed wherever the present style of cut of the gown will admit of its presence—namely, on flounces and, as far as insertion is concerned, in the body of the skirt and corsage and in the sleeves. There are also separate white waists, not shirt waists, of much elaboration, which are practically a mass of openwork lace and embroidery, delightfully cool to see and wear and also equally difficult to launder.

CHILD'S DRESS.

The picture illustrates a little child's frock of white batiste covered with an embroidered design in pale blue. The little skirt and bodice are sewed together at the waist. The square neck is surrounded by a double bertha of open embroidery, blue on a white ground, and the bertha covers the short sleeves. Two ruffles to match edge the foot of the skirt, and at the waist are two bows of deep blue ribbon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

To Make Bathrooms Attractive.

No matter how small a bathroom is, it can always be made fresh, dainty and comfortable, if properly fitted up with the many labor saving and comfort giving appliances that are now obtainable.

It is well to have the walls and floor match if possible. Should tiles or hardwood be too expensive, there are many attractive designs in tile paper that look well on the walls, and by treating the floor with linoleum in a corresponding design a charming effect is produced. Many of the tubs are of porcelain, but if this is not the case they can be made to resemble porcelain by painting them white. In front of a tub nothing is prettier than the fresh-looking white bath mat. The sponges can be kept sweet and clean by placing them in open racks suspended over the tub. These racks come in nickle and are most desirable, but those made of the twisted wire answer the purpose exactly as well and are less expensive They are pretty when enamelled to match the tub or the prevailing tone of the room.

Two or three shelves placed conveniently are not too many, and when enamelled with white they give an air of freshness to the room. The china mugs toothbrush holders, soap dishes, etc., are more dainty than those of silver and much easier to keep clean. Of course, there is almost an unlimited number of bathroom conveniences, but with a few dollars and a small outlay of thought bathrooms can be made much more attractive and convenient than they are generally.

Combination Chair and Work Table.

This chair is one of the newest pieces in furniture. It shows the fine, simple lines and plain carving of the best cabinet makers, and serves also two purposes in having a table top on the back that can be turned up for use at a moment's notice.

COMBINATION CHAIR AND TABLE.

Children's Courtesies.

It is significant to observe how some men fail to know how to treat their wives and sisters when they meet them. It seems to them quite unnecessary to lift their hats or to give their nearest and dearest the courtesy they would freely render to any woman outside of the domestic circle. This should not be, and the sooner a revolution is accomplished the better. The ablest and most persuasive treatise in the etiquette of the home will not be able by itself to work the change, although it would be helpful toward that end. What is needed is the right training of boys and girls. Courteous behavior should be enforced by parents in the same way as other good qualities are taught.

One of the most successful instructors of the young in our day bears this testimony: "People complain of the way children behave and lay the blame of their behavior on the day school, but if they would only make the children do at home as they are required to do in school, matters would be different. They laugh at the child when he lifts his hat or says 'Please' or 'Thank you,' forgetting that others are trying to make up for their neglect of duty." This word in season should stir up parents to a sense of the importance of cultivating by precept and example the requirements of domestic etiquette.

Ages of French Brides.

The Hachette Almanac for the current year gives some very interesting statistics as to the age of brides in France. Only 13 out of 100 young women marry between the ages of fifteen and twenty. From twenty to twenty-five years the average is 60 out of 100. The further from her twenty-fifth year the maid travels the slimmer are her chances for marriage; still up to thirty years the nuptial chimes ring out for 22 out of 100.

Maids from thirty to thirty-five years old have 12 chances in 100; from thirty-five to forty years, 6, and from forty to forty-five years only 5 in 100 There is only one lucky female in 100 who marries when between forty-five and fifty years old.

It must not be supposed, however, that after fifty oblivion covers the heart of "belated maids." Even when between the years of sixty and sixty-five there is a chance for one maid among 365.

The strongest competitors maids have to encounter are the widows, for they marry with equal if not better chances than their sisters.

A Notion About Pressing.

Do not press a sleeve or dress waist seam on a flat surface. Keep a board for the purpose made from a rolling pin sawed in half lengthwise, so that it will rest firmly on a table beneath the weight of the iron, and then cover it as you would an ironing board. It supplies just what is needed, a curved smooth surface.

ABOUT FACE WRINKLES

Common Sense and Persistent Manipulation Will Remove Them.

To smooth the lines out of the face by manipulation is not a difficult task. It requires persistency and common sense, to be sure, Common sense most women possess persistency is a rare attribute.

There is nothing complicated in the art of facial manipulation.

Just consider that your face is a bit of creased silk or ribbon and that you are to take the creases out by hand, without the aid of a heavy hot iron.

Instead of dampening with water, as we would to remove creases from silk, apply a little good skin food to the surface to be manipulated to soften the texture and cause it to more quickly respond

Begin with the forehead and press gently but firmly, making the movement that would take the creases out of silk.

That is to say, the movement the reverse of the formation of the lines.

Next the lines under the eyes should be gently ironed with the fingers.

Then the cheeks, and here the movement should always be an upward one, as drooping lines are very far from becoming.

There are two cheek movements—one direction toward the lines near the nose, the other one toward restoring the flaccid muscles that give the sunken appearance just below the cheeks.

The neck movement should be from the centre of the throat under the chin to the back of the neck.

Take Seats on the Floor.

It is the custom of nearly every young girl to sit on the floor while putting on her shoes. Indeed, many women keep up the habit until middle age, though full-fledged womanhood not infrequently displays such embonment as would make such a course difficult. Even in the case of a stout woman, according to the statement of an English physician, sitting on the floor is advisable as giving exercise such as those of portly dimensions are much in need. The medical man asserts that a position on the floor or ground is more natural than that occupied while using a chair ."It was once general with the human race," says he, "and should therefore be healthy." The exercise of getting up and down is beneficial, as it is very apt to produce strong back and thigh muscles. Turks, tailors and shoemakers are examples of this fact. If you sit on the floor you can change your attitude as often as you please, and can enjoy a variety of poses, as, no matter how you may alter it there is never any danger of falling off. The influx of visitors need never cause anxiety to the well-constructed mind. All you have to do is to provide comfortable cushions of every size and shape, and when a favored friend comes in just roll off your own and present them as the greatest possible compliment.

The Girls Everyone Likes.

The most lovable girls in the world are those of sunny disposition. A few people like the quiet, thoughtful girl; others like the girl who is perpetually vivacious and bubbling over with spirits, but everyone likes the girl with the cheery, sunny disposition. Girls of this character are never extravagantly boisterous or dismally quiet. They have a pleasant smile for every one. They never seem troubled or worried. Their voice is low and musical, and their smile—be they pretty or not—is always sweet. The only trouble that the sunny-tempered girl has is the outcome of her popularity.

Everybody wants to talk to her and be in her company. Young men are attracted to her without effort on her part, for her character shows itself so plainly in her actions that young men are delighted at the cheeriness and sympathy of her nature and are drawn to her at once. For every reason, then, the girl with the sunny disposition, who smiles away the troubles of life, is a favorite, and, what is more, old people are just as charmed by her as young.

Tell This to Your Friends.

Test your flour by taking up a handful. If it holds together in a mass, showing the impress of the fingers, it is all right.

Three good meals a day are needed for growing children.

Throw the weight of the body on the hips and walk like a nymph.

Sprinkle the books that are threatened with mould with a few drops of oil of lavender.

Eat carrots. They are good for the complexion.

The Irony of Fate.

Despondent Tremlow (mournfully)—Well, by gosh! This is the irony of fate for keeps. Here I've spent me last 50 cents ter commit suicide with gas, an' I get a room with 'lectric lights.—Judge.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Aus der Rheinpfalz.

Kaiserslautern. Rechtsanwalt Albert Feith von hier wurde von der Strafkammer des hiesigen Landgerichts wegen Unterschlagung von Prozeßgeldern zu sechs Monaten Gefängniß und acht Jahren Ehrverlust verurtheilt.

Ludwigshafen. Nach einer fidelen Sitzung stürzte Nachts der Assistent der Mannheimer Güterexpedition, Otto Oswald, über die Ufermauer in den Rhein und ertrank.

Lohnfeld. Hier wurden die Wittwe Fuhrmann, sowie ihre Enkelin durch einen Blitzstrahl, welcher in das von ihnen bewohnte Häuschen schlug, getödtet.

Württemberg.

Stuttgart. Das erste württembergische Mädchengymnasium ist hier eröffnet worden. Leiterin der Anstalt ist Baronin Urkull-Gyllenband.—Der frühere Abgeordnete Rudolf Probst ist im Alter von 82 Jahren gestorben. Probst gehörte dem württembergischen Landtage von 1850 bis 1895 an und vertrat den Wahlkreis Biberach. Er gehörte der liberalen Opposition an und vertrat großdeutsche Ansichten. Später neigte er mehr dem Centrum zu, dessen Gründung im württembergischen Landtag hat er jedoch nicht mehr mitgemacht. Dort war er während seiner ganzen parlamentarischen Thätigkeit einer der Führer der Linken. Außerdem gehörte er dem Zollparlament an, sowie von 1871 bis 1873 dem Reichstage, wo er den Wahlkreis Ravensburg vertrat.

Beuren. Hier verlor eine Frau einen 1000-Markschein; eine andere Frau fand ihn und erhielt ganze 40 Pfennige Finderlohn.

Hall. Die Strafkammer verurtheilte den 39 Jahre alten verheiratheten Stadtschultheißen Heinrich Bürklein von Gerabronn wegen fortgesetzter Unterschlagungen—es handelt sich im Ganzen um 521 Mark—neben dem Verluste der bürgerlichen Ehrenrechte auf drei Jahre zu einem Jahr Gefängniß.

Heilbronn. Auf eine sonderbare Weise fand hier ein 19jähriger junger Mann, der in einer hiesigen Weingroßhandlung angestellt war, einen plötzlichen Tod. Er wurde im Keller unter einem Weinfaß todt aufgefunden. Offenbar hatte er versucht, direkt aus dem Faß zu trinken und war zu dem Zweck unter dieses gekrochen. Um seinen Mund an den Hahn zu bringen, hing er seinen Hinterkopf in eine Schnur, die er um das Faß geschlungen hatte, verwickelte sich aber aus unaufgeklärter Ursache in die Schnur und erstickte.

Herrlingen. Dieser Tage wurde hier mit dem Bau eines katholischen Krankenhauses begonnen. Die Kosten desselben belaufen sich auf circa 25,000 Mark. Hiervon wurden 7000 Mark durch eine Lotterie aufgebracht, die in vier benachbarten Oberämtern vertrieben wurde, das übrige wurde durch freiwillige Beiträge bestritten. In Verbindung mit dem Krankenhaus wird zu gleicher Zeit eine Kleinkinderschule erbaut werden.

Hirschlatt. Hier hat Schultheiß Geßler sein Amt, das er fast 45 Jahre lang zur größten Zufriedenheit verwaltete, niedergelegt. Als Seltenheit verdient erwähnt zu werden, daß die Stelle eines Ortsvorstehers nun beinahe 300 Jahre lang in dieser Familie war.

Baden.

Karlsruhe. Hier starb im Alter von 61 Jahren Medizinalrath Albert Seeligmann. Derselbe war einer der beliebtesten Aerzte der Stadt, Erster Vorstand der hiesigen jüdischen Gemeinde des großherzoglichen Oberrathes.

Freiburg. Die hiesigen Schuhmacher haben sich zu einer Zwangsinnung vereinigt. Obermeister ist der erste Vorsitzende der sozialdemokratischen Landesorganisation in Baden.

Heidelberg. Die letzte Probefahrt des Dampfers „Heilbronn" ist ebenfalls verunglückt. Der Dampfer vermochte trotz des günstigen Wasserstandes den „Hackteufel" nicht aus eigener Kraft zu überwinden, ist also für den Neckar „dauernd untauglich." Das Schiff soll nun für die Weser verwendet werden. Für die Personenschifffahrt auf dem Neckar wird voraussichtlich ein kleiner Dampfer verwendet.

Zell a. H. Neulich Nachts brannten hier 12 Häuser, darunter fünf Wohngebäude ab. Das Feuer brach gegen Mitternacht in einem unbewohnten Anwesen aus, das vor einiger Zeit öffentlich im Zwangswege versteigert wurde.

Elsaß-Lothringen.

Metz. Den elsaß-lothringischen Behörden sind vor Kurzem neue Weisungen, betreffend die französischen Deserteure, ertheilt worden. Bis jetzt erhielten die Deserteure von den Behörden Civilkleider und erfuhren weiter keine Belästigung, so lange sie sich gut führten. In Zukunft erhalten sie zwar ebenfalls noch Civilkleider, werden aber je nach ihrer Wahl sofort an die schweizerische oder luxemburgische Grenze verbracht.

Mülhausen. Der Briefträger Morgenroth von hier ist nach Unterschlagung eines Einschreibbriefes, in dem sich 11,000 Mark in Banknoten zu 100 Mark befanden, flüchtig gegangen. Auf die Wiedererlangung des Geldes sind von der Versicherungsgesellschaft Rheinisch-Westfälischer Lloyd, bei der der Brief rückversichert ist, 1000 Mark Belohnung ausgesetzt.

CARSON WILDRED'S CRIME.

A Detective Story of Two Continents, by HARRY WOOD REYNOLDS.

"She has. She told me all about that poor Mr. Farnham, how you made him believe you a friend to be trusted, how you induced him to smoke opium—here in this very room—this awful room—till he was dazed and unconscious, and how he only roused from his stupor just as you were going to burn him alive in your horrible crematory. She told me how the furnace went wrong at the last moment, and you had to kill him in a different way from what you had planned—less easy for you, more dangerous of discovery. Oh, the horror of listening to those details, for she spared me nothing—nothing! I heard from her how Mr. Stanton came in the midst of the dreadful happening on Christmas Day, how she saw him through the door, and afterward, when he had spoken to the police, how you bribed her with jewels and money to pretend that she was your cook, that she had screamed with the pain of burning her foot, and how she painted her ankle to look like a red scar when she had to show some proof of her story. She would have been true to you through everything, she said—poor, misguided woman!—if she had not been taken ill and stopped in London instead of going to France, as she had promised, and so seen in the papers about our coming marriage. What mockery to call it that; and yet I thank Heaven that it need only be a mockery—that it is not real.

"I wonder that the shock of finding that woman concealed in my room—waiting for me to come—did not drive me mad. But I am not mad, such wit as I have I warn you I shall devote to thwarting you, Carson Wildred. Do you think I would go on living under the same roof with you even if in reality I were your wife? No, you can kill me if you like; it is the only way in which you can keep me here."

He did not answer for an instant, then he said slowly:

"Do you remember just putting your name on a paper I asked you to sign for me with my stylographic pen in the train this afternoon? Well, you thought it was merely an order for letters to be sent on to your new address, but it was something rather more important than that. You put your name to a document which leaves all the money of which you die possessed unreservedly to me. I have already had it witnessed by my servant and another. You understand to what this points, perhaps? If you show yourself amenable to reason I shall consider you a wife to be proud of, and there is no ambition which we need cherish in vain if we are to live our lives together. But, on the other hand, unless you will go heart and soul with me, ignoring the past, you have to-day been told too much for my safety, or—your own. What if you should catch a serious cold here at the House by the Lock? Unfortunately the place is rather damp though so charming in many ways. You might have an attack of pneumonia. Only fancy how the world would sympathize with the husband of so beautiful a girl as yourself if he were bereaved of you during the honeymoon!"

"Oh, you are horrible—horrible! It is like death even to listen to you!" cried Karine. "If only there was a soul on earth to help me—but there's none—none!"

His answer, if he made one, was drowned in the crushing of glass. Better that she should be startled, even to the point of swooning, rather than endure for another second the torture that that fiend was inflicting upon her.

I broke in the skylight with a heavy stick, which I had brought up to the roof between my teeth. Then, with my hands cut and bleeding, despite the protection of my gloves, I swung myself down and dropped on to the floor.

There was a cry from Karine, and a sharp exclamation of dismayed astonishment from Wildred, for once outwitted. I had never been a match for him in diplomacy, but when it came to a physical encounter I had every advantage over him and knew it.

He had no time to pull out the knife or revolver for which his hand flew to his pocket, for I was on him, taking him by the throat and shaking him as a terrier shakes a rat.

I had not stopped even to look at Karine and yet the vision of her pale face and hands clasped over her bosom had flashed lightening-like upon my consciousness. "Thank Heaven! thank Heaven!" I could hear her sob. I hoped that she did not look—that she closed her eyes or covered them with her hands—but Wildred did not give me time to make these suggestions. He was more nimble, if he was less strong than I.

HORACE J MARTIN

Expert Horse Shoer,

No. 28 Somerset Street.

Don't trust your shoeing to any one who has not made a study of the horse's foot, it is too delicate in its construction to be handled by a carpenter or butcher. We are having great success in leveling and balancing horses that have been ungaited by being shod by inexperienced men and boys. Our reference is NOT to people who are out of the State, but to OUR CUSTOMERS, who can be found right here in the city and vicinity.

Horses called for and delivered.

I could feel through all his writhings that he was trying to force me along with him toward a certain corner of the room and, realizing it, resolved to thwart him, whatever his object might be. I had come to the knowledge exactly one second too late, however. He had managed to place his foot on a bell concealed under one of the rugs on the floor, and I heard its summons go pealing shrilly out through the house.

HE HAD NO TIME TO DRAW HIS KNIFE FOR I WAS ON HIM.

a man who had accomplished the death of many another, and through his humble accomplice (who now breaks stones at Portland), and the wretched wife, found poisoned in a room upstairs, the secrets of his numerous crimes, and the dark house by the lock, were revealed.

It was not for many a day after that night's terrible experience that I heard all the truth. What with the two wounds I had received and the strain of the past few weeks, which had begun to tell upon me at last, for a time I lay in rather a precarious condition. But one morning I awoke to consciousness and found that the beautiful face which had been near me in my dreams was present in reality. Karine and her brother had nursed me through more than a fortnight's illness.

Had I been quite myself I should have felt that then was not the time to speak of love to the girl who had endured so much. But the words were spoken before my judgment would let me restrain them, as it so often had done in the first sweet sad days of our acquaintance.

"Forgive me," I said weakly. "I'm a brute. You've been such an angel to me—and I oughtn't to have told you now."

"Oughtn't you," she answered softly. Do you remember me saying one evening at the Savoy Hotel that there was only one thing in the world which might even then keep me from making a marriage that was horrible to me?"

"I remember well," I returned. "I remember everything you ever said to me. Will you tell me what the one thing was?"

"I meant if you had loved me. Sometimes I—thought you did, but you would never say so. You only asked to be 'my friend.'"

"Oh, if I had but known—if I had but dared," I exclaimed. "I was perishing of love for you from the first night I ever saw your face. Is it too late now? I don't ask to be your friend. I ask to be everything—your lover and your husband."

"And I give you everything," she said. So it came about that the sunshine of happiness drove forth the black shadows which would fain have lingered to haunt me like ghosts from the house by the lock.

THE END.

ROD AND GUN.

The printing of the 1899 codification of the fish and game laws is now well under way and copies of the pamphlet will be ready for delivery to all applicants in the course of a few days. The changes made are few. A close season of three years has been established on deer and ring necked pheasants, the law prohibiting netting in the Shrewsbury river has been repealed and your honorable body is authorized to grant permits for the killing of birds and the gathering of eggs for scientific purposes. The Legislature has also passed a law prohibiting the sale, possession or offer to sell or purchase of hard clams less than an inch across the hinge and soft clams less than two inches across the hinge, and by a curious anomaly has placed the enforcement of the law in the hands of the fish and game wardens.

GOLF.

The semi-finals and finals for the Fisk cup will be played next Saturday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club grounds.

Owing to the disagreeable weather Saturday there was not a very large attendance at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, and there were no events of special interest. The afternoon was occupied by a fair-sized crowd in general play, but there were no special features. At noon Steward Ivamy had a good-sized crowd for lunch, and in the evening a large number of people stopped for dinner. It was expected that the semi-finals and finals for the Fisk cup would be played, but owing to the fact that some of the contestants could not get away from business the events were postponed for one week.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Howell and others asked the Council to postpone for present action in the collection of back taxes under the Martin Act, until those affected could better arrange to meet the payment. This petition was referred to the committee on collection and assessment of taxes. S. P. T. Wilbur and others asked to have a fire-alarm box located on Westervelt avenue between Orange street and the brook. The petition was referred with power.

Patrolman James A. Totten, through his counsel, Lawyer Robert M. Clark, cited the charge made against him by the city, that of drinking in Kane's saloon on West Third street, and made a demand for trial or a dismissal of the charge. The matter was referred to the Police Board.

Residents of Mariner's avenue petitioned for electric lights on their avenue. A communication was received from President Hugh Fox, of the New Jersey State Children's Guardian Association, stating that such an association is now organized and incorporated for the purpose of taking care of the dependent children of the State, and the Council was asked to make its proportionate appropriation toward the work.

An application was received from Major F. W. Coleman for a liquor license to sell at the Hotel Hunterston. This matter was referred to the proper committee.

The Council received an ivitation to attend Memorial Day exercises in Music Hall in the afternoon of May 30th.

Mr. VanHerwerden offered a resolution regarding the salary to be paid the Martin Act Commissioners for their work. The resolution stated that while the council believed that $1,500 for each commissioner was a reasonable sum, it desired that the Corporation Counsel ask the court to fix the salaries, believing that it would adjust the matter in a satisfactory manner.

Mr. Mellick reported on the request of Myra P. Eddy, of Jersey City, to have $28 66 returned to her, that being the excess amount assessed and collected on property owned by her on Muhlenberg place. Mr. Mellick stated that the amount in question is due the petitioner and on his motion it was ordered returned to her.

On motion offered by Mr. Tolles two new electric lights were located. One will be placed on Fillmore avenue, between East Third street and North avenue, and the other on Madison avenue between Third and Fourth streets.

DESECRATING GRAVES.

Woman in Black Steals Flowers in Hillside Cemetery.

For some time past those in charge of Hillside Cemetery have been troubled greatly with various persons who visit the grounds and wait for opportunities to carry off flowers that have been placed on graves, and it keeps those in charge busy watching these people. Last Saturday afternoon while the relatives of the late Dr. Robert S. Tracy were at the cemetery performing the last sad rites, a woman dressed in mourning and accompanied by two children were in the cemetery. It was then sometime after 5 o'clock and as the woman and the children persisted in hanging around they soon became suspicious persons, and Superintendent Smith kept his eyes on them.

It was some time after the mourners had left the grounds that these people were seen wandering about, and they evidently had their eyes on the very handsome display placed on the new-made grave. By this time Mr. Smith made up his mind that the woman was staying about for no good purpose, and he, together with his foreman, made a tour of inspection. They followed the woman and the children and they had not gone far when they saw Mrs. Gerry, wife of the foreman, chasing the trio across the grounds. The woman had a large bunch of lilacs and was fast making her escape. Mrs. Gerry soon caught her and inquired what right she had to come there and take flowers. The strange woman made some insolent reply, whereupon Mrs. Gerry quickly made her drop the lilacs and ordered her to leave the place immediately, which she did.

The strange-appearing woman is well known in Plainfield, and Mr. Smith will see that she does not have another opportunity to steal flowers. Mr. Smith states that at times a great deal of trouble is experienced in keeping people from picking flowers and taking them away, and he thinks that if the woman in question had been given an opportunity she would have removed flowers from the grave where Dr. Tracy was buried.

Dr. Carroll to Lecture.

A grand opportunity will be given Plainfield people this evening to learn something regarding this country's new possession, Porto Rico, when Hon. H. K. The lecture will be given for the benefit of the church.

ACTION IS INVOLUNTARY.

Difference in the Character of Sound Which Is Made By the Big Shells.

Scream of the Eight Inch Shell and the Angry Roar of the Thirteen—Sampson's Message to General Toral Which Was the Real Means of Accelerating His Surrender.

One of the naval officers off Santiago was talking about ducking his head when bullets or shells came uncomfortably close, and, as he was never known to flinch before any duty and had heard the song of projectiles innumerable in the Civil as well as in the Spanish war, what he said was listened to. "I ducked the other day," he said, "and ducked hard, when a 13-incher from the Oregon went over our deck, forward, and pretty close, too, during the bombardment. Help it? Of course I couldn't. Neither could anyone else. The pregnant hinges of the knee work involuntarily in reverence to one of those roaring monsters. You duck as you would wink if a fellow made a pass at your face or would sneeze if you stuck a feather up your nose. Will power isn't any good as a preventive; hasn't time to work. Your head bobs down and your legs bend before you can say to yourself: 'Don't be a cowardly ass.' Funny, too, and also involuntary, I think, is the quick look that follows the bobbing to see if you have been observed. Of course, you have been and equally of course nothing is said because everyone knows by experience how it is himself."

"How about rifle bullets—Mausers, for instance?" I asked.

"Oh, they're different. Generally they come too fast for ducking and you quickly get used to their ping or their zip. You know, too, that if the sound is a whine the bullet is a good ways off and if it is the sharp 'pst' it is too late to move, as the missle has passed you. Besides, the rifle bullets are usually expected, while I never knew the close arrival of a big projectle to be anything but surprising. I think, too, the windage must have something to do with the effect on nerves and muscles. I have often heard the question discussed as to how close an 8, 10, 12 or 13 inch shell in full flight could come to a man without knocking him over by atmospheric concussion. There doesn't seem to be any rule; seems to depend on the man, or his position at the time the shell passes. I do not believe, however, any one could keep his feet if a high calibre shell came within five feet of him. I have no ambition to try.

"Did you ever notice the difference in the character of the sound made by an 8, 10 or even a 12-inch shell and that which accompanies a 13-inch, 1100-pound fellow?"

I assured him I had not, as when unkind fate made me an attendant at such diapason orchestral feats I thought of sins, not sounds.

"Well, it's very marked. Now your sub-calibre projectiles, and even the bigger ones, below the biggest, have a petulant sort of wail with them. There is a great deal of the squeal mingled with their shriek. Sometimes I've heard an eight-inch cry as if in agony, and the scream of its flight, as it left you, sunk into a sob almost human. But the thirteen-inch means red war, and says so. Its tone is horror made manifest, but the horror that is inspired, not that which is felt. There are few, or none, of the higher notes heard as the devil makes his twelve-mile leap. An angry, dominating roar, a demoniacal spread of sound, a very cleavage of the frightened waves of air—that's what the thirteen tells to the tympanum. But, bless my soul, what rot I'm giving you. Almost poetical, I declare. After all, though, if the greatest poetry is that which most deeply stirs the heart, I imagine the threnody of the big thirteen is not prosaic."

Thinking over this queer differentiation of projectile sound—as if some shells felt regretful over the work they had to do, while the most destructive of all fairly gloat through space on their missions of death—I understood better the full purpose of Sampson's message to Toral, when the Admiral told him: "I have been firing 12-inch shells into Santiago to-day. Unless you surrender, the Oregon, Massachusetts and Indiana will open on you with 13-inch shells to-morrow, commencing about noon."

Toral surrendered, as you will remember, and in his despatch to Blanco mentioned this Sampson ultimatum.

"Oh, My! Oh, My! I Wasn't Scared."

A surgeon relates that before Santiago, he (the surgeon), going to the front, came upon a young officer sitting beside the road, trembling like a leaf, and whiter than the dead men around him. At sight of the surgeon he began to talk, says the San Francisco Argonaut.

"I'm a coward, I'm a coward, I'm a coward," he said; "I knew I'd run, and I did. I'm disgraced forever. I was going along all right, not thinking of anything but getting at the dashed Spaniards, yelling to my men to come on, and running ahead as fast as I could, when all of a sudden I stubbed my toe, or something, and then I can't remember being scared, but I must have been, for I came galloping back here, sick as a dog. I'm a coward, and I wish I were dead! Why don't somebody shoot me? I've got such an awful goneness right here," and he put his hand to his stomach.

The surgeon gave him a quick look and caught him as he plunged forward in a faint. Where the awful goneness was a Mauser bullet had found its billet. They carried the wounded man to the field hospital, and he chuckled all the way. "Oh, my! oh, my!" he said over and over: "I wasn't scared! I wasn't scared!" and then he would laugh delightedly: "I wasn't scared! I was hit—I was just hit. I ain't a coward after all."

MUSIC ACCOMPANIED BY ROLL OF THUNDER.

Art and the Elements Had an Inning at the Same Time.

FIFTH ANNUAL MUSICALE.

GIVEN BY THE SEVENTH-DAY BAPTISTS ENDEAVORERS.

A Large and Appreciative Audience Attracted to Hear the Programme—Vocal and Instrumental Numbers Rendered by Talented Performers—Brilliant Violin Solo by Prof. Conde

The fifth annual musicale of the Seventh-Day Baptist Christian Endeavor society was given last night in the presence of an appreciative audience, which crowded the auditorium and overflowed into the lecture room. A varied and entertaing programme was presented with marked success and greatly enjoyed, despite the fact that most of the selections were rendered to the accompaniment of a heavy downpour of rain and an occasional dull roll of thunder.

The first number was Meyerbeer's "Coronation March," as an instrumental trio, played by Mrs. W. C. Hubbard and Miss Jessie M. Utter. Two dainty songs for women's voices, "Snowdrops" and "Rockabye," were rendered by a women's chorus composed of Mrs. D. E. Titsworth, Mrs. F. T. Clawson, Miss H. E. Allis, Mrs. C. H. Dunham, Mrs. W. C. Hubbard, Mrs. J. E. Kimball, Miss Nan Randolph and Miss Lena Tomlinson. The second selection was sung unaccompanied, and was especially effective.

P. Ludwig Conde next played a violin solo, the first movement from Mendelssohn's Concerto in E Minor, with his usual brilliancy of execution and depth of feeling receiving such enthusiastic applause that he was obliged to give an encore. A soprano solo by Miss Laura Bellini, of New York, followed, a difficult and brilliant aria by Verdi. As an encore Miss Bellini sang a dainty love song.

One of the most successful numbers of the evening was a vocal quartette, unaccompanied, by E. D. Cutting, L. H. Biglow, Jr., A. L. Titsworth and D. E. Titsworth; "Doan ye cry, ma honey." The plaintive plantation air, exquisitely harmonized and effectively rendered, was very warmly received.

The second part of the programme began with a duet for organ and piano, "Fantasie—Martha," by Mrs. W. C. Hubbard and A. L. Titsworth, which was much enjoyed. The male quartette then rendered another selection, "Good Night, Beloved," with excellent effect. As an encore they gave a little comic song.

"The Serenade," by Widor, arranged for an instrumental quintette, and played by P. Ludwig Conde, Clarence Mills, Walter Serrell, Miss Utter, William McKillop and A. L. Titsworth, was the next number, given with taste and feeling. Two charming little songs, "A Dream" and "A May Morning," by Miss Bellini, a harmonized arrangement of "The Lost Chord" by the women's chorus, and a spirited rendering of Weber's "Der Freischutz" by an instrumental quartette composed of P. Ludwig Conde, Walter Serrell, A. L. Titsworth and Miss Utter, closed an unusually successful music evening.

A PROWLER IN THE DARK.

People in West End Frightened by a Rough Man's Actions.

For several nights past the residents living in the vicinity of Clinton avenue and West Front street have been annoyed by a man who has been seen prowling about after dark. He would be seen first around one house then another, but when any one appeared he would walk off

No one was able to get a good sight of him. The police were notified, and the officer on that beat was told to keep a sharp lookout for him. But he was not seen until last night, when Mrs. Hand, who lives near the brook, heard some one trying her front window. She got up and went into the parlor, where she caught a sight of the would be intruder but before she could raise an alarm he had disappeared.

MONEY FOR MISSIONS.

BUT MISS TALMAGE'S WILL IS TO BE CONTESTED BY HER BROTHER.

She Bequeathed Her Estate to Educate Chinese Children After Her Brother Ezekiel Had Used it For His Life.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 17—Ezekiel Talmage, of Piscataway Township, has filed a caveat against the will of his sister, Miss Elizabeth Talmage. Miss Talmage owned a farm in Piscataway, and had personal property to the amount of $1,500. Her will was made a short time before her death and left with her brother in a sealed envelope. He had no idea of its contents, but his sister, he says, gave him to understand that he had been made her sole heir. He appeared at the Surrogate's with the will, but when Deputy Surrogate Daley read it, it was found that it simply gave Ezekiel Talmage a life interest in her estate and provided that at her death the property was to revert to Catherine and Anna Talmage, nieces of Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, to be used according to their judgment and desire for the purpose of Educating children in China.

The legatees are the daughters of John Talmage, a brother of T. DeWitt Talmage. John Talmage's two sons, Rev. William Talmage, of Westfield, N. J., and Rev. J. Talmage, of Schenectady, N. Y., are named as the executors. Accompanying the will was a clipping from The Christian Herald of 1890, containing an illustrated article upon educational work being done by the Talmage sisters among children in China. It went on to say that new lustre would be added to the name of Talmage as a result of their work.

The testator was, so far as known, not related to the family of T. DeWitt Talmage. The connection, if any, is very remote. Each side has retained counsel. The hearing of the case will be delayed for some time, owing to the necessity of communicating with the Talmage sisters, who are in China at present.

RECTOR FISKE SATISFIED.

He Does Not Intend to Leave Westfield for Metuchen.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, May 17—A recent issue of the New Brunswick Times said: "The vestry of St. Luke's church, Metuchen, met last week to discuss the election of a new rector. They wish to call Rev. Charles Fiske, of Westfield, but it is not known that he cares to make a change. Father Fiske is a former New Brunswicker, he and Father Dunham having been classmates at the seminary. It is thought that he would be acceptable to all the congregation."

When seen by a Press representative Father Fiske said: "I am too happy and contented where I am to think of leaving." Father Fiske said he had been approached informally in regard to the Metuchen charge, but that he would decline to consider such a move.

Dr. Stearns' Last Lesson.

There will be a supply of envelopes at the door of "Association Hall" that evening for those who wish them and have not previously received them.

POSTMASTER FIGHT IS A BITTER ONE.

Thompson's Friends Appeal to Governor Voorhees.

HE REFUSES TO INTERFERE.

SENATOR REED'S MOVE INCREASES FACTIONAL BICKERINGS.

Delegation of Somerville Republicans Went to Trenton Yesterday and Importuned the Governor to Take a Hand and Prevent Cooper, Senator Reed's Friend, From Being Appointed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, May 17—Gov. Voorhees was waited upon yesterday afternoon by a large delegation of Somerset county Republicans, headed by Clerk in Chancery Lewis A. Thompson, the object of the visit being to interest the Governor in the fight for postmaster at Somerville. Clerk Thompson and his supporters have succeeded in having the nomination of Geo. C. Cooper for the office held in abeyance, and they are eager to have the matter go over until after the fall election.

It is a part of the old factional fight between Senator Charles A. Reed and Clerk Thompson. The claim is made by the anti-Reed wing that Alvah A. Clark, who is Senator Reed's father-in-law, and who is the Democratic incumbent of the postmastership, tendered his resignation for the purpose of strengthening Reed's chances for a re-nomination for the State Senate next fall. The resignation, it is asserted, was placed in the hands of Senator Reed in order that he might present it when he saw fit. The charge is made that before presenting the resignation Senator Reed secured Congressman Howell's indorsement for Cooper and that the resignation and indorsement were practically given in at the same time.

The Thompsonites immediately got to work and had the appointment held up, and are now making a strong effort to prevent its being made. They claim that the Postmaster should not be named until after the election, at which it is expected that the relative strength of the rival leaders will be made apparent. They confidently expect to down Senator Reed. The appeal to the Governor was a sort of final attempt to reach Senators Sewell and Kean, both of whom are said to favor Cooper's appointment.

Clerk Thompson has always been a strong opponent of Governor Voorhees, while Senator Reed has been a supporter of the Governor. Mr. Thompson based his argument on the broad ground that it was for the good of the party, but the Governor, after hearing all the talk, announced that the Somerset Republicans ought to decide themselves, and he refused to take any part in the squabble.

State Banking Commissioner William Bettle was present at the hearing which took place behind closed doors in the Governor's inner sanctum.

Is It Malaria or Alum?

(Popular Science Monthly.)

Languor, loss of appetite, indigestion and often feverishness are the common symptoms of a physiological condition termed "malaria." All these symptoms may be and frequently are the effect of the use of alum baking powders in food making. There is no question about the poisonous effect of alum upon the system. It obstructs digestion, prostrates the nerves, coagulates and devitalizes the blood. All this has been made clear, thanks to physicians, boards of health, and food commissions. So "highly injurious to the health of the community" does the eminent head of the University of Pennsylvania, Dr. Barker, consider the alum baking powders, that he says "their sale should be prohibited by law."

Under these circumstances it is worth the while of every housewife to employ the very little care that is necessary to keep so dangerous an element from the food of her family.

A pure cream of tartar baking powder, which is the only kind that should be used, ought to cost about forty-five to fifty cents a pound. Therefore, if you are paying much less, something is wrong; if you are paying twenty-five cents or less per pound, the powder is certainly made from alum.

Always bear these simple facts in mind when purchasing baking powder.

The County Endeavorers.

The annual meeting of the Union County C. E. Local Union will be held Friday night at Elizabeth. Officers will be elected for the coming year, and an attendance of all the Endeavorers of the union is expected. It is said that A. A. Lake, of Dunellen, will be the unanimous choice of the union for president.

KEAN GETS FRANCHISE.

ELIZABETH COUNCIL GRANTS THE MUCH-TALKED OF RIGHTS.

Survey of the Road Has Already Begun and it is Expected That it Will be Finished by the End of This Summer

Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 17.—There will be no longer any hitch or delay on the part of the city officials in regard to the trolley franchise, which was passed by the City Council in slightly amended form. Mayor Mack and President Ryan of the City Council signed the ordinance yesterday.

Senator Kean can go ahead now with his trolley road from here to Cranford, and will probably have it completed by November, and the Elizabeth portion finished and in operation by the end of summer. The survey for the line has already been begun, and Engineer Louis Queen, it is said, will build the road. He built the Staten Island Electric Railway and part of the Consolidated Traction Company's line through Elizabeth.

BERNARDSVILLE TAXES.

Tax Collector DeMun Will Soon Know What the Expert Accountant Finds.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bernardsville, May 17.—Investigation of the accounts of former Tax Collector DeMun, of Bernardsville, by an accountant, is now in the hands of the township counsel, Lindabury, Depue & Faulks, of Newark, who will make a report to the committee of Bernard Township in a few days. A statement will then be given to the public, which will show in detail the tax levy of 1898-99, with receipts and disbursements and a list of delinquents.

In round numbers the total levy during the two years of Mr. DeMun was collector amounts to nearly $85,000. The result of the work of the expert seems to indicate that the trouble in Mr. DeMunn's accounts is due principally to a bad system of bookkeeping.

Walks With Crutches.

George L. Henry, of East Third street, the house mover, is walking about on crutches as the result of an accident he met with six weeks ago. In working about one of the houses he was moving his foot slipped and he fell against a beam in such a way as to bruise the bone of his leg. Although he was not aware of the serious extent of his injuries at first, the bruise now has laid him up.

Contest for Fire Chief.

CALL MEN ASSIGNED TO THEIR POSITIONS.

Fire Department is Now Thoroughly Reorganized.

CALLS TO BE RE-ARRANGED.

ALERT'S CARRIAGE IS TO BE STATIONED IN WEST END.

L. M. Dunavan, the New Full Paid Man, is Assigned to the Chemical Engine—Six Men Apportioned to Each of the Four Companies—The Fire Horses Also Will be Changed Around.

Regarding the change in the fire department system from a volunteer one to a paid one, there are a few things which the public in general do not seem to understand clearly. In the first place the regular officers of the department will stand as appointed early in the year. In the second place, two additional full paid men have been appointed under the new system. They are L. M. Dunavan and George Mehl, Jr. These men can be deputized to do duty anywhere in the city on any apparatus. In the third place there are twenty-four call men who are to receive $25 per annum, and they are to do at least seventy-five per cent duty during a year, and they will respond to alarms of fire in the several districts to which they are assigned, and they are under the direct supervision of the officers in charge of the fire. They are to wear the regulation hat, badge and uniform.

George Mehl, Jr., one of the new full paid men, will not go on duty until June 1st, which is according to an agreement when he was appointed. L. M. Dunavan, the other full paid man, is now on duty and has been assigned to the chemical engine. Mr. Mehl will also be assigned to the chemical.

There is to be a re-arrangement of the fire-alarm calls, and certain companies will respond to certain calls. There will be an announcement made in a few days of the new schedule.

Chief Doane and his assistants met yesterday afternoon and apportioned the various call men to the different companies. No. 1 Hose will be stationed in the house on West Second street, formerly occupied by Gazelle. David S. Dunavan will be acting foreman. The other men assigned to that company are Frazee C. Putnam, Wm. T. Newman, L. J. Spicer, Daniel V. Force and Frank Hart. No. 2 Hose Company will be stationed at fire headquarters, and R. B. Rogers will be acting foremen, with the following assistants: C. W. Smith, W. C. Chamberlain, A. Kahrman, W. P. Henderson and J. P. Clark. Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company will also be stationed at headquarters and W. H. Addis will be acting foreman, with E. J. McCann, H. Kesselring, Walter Harrison, J Cline and G. H. Freeman as assistants.

The Alert hose wagon will be located in the new house in the West End and will be known as No. 3 Hose Company. C. C. Graves will be acting foremen. The other call men assigned to the company are H. Manning, J. Cose, E. E. Vail, Alex Muir and F. T. Marsh.

As stated Alert hose wagon will be placed in the West End house and the grey team now used to the chemical engine will be placed at that house with George Feiring as driver. This change cannot be made, however, until the pavement is completed in front of the house, which will be in a short time.

Driver Townley and his team will be transferred to fire headquarters, where they will be stationed on duty on the chemical. It is a fact that for some time past the officials have not thought the grey team heavy enough for the chemical, hence the change and the use of the other team, which is much heavier.

Now that the new system has been adopted there is a scarcely a dissenting voice against it. It is recognized that if the volunteer system had been continued it would have been necessary to recruit at least one hundred and fifty men, and figuring on this basis it is claimed that the abolishment of the volunteer system means a saving of at least $1,200 to the city, as under the new system there will be no exemption among the paid men in the department, as would be in the case under the volunteer rules. The increased efficiency of the fire department under the new method will be seen from the start, and Plainfield will be more fully protected than ever.

To Hold a Third Trial.

Next Monday the contract case of Vail against Miles, which has already been tried twice, will come up for trial before Justice Smalley. Both times the jury disagreed.

NARROW ESCAPE OF TWO BARBERS FROM DEATH.

One of Them Turned Out the Gas Light, But Left the Jet on so That They Were Nearly Suffocated During the Night

That there are not two dead barbers in Plainfield this morning is due to fortunate circumstances. They are Harry Batten, who is employed by Mr. Neumann, the barber on Park avenue, and Charles Ragan, who is employed by William Feiring, who also conducts a barber shop on Park avenue.

Both Ragan and Batton room together at the City Hotel, and are the best of friends. Ragan got into bed first, and just before Batton retired he turned out the gas, and unconsciously turned it on again without lighting it.

By this time Mr. Ragan was sound asleep, and it was not long afterward before his room-mate was off to "shut-eye town." Both are sound sleepers. Somewhere near midnight or the early morning, Mr. Ragan was suddenly awakened by an intense feeling of suffocation. He could scarcely breath. He could feel his lungs filling up, and he says that he had the most horrible dreams.

In a few minutes he recognized the fact that the room was filled with gas and that he was fast losing consciousness. A hasty examination soon informed him that the gas jet was was turned on full force. He ran to the window and opened it to allow the gas to escape. After doing this he stepped to the bed and aroused his partner, who was also in a dazed condition.

Sometime elapsed before the two barbers were fully themselves again, and the more they thought of what they had passed through the more thankful they were that they had escaped. They then both agreed that in the future they would be more careful. Today they are receiving the congratulations of their friends that they are both in the land of the living.

MUSIC AND TABLEAUX.

Pleasing Affair Arranged by Women of Church of Heavenly Rest.

The Ladies' Friendly Society of the Church of the Heavenly Rest at Evona gave a musicale last night which was one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever held in the church. The programme consisted of selections, both vocal and instrumental, by some of the best artists of this city, as well as by one or two from outside.

There were piano solos by Miss Dewey and Professor W. E. MacClymont; vocal solos by Vernon Hughes, a New York tenor of rare ability, and baritone soles by William H. Holmes. Miss Fisher, of Flemington, rendered solos in a rich soprano voice, and Fred VanEps, the banjo player, gave his services and helped to make the musicale a success.

As a change in the programme four tableaux were presented. The first was entitled, "Young America," that character being taken by Ericson VanOrden. The second was "The Flower Girl," who was Miss Viola Levers. "Faith at the Cross" was depicted by Miss Jennie Wenzel, and the last one, "Goodnight," showed ten little folks, in night-gowns and carrying candles, trotting across the stage to bed.

"A Trip to the White Mountains," a highly humorous story, was told by Viola Levers.

The committee who had charge of the entertainment, deserve great credit. They were Mrs. E. E. Brown, chairman, Mrs. Burke, Mrs. William Morgan and Miss Wenzel.

SUSPENSION OF BUSINESS.

Charles Eisenberg Has Gone Into Voluntary Insolvency.

The wall paper and paint store of Charles Eisenberg, located in the Stillman building on West Front street, was closed this morning. The owner, who has conducted one of the largest enterprises of this kind in Newark, has gone into voluntary insolvency, and George D. White, representing the creditors, has been appointed trustee. He will settle up the business. The stock in the store in this city will be removed to Newark. Mr. White will execute the outstanding contracts of the firm made in this city.

Hygia Ice Company Officers.

The annual meeting of the Hygia Ice Company was held last night at the Union County Country Club. The same officers were elected again with the exception of the late J. B. Schoonmaker as vice-president, whose place was filled by Josiah Brown. The other officers are H. G. Runkle, president and D. C. Ivins secretary and treasurer. Mr. Brown also takes Mr. Schoonmaker's place on the board of directors.

DR CARROLL TALKS ABOUT PORTO RICO.

"Our New Possessions" Makes a Very Interesting Subject.

CLIMATE IS NOT TRYING.

PROPERTY IS TAXED IN A PECULIAR WAY THERE.

Spanish Have Been Drawing Every Cent That They Could Get From the Poor People of the Island—A Desire to Have Americans Come and Give Them Benefit of Their Knowledge.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, the United States Commissioner to Porto Rico, delivered a lecture last night in Grace M. E. church upon "Our New Possessions." The lecture was given under the auspices of the ladies of the church. It was a recital of the Doctor's personal experiences while in the Island and the results of his own observations. The discourse was divided into several heads and treated separately. The Island is a beautiful and wonderful one, according to Dr. Carroll's opinion.

After the speaker had given an idea of the trip there, he began to describe the Island. It is a parallelogram in shape, like a table. Around the edges are plains, while the interior in mountainous. The mountains are so curious that they defy classification. There are seventy rivers emptying into the sea, but few good harbors.

The climate is far less trying than it is here. During the Doctor's visit there, from the middle of October until the middle of January, the highest point the thermometer registered was 85 degrees and the lowest point touched was 72. In summer it sometimes goes as high as 100, but this is rare, and there is always a cool breeze blowing which prevents one from feeling the heat.

The healthfulness of the climate, one would gather from Dr. Carroll's remarks, is superb. There is little attention paid to sanitary arrangements, yet the health of foreigners is good. Three rules for Americans to observe when visiting the Island are to keep dry, refrain from mixing different kinds of fruit, and do no work in the hot sun.

The population of Porto Rico, Dr. Carrol said, is about 900,000. About two-thirds of these are whites, the rest being colored and natives. They are divided into two classes, the very poor and the wealthy.

Property is taxed in a peculiar way there, not according to its value, but according to the income derived from it. Dr. Carroll said the system of taxation was dreadful, and the Spanish have been drawing every cent they could get out of the poor people.

In closing the lecturer mentioned briefly many things of interest concerning the wonderful military road built across the Island by the Spanish, the products of the Island, the conditions of the people, and their desire to have the Americans come soon and give them the benefit of their training and knowledge.

After the lecture a number of views of the Island, and the scenes visited by Dr. Carroll during his stay there, were thrown upon the screen and shown by the aid of the stereopticon. The views were not distinct, and therefore were a dissappointment to the audience, although a faint outline of what the picture was could be seen.

SURPRISE FOR D. C. SMALLEY.

A Party of His Friends Came to His Home Unexpected by Him.

When David C. Smalley arrived at his home on East Front street, last evening, he was greatly surprised to learn that a number of his friends had called and taken him unawares. It was a complete surprise to him as he has not the slightest intimation of any intended visit. However, Dave has a genial, happy nature and he welcomed his friends in the most hospitable manner.

The evening was passed in dancing, and listening to instrumental and vocal music furnished by some of the guests. At a late hour supper was served by the host and hostess. Mrs. Smalley planned and arranged the affair, which was complete in every detail.

To Camp in the Mountains.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and family, of Washington Park, will leave this city about June 1st for Washington, where they will remain for a time. A little later they will go to their summer camp in New Hampshire, and in the fall they will spend a time at the seashore. Mr. Hegeman will remain in Plainfield, going back and forth to business daily. He will probably join his family for a time at the summer camp in the mountains.

IT CAN'T BE DONE.

No One Can Remain Well, No Chronic Disease Can be Cured Unless the Stomach is First Made Strong and Vigorous.

This is plain because every organ in the body depends on the stomach for its nourishment. Nerve, bone, sinew, blood are made from the food which the stomach converts to our use.

How useless to treat disease with this, that and the other remedy and neglect the most important of all, the stomach.

The earliest symptons of indigestion are sour risings, bad taste in the mouth, gas in stomach and bowels, palpitation, all-gone feeling, faintness, headaches, constipation; later comes loss of flesh, consumption, liver and heart troubles, kidney diseases, nervous prostration, all of which are the indirect result of poor nutrition.

Any person suffering from indigestion should make it a practice to take after each meal one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing it to dissolve in the mouth and thus mingle with the saliva and enter the stomach in the most natural way. These Tablets are highly recommended by Dr. Jennison because they are composed of the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which assist the stomach in digesting all wholesome food before it has time to ferment and sour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists, full sized packages at 50 cents. They are also excellent for invalids and children. A book on stomach diseases and thousands of testimonials of genuine cures sent free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

MONNETT OF OHIO TESTIFIES

Makes Sensational Statement Regarding the Operations of Standard Oil Trust.

TRUSTS STEAL POWER?

Says the Remedy is Simple the Courts Having Never Faltered When Cases Were Properly Presented.

"Secret of Maintenance of All Trusts Is That They Receive Favors From the Railroads in Transportation Rates—No Industrial Combinations if Courts Should Enforce Laws."

Washington, May 17.—Attorney-General Monnett, of Ohio, who it is alleged, was offered a bribe of $400,000 to quit prosecuting the Standard Oil Trust, revealed the method of the Trust before the Industrial Commission.

The statements were the most emphatic and sensational regarding trusts that have been heard before the commission. Measuring his words very carefully, he said:

"The secret of the maintenance of all trusts is that they receive favors from the railroads in transportation rates. If the courts and all the executive officers were to enforce the laws, there could be no industrial combinations."

"The trusts steal both federal and State power with which to whip and crush individuals."

"If an assayer at one of the federal mints were to clip the coins of the government and profit by the difference, he would no more violate the laws than do the pipe lines and the railroad companies."

"The remedy is simple," continued Mr. Monnett. "The courts have never faltered when the cases were properly brought bfore them. The charters should either be taken away or corporations should be made to obey the laws. The ground of forfeiture can be easily arranged."

Several representatives of the Standard Oil Company were also present when Judge Philips, acting chairman of the Commission, introduced Mr. Monnett. Professor Jenks, of Cornell, who acts as counsel and trust expert, opened the investigation.

The organization of the trusts in Ohio Mr. Monnett described as follows:

The producing company was the Ohio Oil Company, which furnished the crude product to the Buckeye Pipe Line Company. The Indiana field was operated by this company until the recent suits, when the field was turned over to the Indiana Pipe Line.

Oil is refined by the Standard Oil Company in refineries at Whitney, Ind. Cleveland, Ohio; Lima, and Solar, Ohio, and elsewhere.

Having refined the product, the Trust passes it on to another branch of the Union Tank Line Company, and their branches distribute it to the tankage stations.

H. H. ROGERS,
Standard Oil Magnate.

Witness called attention to the fact that the company had contracts with the railroads which gave the trust the preference over its competitors, in some instances the others being compelled to pay 400 per cent more than the trust for the transportation of their product.

The secret of the Standard Oil Company's power, Mr. Monnett thought, was due almost entirely to the discriminating favors granted by the railroads.

Mr. Monnett next gave a history of how the Oil Trust developed in Ohio, and the final extension to so many States. He specially mentioned the Ohio Oil Company. In 1875 to 1882, under State authority, this company increased its capital stock to $3,500,000 the shares numbering 35,000. Gradually all these shares but seven fell into the hands of nine trustees.

Step by step the big trust was formed, until the combination ultimately absorbed thirty-one companies, but not over twenty of these maintained their organization. The last official inventory taken showed that the total capital stock of the twenty companies in operaion by the trust was $102,337,000, but the valuation of the property was $121,631,000.

Mr. Monnett read in detail the capital and valuation of the several companies. Some of them were remarkable. For instance, he said, the stock of the Ohio Oil Company was only $2,000,000, but the assets were nearly $9,000,000.

The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey had $10,000,000 capital and assets of $14,000,000; the Standard Oil Company of New York, with only $7,000,000 capital, had property of about $16,000,000.

The witness said that the trust was absolutely controlled by one man—John D. Rockefeller.

The last dividend amounted to $24,000,000. The assets were $121,631,312 and the capitalization $102,233,700, the assets being an excess of $19,387,612 over the capitalization. The court's decree dissolving the trust was useless

Bicycle Trust

New York, May 17.—A. G. Spalding who is at the head of the American Bicycle Company, the new bicycle combination, said that the Western Wheel Works, which had organized an opposition combination styled the International Vehicle & Manufacturing Company, had renewed its option with the Spalding syndicate and would become a member of the new combination. "You can say," said Mr. Spalding, "that the Western Wheel Works will be in this deal with us."

The American Bicycle Company, with a capital of $80,000,000, was recently organized by A. G. Spalding, Charles Smith, who is at the head of the Indianapolis Bicycle Company of Indianapolis, and R. Philip Gormully of the Gormully & Jeffery firm of Chicago. All are big bicycle manufacturers. The company has secured an option on about 15 per cent. of the bicycle plants of the country. R. L. Coleman of the Western Wheel Works, which produces 160,000 bicycles per year, at first refused to join the American Bicycle Company, and arranged the organization of another combination, the International Vehicle & Manufacturing Company, with a capital of $2,000,000, with a privilege of increasing it to $30,000,000. The scope of the company included the manufacture and sale of bicycles and automobiles.

Realizing the importance of this concern, special inducements were offered to it by the Spalding syndicate, with the result that the rival companies combined.

Implement Combination

New York, May 17.—It was said in Wall street that the plan to effect a combination of the manufacturers of ploughs and other agricultural implements was meeting with success. If one or two big concerns now outside the combine decide to enter, 85 per cent. of the company's output will be controlled. The United States Mortgage & Trust Company of this city is financing the deal. The capital stock will be $50,000,000, of which $25,000,000 will be 7 per cent. cumulative preferred and $25,000,000 common.

Miners in a Battle

Little Rock, Ark., May 17.—Forty strikers attacked twenty-five colored coal miners behind a stockade at Mine No. 53, near Huntington, firing volley after volley at them.

Men on guard at the stockade returned the fire, killing one of the strikers. John Wright, one of the guards, was killed, and another, James Campbell, seriously wounded.

A number of new guards have been posted about the mine and more trouble is feared.

The colored miners had been imported from Illinois several days ago to take the place of the strikers and had ignored several warnings to leave town.

Strike at Rand Drill Works

Tarrytown, May 17.—The Rand drill machine works at this place, one of the largest in the country, it is thought, may perhaps close in a few days, because about 200 of the most skilled mechanics have gone on strike. Both parties are defiant, and a long strike is looked for.

Investigation Expected Possible

Buffalo, May 17.—Three elevators on the water front here are working. Contractor Conners reported that he had all the scoopers he needed, but the fact that the elevator machinists were still out made it impossible to run the elevators where these men had quit. Timothy E. Donovan, who has been appointed by Bishop Quigley to supervise the grain shoveling at the docks in the interests of the scoopers, began his duties. He visited a number of the elevators and made an effort to get at the exact facts of the situation. Mr. Donovan used to be a scooper himself, and will speedily discover what it is that has prevented the carrying out of the agreement for a settlement which was executed on Sunday night. The Bishop has declared that he will stand by whatever Mr. Donovan says, so it seems that the situation is now in the hands of the Bishop's boss scooper. The Lake Carriers' Association has retired from the controversy, content to let the contractors and the men fight the matter out.

Votes $150,000 for Dewey Reception

New York, May 17.—The City Council passed the resolution appropriating $150,000 to pay the expense connected with the proposed celebration upon the arrival of Admiral Dewey.

Admiral Watson Sails

Vallejo, Cal., May 17.—Rear Admiral John C. Watson, who will relieve Admiral Dewey in command of the Asiatic station, has turned the command of the Mare Island Navy Yard over to Rear Admiral Kempff and sailed for the Orient on the City of Peking.

Woman Twice Divorced Married No. 1

Joliet, Ill., May 17.—Carl Hartwig, who was released from prison has again married his wife, who obtained a divorce from him when he was sentenced to fourteen years in the penitentiary. She afterwards married a man of the name of Wier, from whom she was subsequently divorced. Hartwig had been sentenced on circumstantial evidence for the murder of Charles Newman.

Chicago Expects Dewey

Chicago, May 17.—Admiral George Dewey is expected to be one of the distinguished guests who will attend the Chicago Day ceremonies at the laying of the corner stone for the new Federal building on Oct. 9.

The will of the late Baron Herschell disposes of property valued at $765,000.

THE LATEST NEWS.

BOERS ARREST EX-BRITISH OFFICERS FOR PLOTTING.

Johannesburg, May 17.—A number of men have been arrested here on the charge of high treason.

Pretoria, May 17.—The arrest at Johannesburg of eight alleged former British officers, on the charge of high treason, has caused intense excitement here. The prisoners were brought to Pretoria by special train. After they had been lodged in jail they were visited by the British diplomatic agent here.

The arrests were effected by a detective who joined the movement which, it is asserted, was for the purpose of enrolling men in order to cause an outbreak of rebellion.

Incriminating documents were found upon the prisoners, and it is expected that further arrests will be made.

The officers arrested are Captain Patterson, formerly of the Lancers; Colonel R. F. Nicholls, Lieutenant E. J. Tremlott, C. A. Ellis, lately a private detective in Johannesburg; Lieutenant John Allen, formerly of the Horse artillery; Quartermaster Mitchell, former Sergeant J. Fries and former Sergeant R. P. Hooper. None of them has been in the employ of the British South Africa Chartered Company.

Further warrants have already been issued as a result of the evidence found. It is asserted that the officers arrested also were preparing to organize a corps in Natal, the British colony between the Orange Free State and the Indian Ocean, to assist the projected movement at Johannesburg.

The charge against the prisoners is that, while staying in the Rand privately, they were really engaged in enlisting men for the purposes of rebellion when they were ready to give the signal.

POPULIST DON'T WANT BRYAN.

Kansas City, Mo., May 17.—By an overwhelming majority the Populist editors assembled here in national convention decided they would keep in the middle of the road. There are sixty of the editors here from all over the country. In the tenth annual meeting of the Reform Press Association, President Frank Burkitt, of the Okolona, Miss., People's Messenger, delivered his annual address.

There was no public outbreak in the meeting, but one editor said that if Bryan were nominated by the Populists next time he would vote for McKinley, and get a gatling gun in expectation of a civil war. Mr. Donnelly said he would not vote for Bryan under any circumstances, because he betrayed and attempted to destroy the Populist party.

The resolution Committee has prepared an address urging the Populists everywhere to get in the middle of the road and stay there.

SEVERE STORM IN PENNSYLVANIA.

Altoona, Pa., May 17.—A windstorm struck this part of the State, doing severe damage. The Altoona Silk Mill, the Rhines Woodworking Mill and three residences were damaged, entailing a loss of $100,000. In Hollidaysburg the county seat the Court House, Presbyterian Church and a business block were partly destroyed. The cities of Johnstown, Tyrone and Huntingdon suffered heavy losses, but particulars are unobtainable.

GEN LAWTON CAPTURES SAN ISIDRO.

Manila, May 17.—Gen. Lawton's column has driven the insurgents out of San Isidro, the rebel capital, and is now in possession of that place. No details of the fighting have yet been received

CHURCH WOMEN DRIVE PARSON AWAY.

North Tonawanda, N. Y., May 17.—The Rev. John A. Copeland, the sensational preacher who has kept this city in turmoil for two months, is missing. Efforts to find him have proved frutile. Recently Copeland referred in a sermon to a prominent church woman who, he declared, had at a meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society donned an elder's trousers and danced a cancan. The woman referred to has threatened to kill Copeland, and a number of other women have taken up her fight against the parson.

One night recently, after holding a meeting and declaring to punish Copeland, half a score of determined women went to his boarding house and called for him. The parson did not respond, and it was later ascertained that he had left the house. He has not since been seen. Copeland failed to appear for his Sunday night meeting.

INITIATION SAID TO HAVE KILLED HIM.

Toledo, May 17.—The circumstances attending the death of Charles Steinle, at his home, No. 223 City Park avenue, are peculiarly sad. The hemorrhage of the lungs, which finally resulted fatally, was caused, as he believed, through injuries accidentally received in an initiation into the Catholic Young Men's Association, to which a number of his friends belonged. A sad feature of the case is that Mr. Steinle was engaged to be married soon to a well-known young woman here.

SHE DID NOT SURVIVE THE SHOCK.

Newark, May 17.—Mary J. Smith, 65 year old, of No. 23 Mount Pleasant avenue, while crossing Bellville avenue and Harved street, was knocked down by a tandem bisycle ridden by a gentleman and lady. The old lady then started for her home, a short distance away. She had not walked more than 100 feet when she fell dead.

PRISONERS ARE MISSING.

Band of Five American Prisoners Hurried Through San Miguel Last Week and Not Heard of Since.

Order That All Towns Must Be Burned as Soon as Insurgent Forces are Compelled to Retreat Has Been Countermanded—Revulsion of Feeling in Favor of Americans.

Manila, May 17.—Aguinaldo's whereabouts has not been known to the American forces for the past two weeks, and it is now reported that he has fled into the Province of Neuva Ecija. The last that was heard of him was on April 29, when he fled from Balinag in his carriage. He passed through San Isidro on that day and has since seemed to disappear.

As it is not his characteristic to remain long silent or even apparently inactive, the Americans expect daily to hear of some fresh scheme of his hatching.

A band of five American prisoners was hurried through the city of San Miguel last week by an insurgent force and presumably carried northward. It has been impossible to learn the names of the prisoners.

The Spanish prisoners held by the rebels are believed to be beyond the reach of the American troops unless there is an early surrender of the Filipinos. It is practically impossible to hope of aiding them this season, as they have been carried into one of the northern provinces and distributed among several small garrisons. There are five thousand of these Spanish prisoners, and they are being guarded with the utmost care.

An order has been issued by the rebel generals countermanding their former order that all towns must be burned as soon as the insurgent forces are compelled to retreat. The reason for this is the great indignation of the natives, many of whom were non-combatants, yet returned to their towns after an engagement only to find their homes in ashes.

The fact that the American army has made it a rule to save property when it was possible, rather than to destroy it, has impressed the natives as a novel scheme of warfare. A decided revulsion of feeling in favor of the Americans has been created by it. Scores of the natives are returning to their homes through the American lines.

Captured Filipino Flag

Washington, May 17.—The first captured Filipino flag to be received by the Government since the present insurrection began is now in the possession of the Navy Department and makes an interesting display in the office of Rear Admiral Crowninshield, chief of the Bureau of Navigation. It was taken at Iloilo by the detachment of blue-jackets and marines under the command of Lieut. A. P. Niblack, U. S. N. The flag is quite large. It is composed of cheap bunting, which has become faded through exposure to the weather.

The flag will be sent to the Naval Academy for preparation with other trophies of the navy.

Spanish To Evacuate.

Madrid, May 17.—Gen. Rios, in command of the Spanish troops remaining in the Philippine islands, has cabled to the War Office here, announcing that he has entered into an agreement with Maj.-Gen. Otis, the American commander, for an immediate Spanish evacuation of Zamboanga and Jolo.

Consequently, the steamer Leon XIII. has started with American troops who will occupy Jolo and render honors to the Spanish flag on the departure of the Second troops.

London, May 17.—The Filipino Junta says that on receipt of the news saying all foreigners had been ordered from the Filipino lines a cable message of inquiry was sent to Aguinaldo, who replied that the announcement was due to the statements of Mr. Higgins, the manager of the railroad, on his return to Manila after several months residence in the Filipino lines. [illegible] statement that Aguinaldo is a fugitive and declare his retirement to the Carballos Mountains is part of his strategic plans, as the mountains are almost inaccessible, are inhabited by savages who use poisoned arrows, and that it is absolutely impossible for the Americans to follow him there.

The Leon XIII will proceed from Jolo to Zamblanga, where the vessel will be met by Gen. Rios with the steamers Porto Rico and Uranus. The Spanish General will superintend the evacuation.

The despatch says the Americans will not occupy Zamboanga.

Attack on Gen. Henry

San Juan, May 17.—The Democracia of Ponce, the organ of Senor Luis Rivera, now in the United States, publishes a letter from him attacking General Henry, the former Governor General and closing: "I do not wish General Henry any ill, but I do not want the island of Porto Rico transformed into a lunatic asylum."

The publication of this letter has caused much surprise. General Davis, the new Governor-General, will rescind the order issued recently giving liberty to the press.

White Star's For The Hague

Berlin, May 17.—United States Ambassador Andrew D. White, the chief representative of the United States at the Peace Conference, started for the Netherlands, accompanied by Mr. Frederick Holls, of New York, Secretary of the United States delegation, and the Swiss and Roumanian Ministers, both of whom are delegates to the conference. The families of the delegates do not accompany them. Mr. White has planned to return to Berlin early in July.

The Queen's only drawing room this season was held in Buckingham Palace. Mr. and Mrs. Choate were presented in the diplomatic circle.

NEARLY LYNCHED

Inhuman Negro Mother Almost Burned Her Children to Death.

Atlanta, Ga., May 17.—Winnie Roach a mulatto woman, came near being lynched by a mob of negroes. The crime with which she and her husband were charged was brutally burning four children nearly to death by igniting paper wrapped around them saturated with kerosene.

The man, Lawrence Roach, ran away when he heard that his treatment of the children had been reported to the police. The woman was in the house when the mob gathered and was in the act of applying more fire to one of the children when the crowd broke in.

Telephone messages were sent to the police station by white people living in the neighborhood, who said they believed the woman was about to be burned by the crowd. A wagonload of officers was sent to the place.

Bad Man Killed After a Chase.

Birmingham, Ala., May 17.—Chief of Police R. D. Blackburn, at Warrior, was notified to meet an incoming Louisville & Nashville train, to arrest a man who had refused to pay his fare and had terrorized everybody on the train by drawing two pistols and defying the trainmen. As Blackburn approached the car with a shotgun in his hand the desperado sprang out, fired on him and then fled to the woods. Blackburn pursued, and a running fight was kept up.

Finally Blackburn overhauled the man, who snapped a pistol in his face. The weapon failed to fire. As the desperado made another dash for liberty Blackburn shot him dead. It is believed that the man was a noted criminal, though his identity is a mystery.

Pennsylvania Democrats

Harrisburg, May 17.—Judge Peter P. Smith of the Superior Court is making a lively canvass for the Democratic nomination for a place on the Supreme Court bench. Nomination will mean election this year owing to the fact that two places on the Supreme bench are to be filled, and the minority party is entitled to one of them.

Judge Ermentrout of Berks and Judge Yerkes of Bucks, with Simon P. Wolverton of Northumberland are likely candidates. The Democratic nominee for the Superior Court bench will come from Western Pennsylvania. Representative William T. Creasy of Columbia will be nominated for State Treasurer. It is said that the convention will carefully avoid mentioning national issues in the State platform.

Against Indiana Lynchers.

Indianapolis, May 17.—Judge Baker of the Federal District Court overruled a demurrer to a complaint claiming $10,000 damages brought by John Tyler, administrator of the estate of Marion Tyler, against the Sheriff of Scott county, Indiana, and his bondsmen. Marion Tyler was lynched by a mob. The complaint charged that the sheriff gave the mob the keys to the cell and a lamp, and told the mob where the prisoner could be found. Marion Tyler had shot his wife and himself.

The court holds the Sheriff's bondsmen responsible in damages, if the complaint is true. The ruling is regarded as a great stride toward checking lynching in this State.

Rubber Company's Meeting.

New Brunswick, N. J., May 17.—The annual meeting of the United States Rubber Company was held yesterday. President Frederick M. Shepard said in his report that the operations of the past year had been the most important since the organization of the company. The report of the Treasurer, Charles R. Flint, showed the profits from operating plants and dividends in investments to be $2,519,231.32, and the net income from commissions on sales of goods $897,149.65.

Revise Currency Laws.

Washington May 17.—Comptroller of the Currency Dawes, who has been at Hot Springs, Va., conferring with the President, said that there may be no currency legislation by the next Congress.

When Comptroller Dawes went to Hot Springs he took with his a number of protests received from Republican members of Congress representing Western States, who insisted that there should be no currency legislation at the next session.

Senator Hansbrought, of North Dakota, backs up these protests with the statement that it will probably lose the administration the next House if reform is attempted before the next campaign.

A silk skirt makes no impression on the men. An Atchison woman says that when a woman rustles in going into a store she gets no more attention from the men clerks than a woman who doesn't rustle, but that the women clerks are very attentive.

QUEER STATE OF AFFAIRS.

A Senator Gives His View of the Situation in the War Department.

GEN. MILES IS IGNORED.

Has No Knowledge of Military Operation in Philippines or Administration in Cuba.

War Department at Present the Busiest of All Governmental Departments and Miles Is Busy Writing History of Greco-Turkish War—At Least That's What the Senator Says.

Washington, May 17.—A Senator very near to the administration is authority for the following statement:

"An anomalous condition exists in the War Department. The Secretary of War is holding conferences with the chiefs of the different bureaus in control of the army to which the commanding general is not invited. General Miles is in antagonism to the administration of Secretary Alger. Therefore he is not a member of the War Department cabinet.

"The President and his Secretary of War long ago found that they could have no assistance from General Miles. His views on nearly all subjects were opposed to theirs and his recommendations could not be followed. Had they been followed the war with Spain would not yet be over. The President was perplexed how to deal with his insubordinate commanding general. At one time he intended to relieve him of command for his defiant interviews on the beef controversy. Now the plan has been adopted of ignoring the nominal head of the army.

"General Miles has no more knowledge of the military operations in the Philippines or of the military administration in Cuba and Porto Rico than any outsider. In his enforced leisure General Miles is devoting himself to literary work. He is preparing an account of his observations on the Greco-Turkish war of 1897. The book will be published by the Government.

"A history of the war between Turkey and Greece is not the work that ought to be expected at this time from the Commanding General of the United States army. The United States army has been engaged in war against a foreign foe, but General Miles has had little to do with the recent striking events of military history.

The operations in Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines have been directed by the Secretary of War and, the Adjutant General. General Miles knows of these operations through the orders which have passed through his office and from the press despatches. He has not been invited to express his opinion or give his advice. He has volunteered his advice, but it has not been followed. General Miles, in fact, is enjoying a vacation as much as is General Eagan.

"The War Department is at present the busiest of all the great Government departments. Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines are under the direction of this department. It controls the government of these islands and the civil and military affairs of their people. Each bureau of the War Department is busy every hour of the day, but General Miles is not consulted. The President acts more through the Secretary of War. The Secretary gives all his orders and receives all his reports direct from the generals in the field. General Otis has 30,000 men in the Philippines. General Brooke has 15,000 men in Cuba. Neither general officially knows the Major General in command. There are 3,000 troops in Porto Rico under General Davis. As Governor General he reports direct to the Secretary of War. There are 15,000 regulars in the United States distributed in the military posts, over whom General Miles has supervision, but General Merriam, looking after the labor troubles in Idaho, reports direct to the Secretary of War. Never before the history of this Government was the American army doing so much without the approval or consent of the Major General in command.

"The President has not seen fit to relieve General Miles of official orders. He has succeeded in relieving him of all duties except the merest office routine. How long can this condition exist?"

MINERS QUIET.

Gen. Merriam Thinks That his Presence Is Not Longer Needed

Washington, May 17.—Advices from Brig.-Gen. Merriam, in command of the United States troops at the scene of the Idaho mining troubles, have caused a feeling at the war Department that there will be no further trouble. Gen. Merriam has become so certain that no more conflicts will take place that he has asked permission to return to his ordinary duties. By direction of Secretary Alger, however, he will remain at Wardner for consultation with the Governor of Idaho and not leave until the Governor is satisfied that the troubles have ended.

The War Department has not been informed by Gen. Merriam of the reported protest of the Governor of Montana about arresting Montana miners.

Chicago's Mazet Comittee

Chicago, May 17.—The Baxter committee—Chicago's Mazet—met and made preliminary arrangements for its work in Chicago. The headquarters of the committee will be at the Great Northern Hotel, where all future sessions will be held. Senator Baxter says that Z. A. Sanders, sergeant-at-arms, has subpoenas to serve upon witnesses sufficient to start at once.

Earl of Stratford Instantly Killed.

London, May 17.—The Earl of Strafford, who married Mrs. Samuel J. Colgate in Grace Church, New York City last December, was killed instantly at Potters Bar by the Cambridge express on the Great Northern Railroad. While on duty at Windsor Castle last February as Senior Equerry, the Earl was seized with a fit, and his condition has ever since been a source of anxiety. He was in his sixty-eighth year.

If you have any to be extracted remember you will not be hurt in the slightest. My local anæsthetic is the best that can be obtained and is not known to the other dentists in this city. ### Novel School Government.

A novel plan has just been put into operation at Elizabeth by Superintendent of Public Schools Shearer. It is a system of self-government introduced among the scholars of the High school. Instead of having a "monitor" or teacher to watch them, they govern themselves, and have formed a republic and elected officers to that end. An Advisory Committee has also been chosen, being composed of three members of each class, elected by the pupils.

The Superintendent, Vice-Principal and teachers form the executive body of the republic. The duties of the council include the recommendations or punishments is case of misdemeanor, of privileges to be granted to classes of high standing, and of methods of enforcing the support of the resolutions passed. Superintendent Shearer holds the position of Mayor of the commonwealth to which the members of the school belong, and reserves the right to veto any measuse that is not for the general good.

Plainfield again asserted its lack of interest in public affairs last evening by failing to have a quorum at its Board of Trade meeting. The case seems hopeless. It is deplorable to be obliged to admit, but it is a fact that the people who should be at the head of municipal progress remain stubbornly in the background. The old adage of "nothing risked, nothing gained," can surely be applicable to Plainfield. The great American principle of taking chances is not very well exemplified in local matters.—The News.

The interesting part of this criticism of the people who do not attend the Board of Trade meetings lies in the fact that it was not so long ago that Editor Runyon himself resigned from the organization. It ill-befits the News man to blame others for stubbornly remaining in the background.

Senator Reed would seem to be worrying the Thompsonites of Somerset county in a pretty serious manner over the Somerville postmastership. Yesterday a delegation of Republican friends of the erstwhile leader of the county visited Governor Voorhees and tried to persuade him to take a hand in the fight and prevent George Cooper, Senator Reed's candidate for the place, from landing the prize. Like the foxy Quiller of politics that he is, however, the Governor, decided to keep hands off, and let the Somerset people adjust the trouble within their own ranks. It certainly does look as though Mr. Reed had his old preceptor on the run.

FLEISCHMANN'S PRIVATE BASEBALL PARK.

Julius Fleischmann is the banner baseball crank. At his summer home in the Catskills he maintains a baseball park that has all the "fixin's" of the most complete home of the national game. A team, upon which Mr. Fleischmann and his brother play and which contains men who have made reputations in the minor leagues, holds forth all summer at the Mountain Athletic Baseball club grounds. Julius pays all the freight.

The Democratic Association of New Jersey has been incorporated at Newark. The corporators are J. W. Shuckers, G. C. Collingwood, Tyler Parmly, Benjamin F. Robey, Miles W. Evans, Joseph H. Wehrle, Edward S. Wilde and J. W. Arrowsmith. The object of the association is the maintenance and promotion of the principles enunciated in the Chicago platform. No person can become a member of the association who did not stand by the Chicago platform and support the National Democratic candidates of that convention.

President Patton, of Princeton, joins with Bishop Scarborough in expressing his disgust with that Sloane-Belmont affair. He also denounces the facility with which divorces are now obtained, declaring that it "is gradually leading to a system of legalized concupiscence," which is a disgrace to our Christian civilization."

It is thought that the most obliging postmaster in the State of Missouri lives at Bethel. He recently put a telephone in his office, and announced that for the benefit of those out of-town patrons who are connected by wire and who may desire it he will open their letters and will read the contents to them over the 'phone.

The metropolitan newspapers and a number of State exchanges have been making funny remarks within the last few days about a "municipal" cow in Plainfield. The real humor of the reports lies in the fact, however, that Plainfield does not own a cow of any size or breed.

Now that Senator Kean has secured the much-sought-for trolley rights in Elizabeth we suppose he will go forth looking for more municipalities to conquer in securing valuable corporation privileges.

An exhibition of temper is about the only thing that the Tammany officials seem able to shew the Mazet committee.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Judge Zabriskie, of Bergen county, has found it necessary to advise a justice of the peace and constable of that county to resign, declaring that while such men are in authority the liberty of every citizen is in jeopardy. The combination of justice and constable, united with the sole object of getting every cent possible out of their offices, regardless of how they get it, is one prolific of evil.—Salem Sunbeam.

The Plainfield barbers who are trying to secure the repeal of the ordinance of that city which prohibits barber shops from being kept open seven days in the week are unreasonable, and do not consider peculiar local conditions. Because there are some Hebrew and Seventh-Day Baptist barbers who keep their shops open on Sunday, the other barbers profess to be alarmed lest the Sunday workers lure away permanently many of the regular customers of those whose shops are closed on the first day of the week. But when it is known that all the shops which are open on Sunday are only permitted such indulgence by reason of their being tightly closed on Saturday, the barbers's harvest day, it will be seen that there is little justice in the demand fer the repeal of the ordinance.—Newark News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

A few days ago fire headquarters was honored with a visit from a man who buys the fire department horses for Greater New York, and after looking at the horses in the local department he remarked that there are no better horses in the New York department than those doing duty here. This is quite an honor for the Plainfield department and adds greatly to the general opinion of efficiency.

THE REASON WHY.

O, Statue of Liberty, why
Art thou watching adown the bay,
With thy flaming torch uplifted high,
Forever, by night and by day?

"I seek to enlighten the World
With my torch and my tiara bright;
Till over all peoples my flag is unfurled,
I must watch by day and by night."

O, Statue of Liberty, pray
Answer me one question more;
Why dost thou turn, by night and by day,
Thy back on the New Jersey shore?

"Because I can trust her, all right,
For a backer strong and steady:
And she needs no light by day or by night,
For she is enlightened already."

—Theophilus Bond.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

With the summer rapidly approaching and most of the legitimate theatres closing their doors for the heated season, the policy at the Proctor continuous theatres is to maintain the strongest sort of programmes. Keeping this in view, Mr. Proctor has extended the engagement of Miss Minnie Seligmann, New York's best-liked emotional actress, and she will appear at the Pleasure Palace the week of May 22d in "Therese," in which she has made such a great success at Mr. Proctor's downtown theatre, the Twenty-third street. "Therese" was originally produced by Bernhardt. It is an extremely powerful dramatic little play and gives Miss Seligman plenty of opportunities to display her ripe histrionic gifts to the limit. In the long programme next week at the Palace are a score of the best specialty performers to be found in vaudeville. Heading the programme at the Twenty-third street Theatre May 22d and week is Miss Coghlan in an act from her father's great drama, "The Royal Box." Miss Coghlan has inherited wonderful genius from her father, Charles Coghlan, and is sure to give a most finished performance.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a meeting of special interest Friday evening.

—At the meeting of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, held last evening, three new members were initiated, six were elected and five propositions were received.

—Don't miss the chance to obtain some of the enormous stock of well grown plants which Stanley, the florist, of North avenue, near the station, is selling. The list includes the best varieties.

GIVE THE CHILDREN A DRINK

called Grain-O. It is a delicious, appetizing, nourishing food drink to take the place of coffee. Sold by all grocers and liked by all who have used it because when properly prepared it tastes like the finest coffee but is free from all its injurious properties. Grain-O aids digestion and strengthens the nerves. It is not a stimulant but a health builder, and children, as well as adults, can drink it with great benefit. Costs about ¼ as much as coffee 15 and 25c.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press)

Dunellen, May 17.—A special meeting of the borough council was held Monday night to talk over sidewalks and streets. The meeting was a short one, and no definite action was taken upon the matters brought up for discussion. It is probable that Main street, leading from Dunellen to New Market, will be ordered flagged all the way along, although there are no very bad places along there. A petition is in circulation to have this done, and the council seem to be in favor of having this petition handed in to them so that they can act upon it.

Mrs. C. M. Bowyer, who has been spending a few days with relatives in town, left yesterday afternoon for Beverly, N. J., where she is visiting.

Paul Reusch is making some improvements about his place, painting the front, building a new fence and laying an asphalt pavement.

Jessie Dalrymple, who has been spending two weeks with his daughter, Mrs. J. B. Sprowl, of Jersey City, has returned home.

Mrs. Clarence Oakley, of New Brunswick, has been visiting her parents, Mayor and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer.

Prospect avenue was closed yesterday all day because of repairs which were being made to the railroad crossing.

Samuel VanArsdale is painting his house and adding much to its appearance.

Miss Emma O. Opper, of Plainfield, has been a guest of Miss May Apgar.

Mrs. Moore, of Front street, is entertaining her sister from Brooklyn.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Harmon are visiting relatives in Somerville.

Mrs. John Wells, of Bernardsville, is visiting relatives in town.

Mrs. J. G. Wilson is visiting her sister in Rahway.

NEW MARKET

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press)

New Market, May 17.—Arthur Leonard, who has been visiting his father, George Leonard, has returned to his home in Princeton.

F. E. Pound and George Henry, who have been stopping at the Nelson House, have returned to Geneva.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph and Miss Vergie Tunison, of Dunellen, spent yesterday with Manning Randolph.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, May 17.—The Methodist church will hold a musicale at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ira Gage Walker tomorrow evening. The committee in charge have arranged a very interesting programme composed of A. O. Anthony, elocutionist; C. B. Bowman, mandolin; W. P. Drew, bass, and C. E. Dawson, tenor.

The condition of Front street, from Leland avenue to Terrill road, is enough to break the hearts of the many wheelmen who use that thoroughfare. Nearly every day some one is walking over the hill with a punctured tire.

Miss Minnie Squries entertained a party of Rahway friends at a wheeling party last evening. The evening was spent in a very pleasant way, playing games, etc. Refreshments were served and a very enjoyable evening was spent by all.

Randolph Drake, John Borman, E. L. Hand, Wm. R. Stansberry and Wm. VanValkenburg, are attending the Exempt Firemen's convention being held at South Orange today.

Louis Morel, the plumber, has purchased the store property recently occupied by Turton & Co. Mr. Morel will probably move into his new possession shortly.

Miss Stella Emery, of Bayonne, is visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Emery.

Mrs. T. M. Paff, Jr., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Gere, of Brooklyn.

John Wade is spending a few days with his uncle at Lyon's Farms.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press)

Westfield, May 17.—The Board of Education and the Advisory Board held a meeting last evening for the purpose of making further plans for the resolution to be presented to the voters at a special school meeting but the discussion was all done near the clerk's desk and in a such low tone that the reporters were unable to hear what was going on. However, it is known that they will ask for an appropriation of $35,000 to build a school on Elm street, Westfield, and one at Mountainside borough on Springfield road.

Horatio Bragg and Miss Ida May Simpson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Simpson, of Sussex street, were married Monday at the home of the bride by the Rev. Charles Fiske, rector of St. Paul's church. The bride was attended by Mrs. E B. Bernon, of Brooklyn, and William Simpson, Jr, was the best man.

Messrs. Charles D. Reese, C. W. Harden, David Burke, George B. Miller and Isaac Seeley, of the Westfield Exempt Firemen are at East Orange today attending the annual convention of the State organization.

Dr. B. R. Sinclair performed a successful operation on Mahlon Hann Tuesday by removing an abcess from near his left lung. The patient has been sick for several weeks with pleuro-pneumonia.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address.

WHAT WOMEN ARE DOING.

Many socially prominent Kentucky women are owners of thoroughbred racing horses and patrons of the turf. Among these is Mrs. Annie Lyle Bradley Barnes, wife of Colonel William S. Barnes. She personally conducts Melbourne farm, near Lexington, one of the most famous in the blue grass country.

Mrs. Bradley Martin, who has been widely known as one of the leaders of New York society, has decided to make London her permanent home, with her daughter, the Countess of Craven. She will establish an elaborate salon in the fashionable quarter of London.

The New Jersey Legal Aid society is a recently formed organization for the purpose of giving legal advice and assistance to women and dependent children, in that state, free of charge. Mrs. Emily E. Williamson is the promoter of the enterprise, and some of the most eminent lawyers of New Jersey have been retained by the society.

London society was recently agitated over the sudden and strange disappearance of Lady Sophie Scott, wife of Sir Samuel Scott and daughter of Earl Cadogan, the viceroy of Ireland. After two weeks' absence she returned home as mysteriously as she departed, but no explanation of her conduct is given.

Three California women—Mrs. McLean, Miss Shumway and Mrs. Hennig—are likely to receive medals from congress for heroic life saving service. They rescued half a dozen people from the wrecked steamer Chilkat, off the California coast.

Miss Sarah Hewitt, daughter of ex-Mayor Hewitt of New York, conducts her father's farm at Ringwood, N. J., and is known throughout the countryside as "the Squire of Ringwood." She is an expert horsewoman and is able to manage the most spirited animals. Occasionally she dons a leather apron and shoes a horse as well as a man.

One of the few American women who witnessed the battle of Manila Bay was Mrs. J. F. Lucy, wife of Lieutenant Lucy, who accompanied her husband to the Philippines. She recently returned to this country and is enthusiastic in her praise of the valor and heroism of American soldiers and sailors.

Mrs. Madeline Yale Wynne, who is an artist and author not unknown to fame, is said to be the only woman silversmith in the world. Following her own artistic ideas, she manufactures from the crude ore many dainty and unique articles of ornament and usefulness.

Erie, the county seat of Neosho county, Kan., claims a distinction accorded to no other town in the United States. Two local newspapers are published there, both of which are owned and edited by women.

Mrs. Jennie June Croly (Jennie June), president of the New York Women's Press club and the founder of Sorosis, has been much entertained in London, where she has been spending several months. Mrs. Croly was one of the speakers and guests of honor at the first meeting of the Society of American Women, just organized in London.

Three years ago Mrs. Francis W. Ralston, Jr., of Philadelphia was society's favorite at Narragansett Pier. She is now the superintendent of the millinery department of one of the largest New York dry goods houses. There has been no change in her social or financial conditions, her acceptance of the present position being a desire to exploit her notions of artistic millinery rather than the necessity of earning a livelihood.

"Who will give us a new word which shall be the feminine for fraternize?" asked a well known member of the New England Woman's club the other day. "Women cannot fraternize; what do we do?" And then she answered her own conundrum, "We sorosize."

Through the patriotic efforts of Miss Ada Levering Hanford, daughter of Judge Hanford of Seattle, Wash., Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, will be presented with a suitable gift commemorative of the fact that at the great battle of Manila the commander's vessel bore the name of the capital of the state of Washington.

QUEEN OF THE TURF

A KENTUCKY WOMAN WHO PERSONALLY MANAGES A STOCK FARM.

Races Her Horses and Has Saved Her Husband From Financial Ruin—Her Methods in Training—Names All the Youngsters and Makes Large Winnings.

Mrs. Ella Offutt Pepper, of Lexington, Ky., is the most noted woman on the American turf. Every one interested in horses, and a great many who are not, knows the story of her picturesque career. The following interview with her will, therefore, attract widespread interest and attention:

Mrs. Pepper is the wife of Col. James E. Pepper, the well-known distiller and turfman. She tells the story of her experience with thoroughbreds in these words:

"I went into the thoroughbred business," said Mrs. Pepper, "by force of circumstances. We had this fine farm here. We had spent a great deal of money in fitting it up. Col. Pepper was very busy with the business affairs of his distillery, and I told him that I would take the thoroughbreds off his hands, and attend to them. The Colonel has spent fortunes in trying to win money with horses on the turf. He would become too much in love with his horses and would often place them where they did not belong, thus destroying their chances of winning. I believe in estimating a horse that belongs to me as if he belonged to some one else. If my horse is a selling plater I can see it as readily as if he belonged to another, and I tell my trainer to keep him out of stake races in which horses of class are entered.

"As you know, we breed all the horses we race, something few establishments do these days. Science has taught, and it confirms the fact, that water is the first necessity of life. As each horse requires about eight gallons of water a day, I naturally regarded the purity of the water as of vital consequence. I found that the average stock water at our farm came from surface drainage and was, therefore, more or less impregnated with organic matter. I argued that horses to be healthy should have just as good and just as pure water as human beings, so I decided to drill an artesian well.

"At a depth of 200 feet we struck an abundant supply of the finest kind of water. I have had it analyzed and it shows the presence of lime, magnesia and iron—three constituents essential to the building up of bone and healthy muscle and tissue. I believe this excellent water had a great deal to do with the high class shown by my colts and fillies last year, and if the stable I send out this year keeps up the reputation of Meadowthorpe I will be positive that the water did it. Another thing which, I think, has much to do with the quality of our horses is the way we handle them. We do not do any forcing.

"When we finish the morning work of the two-year-olds we allow them to cool out carefully and then we turn them out to romp in the blue grass. They run and jump and seem to enjoy the freedom of the pastures. Before I adopted this natural mode of caring for young horses our veterinary bill was enormous. Some one of the colts was sick all the time. The young things had distempers, fevers, and everything else. Since I adopted the natural method, as I call it, we have had practically no sickness among the horses, and they seem to be much healthier, and capable of standing all kinds of weather without injury.

"I name all my own colts and fillies. I try to give them names suitable to their breeding, although I do not believe in stretching a point in order to combine the name of sire or dam."

Mrs. Pepper's winnings last year were about $50,000 in stakes and purses, and she sold her horses in training for $32,000.

Care of the Teeth.

A well-shaped mouth is often marred if the teeth are not in harmony. The proper care of the teeth is very important; for, if neglected, indigestion results, and this leads to pimples, wrinkles and the general spoliation of the complexion. Use a moderately hard toothbrush, and every morning after breakfast and before going to bed thoroughly cleanse the teeth outside and inside with soft water and a good powder. Rinse the mouth out also after every meal. Do not use dentifrices that contain acids, as they quickly destroy the enamel. Charcoal powder is good and acts as a deodorizer as well as whitening the teeth; moreover, it cleans them without injuring the enamel. The following is an excellent recipe which would be well to have made up, for it not only cleanses the teeth, but takes away any offensive taste or smell in the mouth: Two ounces of areca nuts (raw) pounded, five ounces of prepared areca nuts' charcoal. Perfume with a few drops of essence of violets or any other scent you prefer. The soft inner portion only of the cuttlefish bone should be used, as the hard, fleshy shell removes the enamel.

An Odd Mistake.

There is not a house in any civilized community that can be compared to the one built in Washington by Justice Gray of the supreme court. He designed it himself and it was built according to his plans and specifications. When he came to move in it was learned that the structure did not contain a single closet.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Oesterreich.

Wien. Gegen 10 Uhr Abends brach neulich in dem isolirten Trakte der Reiterkaserne im Bezirke Josefstadt Dachfeuer aus. Die alarmirte Mannschaft des 15. Husaren-Regiments arbeitete gemeinsam mit der Feuerwehr, welche sämmtliche Dampfspritzen in Thätigkeit setzte, ohne des Brandes Herr zu werden, bis schließlich gegen 1 Uhr die Lokalisirung gelang. Die Gefahr war wegen der Nähe großer Heu- und Strohvorräthe sehr groß.

Bozen. Das hiesige Kreisgericht verurtheilte den Inspektor Josef Lainer aus Gries zu 14 Tagen strengen Arrest, weil er vor einem auf dem Versehgang befindlichen Priester den Hut nicht abnahm.

Brünn. In einem hiesigen Hotel wurde der aus Frankfurt flüchtige Kaufmann Karl Dankosch wegen Betrügereien verhaftet.

Budapest. In der Ortschaft Nagy-Kallo im Komitat Szabolcs brach bei heftigem Sturmwinde ein großes Feuer aus. Mehr als 50 Häuser sind niedergebrannt.

Höritz. Hier ist der Führer der in den Strike getretenen Weber verhaftet worden, weil er an der Spitze eines Haufens Striker das Gerichtsgebäude zu erstürmen versuchte. Militär schritt ein und trieb die Tumultuanten mit aufgepflanztem Bajonett auseinander.

Komorn. Das Dorf Guta im Komitat Neograd ist durch eine furchtbare Feuersbrunst fast ganz eingeäschert worden. An 300 Häuser und Nebengebäude sind von den Flammen vernichtet worden, und den Dorfbewohnern gelang es mit knapper Noth, das nackte Leben zu retten. Aber nicht allen: sieben Frauen, vier Kinder und der Ortsgendarm sind unter den Trümmern erstickt und theilweise gräßlich verbrannt aufgefunden worden.

Taufers. Hier haben kürzlich zwei Ingenieure Studien gemacht wegen der Ausarbeitung eines Projektes zu der Nutzbarmachung der mächtigen Reinbach-Wasserfälle, die zu den größten Naturkräften Europas gehören. Bei vereinigter Ausnützung aller dort vorhandenen Fälle wäre eine elektrische Riesenkraft von etwa 20,000,000 Volt zu erzielen, womit das ganze große Taufererthal sammt allen Seitenthälern reichlich mit Elektrizität zur Beleuchtung, Heizung, zum Kochen und zum Betrieb der projektirten Lokalbahn Brunneck-Taufers versehen werden könnte, während außerdem noch eine große Menge elektrischer Kraft zur Abgabe nach auswärts verfügbar wäre.

Tyrnau. Bürgermeister Nikolaus Stefanovics hat sich erschossen. Er war seit 16 Jahren Bürgermeister und ob der musterhaften Führung seines Amtes hochgeachtet. Die Ursache des Selbstmordes ist unbekannt.

St. Wolfgang. Der Fischermeister Höpplinger hat in seinen Fischwässern, die besonders im Gebiete von Salzburg und auch in Oberösterreich gelegen sind, vor Kurzem wieder 250,000 Stück junge Edelfische, und zwar 100,000 Stück Lachsforellen, 100,000 Stück Saiblinge und 50,000 Stück Bachforellen eingesetzt. Höpplinger hat auch im Vorjahre mehr als 100,000 junge Fische eingesetzt.

Schweiz.

Bern. Wie berichtet wird, bringt der Fremdenverkehr der Schweiz jährlich 112,000,000 Francs ein, oder 35,000,000 Francs mehr als das öffentliche Einkommen des Bundes beträgt. —An der Vervollständigung der Lawinenkarte der Schweiz wurde letztes Jahr weiter gearbeitet und man hofft, dieselbe sammt einer Lawinenstatistik im laufenden Jahre vollenden zu können. —Ein Hotelier von Meiringen beabsichtigt, auf der Alp Grindel in der Nähe der Rosenlaui ein Hotel zu erstellen.

Zürich. Ein Ingenieur in Zürich hat ein Projekt mit Kostenvoranschlag ausgearbeitet, das die Bohrung eines Tunnels von der Gegend des Rathhauses aus quer durch den Zürichberg beabsichtigt. Der Tunnel soll als Trace für eine elektrische Bahn dienen, die nicht schlecht rentiren würde und deren Ertrag ausreichen dürfte, die Kosten des Tunnelbaues einschließlich des nöthigen Landerwerbs zu verzinsen. Die Fahrt durch den Tunnel würde nur etwa zehn Minuten beanspruchen. Als erforderliche Bauzeit werden zwei Jahre vorgesehen.

Solothurn. Das Säli-Schlößchen, der bekannte Aussichtspunkt bei Olten, ging dieser Tage unentgeltlich in den Besitz der Bürgergemeinde Olten über.

Basel. Seit dem 1. Mai gibt es eine neue beschleunigte Zugsverbindung zwischen London und Basel über Dover-Ostende-Straßburg. Die Fahrzeit-Abkürzung beträgt etwa 2½ Stunden, für weitergelegene Schweizer Orte noch viel mehr in Folge verbesserter Anschlüsse.

Aargau. Das „Grand Hotel" in Baden ist vom Besitzer des „Grand Hotel Du Lac" in Neuenburg um die Summe von 1,400,000 Francs angekauft worden.

Thurgau. In Egelshofen starb, 66 Jahre alt, der durch seine „Exkursionsflora der Schweiz" bekannte Botaniker August Gremli.

A THUG'S CONSCIENCE.

"You lads have a fine time of it nowadays with your machine-guns and a commissariat that knows canned meat from castor oil."

It was an Indian veteran who spoke—Col. Carrill—to whom Myers and I, returning from Dacoit-hunting in Burma, had been relating our exploits.

"Fifty years ago fighting was fighting," he went on, "but now——"

We smiled the smile of the young and up-to-date. What did he know of the vagaries of the modern savage; of the Dacoit who came in the night quietly and parted life and death with an ugly and unnecessarily large stab in the breast.

The colonel read our thoughts.

"Dacoits may be a stealthier foe," he said, "but for undiluted vagabondism and downright villainy give me the Thugs."

"They must have been bad," I ventured.

"At the very best, and yet I found a little grain of virtue in one," said the veteran. "Shall I tell you a yarn? It will be like a page of ancient history now, but I don't think it has been told before; and really Hosein Ali was a picturesque scoundrel who deserved record—and hanging.

"It was in the autumn of '34," proceeded the colonel. "I went out from Hyderabad under Major Groves northward across the Godavery after Thugs. The authorities were getting their eyes wide open at last, and a great effort was being made to exterminate the villains. Groves sent me off on my own account with a troop of about 30 Sepoys and a couple of non-coms. We had no success until Hosein Ali fell into our hands. He was taken, not exactly red-handed, but just after the act, with the proof of guilt thick upon him and the spoil in his possession. Yet he denied with all the stubbornness of innocence.

"'I know nothing of what you say, sahib. I am from beyond the Kristna.'

"I looked long and fixedly at the man. He was a fine specimen of a fine race. Tall, and straight as a bamboo; comely of feature and limb, with a handsome and well-kept beard and mustache, and black eyes which glowed with indignation and a hint of defiance, he looked anything but the scoundrel he was. If I had not been so absolutely certain of his guilt, I must have doubted that one of so gallant a bearing could be that worst of all criminals, a Thug.

"'What are you doing here, then,' I asked him. 'What is your trade, your occupation? How did you come by these pearls?'

"'If I answer the sahib at all,' he replied, 'it is that he may be satisfied and let me go on my journey in peace. I am on travel honestly to my sister's wedding, and the stones are a wedding gift.'

"The words came glibly off his tongue; but just as my eyes left his I saw the defiant expression change for a second to a furtive glance, which seemed to say, 'Is he fool enough to believe it?'

"'I don't believe a word of it,' said I, replying to his glance; 'you are a Thug and a murderer, and deserve hanging a hundred times; but—make yourself useful; tell me your companions, show me their haunts, take me to the graves of your victims, and your life may be spared.'

"'I know nothing of what you say, sahib,' he repeated doggedly.

"'Take him away.' I commanded, 'and in 10 minutes' time hang him.'

"Of course, this was pure bounce, but he knew no better. I uttered the sentence sharply and rose to leave the hut. As I turned my back I heard a scuffle, and looking quickly around, was just in time to ward the prisoner's hands from my throat. Taking the Sepoys by surprise, he had with great energy dashed them aside and sprung at me.

"In another moment the men had him down, and, though he struggled desperately, he was bound and dragged to his feet as I resumed my seat.

"'None but the guilty would have behaved so,' I said sternly—I knew no better in those days. You have sealed your doom.'

"The man took a deep breath—he was still panting from the struggle—and shouted with an excess of strength and enthusiasm:

"'Jey Bhowanee!'

"It was the warcry of Thuggee—the invocation to the goddess. If anything more was needed to convict him, it was provided in the extraordinary change in his appearance. All the signs of vice and cupidity which I had looked for in vain at first were now most prominent in the angry, passion-distorted face.

* * * * * * *

"After a short consideration I sent him back to confinement. It was plain that we had made a capture of the first importance. The circumstances under which he had been taken the demeanor and bearing of the man, his strength of will and virility, marked him as more than ordinarily dangerous. Such a man would, without doubt, be the leader, or at least a very prominent member, of any gang with which he was connected, and would possess just the sort of information we wanted. On the other hand, just these qualities in virtue of which his information would be so valuable would in all probability prevent us from acquiring it. Informers are supposed to be built of different material.

"However, I determined to try him, and as a first step I had him informed that unless he consented to give us the information we wanted, he would certainly be hanged in the morning. As an extra argument we built a gallows opposite the windows of his cell.

"At first this only excited his derision. For an hour or more he kept up a stream of ribald and obscene jests, varied with vindictive and comprehensive curses which made the Sepoy guard alternatively laugh and shake their fists in righteous anger.

"The small hours of morning, however, proved too much for him. I was wakened early and told he wanted to speak.

"'Tell him he can say all he wants under the rope,' was my reply. I thought a little more fear of death would make his tongue all the readier.

"When the hour came the man was led out. Nothing remained of the scorn and defiance of the previous day; a night of passion and fear had broken him up.

"As he caught sight of me he called out: 'I will tell all, Sahib Bahadur.' One of the Sepoys previously instructed, began to busy himself with the rope.

"'All,' I said; 'nothing kept back?'

"'Nothing,' he answered eagerly. 'All I have done and my companions.'

"'And their names, all of them?'

"'Yes.'

"'And help us to take them by all means and strategies in your power?'

"He hesitated at this; but a glance at the man who held the rope, and who had now made a pretty noose in it, was enough.

"'I will, sahib,' he muttered. 'My life will be saved?'

"'On condition that you carry out your promise to the letter, I will do my best to save it.'

"A table was brought, my native clerk prepared his writing materals, and there, within a yard of the gibbet, the prisoner told a tale of murder and robbery appalling in its extent, sickening in its cold-bloodedness and deliberation. To this he added a list of some 30 or 40 accomplices, and, with a remarkable effort of memory, described the positions of the rude graves of over 100 victims.

"The same day we set out to investigate, and the following evening reached one of the indicated spots. There we found buried proof of the reality of one part of the Thug's confession, and in that a guarantee for the truth of the rest.

"A couple of weeks of activity passed. Thanks to Hosein, who had been shaved and otherwise disguised, we not only collected ample proof of the crimes committed, but succeeded in securing many of the culprits, who were taken to the nearest court and tried. By a judicious setting of caste against caste, we managed to cause recriminations and retaliations among the prisoners, which led to their convicting each other, and so avoided the necessity of producing Hosein Ali as a witness—a course which would have been fatal to his usefulness.

"So far the informer had amply fulfilled his contract. He had, indeed, displayed a zeal which made me at times very doubtful of his sincerity. No government officer could have been more anxious to run the culprits to earth, no one more fruitful in devices to entrap them. I found out at last that his thoroughness was charateristic of the man in all things.

"One day I told him that I thought he might count on getting off cheap, his services had been so valuable and so willingly given. I added a hope that he might lead a different life when the business was over.

"'What business, sahib?' he asked.

"'When Thuggee is suppressed,' I replied.

"'Thuggee!' He made a wide gesture with his arms, as though to indicate all India, and added, with a little smile, that had a grain of pride in it: 'We shall be old men, sahib.'

"I was but 23 then, and incredulous; but he was right. I was gray when I came home, and I left Thugs behind me.

"Well, the further the work of suppression advanced, the more difficult it became. The Thugs had enjoyed immunity so long that many of the bands had become careless and were taken with comparative ease; but as the news of their capture spread, and the fate which met them became known, the villains grew more wary and difficult of approach.

"We had, of course, spies and scouts out in all directions. The inhabitants of the villages were even too eager to give us information, and often the accounts were so conflicting that I was at a loss. In these difficulties Hosein was invaluable. He smelt out the true and reliable, and knew exactly what the Thugs in this or that dilemma would do or attempt.

"About a month after Hosein's capture we got on the heels of a band which, by the signs, numbered about 40 members. Instead of following them up, we crossed the river along the banks of which they were marching, and, hurrying on, got in advance of them. We knew that they would have to cross later and hoped to ambush them. The bank on our side of the river was covered with a thick and broad belt of jungle, beyond which was a chain of hills whose lower slopes were well wooded. In the shade of these trees we rested for the noon. In the early afternoon one of our scouts came in with news. About a mile in front of us he had seen a party of natives, whose manner seemed to him suspicious, entering a grove of trees. The possibility that this was a detachment of the band we were after at once occurred to me. We were on our feet at once and pushing forward with all circumspection, almost succeeded in surrounding the grove without detection. At the last moment we were seen. We charged in, but, to our surprise, met no resistance. Instead, indeed, of a band of determined and defiant robbers, we broke in on what seemed to be a party of traveling merchants in the deepest distress. The air was full of low lamentations. Pushing my way into the group I saw the cause of the trouble. A body lay stretched out in the unmistakable attitude of death, covered reverently with a linen cloak. Catching sight of me one of the mourners spoke:

"'Shookr Khoda! Now shall the wicked suffer.'

"'What is wrong?' I inquired.

"'Thugs!' was the reply. 'Our brother left us this morning in a fit of anger to continue his journey alone. Here we overtake him at noon, dead, and the villains are gone.'

"I plied the men with questions as to the direction taken by the robbers. 'Eastward,' they said. They had not seen them but from various signs, were confident. This was contrary to all our ideas as to their route, and I was considering how to rearrange our plans when I heard Hosein Ali's voice whispering behind me: 'My lord must not look around or show surprise. This body is still warm. The man is but just dead, and they who mourn have killed him. They are Thugs,' he added.

"I was too bewildered at first to speak, but, pulling myself together, partly grasped the situation.

"Turning to the spokesman of the party, I did my best to convince him that I was completely taken in; and, assuring him that we should most certainly pursue the culprits, left him ostensibly to make preparations to that end.

"'Now, what is this?' I asked Hosein.

"'They are Thugs,' he repeated, 'an advanced guard who came across this traveler unexpectedly. They had just strangled him as we rushed in. This is an old dodge.'

"'What is?'

"'This pretense of finding the man dead and mourning.'

"Old as it was, I was all but taken in, and but for Hosein the villains would have got away and sent me on a wild-goose chase.

"In view of this, it was somewhat humbly I asked Hosein what was best to be done.

"'Let them all be seized and bound without noise,' he said with his usual decision; the rest will come across after dark, and we will take them also.'

"It was no easy matter to carry out this plan. The Thugs were prone to suspicion, and once alarmed would fight desperately. However, by setting part of them to furnsh my clerk with an account of the affair—an account which was afterward highly esteemed as a specimen of impromptu lying—and plying the others with questions as to the direction taken by the alleged assassins, we managed to lull suspicion and divide the party into groups. Then, at a given signal, we threw them and tied them securely, to their intense amazement and disgust.

"We did not move from the grove till daylight began to die out. Hosein had the whole detachment busy for some hours cutting a number of short bamboo sticks and boring holes in their ends, through which short lengths of cord were run. He had a way of holding his tongue till questioned, and, moreover, liked to have his plans matured before being called on to explain them; so I let him proceed unquestioned until I saw he was ready.

"'What are these things for?' I then asked him.

"'Food for the Thugs, sir,' he replied. 'When they taste these they are silent.'

"Then I perceived that the mysterious articles were gags.

"'They will come across the ford tonight,' continued Hosein. We will be in waiting, and as they land one by one, seize them and stop their voices.

"'How can you be sure they will cross?' said I.

"'Shall I not tempt them?' he answered. 'Shall I not light a fire and send a cry across the water as these would have done if God had not delivered them into our hands?'

"'How many of them are there?'

"'I should say from 30 to 40.'

"'And we must leave a guard with the prisoners. We shall have our hands full,' I said cautiously.

"'I know this ford so well,' responded Hosein; 'only one man can land at a time. If the sahib will permit, I will stand by the bank and assist them out singly. It will be dark to-night and there will be rain. Some of your men must leave their coats and dress like Thugs, and as I hand over the first of the robbers two of them shall seize him, fill his mouth with the wood and tie them up so that he makes neither sound nor motion. In like manner with the others. The jungle and the rain will help us.

"It was a simple, daring scheme. It seemed one moment to be absolutely impracticable, and the next to have no real defect. Its very audacity was its strength. Of my two Sepoy sergeants to whom I explained the idea, one was certainly dubious; but he was always somewhat jealous of Hosein; the other was an optimist of the first class, and would just as cheerfully have tackled the job in broad daylight with half the force. In the end I consented. It would be a great feather in our caps if we succeeded.

"When the time came we moved noiselessly down to the ford, leaving six of our party with the prisoners in the grove. The night had settled in wet and starless. The jungle thickened toward the river. I had no difficulty in closely following Hosein, who guided us. He ducked the low branches and squirmed through the thick undergrowth like a cat. A score of chattering creatures scurried away at our disturbing footsteps. A swift hare ran right across our guide's path, at which he stood stock still and trembled.

"'The worst of omens,' he whispered; 'it means failure and death.'

"'To Thugs?' I queried.

"'Yes.'

"'Then push on,' I replied; 'it means failure and death to your friends across the river.'

"He was heartened at once, and went on. My first indistinct view of the ford renewed my previous distrust of Hosein's good faith. It seemed the last place one would select for a passage. The bank was 10 or 12 feet high and rose sheer out of the water. By looking closely, however, I made out a large flat rock standing about five feet out of the stream and close to the bank forming a natural if somewhat difficult step. The bank was only attainable by first climbing the rock. All my distrust vanished. Hosein's plan fitted the place like the bark on a tree.

"Our dispositions were quickly made. The signal fire was lit, and, after the proper interval, extinguished; and we lay down in silence to wait for the next move. The smell of the Indian night was an oppression; the rain was bringing out a hundred heavy fragrances from the plants, and a steamy cold moisture seemed to cover us as we lay. As the minutes passed and the noise of our approach ceased, the voices in the jungle were again manifest.

"At last we saw the answering fire. Hosein let himself down to the stepping-stone and stood erect. At the same moment the shriek of a jackal close at hand made me jump to my feet. From across the river the cry was repeated and then I knew it was the second signal.

"As I stood I saw how hazardous Hosein's position was. He had only a narrow and wet foothold, and at the first glimmer of suspicion might be dragged off and murdered before anyone could get to his assistance. I advanced a step with the view of bettering the arrangement, but Hosein, hearing the sound, turned, raising his hand warningly with a whispered 'Choop!' and I lay down again. A moment or two of extreme tension followed, and then, above the whipping sound of the rain on the river, I could just hear the careful splashing of the waters. Soon the head of the first one came dimly into sight, a black moving spot on the dark water, and behind it, in Indian file, other blots still more indistinct. As the leader neared the bank Hosein said a couple of words in 'Moor,' which elicited a low reply. I then saw him stoop and draw the man on to the rock beside him. It was an exciting moment, and I know I trembled—solely, I hope, from over-anxety.

"The Thug gave himself a shake, and grasping the bank, climbed up. He reached a little group of disguised Sepoys; there was a slight scuffle, and then all was quiet. The first one was secured.

"Six or seven more followed, and were secured with scarcely more noise than a scurrying rat would cause. As each one attained an upright position on the bank, he was gagged and overpowered and laid out in the jungle helplessly bound. There was an anxious pause after the twelfth man, and from the banks below I heard a lot of whispering. Just as I was thinking it advisable to risk asking the reason, I saw Hosein stoop, draw up a large bundle, and throw it up to the bank.

"The Thugs were passing up their booty!

"The remainder of the band brought each a similar parcel. I had crept to the assistance of my men, whose exertions to secure the robbers noiselessly were beginning to tell on them. As we approached the end one or two squeals escaped, but fortune favored us and no alarm was given. Hosein's endurance was marvelous. One after the other he helped the victims out of the water and passed them up, and always with a sufficient interval. When once or twice we had more than the usual difficulty in convincing one of the captives of the wisdom of silence, he detained the next a while before landing him. Still, even he relaxed a trifle in the end. By some means the last man but one to cross took alarm as he reached the bank, and yelled out a warning. He was quickly pulled down and secured, but his successor, just about to reach out his hand to Hosein, hesitated and retreated. I heard a big splash and Hosein disappeared. He had jumped in after the man and engaged in a struggle which we could hear, but only dimly see. As there was no need for further concealment, I climbed down the bank and slipped into the water, followed by one of my men. Hosein had apparently overpowered his man and was forcing him toward the bank. As we approached the Thug uttered a furious sentence in a dialect which I did not understand, and the next moment he was free and hurrying away. Hosein, for the first time in my knowledge, seemed dumbfounded and without resource. The Sepoy and I dashed after the escaping Thug and held him. He was an elderly but exceedingly powerful man, who fought tooth and nail, and was only secured after the Sepoy had hit him across the head with the hilt of his bayonet.

"With this we had them all; 33 murderers and 20 bales of spoils—a fine haul.

"We spent the remainder of the night in the grove where we had surprised the first lot, and early next day pushed on to Tearce, where I expected to find a court sitting.

Following our usual precaution Hosein traveled with the rear guard, so that the prisoners should not see more of him than necessary, although I more than suspected that he had been recognized by the old Thug. Something had changed him, anyhow. He was strangely thoughtful, even morose; and when he did speak it was for the first time, of his wife and child. It was plain that he was passionately fond of both, and his great concern was that they might not learn what his occupation had been.

"Arrived at our destination, we found the court already sitting, so that our prisoners had not long to wait. In a couple of days the case against them was presented. The proofs of their guilt was overwhelming, and, as they thought more of defiance than defense, they were soon convicted and sentenced—15 of them, including the old man who had so nearly escaped, to be hanged, the rest to transportation to Penang.

"The following morning was fixed for the execution. Three hackeries conveyed the doomed men to the gibbets. They kept, or tried to keep, up their courage by the coarsest ribaldry, and by jeering at their escort.

As they stood in the centre of the clearing before ascending the platform Hosein Ali created a sensation by slipping forward and kneeling humbly and contritely before the old Thug. The latter, with an indescribable accent of scorn uttered a couple of words and spat derisively on the informer.

"The next moment the culprits had mounted the gallows. As each man stepped up, he took the rope in his hands and tested it by bearing on it with all his weight. Satisfied of this, the 15 men almost simultaneously thrust their heads through the nooses, and drawing the knots tight, jumped off the platform with a last cry of 'Victory to Bhowanee!'

"The hangman's touch would have robbed them of caste.

"The excitement of this scene was not over when a fresh sensation was caused by the discovery of a man lying a short distance from the gallows with a bayonet through his heart, having killed himself by falling on the blade.

"It was Hosein Ali!

"'What is the meaning of this?' I cried.

"One of the bystanders turned toward the still swinging bodies of the Thugs, and pointing to the old man said:

"'That was his father!'"—Chambers's Journal.

The Egg Output.

P. H. Sprague, a Chicago poultry dealer, figures that 3,350,000,000 chickens and 13,000,000,000 eggs, valued together at $290,000,000, were produced in the United States in 1898. The Chicago Chronicle says that the value of the egg output, which Mr. Sprague does not estimate separately, probably exceeds any mineral output excepting that of coal, but not excepting pig iron.

Buried Alive But Still Lives.

Edward Johnson was buried alive in a sand pit at Claybank, Minn., for 29 hours, and when extricated was uninjured. Johnson was working in pits when the first cave-in occurred, covering him as far as the shoulders. A garden hose was thrown to the man, when the second cave-in occurred, burying him under ten feet of sand, and through this hose Johnson breathed for over a day.

Eighty Miles of Fishing Line.

Manager Charles McCann, of the Law Students' Baseball Club, has sent a challenge to a lawyer in the city to play them this spring. So far he has received no answer.

St. Mary's ball nine will play the Black Diamonds, of Morristown, Decoration Day on the Washington avenue grounds. As St. Mary's nine has already defeated the Black Diamonds three times, a brisk game is expected.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Next Saturday there will be several interesting events on the Gentlemen's Driving Association track, and there should be a large crowd of spectators present. The programme will include two trials for a silver cup presented by J. W. Johnson to the person driving their horse the nearest to 2:50. Each man is obliged to drive his own horse. Those who have entered the race include A. C. Vail, Edward VanBuren, J. W. Johnson, Robert Fairburn, J. S. Irving, Mr. Wright, Mr. Hayes, Ellis Campbell, Douglass Darby, Phillip Jenner and N. B. Smalley.

The next race will be a 2:25 class in which Thomas Brantingham, John Osborn, William Baldwin and Theo. Mantz are entered. The third race will be the 2:40 class, and Chas. Brower, W. A. Codington, N. B. Smalley, George Tobin and Mr. Wright will contest for honors.

The programme will also include some exhibition races and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend. No admission fee is charged.

ROD AND GUN.

L. M. VanDyke and William Pierson, of the borough, have long been close rivals for the honors of being the best trap shooter. The claims of each became so loud that Monday they were invited to shoot a match on John Powers' farm at Samptown. They did so and Pierson beat VanDyke out by five birds. One match for 25 birds was shot. Pierson got 21 out of the bunch while VanDyke could only hit 16. A return shoot will be held June 5 at the same place. After the match sweepstake shooting was indulged in by those who drove out to witness the match, and some good scores were made by men who had never had a gun in their hands before.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

Orville J. Waring, of Willow avenue, won third place in the one-mile run in U. of P. games last Saturday at Philadelphia.

Monday night C. E. A. Heywood, of the Y. M. C. A., acted as judge in a gymnastic contest in the gymnasium at Newark. There were about fifty contestants. Last night he went to Summit and acted in a similar capacity at a contest there.

GOLF.

As soon as the greens committee announce the schedule for the summer at the Park Golf Club, play will be started on the various events.

If the weather permits there will be interesting play on the Park Golf Club grounds next Saturday afternoon. There will also be a tea in the clubhouse.

How the Fire Caught.

A. L. Cadmus, dealer in flour, feed, grain and hay, who suffered a loss by fire recently at his place of business on South Second street, attributes the fire to some burning grass that crept up to the building on the north side and ignited straw and hay that projected out from beneath the iron sheathing that did not extend fully to the ground.

Joseph Hart and wife, of Rockaway Beach, spent Sunday and Monday with their brother-in-law, W. F. Dreyer, at the Somerset Hotel.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

BOARDING MISTRESS DUPED.

Fair Young Solicitor Left While Owing for Two Weeks Board.

She was pretty and won the heart of the boarding house keeper at once when she appeared at Mrs. Henry Labaugh's house on West Fourth street the latter part of last month, and asked for board and lodgings for two weeks. She gave her name as Laura Whitman, and claimed to come from Newark. She represented a New York publishing house and was soliciting subscriptions.

Mrs. Labaugh's good heart overflowed with pity and compassion for the fair stranger, and when the latter asked her to write to her former employers in Newark for recommendations, Mrs. Labaugh scorned the idea of the pretty solicitor being anything but all right, and gave her a room and the best board the house afforded.

That was the tale the boarding house keeper told to Justice Mosher yesterday afternoon, when she came to have a warrant sworn out for Laura's arrest. It seems the soliciting business did not turn out as well for the girl as she thought it would. At the end of the first week she did not have money enough to pay her board bill and buy her a new spring hat, so Mrs. Labaugh told her to buy the hat and let the board bill go another week.

At the end of the second week the money was still not forth coming, so the fair boarder departed the Sunday after and has not been seen since. The justice issued the warrant, but told Mrs. Labaugh that she had better let the matter drop, as Laura's whereabouts were unknown.

TO RECEIVE NEW PRESIDENT.

Rev. J. A Stafford Will Assume His Duties at Seton Hall Tomorrow.

Rev. John A. Stafford will assume the duties of his new position as president of Seton Hall College tomorrow and on that night he will give a reception in the alumni hall by the students and faculty of the college.

Father Stafford will be welcomed for the seminarians by Rev. James M. Reid, who will make a short address, and the students will be represented by Cornelius McGlennon, of the class of '99. Henry Beale and Francis Koch will represent the students on the Reception Committee. A vocal and musical programme will be rendered by the College Glee Club and orchestra.

A meeting of the consultors of the Catholic Diocese of Newark was held yesterday afternoon, at which a number of candidates to succeed Father Stafford as pastor of St. Augustine's church, Union Hill, were discussed. A selection was not decided upon. This church is without a pastor, because of Father Stafford's appointment as president of Seton Hall College. He was pastor of St. Augustine's for the past two years.

Farm Buildings Burned.

LOST $240 TRYING TO GET LOAN OF $5,000.

Unpleasant Experience of Calvary Baptist Church.

LAWYER MADE GOOD LOSS.

HE ADVISED THAT THE LOAN COMPANY WAS ALL RIGHT.

After the First Year's Interest was Paid the Company Failed to Advance the $5,000 as They Had Promised—Officers of the Company in New York are Missing and Being Looked For.

It was about two months ago that Robert Pierce, of New Market, called on Rev. Scott Wallace, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church, and informed him that he represented the Financial Agency Company, of New York, and he said that he understood the church wanted to secure a loan of $5 000. Pastor Wallace was interested in the scheme, and referred Mr. Pierce to his lawyer. Soon afterward the lawyer went to the company's office at 38 Park Row, New York, and after making a thorough investigation he advanced $240 to the company, that being the interest for one year on the loan of $5,000. The company promised to send a check for $5,000 within a few days.

In the meantime a man giving the name of Mr. Bar, came to Plainfield from New York, as a representative of the company, to see the property held held by the Calvary Baptist church, and to see whether it was worth the loan to be made. He examined it and gave his approval, saying that the loan would be forthcoming soon. That was a few weeks ago, but as yet nothing has been seen of the money. Pastor Wallace and his lawyer made a number of trips to New York to investigate and each time they were informed that the check for $5,000 would be sent soon. It was not, however, and after the lawyer was satisfied in his own mind that the company was not right he made good the amount, $240, and gave Pastor Wallace the same on Saturday last, so that the church is not anything out.

Pastor Wallace informed The Press this morning that he has not been asleep since he came to Plainfield, and that the work of completing the church will be continued without interruption. Next Sunday the congregation expects to worship in the upstairs part of the church.

The New York Hearld of today published a column story about the Financial Agency Company that transacted business with the Plainfield lawyer for the Calvary Baptist church. The same paper published a picture of G. Percival Stewart, one of the officials of the company who is missing The article states that about thirty-five or forty creditors visited the offices yesterday to interview Mr. Stewart, but that gentleman could not be found. There was no one at the office except a typewriter and an office boy, and they left early in the day allowing the creditors to wander about the offices and talk over their troubles. Others connected with the company and who were being searched for are N. F. Carr and D. J. Pierce.

The Financial Agency Company is the successor of the American Investors' Company, which rented the offices at 38 Park Row, New York, in January. It was announced that the company would engage in the business of buying real estate and selling it upon small monthly payments.

JUDGMENT INCREASED.

Steven Bicknell's Claim Approved of by Judge Bartine.

The appeal case of Steven Bicknell against Mrs. Anna Underhill was tried Wednesday before Judge Bartine, of Somerville. The judgment of $80 was not only sustained by the higher court, but increased to $106.

Bicknell worked on Mrs. Underhill's farm last summer for a portion of the crops. When the time for settlement arrived Bicknell was not given as much as he thought he was entitled to, and so he brought suit in tort before Justice Smalley. Codington and Swackhamer represented him, and secured a judgment for $80.

Rev. Mr. Newell to Talk.

Tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the parlor of Trinity Reformed church, Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel, will give an interesting address at the semi-annual meeting of the City Union, King's Daughters. Mr. Newell's address will be along the line of work being performed by the King's Daughters. Mr. Newell will also have charge of the devotional exercises. All persons interested in this work are cordially invited.

Mrs. Boylan, of Bank place, has about recovered from a severe illness.

"COUNT" VAN NESS MAY STOP TROLLEY.

Doesn't Want the Tracks to Make a Bend on His Land.

MAY GET OUT INJUNCTION.

HE SIGNED THE RIGHT OF WAY FOR STRGIGHT LINE.

When the Survey Was Made, However, it Was Found That the Route Makes a Curve on His Property and He Does Not Like It—Weird Stories Have Been Circulated Around Town.

Just as the Scotch Plains extension of the Plainfield Street Railroad Company is about to be finished, after two years of aggitation concerning the terms of the franchise, the company is threatened with trouble by one of the property owners over whose land the extension is to run. The man who threatens trouble is "Count" J. K. VanNess, of East Front street. The route of the company crosses a piece of property owned by VanNess, he having signed off the right of way several months ago when the company selected that route.

When he did this it was understood, so Mr. VanNess claims, that the line was to run straight across his property, but when the survey was made and the road staked out it was found that quite a bend in the road was planned for that point. The curve also takes in part of the land donated by Cole, and now it is stated that both Cole and VanNess are opposed to the tracks crossing their property unless they run in a straight line. They believe it will be a great detriment to their property in the event of their desiring to cut their property up into building lots.

Mr. VanNess now threatens, it is said, to apply for an injunction against the Street Railway Company crossing his property unless they do it on a straight line. There has been considerable talk about the matter within the last few days, and in connection with the trouble there has been some weird stories told of men being stationed with shotguns on the property to prevent the railway employes from breaking ground on the property. These stories, however, are false.

If an injunction should be secured it would mean a delay that would be costly for the Street Railway Company, and it is expected that if they anticipate serious trouble they will take heroic steps to get across the property before an injunction can be secured.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

MISS EMMA E. WHITLOCK BECOMES MRS. HARRY F. RANDOLPH.

Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride's Parents by Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck — 100 Guests Present.

A pretty home wedding was solemnized last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Abram V. Whitlock, 1424 West Front street, when their only daughter, Miss Emma E. Whitlock, was united in marriage to Harry F. Randolph, of Watchung avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Whitlock were formerly from New Brunswick, and the ceremony was witnessed by over a hundred guests, many of them from that city.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., under an arch of dogwood blossoms in the parlor. There were two bridemaids, Miss May Stroud and Miss Lulu Stanford, of Newark. The groomsmen were John Whitlock, of Plainfield, a brother to the bride, and Edward Whitlock, of Beechwood Heights, a cousin.

The bride is a pronounced blonde, and was gowned in white silk. In her hands she carried a bouquet of lillies of the valley, roses and pinks. Miss Stroud wore blue organdie and Miss Sanford white. Both carried white roses.

The wedding was at 7:30 o'clock, and was followed by a reception at which the wedding supper was served. Music was provided, and the evening was passed in dancing. The couple did not go away last night, but today will take a short trip. They will take up their residence with the bride's parents.

The house looked very pretty last night with its decorations of wild flowers. In the parlor was a great mass of dogwood blossoms, arranged so as to hide the wall completely.

Endeavor Anniversary.

This evening the anniversary of the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will be celebrated. An address will be delivered by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church.

REV. E. E JACKSON ON NEEDS OF HIS RACE.

Declares That a Colony for Negroes is Not Practical.

THEY WANT GOOD EXAMPLE

BUT THEY DO NOT SEEM TO BE GETTING IT JUST NOW.

He Says That the Colored Men Make a Great Mistake by Supporting the Republican Party Irrespective of What it Does—Southern Negroes Lynched Generally Merit Fate They Receive.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I read an article in the Sun recently respecting the colonization of Negroes in Suffolk county, Long Island, which I bitterly denounce. The article stated that this colony would be strictly for colored men. I don't say that the intelligent Negro is not capable of self-government, but I contend that since the Negro has complained for the last thirty-four years that the white man is prejudiced against him on account of his color, he should seek to wipe out all the paths that tend to separate him from his white brother.

If this is the only plan the owners of that property have to utilize it, I think it one inconsistent to intelligent reasoning. While I am in favor of the waste places of this country being filled and occupied, I am not in favor of its being given over wholly to my race. If the "underground railway" advocates of the Negro are so much interested in his welfare, why not locate him in their midst where they can realize more distictly that "out of one blood God has made all nations."

Who are the Negroes of the south who are lynched? Generally those who well merit their fate. There are few cases like that of Baker, of South Carolina. My experience has been that the Negro who is lynched is the Negro of the lowest stamp, and the perpetrators are those who are blackest morally of the white race.

If the colored man of both the north and south would take a more manly stand, both morally and politically, these outrages would cease. That is, when election day comes vote for the best man.

The Negro has been taught that the Republican party freed them, and if that party sends them to Hell they must vote for it. I am a Republican and may ever be, but I must say that no loyalty has been shown by them to the Southern Negro. The party government is rotten. The present administration is characterized by as much color phobia and diabolical spirit of cast as the Southern outragers.

It could not stand the destruction of the Maine and the loss of three hundred souls; it could not stand the cries of Cuba and the daily death of forty from hunger; but it can bear the groans of seven hundred widows and over thirteen hundred orphans caused by the death of their fathers from the limb of a tree.

I want no separate colony. I am willing to trust to an honest government. I am willing to live with an honest white man anywhere on earth, and they should be given the same opportunities on that island as the Negro has, and set such examples of intellect and morals that my race may be benefitted by them.

If the Negro is to be lifted from his depth of poverty and illiteracy it is to be done by his efforts and the assistance of the whites. There is not a colored man in this city as a property owner but what finds a friend in the white man. To separate him from the white man would be as grievous as to separate me from my work. We Negros are here to live with our white brethren on earth, in Heaven and some of us in the land that is hotter than this.

E. E. Jackson,
Pastor of Mt. Olive Church.

HAS FORGOTTEN HIS OWN NAME.

Injured Somerville Man Has Completely Lost His Memory.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 18.—J. C. Smith, of Somerville, who was injured some days ago in this city by being thrown from his wagon, is still in the hospital. He has recovered consciousness, but has lost his memory. He does not know his name and has no recollection whatever of his life and associations prior to the accident. He sometimes seems to recognize members of his family, but this is seldom. He is suffering from concussion of the brain.

The physicians in attendance hope that he will ultimately recover the use of his faculties.

CENTRAL SEEMS IN NO GREAT HURRY

Through Plainfield Newark Trains Not Decided Yet.

BUSINESS MEN ARE ACTIVE.

COMMITTEE INTERVIEWED MR. BALDWIN AGAIN.

Board of Trade Committee Met Yesterday Afternoon and Determined to do Their Best to Secure the Increased Service—Mr. Baldwin Said That No Conclusion Had Been Reached—It May be Done.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark May 18.—The Committee on Trade and Commerce of the Board of Trade are determined in their project of securing more through trains on the Central Railroad between Newark and Plainfield. Yesterday afternoon a meeting of the committee was held to formulate a plan and it was decided to use every influence possible to accomplish the result.

The railroad management has as yet made no sign of acceeding to the request of the Newark business men. It would appear that the railroad officials are in a state of indecision in the matter. If what General Passenger Agent H. P. Baldwin says is true, no conclusion has yet been arrived at. The question whether the desired through trains will be put on is yet open. The fact that the management is still unsettled in mind encourages the Newark merchants in the belief that they will come off successful.

The president's assistant, Warren, was seen yesterday to ascertain what his view of through Newark-Plainfield trains was. This was in pursuance of a suggestion of Mr. Baldwin, who said his superior might see the situation in a light favorable to Newark. But Warren apparently was not disposed to take a friendly attitude. He betrayed an inclination to make light of the request of the Newark merchants.

The case was laid before him as briefly as possible. He was told of the belief of the Newark business men that the Central Railroad was slighting Newark; that the facilities it offered this city were bad, as were the accommodations, and that the fact that changes of trains had to be made in the journey to Plainfield and the towns along the railroad line south of Roselle operated against the advancement of Newark's business interests.

Mr. Baldwin was afterward seen. He was asked whether anything had been done.

"Nothing yet," he answered.

"Are you ready to give Newark a positive and final answer in the matter of through trains to Plainfield?"

"No. We have come to no conclusion. We want to accomodate the public," he said.

The business men are determined to make an aggressive and energetic campaign for the through trains.

HOW THE FIREMEN WILL RESPOND.

Fire Alarm Boxes Rearranged for the New Call Men.

As stated yesterday in The Daily Press the officers of the fire department were arranging the schedule of the various fire-alarm boxes to meet the requirements of the new organization just effected. The schedule has been completed, but will not go into effect until the apparatus is moved into the new house in the West End, and that will be when the brick pavement is laid in front of the above house. It is calculated that the work will take about a week or ten days to complete. Until this change is made the present schedule will be used:

Hose Company No 1 will answer calls from the following boxes 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 18, 19, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 34, 35, 41, 42, 43, 45, 46, 63, 76. Hose Company No. 2 will answer alarms from the following boxes 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 18, 19, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 32, 35, 37, 38 41, 42 47, 48, 49, 63, 76, 85, 89. Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 will respond to alarms from the following boxes 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 21, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 32, 34, 36, 37, 38, 41, 42, 43, 45, 46, 47, 63, 76, 85. The alarms to be answered by Steamer Company No. 2 are as follows 18, 19, 24, 26, 28, 29, 37, 3[illegible], 47, 48, 49, 63, 76, 85, 89. Hose Company No. 3, in the West End, will respond to alarms from the following boxes 34, 37, 38, 43, 45, 46, 47, 48 49, 85 89.

Of course all of the above calls are on first alarm, and for second alarms, all companies will respond. The chemical engine will respond to all alarms as usual.

Peter R. Mauer, of Newark, has accepted a position at Armstrong's pharmacy, and being a graduate of the School of Pharmacy, will assist Mr. Armstrong in the prescription department.

JOE WILLIS DIED IN A COUNTY JAIL CELL.

Was a Victim of Delirium Tremens Last Night.

FOUND DEAD THIS MORNING

COMMITTED LAST TUESDAY BY RECORDER LONG.

Had Been in a Crazed Condition for Several Days as a Result of His Sprees—Was Employed as a Hostler in North Plainfield—A Well-Meaning Fellow, But Victim of Drink Curse.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 18—Joseph Willis, aged about 40 years, a resident of North Plainfield, who was committed to the county jail last Tuesday by Recorder Long on a charge of being drunk, was found dead in his cell this morning when Deputy Sheriff John Anderson entered the jail to release the prisoner. Willis had been in a crazy condition since his confinement as a result of several sprees, and had injured his body badly by throwing himself against his cell in his delirium fits. County Physician Wagoner was called and gave as the cause of death delirium tremens. The physician said, however, that death did not result from injuries inflicted by the prisoner.

Willis was brought to Plainfield about fifteen years ago by the late Lambert DeCamp, who made a home for him and in return Willis worked about the place. He remained with Mr. DeCamp while he lived and afterward he remained with relatives about Dog Corner until a few months ago, when he located in the borough. He was a hostler, honest and well-meaning, but he was a very heavy drinker.

Last Tuesday he had one of his spells in Somerset street, and was committed to Somerville for ten days, that being considered the best place for him. So far as can be learned at present Willis has no relatives and arrangements are being made by the county officials for his burial.

REUNION OF RELATIVES.

Michael Higgins Visited by Aunt Whom He Had Not Seen in Years.

The family of Michael Higgins, of West Front street, were enjoyably surprised yesterday. A strange woman called at the house and inquired for Mr. Higgins. One of the members of the family answered the call at the door, and for a few minutes was a little puzzled to know what was wanted. She was shown to the parlor, where she waited until Mr. Higgins came in. When the two met there was a great reunion and a hearty handshake.

The woman is Mrs. Catherine Carroll, a native of County Cork, Ireland, and she has not been in Plainfield since 1865, when she left her home in South Plainfield together with her husband and four children. From Plainfield she went to a place about twenty miles from Davenport, Iowa, where the family resided for ten years. A number of years ago Mrs. Carroll's husband died, leaving her with the children who are grown up. About fifteen years ago she sold her farm and purchased a residence in Davenport, which she occupied until a short time ago. A trolley company in Davenport found that in laying out their road their tracks would pass directly through Mrs. Carroll's property, and they made her an offer for her place. She accepted and decided to come and visit her relatives, whom she has not seen in many years.

Mrs. Carroll is an aunt to Michael and Patrick Higgins, and a great aunt to Patrolman Higgins, all of this city. She is 65 years of age and looks almost the same as she did when she went away in 1865. Mrs. Carroll will spend much time in the east and will visit various places of interest. She is accompanied by a daughter.

WATER RUNS OFF NOW.

A Needed Culvert Has Been Built on Clinton Avenue.

A new culvert has just been completed at West Third street and Clinton avenue which will carry the water, which has been accumulating on Third street, into the brook. All last winter there has been a regular pond there, and through the spring the boys used to boat on it.

The residents appealed to the Council to have a culvert built before summer for fear contagious diseases would breed in the stagnant pool. An old drain is hidden some where under the dirt, but it was not even looked for.

DUNELLEN POSTMASTER SERIOUSLY ACCUSED.

Charged With Taking $535, Receipts of Office.

WAS ARRESTED YESTERDAY.

FURNISHED $1,000 FOR APPEARANCE NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Charles A. Coriell is the Accused Officeholder—Has Been Postmaster Since Present Admistration Secured Control—Dr. Brakely, One of His Bondsmen, Put in Temporary Charge of the Office.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 18—Charles A. Coriell, who has held the position of Postmaster at Dunellen since the first year of the present Administration, was relieved of control of this office last evening, and former Mayor Brakely, is now acting postmaster.

Mr. Coriell was arranged before United States Commissioner Jones, at Newark, yesterday afternoon, on a charge of misappropriating $535, the receipts of the office. The charge was made by Postoffice Inspector Benjamin R. Thopp. The shortage alleged in Mr. Coriell's accounts was discovered May 4th. At that time one of the inspectors visited the Dunellen office and went over the various accounts. When Mr. Coriell was arraigned yesterday he was held in $1,000 bail to appear next Wednesday for examination.

The news of Mr. Coriell's displacement spread throughout the borough and it was not long before nearly everyone in the place knew about it. The many friends of Mr. Coriell can scarcely believe that he has consciously done wrong, and many are inclined to believe that he will set himself right at the examination.

Dr. Brakeley, who is one of Mr. Coriell's bondsmen, took charge of the office last evening, and he will remain in charge until further action is taken by the postal authorities. Mr. Brakeley was selected and decided upon by the postal authorities and the other bondsmen, Alvah Gray, Mr. Garrison and Mr. Coriell's brother, who resides at Bound Brook.

Mr. Coriell, as stated, was appointed during the first year of the present Administration, and was one of a number of aspirants for the position. He succeeded P. C. Staats, a Democrat, who was very popular among Dunellenites. Mr. Coriell also has a host of friends throughout Middlesex county, and he has always occupied a high place in his party.

FIREMEN GAVE A VASE.

PRESENTATION MADE BY LOCAL BOYS TO PRINCETON COMPANY.

The Occasion Made a Pleasant One for All Concerned—Robert Eick Acted as Spokesman for the Plainfield Firemen.

There was a jolly time among the firemen at Princeton last Tuesday evening when a delegation of firemen from this city went to that place and presented Mercer Company, No. 3, with a handsome Japanese vase, formerly the property of No. 2 Engine Campany, of this city. In the Plainfield delegation was Robert Eick, James Dawe, William Townley, Henry Wierenga, Frank Hand, Frank Schuck and Theodore Smith. They left here in the afternoon and upon their arrival at Princeton were met by a committee from Mercer Company consisting of Alex. Stryker, J. R. Drake, H. W. Margerum, Edward C. Kopp and Charles E. Seger. They were then taken to one of the best hotels in Princeton, where they were dined and wined to the queen's taste.

After the inner-man had been well taken care of all adjourned to Mercer engine house, where the vase was presented to the home boys. Robert Eick did the act in a very pleasant manner by making a neat speech. He spoke of the kindly feeling existing between the firemen, and the vase was given to make the ties of friendship still stronger.

The handsome gift was received by the committee on behalf of Mercer Company, and some very complimentary things were said about the Plainfield visitors After the presentation the balance of the evening was passed in a sociable manner, and it was early yesterday morning when the Plainfield boys arrived in town. They all agree, however, that the Princeton laddies know how to give a good time.

THE EXEMPT FIREMEN MEET IN EAST ORANGE.

Plainfielders Took an Important Part in Proceedings.

AUGUST SALTZMAN RETIRES.

IRVING WATERMORE OF HACKENSACK, ELECTED PRESIDENT.

Mr. Saltzman Chosen as a Delegate to Represent the Association at the Paris Exposition—Public and Private Buildings Decorated With Flags and Bunting in Honor of the Occasion
(Special to The Daily Press.)

East Orange, May 18—The thirteenth annual convention of the Exempt Firemen's Association of New Jersey was held in this place yesterday.

It was 11:45 o'clock when August Saltzman, of Plainfield, president of the association, declared the convention opened, which was held in Commonwealth Hall, open for business.

The Committe on Credentials, composed of R. J. Mooney, of Summit; Alexander Gee, of Bayonne, and E. M. Laing, of Plainfield, reported a few irregularities in credentials, which were finally adjusted.

D. W. Littell, of Plainfield, chairman of the Legislative Committee, reported that there was but little business affecting firemen transacted during the last session of the Legislature. The report of the committee recommended that the incoming Legislative Committee should look into the laws affecting the Exempt and Relief Firemen's associations, and if necessary, to prepare a bill to be presented at the next Legislature, which measure will be in the interests of the firemen.

There were three nominations for president — Irving Waltermire, of Hackensack; John J. Ready, of East Orange and Alexander Chrispie, of Bayonne. On the first ballot Mr. Waltermire received eighty votes, Mr. Ready forty-nine, and Mr. Chrispie forty-two. The chairman declared "no choice," and Messrs. Ready and Chrispie withdrew from the contest, and the former moved that the election of Mr. Waltermire be made unanimous. This was done.

The new president is senior vice-president of the State association. He was born in Hackensack, and has lived there all his life. For three years he was chief of the fire department of that place.

The following officers were also chosen: Secretary, Elias K. Leslie, of Trenton; treasurer, Thomas Leathers, Jersey City; statistician, Daniel Fallon, Elizabeth; vice-presidents, E. L. Bowen, Bridgeton; Thomas B. Cassidy, Trenton; N. C. Griffen, Ocean Grove; W. W Sickles, Dover; John J Ready, John J. Dupuy, Rutherford; Thomas D. Callaghan, Harrison; Charles I. Holden, Rahway.

Dover was selected as the next meeting place with practically no opposition, Secaucus being named and afterward withdrawn. Former President Auguste Saltzman, of Plainfield, was selected to represent the association at the Paris Exposition next year. A resolution was adopted fixing the assessment on each association at $7 for the year. The increase of $2 over last year will go toward furnishing a room in the home at Boonton.

Several amendments to the constitution were adopted. One provides for a permanent legislative committee of three members, to be appointed by the chair; another defines the powers and duties of the committee. A third cuts down the number of delegates from each association from six to five. An amendment to the by-laws provides that no chief engineer may be a delegate to the association unless he is an exempt fireman.

The firemen held a parade at the close of the convention. The line of march formed at Commonwealth Hall and the route was down Main street to Hedden place, counter-march up Main street to Baldwin street, to William street, to North Clinton street, thence to the armory of Gatling Gun Company A in Clinton street, where a collation was served and informal addresses were made.

Ice Dealers Cutting Rates.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick May 18.—Rival ice dealers here have begun cutting rates, and their are prospects of further reductions. The cutting was precipitated by the establishment of an artificial ice factory in Highland Park by the Russert Hygenic Ice Company. The manufactured product was put on the market at five cents per hundred less than the price charged for natural ice. Yesterday the New Brunswick Ice Company and John Collier cut the price fifteen cents.

PLENTY OF IT.

Lots More Proof Like This, and it is all From People You Know.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating of it." If any city or town in the Union has sufficient proof that the representations made for a household necessity are true, that place is Plainfield. If the cures in Plainfield numbered some half dozen there might be grave doubts about their genuineness. That many people in a place the size of Plainfield might have based their opinions on pure imagination, but when public endorsation reaches scores, and as many more endorsers are willing to testify to the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills, the evidence and the proof is incontrovertible. Investigation, the most superficial, will prove that Doan's Kidney Pills are an actual household necessity in Plainfield. Here is one of our endorsers:

Mr. Geo. S. McGinnis, of No. 212 Somerset street, foreman of R. H. McCullough's Sash and Door Mfg., Co., says: "I never was sick a day in my life until a pain struck me across my back and a lameness over the kidneys. I did not pay much attention to it at first thinking it would soon pass away, but instead of this it grew worse. A bladder trouble set in. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended by those who used them for such troubles that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I used them according to instructions and felt somewhat relieved. Continuing the treatment by the time I had finished the third box the pain in my back and the lameness disappeared. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and I gladly recommend them as such whenever I have a chance."

ALLEGED BRIBERY CASES.

Evidence Against Pennsylvania Politicians in Hands of District Attorney.

TEN TO BE ARRESTED.

Millar Now Digesting Evidence and Probability Expressed That Indictments Will be Found in June.

Counsel Ready to Represent the Legislative Committee on Prosecutions in Preliminary Stages and Trial but Committee Rests From Labors After Presenting Evidence to Millar.

Harrisburg, May 18.—The men alleged to be implicated in the bribery scandal in connection with the recent contest for United States Senator and the consideration of the McCarrell Jury bill in the House of Representatives will probably be arrested within the next forty-eight hours. Representatives Fow and Voorhees of Philadelphia and Young of Tioga, who constitute the Committee on Prosecutions on the part of the House, were in Harrisburg and submitted to District Attorney Millar the evidence in the bribery cases. The evidence is very voluminous and was taken by the investigating committee during the legislative session, every member of the House being called, in addition to several outsiders. After Mr. Millar has carefully digested the evidence suit will be brought against the alleged bribers and it is probable that the indictments will be presented to the Grand Jury at the June Term.

The men recommended for punishment in the report adopted by the House are: Representative Charles B. Spatz of Berks, ex-Congressman Monroe H. Kulp of Shamokin, ex-Senator John J. Coyle of Philadelphia, ex-Representative Thomas M. Moyles of Wilkesbarre, Michael J. Costello of Philadelphia, Robert Evans of Philadelphia, ex-Representative John R. Byrne of Everson, Fayette County; Parker Titus of Easton and Frank B. Jones of Philadelphia. Costello may also be prosecuted in Lycoming County, as it is alleged that he visited the house of Representative John Engler in that county and offered him $500 to vote to reconsider the McCarrell bill.

District Attorney Millar has not yet decided in what manner he will proceed against the alleged bribers. The method adopted may be either to have warrants of arrest issued on the affidavit of the county detective for a preliminary hearing, or, as the members of the committee think would be the better plan, to await the Court's order to the District Attorney for the preparation of the indictments, upon which bench warrants could be issued for the arrest of the accused men.

"In a public matter of such importance as this probably the Court's taking the initiative would be the more satisfactory way," Chairman Fow said. "Judge Simonton will try the cases, as Judge Weiss, on account of having been the law partner of the attorney for Mr. Sputz prior to his appointment to the bench, would not care to try any case. In accordance with the instructions of the House we will notify Attorney-General Elkin of our action in presenting to District Attorney Millar a copy of the evidence and a certified copy of the House resolutions for the prosecutions, so that he will be in a position to cooperate with the District Attorney.

"Counsel will be ready to represent our committee in the preliminary stages as well as at the trial, but after presenting the evidence to the District Attorney the committee will have nothing to do until the trial.

"It will not be our business to swear out warrants. I know nothing about the reports that persons other than those named in the prosecuting resolutions may be defendants in the case."

Negotiations With Canada.

Washington, May 18.—A conference was held between Secretary Hay, Senator Fairbanks, the President of the British-American Joint High Commission, and Gen. John W. Foster, a member of the Commission. While the results of the conference cannot be ascertained, there is reason to believe that the two Governments are no nearer an agreement on the questions in dispute between Canada and the United States.

Great Britain and the United States are endeavoring to arrange a basis which will make it certain that an agreement will be reached when the Joint High Commission meets in August. If such a basis cannot be arranged it is probable that there will be no meeting. Mr. Fairbanks is going to Alaska to study the embarrassing boundry question. He had intended to start on his trip immediately, but he said that he would not start from Indianapolis for Alaska until June 1.

Smith's Trial to Go On.

Albany, May 18.—The examining Board designated by the Commander in Chief to examine into the moral character, capacity and general fitness for service in the National Guard as a commissioned officer, of Major Clinton H. Smith, of the Seventy-first Regiment, who was charged with cowardice at Santiago by his fellow officers, convened at the State Armory.

Gov. Roosevelt and the members of the Court of Inquiry were served with writs of mandamus restraining them from proceeding further in the investigation of Major Smith's conduct.

It is not likely that the writ will stop the investigation. It is held at the Capitol that the courts cannot issue an injunction restraining the Governor of the State.

Ferris Wheel May Leave Chicago.

Chicago, May 18.—The Ferris wheel, the giant "merry-go-round" that has been one of Chicago's wonders ever since the World's Fair, will, it is said, do its next turn in St. Louis or New York, as negotiations for its transfer to one of the cities named are now in progress.

St. Louis wants it as an attraction for the Louisiana Purchase Centennial in 1903, but a New York amusement firm has filed a counter proposition for its removal to a location in the vicinity of Manhattan Island.

EXTRA SESSION

Governor Roosevelt Calls Extra Session of New York Legislature to Convene Monday.

Albany, May 18.—Gov. Roosevelt has issued a proclamation convening the Legislature in extra session at 8 o'clock next Monday evening to consider amendments to the Ford Corporate Francise Tax Bill. The proclamation follows:

"State of New York,
Executive Chamber.

"Pursuant to the power vested in me by Section 4 of Article 4 of the Constitution, I hereby convene the Legislature in extraordinary session at the Capitol in the City of Albany on Monday the twenty-second day of May 1899, at 8 o'clock in the evening.

"Given under my hand and the privy seal of the State at the Capitol in the City of Albany, this seventeenth day of May, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-nine. THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The calling of an extra session by the Governor means that the Republican leaders are not unfriendly to the substitute for the Ford tax measure, embracing the Governor's amendments, which has been prepared by William J. Youngs, the Secretary to the Governor. The new bill is approved by Gov. Roosevelt pending any better suggestions which may be offered.

Merriam Asks For More Troops

Washington, May 18.—The War Department received the following telegram from Gen. Merriam regarding the situation in the Coeur d'Alene mining district in Idaho:

"Governor of Idaho has carefully reviewed the situation here and deems it necessary to place troops at Burke and Mullan to avoid further disorder. I request two troops cavalry. Referring to press criticism I have made no order. My action limited strictly to support of State authorities. There are 395 prisoners still in custody under investigation.

"MERRIAM, Brigadier-Gen."

The Wilmington's Voyage

Washington, May 18.—The Navy Department has just received from Commander Todd, of the Wilmington, an interesting account of the voyage of that vessel up the Amazon River. Capt. Todd reports that he ascended to Yuquitos, in Peru, which is about 2,100 miles up the river. This voyage was made, he says, against an adverse current averaging three knots for the entire distance.

Manaos, at the junction of the Rio Negro with the Amazon, has heretofore been regarded as the head of Navigation for steam vessels, and from that fact has grown to be a prosperous city of 40,000 inhabitants. Consequently, the intention of Capt. Todd to ascend the river above that point caused consternation, and, in the end, as revealed by subsequent reports, led to some adverse demonstrations against the American Consul and against the native pilots who assisted the Wilmington's commander to make the voyage.

Capt. Todd succeeded, notwithstanding these obstacles, in ascending the Amazon for 1,000 miles above Manaos, and had it not been for lack of fuel, he could have steamed about 300 miles further, he believes. As it was, the Wilmington, which entered the Amazon from the Atlantic Ocean, was within about four hundred miles of the Pacific, and well into Peru before she turned backward down the river.

The possibilities of the successful navigation of the vast and hitherto unknown interior of South America revealed by Capt. Todd's voyage will, it is believed, be of the greatest importance, and the Navy Department probably will take steps to see that they are made known to the maritime world. Unfortunately, Capt. Todd shows, the great Amazon, like the Mississippi, is so changeable in its channels as not to permit of successful charting, so that expert pilots will always be required.

DESTRUCTIVE WINDS.

Parts of Iowa and Ohio Laid Waste and Many Lives Lost.

Manchester, Ia., May 18.—A tornado swept over Colesburg, twenty miles northeast of this city, doing great damage. Three persons were killed and many others injured. The storm also did great damage in the vicinity of Littleport and along the Turkey river.

Cleveland, O., May 18.—A terrific wind-storm swept hrough a portion of Northern Ohio and in its course fatally injured eight pupils, who were caught in the wreck of a schoolhouse near Alvordton, Williams County. Twenty-three children were in the building, and only three scaped unhurt.

Thirty-two oil derricks were blown down between Prairie Depot and Hatton, and much other property was destroyed.

Harrison Sails for Europe.

New York, May 18.—Former President Harrison and family sailed for Europe on the St. Paul. Mr. Harrison goes to Paris as counsel for Venezuela in the boundary arbitration case. He will visit Switzerland.

Thinks War Will Soon Be Ended.

Chicago, May 18.—Captain John C. Dent, of the Twentieth United States Infantry, which is a part of Wheaton's brigade of MacArthur's division, now operating in the Philippines, is in Chicago on a sick leave.

Captain Dent says:—"I do not think the war in the Philippines will last long. The impression seems to be that the insurgents may retire to the mountains and maintain some sort of a war for a long time to come. But the truth is that the people are our friends and have even offered to raise regiments to help put down Aguinaldo."

The Glacier Sails for Manila.

New York, May 18.—The United States refrigerating store-ship Glacier has sailed for Manila with stores and ammunition for Admiral Dewey's fleet.

The Chicago at Port Said.

Port Said, May 18.—The United States cruiser Chicago, flying the flag of Rear Admiral Howison, has arrived here.

Fifteen hundred brick-yard employes at Chicago have struck for an increase in wages.

THE LATEST NEWS.

NEWS FROM MANILA STIRS M'KINLEY.

Hot Springs, Va., May 18.—The dispatch of General Otis regarding the capture of San Isidro by General Lawton and his forcing of the scattered insurgent ranks into the mountains was forwarded here by the War Department. The news it bore was so pleasing to Mr. McKinley that he immediately sent his congratulations to General Lawton in the following telegram:

"To Otis, Manila—Convey to General Lawton and the gallant men of his command my congratulations upon the successful operations during the past month resulting in the capture of San Isidro.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY."

Advices also were received from Cuba, which were stated to be "more reassuring," and that a satisfactory outcome of the present situation there would result.

The President's visit here is nearly at an end. Though the time of departure has not been definitely fixed, it is almost certain that the party will reach Washington some time Saturday. The rest from official routine, the freedom from intrusion, and the exercise in the open air has given the President the recuperation he needed. He appears thoroughly healthful, and will return to Washington invigorated and well.

FIREMEN TO JOIN THE SCOOPERS.

Buffalo, May 18.—At a meeting of the Lake Firemen's Benevolent Association it was decided that all members of the association would quit work at noon in sympathy with the striking scoopers and freight handlers. All of the firemen on boats now in Buffalo quit at noon and word will be sent to all ports along the lakes for members of the association to tie up their boats wherever they are. As there are 1,000 firemen in the association the force of the move would be felt by the lake carriers.

At a meeting of the scoopers Bishop Quigley submitted a new proposition to the men. It was that new Local Union 51 absorb old Local Union 51, taking the charter, and only such members as belonged to the old union prior to April 3. This plan prevents any of the new men hired by Contractor Conners from continuing work at the elevators.

The men accepted the Bishop's proposition, but wrangled over the question as to whether they would return to work, and finally adjourned without deciding to go to work.

BODY ON TRACK TO HIDE CRIME.

Rutherford, N. J., May 18.—Coroner Collins held an inquest on the body of the man who was found dead on the trolley tracks at Carlton Hill. The verdict of the jury was that the man was run over by the trolley car after having been placed on the tracks while dead or in an insensible condition. These facts were got at by the autopsy perfotmed and, instead of having a case of an unknown man killed by a trolley car to unravel, the police have a murder mystery on their hands, which, from all indications, there is but little chance of their unraveling.

DRANK POISON FOR LIQUOR.

Plattsburg, N. Y., May 18.—Ernest Gonyea, Joseph Pattnode and Henry Bushey, residents of Chazy, drove to this city to spend the day. As they were returning in the evening, partly drunk, they found a bottle which they supposed contained liquor and drank freely of its contents. Shortly after reaching home they were taken violently sick and Gonyea and Pattnode died in great agony and Bushey is in a serious condition. The Coroner's inquest failed to throw any light on the case.

MAY HAVE MURDERED COPELAND.

North Tonawanda, N. Y., May 18.—It is persistently reported here and in Buffalo that the Rev. John Copeland has been murdered, and that his body was thrown into the Niagara River. All efforts to find him or to get at the source of the report have proved unavailing. Several persons have threatened to kill the parson, and an effort actually was made to get together a crowd to do him bodily injury. Intense bitterness was caused by Copeland's aspersions upon the character of women here.

CAPTAIN CARTER MAY GET OFF.

Washington, May 18.—Colonel Barr, who prepared the brief in the case of Captain Carter, has told the Attorney General that he would make no oral argument in the case.

In the brief prepared by Colonel Barr no reply was made to the paper prepared by ex-Senator Edmunds in the case, as that is regarded as an opinion rather than argument. The opinion of Senator Edmunds is that evidence sufficient for dismissal exists, but in his judgment the evidence contained in the papers of Captain Carter were used unlawfully by the court, and hence the punishment of fine and imprisonment should not be inflicted.

NEGRESS HAD MANY RICH JEWELS.

Philadelphia, May 18.—Sara Brooks, an attractive looking young colored woman, and her husband, were arrested here while trying to pawn a diamond ring. Detectives found in the woman's possession diamond rings, bracelets, earrings, etc., aggregating in value about $3,000. Upon close questioning the woman confessed that the jewelry was the property of Mrs. Anna Wright of New York, by whom she had been employed as maid.

LAWTON STILL ADVANCING

Vigorous Tactics of the Indian Fighter Keep the Enemy On the Run.

OTIS PRAISES LAWTON.

Filipinos Driven From Point to Point Without Time to Recover—Fighting at San Isidro Brisk.

The Last Location of Movable Native Capital Strongly Intrenched But Enemy Were Unable to Sustain Fierce Assault of American Troops—Major Kobbe Leads Exhibition Up Rio Grande.

Washington, May 18.—The capture of San Isidro by Gen. Lawton was confirmed in an official despatch from Gen. Otis, and proved gratifying news to War Department officers. It is evident, they say, that the Filipinos will soon be so completely demoralized that they will be willing to sue for peace at any terms. Gen. Lawton's plan of campaign is particularly commended. It shows that he is profiting by his experience with Indians in this country and proposes to keep the enemy on the move and allow them no chance to recover themselves. Gen. Otis's despatch is as follows:

"Adjutant-General, Washington:

"Situation as follows: Lawton with tact and ability has covered Bulacan province with his column and driven insurgent troops northward into San Isidro, second insurgent capital, which he captured; is now driving enemy northward into mountains; he has constant fighting, inflicting heavy losses and suffering few casualties; appearance of his troops on flanks of enemy behind entrenchments thrown up at every strategic point and town very demoralizing to insurgents, and has given them no opportunity to reconcentrate scattered troops. Kobbe's column with gunboats proceeding up Rio Grande. "OTIS."

GEN. HENRY M. LAWTON.

The fighting was brisk and long sustained by both forces, but the insurgents were unable to withstand the fierceness of the American attack and were driven in disorder from their trenches.

Colonel Summer's vanguard, consisting of the Oregon and Minnesota regiments and the Twenty-second infantry, moved northeast from San Miguel to the attack upon San Isidro. Behind it came the brigade under General Lawton, clearing the country as far as the mountains on his right flank.

MAJOR WM. A. KOBBE.

A firm resistance on the part of the rebels was fully expected at San Isidro, as the capital had been strongly intrenched and the best of Aguinaldo's soldiers had been massed there.

The city is of great strategic importance. It is about fifteen miles northeast of San Miguel and nearly twice that distance northeast of San Fernando.

It was the latest seat of the rebel government, which has been hurried from pillar to post since the opening of the campaign.

Major Kobbe, with a special command, comprising the 17th Infantry, a battalion of the 9th Infantry, a battery of the 1st Artillery and six mountain guns, accompanied by the army tugs Laguna de Bay, Cavadonga and Oceania towing cascoes loaded with supplies has moved from Calumpit up the Rio Grande.

List of Casualties.

Washington, May 18.—Gen. Otis, at Manila, sends the following list of casualties:

"Killed—Utah Artillery, May 14, Sergt. Ford Fisher; Second Oregon, 16th, G, Private James Harrington.

"Wounded—First North Dakota, 13th, C, William R. Trulock, severe; Civilian William H. Young, chief of scouts, died 16th; Thirteenth Minnesota, H, Private Albert Erickson, chest, moderate; Fifteenth, K, First Sergt. Harry Howard, wrist, slight.

"Missing—First California, K, Private Ralph Coates, since April 6."

31st Michigan Mustered Out.

Savannah, Ga., May 18.—The 31st Michigan Regiment, United States Volunteers, was mustered out here. Col. Cornelius Gardiner, who has been commanding the regiment, will rejoin his command the 9th Infantry, in the Philippines. He is a Captain in that regiment.

NEW YORK WIDE OPEN.

Witness Testifies to Having Visited 195 Pool Rooms—Will Sue Mayor Van Wyck For Slander.

New York, May 18.—The most important testimony given before the Maezt Committee was that of gamblers and witnesses hired by Moss to obtain evidence.

Their testimony showed that the town is "wide open" and that poolrooms are flourishing in nearly every police precinct in the city.

One witness testified to having lost between $4,000 and $5,000 in the gambling places and later he failed in business. Another man lost $200.

The hired witnesses testified to having visited poolrooms in the city without difficulty.

Ex-Police Commissioner Hamilton testified this morning that Mayor Van Wyck's testimony was false.

Hamilton swore he did not blackmail the Casino Theatre, but voted to give Canary & Lederer, the proprietors a license.

He said he was not paid by the Casino managers until after he was ousted from the Police Board, and then only when he had secured a judgment against them.

Job E. Hedges, counsel for Hamilton, announced that a suit for slander will be brought against Mayor Van Wyck.

Capt. Herlihy, over whom ex-Chief McCullagh and Tammany politicians had a row, testified as to his relegation to a "Goatville" district and said he was glad of it now.

British Troops to Frontier

London, May 18.—Three batteries of field artillery have been ordered to leave Aldershot on Monday for Ladysmith, on the frontier of the Transvaal.

The destination of the troops is in Natal, near the scene of the British repulse in 1885.

Although their despatch is part of a plan to strengthen British arms in South Africa, the hurry orders make their departure significant.

Upon their arrival in Natal, England will have six strong batteries at that particular point, which is easy of access to the Transvaal.

Many Englishmen welcome the arrests as giving an opportunity to forcibly interfere with the Boer Government.

It is believed that all of the Englishmen arrested do not rank higher than sergeants. One of the men arrested is a Dane named Fries.

Pretoria, Transvaal Republic, May 17.—Another batch of warrants for Englishmen and Uitlanders has been issued, and fresh arrests are expected here hourly, though Johannesburg is the place where the prospective prisoners are.

It is believed that these, with the eight already arrested, will include all the leaders in what was undoubtedly intended to be a second Jameson raid, with matters better arranged within the lines of the republic at Johannesburg.

The men are not in any case commissioned officers of the British army, nor are any employes of the South African League.

ARBITRATING STRIKE

State Board Holds a Meeting in Buffalo to Hear Both Sides.

Buffalo, May 18.—The situation at the docks was about the same as on the day before. Contractor Conners is doing the best he can under the circumstances to unload the grain vessels and he says that he is making satisfactory progress. He reported four elevators working. At some of the elevators engineers have been obtained to take the places of the men who quit because of the scoopers' troubles. The contractor brought to Buffalo about 100 men from Cincinnati. These men will work as scoopers.

Now that the Board of Arbitration has begun a public investigation of the dock troubles, interest centres at the Board's headquarters in the Iroquois Hotel rather than at the docks. The scoopers of New Local 51 did not return to work, nothwithstanding Timothy P. Donovan, the superintendent, appointed by Bishop Quigley to look after the interests of the men, and Contractor Conners had a conference and agreed to consolidate the rival unions. Mr. Connors said he would hire the men sent to him by Mr. Donovan from the United unions. Bishop Quigley approved this arrangement, but it is not likely that the men will go back to work pending the State Board's investigation.

TESTS FOR INSANITY.

Rule of Thumb Methods Which Very Frequently Fail.

Most people imagine, said a nerve specialist, that doctors have some infallible test by which they can detect insanity immediately. Of course, that's all nonsense. There are many odd methods of diagnosing such cases, however. In locomotor ataxia the patient cannot walk with his eyes shut. In incipient paresis there is difficulty in articulating particular letters, and one famous scientist used to make his patients say 'national intelligencer. A man with an incipient case of the disease can't pronounce these words distinctly to save his soul. Another very eminent practitioner employed 'truly rural' for the same purpose. If you have paresis I would advise you not to try to say 'truly rural'—at least not in company.

"The 'knee-jerk' test is well known to physicians. To apply it the legs are crossed and a sharp blow struck just below the knee of the limb that is swinging loose. If the subject is all right there will be a prompt reflex action; in other words, his foot will fly up in spite of all efforts to keep it quiet. If not, there is something wrong, and that reminds me of a tragic incident which occured in a southern court not many years ago. A man was being examined for insanity, and one of the lawyers made the experts the butt of a great deal of ridicule. He scoffed particularily at the knee-jerk test and asked to have it applied to himself. There was no reflex action, and the fact had a powerful effect on the jury, especially as the lawyer happened to be a man of brilliant attainments. After the trial was over he got to thinking about the matter, and in spite of his skepticism concluded to submit to a thorough private examination. It was made and discovered undeniable signs of locomotor ataxia, dooming him to a certain and lingering death.

KILLED A POLICE OFFICER.

Humphrey Taylor, a Negro Murderer, Captured at Washington.

AFTER DESPERATE FIGHT

Holds Policeman at Bay and Is Dislodged Only by Threats of Firing House He Was Located In.

A Crowd of Citizen, Angered at the Killing of Police Sergeant Passau, Attempt to Lynch Him, But Are Held off by Clubs and Revolvers—Taken to Jail With Difficulty.

Washington, May 18.—The police of the Seventh precinct, surrounded a house on Fowler's Hill, Georgetown, where they thought they had cornered the negro Taylor, wanted for a double murder at Boyds, Md. As they were making an attack on the house the inmate fired several times. Sergeant Frederick Passau was killed and a civilian of the name of Gerald was badly wounded. The police sent for reinforcements and a lively battle ensued.

Washington, May 18.—After killing Police Sergeant Frederick Passau and wounding a policeman ot the name of Gow, Humphrey Taylor, alias Brown, wanted for the murder of Louis Rosenstein at Boyds, Md., was captured. The capture was attended with great excitement and a lynching was averted only by a display of revolvers on the part of the numerous policemen who had taken the negro and were protecting him.

Lieut. Swindells of the Seventh precinct station learned that Taylor was occupying a house in a depression known as College Pond, a quarter of a mile back of Georgetown University. Taking two sergeants, two mounted policemen and four street men, the Lieutenant proceeded to the house to capture Taylor. While the policemen were surrounding the house the murderer fled to the upper part, where he conceled himself between the ceiling and the roof. Sergeant Passau and Patrolman Gow, accompanied the open trap door. Before they could make an effort to get up the negro called out and warned them to go away. He said he had nothing to do with the murder at Boyds and he did not propose to let them capture him. Just then he opened fire.

One bullet struck Sergeant Passau in the breast and ranged downward through both lungs. Another bullet struck Patrolman Gow, but glanced from his shield and then passed through his hand. The policemen below began firing on Taylor and attempted to dislodge him. A patrol wagon was hastily summoned, and Sergeant Passau was taken to the Georgetown Hospital, where it was seen that he was mortally wounded, and where he died soon afterward. While those policmen at the house remained to prevent the escape of the murderer word was sent to the neighboring precincts and other officers responded.

After firing through the house and also using every means of persuasion to induce Taylor to surrender the police resolved to set fire to the house. Some furniture was moved out and then a large quantity of oil-soaked cotton was placed on the floor under the trap-door.

"If you do not surrender in two minutes," said one of the policemen, "we will fire the house."

Taylor, while guarding himself from exposure to bullets, peeped through the trap and saw the arrangements for his funeral pyre. "I surrender!" he called out, and put his hands through the trap. In the twinkling of an eye his wrists were seized and he was drawn head first to the floor. Four policemen hurried him to the front of the house and down the steps.

When they appeared at the door the excitement of the crowd was intense and almost uncontrollable. Three or four men with ropes were frantically trying to get within reach of the murderer. The patrol wagon dashed up and the officers made a rush for the wagon with the prisoner.

"Lynch him!" "Burn him!" shouted the crowd. Throwing the man into the wagon they piled on top of him, so the crowd could not reach him, although one man did succeed in striking him with a club, almost putting out his eye.

With drawn revolvers the police protected their man and attended by a large crowd they conveyed him to the station. He was identified by William Metzgar as the man wanted at Boyds, but the Chief of Police says he will held him for trial for the murder of Serg. Passau.

Syracuse, May 18.—The State encampment of the G. A. R. has convened in this city. The city is beautifully decorated in honor of the veterans.

A. A. Lord withdrew his name, and I. W. Kay will be elected comander of the State Department. There is some opposition to the candidacy of Colonel A. D. Shaw for commander-in-chief.

The encampment adopted a resolution indorsing the policy of the Administration in the Philippines.

ATLANTA MERCHANTS ARE SHOCKED.

Atlanta, May 18.—The business men of Atlanta are intensely exasperated against the railroads for their action in regard to the mustering out of the Third United States Engineers, which took place here. The railroads formed what is called a "mustering out pool," and nearly all had special trains at the post gates. These the soldiers boarded and were shunted through or around the city without giving the merchants a chance at the $125,000 which the Government had "turned loose."

The rumor that has been given currency in the Westfield papers that City Judge Runyon, of Plainfield, is a candidate for one of the Assembly nominations at the hands of the Republican party in Union county next fall, is untrue. Judge Runyon told the writer that all such talk was amiss and that he had no aspirations in the direction of the Legislature. The election of Mr. Runyon as a member of the Assembly would necessitate his retirement from the city court bench, and as the latter place is for three years, with a better salary attached than Assemblymen receive, there would be no special inducement for him to become a member of the Legislature. Even if Mr. Runyon did desire to become an Assemblyman next winter it would hardly be consistent with good political policy. For the present the rank and file of the party undoubtedly think that Mr. Runyon is enjoying his share of political plums, and any attempt to nominate him for the Assembly would encounter serious opposition from other sections of the county where there is strong belief in passing the good things around.

We commend the communication of Rev. E. E. Jackson, published in The Daily Press today, to the careful perusal of the colored people of this city. Rev. Mr. Jackson strikes the right chord of common sense in his views of the needs of his race. What he says in reference to the project of forming a colony of Negroes, where they may live by themselves and have a local government of their own making and administration, is founded on practical everyday experience of Mr. Jackson with colored people. He knows their abilities and their limitations as well as anyone, and he realizes that as a race they are utterly unfit for such work. The Negroes, as a race, are not yet far enough advanced to accept the responsibilities that many men would put upon them. Rev. Mr. Jackson shows keen forethought in recognizing this fact.

The City Union of the King's Daughters do a splendid and noble work in their fresh-air camp enterprise, but they start the season this year badly hampered by reason of their property on the mountain having been totally destroyed by fire a few weeks ago. Those who assist in re-establishing the camp quarters on the mountain should remember that "he who gives quickly gives twice." Help along the noble cause.

A metropolitan paper says that "Admiral Dewey will undoubtedly enter the country by way of New York, because New York is the natural grand entrance to the nation;" to which the Boston Transcript adds that "if he shall consult his own well being he will be smuggled ashore at some unfrequented point on the coast and avoid the fearful impost that awaits an arrival from abroad in New York."

Disorderly places may be "wide open" in New York, but that does not prevent the police officials shutting up about it.

Now that warm weather is here it is time for coal rates to go down.

HOTEL AND VIEWS AT HOT SPRINGS, VA.

When President McKinley decided to spend his spring vacation at Hot Springs, Va., he selected one of the most picturesque resorts in the country. The Springs are located in the Blue Ridge, on the Chesapeake and Ohio railway. The elevation is 2,500 feet above sea level; the air is invigorating and the waters are said to be excellent.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Nobody will question Governor Voorhees' wisdom in refusing to interfere in the squables of the Somerset county Republicans, but the colossal nerve displayed by Chancery Clerk Thompson in soliciting the Governor's aid to defeat Senator Reed's candidate for postmaster at Somerville challenges admiration.—Newark News.

* * * * *

Plainfield is to try the experiment of a paid fire department, to replace the volunteer system. The city will have a department consisting of 26 "call" men, who will be on duty continuously. It is thought that the new system will result in effective work being done with fewer men, but with the best possible equipment.—New Brunswick Times.

THEATRICAL.

Current Dramatic Attractions That Plainfielders Can Witness.

"An Arabian Girl" at the Herald Square Theatre has proved to be the most attractive offering made at that house the present season, and the most elaborate production given on Broadway in many years. At each performance the house is crowded to the doors. The superb ballets, the tuneful music, the admirable ensembles and the clever work of the principals have received the plaudits not only of the press but the habitual theatre-goer. There are several features in "An Arabian Girl," apart from the unusual gorgeousness of the production, which should win for it the longest run ever scored by a similar enter ainment on Broadway. An innovation in the scale of prices has been made by Messrs. Evans & Mann at the Herald Square Theatre. At Wednesday's matinee the price of all seats will be 50 cents—no more and no less—and no reserved seats will be sold, the sale of seats for that matinee being conducted on the principal of first come first served.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The members of the W. C. T. U. are arranging for a strawberry festival to be held soon.

—This evening there will be a dance and progressive euchre party at the Catholic Club house.

MUTINEERS DISBANDED.

Rahway Company of National Guard Will be No More.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, May 18.—Colonel Thomas S. Chambers, by direction of General Peter F. Wanser, who, in General Sewell's absence, is acting as division commander of the National Guard, Tuesday issued an order disbanding Company K, Second Regiment, located at Rahway. The company is disbanded for mutinous conduct, in refusing to turn out to an inspection last week. The commissioned officers of the company are placed on the retired list, and the State property held by the company will be taken possession of at once by the Quartermaster General.

This is the same company that caused serious trouble when General Mott was in command of the Guard. The matter was dragged into the Supreme Court, and brought forth Justice Parker's famous decision that the matter of organization of the Guard not reviewable by the civil courts.

LA PEARL'S GREAT ALLIED SHOWS.

Cheap Excursion Rates on All Railroads to Be Secured.

As we are able to visit only a limited number of the most important cities each year in our grand tour of the entire country, we have entered into an arrangement with the various railroads diverging from the points at which we exhibit, whereby those living at a distance can visit us at greatly reduced excursion rates.

The rates quoted usually include an admission ticket to the show, and excursionists thus supplied will, if on the show grounds previous to the opening of the regular ticket office, be admitted first. For full particulars regarding time of arrival and departure of excursion trains, and for extremely low round trip tickets, enquire of your nearest railway station agent. Remember the day and date, Wednesday, May 24th.

TIME IS UP.

Last Day for the Payment of Delinquent Poll and Personal Tax.

Today the time is up for the payment of personal and poll tax that comes under the delinquent head in the borough and Marshal Campbell will be on the lookout for those who fail to come up and settle. It will be remembered that the Mayor and Council in the borough took action in this matter and decided to enforce the law, which means that if a delinquent does not settle for his poll and personal tax he must be arrested.

JOTTINGS OF THE DAY.

ENTERPRISINGLY GATHERED AND CONCISELY TOLD BY REPORTERS.

Newsy Notes of More or Less Importance Bunched Together for the Ready Reference of Press Readers

—Several improvements have been made at fire headquarters in the firemen's sleeping quarters.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church will hold a sociable in the church this evening.

—Tomorrow evening Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., will hold a strawberry festival in Washington Hall.

—The sale of the Rand stock on Somerset street continues with success. Large crowds are present every evening.

—There will be an important meeting of Watchung Court, I. O. F., this evening, and every member is urged to attend.

—Several new houses are being erected on Watchung avenue which add very much to the general attractiveness of that thoroughfare.

—Manager Runyon, of the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company, thinks that the change in the company's headquarters will be made next Sunday evening to the new place on Park avenue. Sunday evening is selected for the reason that there is most always a let up in the business on that evening.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address.

THE PROPER CARE OF FOOD.

Never Put It Away or Leave It Very Long Wrapped in Brown Paper.

It is a very common practice to put away food that comes from the shop in the brown paper in which the dealer wraps it. While this may be convenient, it certainly is open to serious objection on the score of health and cleanliness. Most of the cheap papers are made from material hardly up to the standard of the housekeeper's idea of neatness; and although a certain degree of heat is employed in their preparation it is by no means sufficient to destroy all the disease germs with which the raw material may be filled.

When taking into consideration that waste paper of all sorts, and those for all purposes are gathered up and worked over into new paper to wrap our food in, it behooves the housewife who cares for the health of her family to see to it that articles of food remain in contact with such wrapping the very shortest possible time.

It is not unusual to see meat, butter, cheese and other extremely susceptible articles put away in the very cheapest, common brown paper.

Immediately upon the receipt of soft groceries or fruits they should be put into earthen dishes, and under no circumstances should they be allowed to remain in the papers in which they are delivered.

It is useless to expect that a better class of paper will be employed, and so we may as well make up our minds to guard against trouble by shifting all articles of food to some dish that is absolutely free from contaminating elements.

New Tools to Eat With.

With the fruit course at dinner is now served an odd-looking knife that has a silver handle and the narrowest of steel blades. This is accompanied by a rather deadly weapon that appears to be a silver corkscrew mounted on a straight silver shaft handle. In reality these new arrivals are designed for better mastery of oranges, apples and pears. The corkscrew is driven, by a deft rotary motion, into the fruit, which is thus firmly held during the removal of the skin and the paring off of slices. Good form dictates the leaving of the screw in the fruit when all that is desired is eaten from the heart of the core.

Another addition is the deft handling of food in a pretty pair of scissors with saw-like points, in place of a knife-like edge, along the blades. Between the saws the tough ends of asparagus are caught and held fast, and the tender head can then be neatly elevated and nipped off by the teeth. These same little scissors are employed in eating artichokes.

Hints for Housewives.

To take caster oil without tasting it squeeze the juice of a lemon into a wineglass, and pour the oil into the center. Drink the contents of the glass before the oil has time to spread.

If a baby has a cold in the chest, rub well with camphorated oil, cover with soft flannel cloths soaked in olive oil, and protect the clothing with another layer of flannel.

To save time and strength in the weekly ironing, remember that dish towels and common towels can be ironed quite well enough and in half the time if folded together once.

If a small splinter of wood is knocked off a bureau or chair, glue it on again with a little liquid glue, and, if the edges show white, color them with paint to match the rest of the wood. When this is dry, varnish, and the break will hardly be perceptible.

Renovating Velvet.

A simple method of cleaning velvet, velveteen and plush is as follows: With the assistance of a stiff whisk-broom, a pan of boiling water and an obliging friend, who will brush up the knap as you hold the goods taut over the steam the wrong side to the water, these materials will look like new. This process removes wrinkles, brightens the color and makes the crushed knap stay up when brushed against the grain, and will answer for black or colored pile fabrics. If the velvet has a grease spot on it remove it with French chalk before steaming. A sticky spot may be lightly touched with clean cold water before the steaming process.—Ladies' Home Journal.

A Fine Plum Pudding.

"If you like a good cold-weather pudding," said the Englishwoman, and like a little variation from the ordinary plumpudding, here is one that I can recommend. Take 2½ cups of cracker dust, 1 cup of currants, 1 cup raisins, 1 cup suet, 1 cup molasses, with one level teaspoonful of saleratus dissolved in it; lemon peel and spices to taste, 3 eggs, and boil 2½ hours in a floured pudding bag."

Fruits That Harm the Teeth.

After eating very acidulous fruit, like grapes and oranges, teeth should always be brushed clean. Grapes especially leave upon the teeth a deposit of tartar which is very injurious. Apples, the cheapest and commonest of native fruits, are not especially harmful to the teeth and are excellent for digestion.

About the Baby.

Don't toss and play with a young baby, even if it enjoys it. Don't speak loudly to it or yell cooche! cooche! at the top of your lungs. Let the child have long intervals of perfect quiet. Every demand made upon the child's attention helps to exhaust its feeble strength and make it peevish.

Fear That Kills.

The fear of appendicitis has by this time killed more people than the disease ever did by causing them to give up eating fruit. Appendicitis is quite as apt to be caused by bread-crumbs as by grape seeds, and neither will cause it unless the person is predisposed to it.

Preußen.

Provinz Brandenburg.

Berlin. Der hiesige Wechselstubeninhaber Fritz Thiele ist mit Hinterlassung unbezahlter Börsendifferenzen in Höhe von 100,000 Mark entflohen.—Ein bemerkenswerthes Jubiläum feierte dieser Tage die in der Buttmannstraße Nr. 8 wohnhafte Hebamme Frau Thierse, und zwar das der 2000. Entbindung, bei der sie hilfreichen Beistand geleistet hat.—Dem Handelsmann Wilhelm Hiftermann ging es geschäftlich in letzter Zeit herzlich schlecht, so daß schließlich Noth und Armuth eintraten. Das ging dem Unglücklichen so zu Herzen, daß er seine beiden Töchterchen und dann sich selbst tödtete.—Eine deutsche Winterblumenausstellung wird laut Beschluß des Vereins zur Beförderung des Gartenbaues in Preußen im Monat Februar 1900 im hiesigen Zoologischen Garten stattfinden. Es werden nur Blumen zugelassen, die entweder in Deutschland gezogen oder aber hier zur Blüthe gebracht sind.

Luckau. Der im hiesigen Gerichtsgefängniß wegen Diebstahl bei seinem Meister in Untersuchungshaft gehaltene 16jährige Tischlerlehrling Weber, ein kleines, schmächtiges Bürschchen, deckte in der Nacht den Ofen in seiner Zelle ab und erweiterte das Loch der Ofenröhre derart, daß er durch die Oeffnung in den Schornstein und dann auf das Gefängnißdach gelangen konnte. Von hier aus hat er über die Dächer der Nachbarschaft schließlich den Erdboden erreicht und das Weite gesucht.

Spandau. Im Feuerwerkslaboratorium glitt ein Arbeiter, der Sprengkapseln trug, aus. Die auf den Boden fallenden Sprengkapseln explodirten. Ein Arbeiter wurde getödtet, ein anderer Arbeiter schwer, der Oberaufseher leicht verletzt.

Provinz Hannover.

Geestemünde. Der besoldete Beigeordnete der Stadt Köln, Klußmann, ist zum Bürgermeister unserer Stadt, an Stelle des zum ersten Schatzrath in Hannover gewählten Bürgermeisters Bleßmann, gewählt worden.

Hildesheim. Die günstigen Erfolge der elektrischen Straßenbahn Hildesheim-Hannover haben die Verwaltung derselben veranlaßt, auch die Verbindung Hildesheim-Wolfenbüttel mittelst elektrischer Bahn in's Auge zu fassen. Diese Linie würde etwas länger werden als die nach Hannover und über die Orte Einum, Söhlde, Broistedt und Bleckenstedt nach Wolfenbüttel führen. Die Rentabilität der Anlage dürfte ebenfalls auf dem Güterverkehr beruhen, der auf der Strecke Hildesheim-Hannover bereits einen bedeutenden Umfang angenommen hat.

Provinz Hessen-Nassau.

Frankfurt. Die Stadtverordneten genehmigten endgiltig den neuen Seeling'schen Bauplan für das Schauspielhaus, wonach die Baukosten 1,900,000 Mark betragen.—Ein Friedensfreund, der Eisenbahnschaffner Blömer, nahm einem Streitenden im Wirthshaus den Stock ab und zerbrach ihn, um eine Prügelei zu verhüten. Er wurde wegen Sachbeschädigung zu 5 Mark Geldstrafe verurtheilt.

Wiesbaden. Seit 1. Mai erscheint im Verlage von P. Plaum ein neues Wochenblatt, das „Rheinische Handwerkerblatt." Das Blatt bezweckt lediglich, die Interessen des Handwerkers zu fördern, vor Allem dessen Organisation.

Provinz Pommern.

Stettin. Ein Kaufmann Scholz erschoß auf der Wilhelmstraße seine Frau und dann sich selbst.

Klein-Reinkendorf. Durch Feuer wurden die Baulichkeiten auf dem Gehöft des Bauern Richter, eine Scheune und ein Stall der Wittwe Schröder und die Scheune des Gemeindevorstehers Schröder eingeäschert.

Schivelbein. Das Geburtshaus Rudolf Virchows am Markt ist an einen hiesigen Pferdehändler für den Preis von 18,400 Mark verkauft worden. Das Haus, welches zu Ehren des großen Gelehrten eine Gedenktafel trägt, soll nunmehr, da es altersschwach ist, einem Neubau Platz machen.

Provinz Posen.

Posen. Dieser Tage wurde die hiesige neue Kontrollstation für russische Auswanderer, die vom Norddeutschen Lloyd und von der Hamburger Packetfahrt-Aktiengesellschaft errichtet wurde, eröffnet.

Lissa. Unsere Stadt beabsichtigt, auf einem ihr gehörenden Gelände Arbeiterwohnungen zu errichten.

Wobek. Ein nichtswürdiger Mordanschlag wurde hier verübt. Zur Nachtzeit wurde an die Thür des Ausgedingers Gerth geklopft. Als der zum Besuche bei Gerth sich aufhaltende Arbeiter Renz öffnete, erhielt er einen Schrotschuß in den Kopf, der das Gesicht schrecklich zerfleischte und auch den hinter ihm stehenden Gerth erheblich verletzte. Als Thäter sind die Einwohner Stock und Jahns ermittelt und verhaftet.

Provinz Ostpreußen.

Insterburg. In Folge der Eingemeindung des Gutes Lenkeningken ist der Stadtbezirk Insterburg der drittgrößte der Provinz. Er umfaßt einen Flächeninhalt von 4367 Hektar. Nur die Städte Allenstein (4583 Hektar) und Braunsberg (4905 Hektar) sind größer, die Stadtkreise Königsberg (2007 Hektar) und Tilsit (3030 Hektar) sind bedeutend kleiner.

I HAVE LOVED YOU SO.

Sweet, I have loved you so these long years past,
With all the passion of my ardent youth
That o'er our lives a lovely glamour cast;
I staked my honor on your ceaseless truth.
And now, with dreamy wonderment I miss
The clinging tenderness of long ago,
The gentle sympathy, the answering kiss
* * * And I have loved you so.

Dear, for one hour, one little hour tonight,
We two must face the weary length of years
That looms before us, bare of all delight,
And heralded by bitter, heart-drawn tears.
Are we to break the ever-loosening chain
That held us once so closely in its keep;
Or will the sharpness of our present pain
Be lulled by patience to a fitful sleep?

Dear, in your hands I leave our after-fate,
With but one prayer for all the old love's sake;
If you should answer, it is all too late
To dream a dead affection should awake,
Speak without bitterness. Around us lie
The tender memories of long ago,
That witness mournfully our last good by—
* * * And I have loved you so.

THE YACHT ORCHID.

He was looking at May's portrait—a lovely little miniature—when the housemaid brought the packet to him. The girl entered timidly, with a furtive glance at her master, for whom her heart was bleeding. But if her timidity had arisen from the fear of seeing some exhibition of terrible sorrow, she had alarmed herself needlessly. No sign of tears, either past or present, was visible in the young man's eyes. They were hard and bright. Hard, also, was his face, and the clenched lips like adamant.

He took the thick envelope off the salver, glanced at the clerky writing and at the back, upon which was stamped in blue letters, "W. Robinson & Co." Then he flung it on the table, and as the servant left the room the sound of harsh laughter broke upon her astonished ears. She fled to the kitchen and with scared face whispered that she thought poor Mr. Ord must be going mad.

Small wonder, perhaps, if he were! He had written a few days before to William Robinson for those patterns that he might choose the materials for his wedding suit. What a weighty matter that choice would have been! May was so particular about what he wore. He used to be a little careless about his dress once—going about in coats with creases in them, and farmer's boots. Then, in his endeavor to gain May's approbation, he had overdone it in the opposite direction, sporting collars of absurd height, and impossible ties, enduring like a martyr the pinch of patent leather shoes a size too small for him and getting himself a little chaffed by appearing in suits unmistakably in advance of the fashion.

May, with gentle tact, had changed all this. Never hurting her ardent young lover by open condemnation of his apparel, but by artful suggestions had first roused him to an interest in his attire, then toned down his somewhat crude tastes, and finally schooled him into that quiet perfection of dressing which is the attribute of a gentleman. He had written for the pattern from Robinson's a few weeks before the important suit should be needed, as he wanted to have May's opinion with regard to the materials. Already the little, laughing, gay girl had begun to be more than a mere piece of loveliness for his admiring eyes to rest upon. He consulted her about everything. He had no sisters, and until the last year—when the death of an uncle and the inheritance of a fortune had made him his own master—he had lived a solitary life in a remote country town with the relation by whose sudden death he was enriched. May Carden, one of the first young ladies he came across in town, had taken his heart by storm. The mixture of frivolity and sound practical sense in her nature was exactly what he needed. The one broke the crust of a certain moroseness born of an unloved life, and the other steadied the propensities to extravagance of taste and living which unexpected wealth had not unnaturally aroused.

After that laugh of harshness, which had so startled his servant, Laurence Ord went back to the study of May's portrait. It was indeed a veritable "May" face. Cheeks like young roses, hair brown as hawthorn twigs, lips which were akin to the deep pink buds of the apple blossom, and eyes

Tinct with azure, like two crystal wells
That drink the blue complexion of the skies.

These latter laughed back as if in mocking merriment to the hard gray ones which were looking down on them. A sob of anguish broke in a groan from Ord's lips. He tried to realize that those dancing eyes were closed forever. Tried—tried as many and many a bereaved one has striven in vain to do—to grasp the fact that the dear lips would never speak again; that no more until the day of resurrection would so much as the faintest color tinge the still white face. The picture before him, bubbling over as it was with life and mirth, gave the lie to such a thought. The idea of May—May, the merriest little person in the world, lying cold and silent, was too much for the young man who had last seen her having a wild game with a kitten on the deck of a friend's yacht. He had dreaded that little cruise more than he could say. He had all but asked her not to go; but from this he had refrained, deeming it mere selfishness.

"You don't mind me going, Laurie, do you?" she had asked, when the trip had been suggested, and with a little pleading look in her eyes which was irresistible, especially as he had not yet the absolute right to give or withhold permission. "I'll only be gone three weeks, dear, and then—if you still have a mind to—you may take me and keep me forever, and forever, and forever! A large order, Laurie! Shall you want me for so long, do you think?"

Ord, never a backward lover, had answered that question by a quietus to the sweet lips which spoke it.

He had gone to see her off on board the Orchid, and she had stopped in the middle of one of her airy whirls with the kitten and a piece of scarlet ribbon, to whisper, "Mind you have the patterns ready by the time I come back!"

The patterns were ready, but never more thought poor heart-broken Laurie would May come back to him again.

"The yacht Orchid, which was wrecked last night on the dangerous reef outside Alwyn Bay, is the property of a Mr. Griffiths, of London. All on board were saved except the unfortunate whose body was washed ashore early this morning. It has been identified as that of Miss May Carden."

This was the paragraph which had caught the eye of Laurence Ord as he had run over his morning paper at breakfast. Afterward he had come upon the first and longer account, but this was evidently a little paragraph inserted when further information had been received.

It was evening now, and as the slow hours passed young Ord began to writhe beneath the weight of anguish which crushed his heart. His senses had at first been blunted by the shock. Now they were awakening to full consciousness of the immeasurable pain. He laid the miniature down and began to walk about the room. He moved things here and there. He wound the clock—then his nerveless fingers dropped it with a crash. He let it lie where it had fallen. He pulled up the blind and looked up at the starry heavens. But it was of no comfort to him to think of May as dwelling among their mysteries. The sight of them did not bring tears to his scorching eyes, or soften one atom the hard agony which held him in its merciless grip. He had a sort of feeling that little May would rather be with him. He began mechanically to settle the things on the table, to fold up the newspapers and open his neglected letters. He was fighting his pain. The letters were read without his being a whit the wiser as to their contents. The packet of patterns was the only thing that remained. With another of those pitiful laughs he ripped open the envelope. The laugh changed into an indescribable cry. There were no patterns in the envelope. Instead there were three thick sheets of paper, each of which had "Walter Robinson & Son, Solicitors, Alwyn Bay," printed upon it. The writing was a penciled scrawl—a dear, familiar scrawl. Laurence read it on his knees, sobbing out his thanks to God. Three sentences and the signature will sufficiently explain:

"I was brought ashore half-drowned * * * Mr. Robinson, a lawyer, has kindly given us shelter. * * * Mr. Griffiths is addressing this. * * * Your loving May."

Accounting for Cats' Tastes.

"Did you ever notice the cats about the oyster stands of the city?" asked a gentleman who takes an interest in zoology. "They are invariably as fat as butter. That is because they get plenty of shell-fish to eat, and, by the way, the fondness of cats for that kind of diet is a mystery which I'd like to hear some evolutionist explain. A cat will go crazy over a shrimp, and it is all the same whether it's a city cat or a hayseed cat that never saw water except in a cistern. It's a taste born in them, like their fear of dogs, and the question is, How the mischief did they acquire it?

"According to the evolution theory, such traits are inherited and traceable to conditions away back toward the beginning of things. That would seem to indicate that the primal cat was a fisher; but how is one to reconcile the idea to the instinctive abhorrence of the tribe for water? Their craving for shellfish is certainly so pronounced, that there must be an excellent reason behind it, and, altogether, it is quite a pretty litte problem for some savant. It is too hard for me."

Brittania.

The figure of Britannia on the coin of the realm is neither a fancy figure nor taken from the antique. According to the historian Grammont, it is a full-length portrait of Frances Theresa Stuart, Duchess of Lennox, painted by Lely, and still extant at Lethington Castle, East Lothian, Scotland. It was Charles II. who caused this lady to be represented as the emblematical figure of Britannia.

Largest Sun Dial.

The largest sun dial in the world is Hayou Horoo, a large promontory, extending 3,000 feet above the Aegean Sea. As the sun swings round the shadow of this mountain it touches, one by one, a circle of islands, which act as hour marks.

CROWNING THE POPE.

CEREMONIES IN THE CONSECRATION OF A NEW PONTIFF.

The Splendid Proceedings That Mark the Enthronization of Christ's Vicar on Earth—The Procession to and Services In St. Peter's.

The votes of two-thirds of the cardinals of the Roman Catholic church assembled in conclave are all that is necessary to change any Roman Catholic—layman, cleric, bishop, archbishop or cardinal—into the pope, the head of the most numerous body of Christians on earth. The moment that the person who receives such proportion of the votes of the cardinals has said that he will accept the election he becomes without any further ceremony the vicar of Christ on earth, head of the bishops, bishop of Rome, supreme governor of the Catholic church, patriarch of the west and prince of the pontifical states. It is not necessary that he should hold even minor orders. Laymen might have been chosen pope, subdeacons have been, and one of the greatest of all the popes, Hildebrand, after his election called Gregory VII, was not ordained priest until after he had been chosen pope.

But in spite of this the enthronization of the new pope is an occasion of great ceremony and pomp, inasmuch as it is the visible setting apart of the chosen person as the head of the Roman Catholic church. The ceremonies are many and complicated, carried out with all the wealth of detail that the long succession of pontifical masters of ceremony have been able to devise.

The proceedings begin early on the appointed day in the Sistine chapel, where, for the second time, the cardinals adore the new pope. The first adoration was immediately after the election, while the cardinals were still in conclave. After this adoration, the procession is formed to conduct his holiness to St. Peter's church. First march the choir, then the lower clergy, then the bishops, archbishops, cardinals, all in order of rank, the juniors first, and, finally, carried in his chair by 12 servants, comes the new pope. All around the clergy march members of the Papal guard and of the Noble guard.

In the great church of St. Peter the procession moves up the central aisle and halts at the Chapel of the Most Holy Trinity, where the pope adores the host. Then it passes by the high altar on the north side and on the east side stops, when the pope alights and with the cardinals enters a place railed off from the rest of the sanctuary. After a moment the new pope advances toward the altar and prays at the lowest step. Then he ascends the steps and seats himself on the altar, in the center, where the ciborium holding the host usually is placed. The cardinals then advance to adore him a third time. They prostrate themselves before him and kiss his slipper; then rising they kiss his hand, which is covered by the edge of his cope, and then receive from the pope two embraces. The pope then blesses the people and leaves the altar. Mounting his chair again he is conducted out of the church in the same style as he entered.

On the Sunday following this part of the consecration occurs the coronation, which takes place in St. Peter's also. The pope says mass, during which the senior cardinal deacon places on him the pontifical mantle, uttering this prayer: "Receive the holy mantle, the plenitude of the pontifical offices, to the honor of Almighty God and of the most glorious Virgin Mary, his mother, and of the blessed apostles, Peter and Paul, and of the holy Roman church."

Then, the choir singing "Ecce Sacerdos Magnus," the pope in procession leaves the high altar and goes to the balcony over the great doors of the church. The cardinal deacon then removes the pontifical mantle, and the cardinal dean places the tiara as monarch on the head of the new pope, saying this prayer: "Receive the tiara adorned with three crowns and know that thou art the father of princes and king, the governor of the world, on earth vicar of our Saviour Jesus Christ, to whom is honor and glory for ever and ever. Amen."

Then the pope, wearing the tiara, makes two prayers over the people in the great piazza, who represent the people of Rome and of the former papal states: "May the holy apostles Peter and Paul, in whose power and authority we confide, intercede for us with the Lord. By the prayers and merits of the blessed Mary, always a virgin, of the blessed Michael, the archangel, of the blessed John the Baptist, and the holy apostles Peter and Paul, and all the saints, may Almighty God have mercy upon you, and may Jesus Christ, having remitted all your sins, lead you to the life everlasting. Amen." "May the almighty and merciful Lord grant you indulgence and absolution and remission of all your sins, space for true and fruitful repentance, a heart always penitent and amendment of life, the grace and consolation of the Holy Spirit and final perseverance in good works. Amen." These prayers end the ceremony of the coronation, and the pope retires in state.

On a day appointed the pope goes to his cathedral church, which, contrary to popular belief, is not that of St. Peter, but that of St. John Lateran. There he is enthroned as bishop of Rome and patriarch of the west and receives two keys as such bishop. That ceremony completed, his holiness has to turn his attention to the vast business of the church, the appointment of the congregations which lapse at the death of a pontiff, and the details of the complicated and innumerable questions presenting themselves to the head of the church.—Exchange.

The new cathedral in Newark, N. J., will cost $1,000,000 and will have a thirty ton corner stone, the biggest ever used in a church in this country.

THOMAS A KEMPIS.

Something About the Author of "The Imitation of Christ."

Few writers have more abundantly enriched Catholic literature with the productions of genius than has the renowned scholar, Thomas a Kempis, who was born at Kempen, near Cologne, in 1379.

At the age of 13 he entered the school conducted at Deventer by the Brothers of the Common Life, and in 1396 became an inmate of the house of Brother Florentius Radewin, superior general of the order. In 1400 he began his noviceship at the monastery at Mount St. Agnes, near Zwolle, of which his brother John was prior, and in 1413 was ordained priest. It is thought that he composed about this time the short treatise on the Eucharist, which now forms the fourth book of "The Imitation of Christ."

In 1425 he was elected subprior of the monastery, and was charged with the spiritual direction of the novices. In 1429 he and his brethren were forced to migrate to Tunekerke, in Friesland, but they returned to Mount St. Agnes in 1432, when Thomas became treasurer of the monastery. In 1448 he was again elected subprior, and he held this post till his death, which occurred on July 26, 1471, at the age of 92. Like all his brethren, Thomas devoted himself in a special manner to the study of the Scriptures and the transcription of the Biblical works, "The Imitation of Christ," and several ascetic treatises. He wrote the chronicle of the monastery of St. Agnes down to 1471. The continuator of this chronicle says of him: "Brother Thomas a Kempis endured great poverty, labor and trial from the foundation of this monastery. He transcribed the whole of our Bible, with many other books for our own use and for strangers. He also wrote for the benefit of young people several little treatises in a plain and simple style, but rich in practical wisdom. During several years he applied himself lovingly to the contemplation of Christ's passion, and was a great comforter of persons distressed or tempted."

He owes his worldwide fame to the book entitled "De Imitatione Christi" which has been many times translated into every civilized language, including Greek and Hebrew, and there are upward of 60 different versions in French alone, and 500 different editions of it issued within the present century are found in a library at Cologne. The most remarkable modern edition is one in seven languages—Latin, Italian, Spanish, French, German, English and Greek.

PUT OFF HIS CONVERSION.

And When Death Came It Found Him Unprepared.

"I shall never be a papist," said Dr. Samuel Johnson, "unless on the near approach of death, of which I have a great terror." When death came, the doctor, like many another who postponed his conversion, had not the grace to become a "papist;" but his dread of God's judgment was terrible to his friends.

Mr. Percy Fitzgerald, in The Month, records his answer to one who sought to allay his fears by reminding him of his services to religion and virtue, of the good his writings had done, etc. "Every man," roared the anguished doctor, "knows his own sins, and what graces he has resisted! And am I, who have been a teacher to others, to become a castaway?"

Johnson's Catholic tendencies—his defense of prayers for the dead, the invocation of saints, etc.—are well known, as is also his comparison between converts from Protestantism and those who leave the church. He said: "A man who is converted from Protestantism to popery may be sincere, he parts with nothing, and he is only superadding to what he had, but a convert from popery to Protestantism gives up so much of what he has held as sacred as anything he retains, there is so much laceration of mind, that it can hardly be sincere and lasting."

And once when he heard that a certain clergyman had sacrificed his prospects to become a Catholic he exclaimed, "God bless him!"

Our Catholic Population.

The American Catholic Directory for 1899 estimates the present Catholic population of the United States at 9,907,412. Although the increase of only 50,790 upon the preceding year appears but slight, it is explained that the estimate given last year (9,856,622) was too high, owing to miscalculation in some diocese. The hierarchy consists of 12 archbishops and 80 bishops; there are 11,119 priests, of whom 2,756 are regulars. The parochial schools number 3,581, with a total of 815,063 children; 251 orphanages contain 35,030, and the total number of children in Catholic schools is 956,784. There are 191 colleges for boys and 655 academies for girls; 11 universities, 32 secular seminaries, with 2,436 aspirants to the priesthood, and 70 belonging to various orders, with 2,518 students. The number of churches is given as 10,002, an increase of 432 over last year.

The Highest Church In Europe.

The highest church in Europe is the pilgrimage chapel of S. Maria de Ziteit, above Salux, in the Swiss canton of Graubunden. It lies 2,434 meters above the sea level, nearly 8,000 feet high above the forest, near the limits of perpetual snow. It is only open during the summer time of that region—or, as the folk thereabout reckon, from St. John the Baptist's day to St. Michael's day—and is used only by the Alps herds, who remain there through the summer with their cows and goats, and occasionally by hunters in search of the chamois and marmot. All the inhabitants of Salux climb up thither on midsummer day to assist at the first mass and hear the first sermon of the year, and there is also a crowded congregation on Michaelmas day, at the last service of the year.

Four Bezenahs have helped make the Cincinnati pugilistic history. If there is another family in the United States that has furnished the ring with a quartette of pugilists it is not generally known.

McCoy has made about $21,000 in a little over a year through his contests with Dan Creedon, Gus Ruhlin, Tommy Ryan, Joe Goddard and Tom Sharkey—and he has got every dollar of it, too.

Agunaldo and His Cabinet Said to Have Given Up.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Manila, May 18, 11:55 a. m.—Aguinaldo and his Cabinet are reported to have met at San Isidro before the Americans captured that place and decided to send a commission to Gen. Otis to accept the terms of the proclamation recently issued by him offering amnesty.

Gen. Lawton was unaware of the decision when he advanced upon the city. The Fillipino leaders then retired but the commission bearing Aguinaldo's message of submission is expected to reach here tomorrow.

NO HOPE FOR BOARD OF TRADE.

Silas D. Drake Says Present Organization is Decidedly Dead.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I noticed in your article on Board of Trade meeting held last Monday night that I would be at meeting next Monday night. Permit me to corret that statement, and say that I will not be there. I have attended two meetings of the Board recently, one with a quorum and the other without one. I attended solely with an object of adding my mite to encourage the Board in its work. When I decided to locate in Plainfield, I was like the little Sunday-school boy at Lincoln. The Superintendent said to the children, "I have been asking you a lot of questions? Just ask me one!" A little boy replied: "P-p-p-lease sir, w-w-what use was Jacob's ladder to the angels if they had wings?" The Superintended wilted, and asked the school for an answer. A little boy, the future statesman of Lincoln, answered that the angels could not at that time use their wings because they were "moulting." I was under the impression that the Board of Trade of Plainfield was only 'moulting." But I now decide it is dead, dead, dead, and as I have done my best to bring it to life and was unsuccessful I will leave the job to Gabriel. Still, I believe that out of the debris of the old Board of Trade will arise a Board of Trade, a thing of life, a credit to Plainfield and to those who engage in its work.

Silas Dewey Drake.

THE VERDICT REVERSED

Judge Bartine Decides That Hastings Had no Cause for Action.

Counsellor S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer, won the appeal case of Joseph Hastings against Mrs. Phebe E Osman before Judge Bartine at Somerville, and succeeded in getting the verdict down from $12 damages to no cause for action.

The case was first tried before Justice Smalley. Hastings was a man employed by Mrs. Osman, last summer, and at the close of the season sued her for a large amount of wages he claimed owing to him. Mrs. Osman refused to pay them because she said the man was to do odd chores about the place for his board, and then he did so little work that he did not earn anything more.

The jury in that case brought in a verdict for $12. This was the case where Mr. Swackhamer produced a photograph of him husking corn seated in a comfortable arm chair.

She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Organization Exacts Nothing But Good Conduct and Attention to the Crops—Each Man Assigned a Plot and Given the Proper Tools—Great Rivalry Among the Types to Have Best Crops.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, May 18—Reports from Typographical Union No. Six's colony of printer-farmers, show that the scheme of giving congenial work to the unemployed of the organization is an unqualified success. There are now about seventy-five men at work on the sixty acre farm, and it is planned to widely extend the scope of the movement this summer.

Each man is assigned a plot and is given seeds to plant and tools with which to work. Big Six also allows each man at least one meal a day. The printer is largely his own master, although J. W. Sullivan, Chairman of the Union Land Committee, has a supervising authority over the whole colony. Naturally, the raising of crops of vegetables is a mystery to the men when they first arrive. Only a few of them, it was found, had ever had any experience in garden truck farming, or, indeed, in any sort of farming.

The "greenhorns" are at once started at work in a practical way, guided by competent instructors, and soon learn all that it is necessary for them to know. Many of the men arrived at the farm broken in spirit and fortunes, and almost ready to give up the fight for existence. Mr. Sullivan says that the healthful outdoor labor, and a knowledge of the fact that they are earning a livelihood, has invariably had a most beneficial effect upon the men, both physically and mentally. They are cheered and comforted in watching the plants and seeds they put into the ground grow and thrive, and there is the greatest rivalry among the workers as to who shall produce the best results.

Everything that the men raise is theirs to do with as they please. The organization exacts nothing from them but good conduct and attention to their crops. The first farm of the union was in Pelham Bay Park, in the Bronx. A grant for 321 acres was obtained from the Park Board in the spring of last year, the idea of employing the idle in farming having been prompted by the potato raising scheme of Governor Pingree, of Michigan, also carried out successfully by the Society for Improving the Condition of the Poor in New York city.

Many vegetables were planted at the park farm, but the novices did better with potatoes than with the other truck. Even with the loss through a failure of a part of the crop the venture was a financial success, and opened up a certain means of relieving distress among the idle men of the craft. A better farm, that now occupied at Bound Brook, was secured for the colony this year, and the number of workers was about doubled.

All kinds of garden truck are being raised this year, and it is sure that the profits will be greater than ever before. It is proposed to gradually extend the ground area, and thus the Union will be enabled to give work to more men. The union has a fund for the support of its needy and unemployed, and at present only a part of those falling upon the charity of the organization are in the farming colony.

KEAN'S ROAD WILL BE BUILT IN A HURRY

Planned to Have It in Operation By August.

MAKING THE SURVEY NOW.

NOT DECIDED WHERE THE POWER WILL COME FROM.

Senator Kean's Purpose is to Make the Road Popular—The Latest and Best Style of Rolling Stock Will be Secured—Two Plans for Obtaining the Power—What Cranford May Do.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 19th—The "Green Line," from Staten Island ferry to the city line at Westfield and Morris avenues, will be in operation as an electric railroad before the summer is over. Engineer Louis Quien is engaged in making the survey, and has completed a drawing of the section of the road from East Grand street through the west arch on Broad street into Morris avenue.

It is the intention to push the work of construction on through to Plainfield, and to complete the entire route this fall if possible. The officers of the company believe that the people of Cranford will realize the great convenience of this road over its rival on the south side, and through the township authorities will give to the company the right to extend it to the Westfield line.

In this connection an officer of the company said that in 1893 John D. Crimmins, with a view of extending the "Green Line" from Elizabeth to Plainfield, went over the route by way of the county roads and returned by way of the south side On his arrival at Elizabeth he said that he would not take a premium and construct a road from Elizabeth to Plainfield if he had to build it on the south side, for the reason that it is isolated, cannot be reached along most of its length except by clambering over a railroad embankment, and in seasons of the year to get to the cars at many points the patrons of the road would have to wear rubber boots or go on stilts.

It is the purpose of Senator Kean's company to do everything it can to make its road popular. The cars will be all new, the construction of the rood modern, and the service will be in the interest, and for the accomodation and convenience of the traveling public

There are two plans before the company in regard to power for running its cars. One is to build a powerhouse, which is advocated by an engineering firm of New York city, who allege that the company would thus secure great advantages in the way of latest inventions in electrical apparatus, and superior to the systems in use by the old trolley companies. On the other hand the Consumers Heat and Power Company has offered to make very favorable arrangements with the company to furnish power from its extensive plant in this city (the Suburban Electric Company). The Consumers company has facilities for supplying power for all trolley companies in and around Elizabeth.

Since the franchise was granted, the company's representative said, the North Jersey Traction Company has not attempted to put anything in the way of its rival, either to obstruct in its construction or to prevent its getting material. The traction company owners are largely interested in the Consumers Heat and Power Company, and will be benefited by the new company in taking its power from that corporation.

There is a general expression of satisfaction all through the city and extending to Plainfield over the granting of the franchise, and the people are awaiting with great interest the progress of the road's construction.

Gets a Cold Reception Sometimes.

Roundsman Flynn is making good progress in delivering legal notices to property owners to lay sidewalks in front of their property, but he frequently meets with a cold reception. With some people it will work a hardship, while others, who can afford to lay walks, are in some instances the hardest people to get along with.

Exchange of Property.

Webster Wright, of East Front street, has exchanged property with C. M. Church, of Hancock street, Brooklyn. Mr. Church will take immediate possession. The exchange was made through the firm of Robert A. Wright, of Brooklyn. Webster Wright will make Poughkeepsie his future home.

No Service This Week.

Owing to the inability of Rev. Mr. Menges to be here tonight there will be no service in the Danish Lutheran church until May 29th.

WEDDED IN THE RECTORY

NUPTIALS OF MISS ALAMEN AND W. J. PRIDE CELEBRATED.

Ceremony Performed by Rev. Father Smyth—On a Wedding Trip to Philadelphia—Bride a Native of Peru.

Last evening at 8:30 o'clock in the rectory of St. Mary's R. C. church there took place the marriage of Miss Eregetta Alamen, of Peru, and W. J. Pride, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Smyth, rector of the church. The bride was gowned in a pretty dress of white, trimmed with lace and ribbons, and was attended by Miss Fanny Olden, of this city. The groomsman was R. J. Pride, of Newark, brother of the groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Pride received a number of useful and handsome presents from friends, who wish them a happy and prosperous journey through life.

After the wedding the couple returned to Mr. Pride's home, and today they left for Philadelphia to remain for a few days. On their return they will board for a time, after which they will take up their residence on East Third street in a cottage.

Mrs. Pride, as stated is a native of Peru, and has only been a resident of this country about three years. The family with whom she has been living brought her to Plainfield from Peru. She is a graduate of one of the largest universities at her native home and is very highly educated.

The groom is a native of Virginia, and is employed at Ed. Maynard's tonsorial parlors, where he is very popular. He has a host of friends in Plainfield and they extend congratulations to both him and his wife.

NO FURTHER CONTEST.

BOROUGH WATCHUNG AVENUE ASSESSMENTS TO STAND.

Judge McCarter, Representing Mrs. Durlach, Writes Senator Reed That They Will Stop Litigation as it Stands.

Judge Thomas N. McCarter, of Newark, has written to Senator Reed that he has abandoned the idea of further contesting the Watchung avenue assessments.

Judge McCarter represented in the contest before the Supreme Court, Mrs. Hannah Durlach, who was assessed for benefits about $1,200 on two small lots next to the brook. They claimed that the assessments were more than the lots are worth. These lots were assessed higher in proportion than any others.

They talked of appealing from the dicision of the Supreme Court, but have concluded that it will be wiser to stop litigation and pay now.

MARRIED LATE AT NIGHT.

Young Couple Called on Justice Mosher to Tie the Knot.

Friends of Alfred V. Springer and Miss Sadie B. Rockafellow, of this city, were surprised this morning to hear the announcement of their marriage, which occurred Wednesday night. The young couple decided to keep the matter quiet for a month at least, but in some way the secret leaked out, and the announcement followed.

The ceremony was performed by Justice of the Peace J. E. Mosher at his home on East Fourth street. The hour was 9:30 o'clock. The young couple came alone, but the ceremony was witnessed by Mrs. Mosher and a neighbor, Mrs. Charles Dutcher.

The bride is a daughter of former Constable George Rockafellow, and the groom is a son of Samuel H. Springer, of Grove street. The couple will reside at the home of either Mr. Rockafellow or Mr. Springer.

IT WAS LADIES' NIGHT.

Fair Ones Guests of Honor of Greenbrook Council.

Greenbrook Council, Royal Arcanum, observed ladies' night last evening, and invited their wives and sisters out. The affair was held in G. A. R Hall, on East Front street, and was largely attended.

To give the entertainment solidity an addre s upon Royal Arcanum matters was given by Grand Vice Regent H. I. Bowne, of Hoboken. The entertainment was in charge of the orator, E. S. Brokaw, and to him is due the success of the evening.

Grand Master to Be Here.

PLANS FOR A HOME FOR OLD UNION MEN

Plainfield to be Made Headquarters of the Enterprise.

SITE TO BE AT LINCOLN.

CALCULATED TO LAY CORNER-STONE ON LABOR DAY.

Lincoln Realty Company Will Give 15 Acres of Land to the Enterprise, Out of Which Enough Building Lots Will be Sold to Pay for the Home—Chairman Gottlob Coming to Plainfield Monday.

Henry J. Gottlob, of Newark, chairman of the Federation of Labor Unions in New Jersey, met Silas D. Drake at his office in this city yesterday afternoon, and took important action with reference to the establishment of the home for aged labor union men at Lincoln.

The contract between the Lincoln Realty Company and the Federation of Labor Union has been drawn up and will be signed tomorrow. It provides that the Realty Company shall present the Federation free and clear fifteen acres of land on the south side of the Lehigh Valley and Central Railroad tracks at Lincoln. It is the plan of the Federation to utilize two or three acres of this plot for the site of the home, and to cut the rest up into 100 building lots, which will be sold by the Federation and the funds devoted to the erection of the buildings needed to make the institution a success.

The building will be 500 feet long and 250 feet wide and three stories high. It will be on three streets. The interior will be cut up into rooms and wards necessary for the accommodation of 200 or 300 inmates. The building is intended to be substantial, but of plain construction. New Jersey architects will be asked to enter a competition in designing the architecture.

Mr. Drake says that Mr. Gottlob will come to Plainfield next Monday and make his headquarters here through the summer, while he is developing the enterprise among the labor unions of the State. July 4th it is intended to have an outing of the labor unions in the Lincoln grove, when an opportunity will be given to the members of unions to inspect the property. It is intended to start the work on the building so that the cornerstone can be laid Labor Day with a big celebration.

MRS. MILLIKEN'S SUIT.

Lawyer Swackhamer Trying to Get the Cause Before Supreme Court in June.

S. S. Swackhamer, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer, counsel for Sarah A. Milliken in her suit against the City of Plainfield, presented a certificate to Justice VanSyckel at Elizabeth yesterday in order to bring the cause before the Supreme Court by the June term.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh had just finished an important case and desired some time to consider the certificate, so that the same will be signed Tuesday next and immediately filed in the Supreme Court.

ART AT A SOCIABLE

Unique Affair Arranged by First Presbyterian Endeavorers.

A successful sociable was given last night by the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church in the parlors of the church. The social committee had prepared a choice exhibit of works of art for the entertainment of their friends, and one room was devoted to this purpose. Catalogues giving a a list of one hundred pictures were given to the guests. This was quite necessary as without a catalogue the visitors would have been at a loss to know the name of the work of art at which they were looking.

Though the art gallery plan is not new, this one was well planned and executed, and caused much amusement. Another form of entertainment which was more of a novelty and was also much enjoyed, was the guessing of nameless advertisements. Piano duets by Mrs. LeRoy H. Gates and Miss Lettie Remsen, and piano solos by Miss Lilian Torrey Glen, were given during the evening, and ice cream and cake were served.

The social committee in charge of the affair included the following: Miss Helen Boice, chairman; Miss Lillian Remsen, Miss Mildred Ulrich, Miss Beatrice Miner, Miss Clara Dunham, Mrs. W. L. Remsen, Miss Lizzie Bittenbender and LeRoy H. Gates.

ENDEAVOR CELEBRATION

ELEVENTH ANNIVERSARY OF WARREN CHAPEL SOCIETY.

Secretary's Report Showed the Society to be in a Healthy Condition—Address by Rev. J. W. Richardson

The Warren Mission Christian Endeavor Society celebrated its eleventh anniversary last night with an informal entertainment and sociable to which were invited the societies of the Local Union. The chapel was well filled with visitors and home members.

The chapel looked pretty with its decorations of black and orange streamers, the State colors, and green and white, the colors of the Local Union. A mass of blossoms in front added to the attractive features.

After Scripture reading by Fred Bach and prayer by J. W. Richardson, a short programme of music, etc., was presented. There were piano solos by Miss Dewey, a vocal solo by E. C. Martin, a duet by Mrs. Kline and Mrs. Stiglitz, and selections by the choir and recitations by A. A. Lake, of Dunellen.

The secretary's report, which was read by Miss K. Deike, showed the society to be in a healthy condition. Ten names have been dropped from the roll during the past year, and five have been added, so the society is not so large as last year. But they feel that the earnest members are all left, and a good work can be expected from them.

Mrs. Eley, who read the treasurer's report, reported that about $48 had been received during the year, and all but about $7 had been paid out. The Junior Society came in for a share of the attention, and the report made out by Mrs. J. O. McKelvey, was read by Miss Nora Schenck. The Juniors are five years old. During the year they have given $23 for foreign missions and $50 to home missions. They number fifty members.

Miss Florence G. Hawkins, president of the Local Union, was here introduced and spoke for a while upon "A New Opportunity." Her words were appreciated, and if the advice she gave the society, now starting upon its twelfth year, is heeded, the Christian Endeavor Society of Warren chapel will be a bulwark for good in the borough.

The address of the evening was made by Rev. J. W. Richardson. He spoke of the value of earnest, aggressive committee work to the society. He said the society will become what the committees make it, and that the real work was not done in the prayer meeting, but in the committee conference.

Refreshments closed the evening. The anniversary committee consisted of Mrs. W. A. Wilson, chairman; Mrs. Sutton and Mr. Herman.

The ushers were Mrs. Kurzhals, Miss A Searing and Miss Vail.

Fred Bach and Miss D. Bolsterli formed the social committee, and Miss Jennie Martin and Henry Seader looked after the decorations. Although Fred Bach, the present president, occupied a seat upon the platform, Theodore Martin, a former president, took charge of the services.

Society Women Out to One of the Most Brilliant Teas of the Season.

One of the most brilliant teas of the season was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Walter E. Stewart, of West Seventh street, in honor of Mrs. Percy Stewart, of Central avenue. ## KEEP HOME TRADE WHERE IT BELONGS

Local Merchants to Take Retaliatory Action Against Newark.

NO MORE TRAINS WANTED.

AN ORGANIZATION TO BE FORMED THIS EVENING.

Silas D. Drake at the Head of the Movement, and a Meeting Will be Held in His Office This Evening—An Effort Will be Made to Prevent Plainfield Trade From Drifting Out of Town.

The efforts of the Board of Trade to secure the Central Railroad of New Jersey to put on one or two more through trains between Plainfield and Newark, in order to attract the trade of this city to the latter place, has stirred up the business of this city to take retaliatory action and prevent the plans of the Newark people from being consummated, if possible.

Silas D. Drake is at the head of the movement, and this evening there will be a meeting of the business men in his office on North avenue when an organization will be formed to boom Plainfield affairs, and it is intended that one of the first things that will be done is to counteract the work of the Newark merchants in trying to divert Plainfield trade from the local stores.

Whatever influence that can be secured will be brought to bear on the officials of the Central to prevent them from putting on the extra trains that the Newark merchants are urging. It is likely that a committee will be appointed to visit Passenger Agent Baldwin, and to argue and protest against the putting on of trains that are designed for nothing more nor less than the purpose of taking Plainfielders away from their own city to trade.

Mr. Drake has invited about twenty-five representative business men to attend the meeting. The question of retaining Plainfield trade in town will not be the only purpose of the organization, however. It is intended to have it prosecute a public work that will develop and bring out more effectively and prominently the advantages that Plainfield possesses as a place for both residence and business.

THROUGH TRAIN TO PLAINFIELD.

Central Railroad Officials to Be Asked to Provide Better Facilities.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, May 19—The Board of Trade's Committee on Municipal Affairs met Wednesday afternoon to discuss the chances of persuading the Central Railroad Company to run each day a through train between Plainfield and this city. Robert Gray, Jr., suggested that an appealing letter be written to H. P. Baldwin, general passenger agent of the road. Others suggested writing to the president and the board of directors and it was also proposed that the committee should intimate to the company that if a train was not put on that some of the freight traffic of the merchants of the city might be withdrawn from the road.

Another plan, suggested by Austen H McGregor, was that the advertisements of Newark merchants be withdrawn from the newspapers along the route of the road in order to force the papers to support the movement. Louis Plaut was for exhausting all conciliatory methods before radical ones were tried, and his motion to the effect that the secretary be instructed to write to Mr. Baldwin requesting that when the new schedule shall be made out on May 28th, a through train to be run from Plainfield at about 1 o'clock in the afternoon is included, was adopted.

LEG HAD TO BE AMPUTATED.

Ruptured Blood Vessel Followed by a Serious Attack of Gangrene.

Mrs. Sach, wife of a Mt. Bethel farmer, while running a few days ago, tripped and fell on the ground rupturing a blood vessel of the leg near the knee. As a result gangrene set in at the foot and the whole leg was soon affected. Everything known to medical skill was done to prevent the spread of the malady, but without success, and the leg had to be taken off above the knee. This operation was performed Wednesday last by Drs. Zeglio and Buchanan, of the borough. The operation was very successful, and it now remains to be seen whether Mrs. Sach has strength to recover.

The conditon of the patient today is very favorable, considering the seriousness of the operation. Her age, which is thirty-three, is a help to her in recovering from the shock.

THE COUNCIL'S ADIEU.

RESOLUTIONS PRAISING WORK OF THE VOLUNTEER FIREMEN.

City Recognizes and Appreciates the Activity and Excellent Work of the Volunteers During Their Service.

The following is the copy of the resolutions offered at the last meeting of the Common Council by Councilman Coriell, of the fire and water committee, in relation to the introduction of the new fire department system, in which the Councilmanic committee pays a farewell tribute to the old-time volunteers:

WHEREAS, After due and careful consideration, the Common Council of the city of Plainfield has decided that owing to the increasing needs of the city in the matter of protection from fires, it is advisable to substitute the call in place of the volunteer system in the fire department.

Resolved, That the Mayor having nominated and the Council having confirmed the officers and men to serve as members of the fire department under the call system, the chief engineer notify each of the present companies that their duties as members of the volunteer department will cease on May 17th, inst., at 12 o'clock m., and that any property of the department that they may have in their possession as such companies shall be turned over to the Chief of the new department at that date; and

WHEREAS, It is the opinion of the Council that public recognition of the valuable and effective work of the volunteer department should be made,

Resolved, That we, the members of the Common Council of the city of Plainfield, speaking not only for ourselves but for the citizens at large of Plainfield, whom we as public servants represent, extend our most hearty thanks for the ability, faithfulness and efficiency of the volunteer department in the past. We recognize that they have been quick to respond to any and every call, and to their efforts is due the small proportion of disastrous fires that have occurred in our city for years past, and we recognize especially those who already long exempt from active duty have still remained with their companies to aid in the protection of our city; and be it further

Resolved, That we, the Council, and especially the committee on fire and buildings, will always be ready to receive counsel and advice from the members of the Exempt Association, and will welcome their practical assistance in the hour of need, and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread at large on the minutes of the Council.

EUCHRE AND DANCING.

A Social Evening Spent at the Catholic Club.

An enjoyable progressive euchre party and dance was given last evening at the Plainfield Catholic Club under the auspices of the club and the Ladies' Auxiliary. There was a very large attendance of members and friends. Ten tables were arranged for play, and there was at least fifty people present who did not participate in the game. Play was continued until 10 o'clock, when prizes were awarded to the successful ones. The first three honors for the women were presented to Miss Carty, Miss McKeon and Miss O'Keefe, while Morris Owen, David Mack and Andrew Wahl won the honors for the men.

After the euchre play those present indulged in dancing until 11 o'clock, at which time refreshments were served by several ladies, who assisted Henry Hillman, president of the club, in arranging the affair, which was so successful.

A Trivial Complaint

A woman appeared in the City Court this morning as complainant against her husband. She was Mrs. Carrie Reuter, of East Fourth street. The offense of which the husband was alleged to be guilty was such a trivial one that City Judge Hunyon dismissed the complaint against him.

BOROUGH POLICEMAN DRIVING TOO FAST.

Marshal Campbell Arrested in Dunellen and Fined $2.

DECLARES HE IS INNOCENT.

WAS RETURNING FROM SOMERVILLE WITH CLARK MUNDY.

The Latter Also in the Toils and Compelled to Fork Over $2 to the Haughty Officials of Dunellen—They Have Engaged a Lawyer Who Will Try to Have Them Exonerated of the Charge.

The novelty of having one officer of the law arrest another officer was experienced at Dunellen last evening, when Constable Huff arrested Chief Marshal William Campbell, of North Plainfield, who, in company with Clark Mundy, were driving through that town on their way home from Somerville. The charge on which the two boroughites were arrested was for fast driving. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Warden, and he fined both the officer and Mundy $2 each. The fines were paid after the offenders had done their best to show their innocence of the charge.

Chief Cambell had occasion to go to Somerville early in the afternoon to look after some matters pertaining to the death of Joseph Willis, who was found dead in a cell in the county jail. He made the trip with Mundy with the latter's horse and buggy. Both the officer and Mundy claim that they were not driving fast, while others who saw them claim the opposite. Constable Huff called to them as they drove through Dunellen, and they stopped and returned to where the officer was standing. They were then placed under arrest.

This morning Chief Campbell and Mr. Mundy engaged Lawyer Robert Clark to investigate the matter and endeavor to have it settled in a manner that will exonerate the offenders of the law.

This morning Mayor Smalley reprimanded Officer Campbell for going to Somerville in the manner in which he did. He informed the officer that he should have gone on the train and thus avoided all trouble. The officer emphatically told the Mayor that he did nothing that would warrant the imposing of a fine or his arrest.

MAY GO TO PAUPER'S GRAVE.

No One Found Who Will Inter Remains of Joseph Willis.

Up till this morning nothing whatever had been done with the body of Joseph Willis, who died in the county jail at Somerville yesterday, except to place in the hands of Undertaker Johnson, of that place. When Marshal Campbell visited Somerville yesterday, he found the body of Willis lying in a barn owned by the undertaker, and no arrangements had been made to bury it. It seems to be a question as to whether the borough shall pay for the burial or whether the county shall bear the expense. It was reported that the dead man has a father residing in Newark who is employed on either the Erie or Pennsylvania Railroad, and this morning Mayor Smalley tried to get in communication with the father.

If there are no relatives found who are able to bury the man Mayor Smalley will instruct the officials at Somerville to bury him and the expense will be met in the usual way.

NEIGHBORS COULDN'T AGREE.

White Woman With a Negro Husband Made the Complaint.

Mrs. Kate W. Webley and Mrs. Maria Hickey live neighbors on West Fourth street. The peace of the neighborhood was sadly broken last week, however, by loud noises and shouts and profane language coming from the home of Mrs. Hickey, so Mrs. Webley says.

The latter made a complaint before the city judge and the case was set down for trial this morning. Mrs. Webley is a stout German woman, and is married to a full blooded Negro. She and her husband appeared in court this morning and told their story.

Mrs. Hickey claimed that the plaintiff was the one who made all the noise, and mentioned the names of many prominent families of the city who had employed her to do their housework. Mrs. Hickey and her husband seemed such nice people that the judge decided they were not guilty of any disorderly conduct and so dismissed the complaint.

Must Settle Within a Week.

Collector George F. Brown has given delinquents in personal and poll tax one week's notice to settle up or take the consequence. The notice was given yesterday and was served by Chief Marshal Campbell.

IT CAN'T BE DONE.

No One Can Remain Well, No Chronic Disease Can be Cured Unless the Stomach is First Made Strong and Vigorous.

This is plain because every organ in the body depends on the stomach for its nourishment. Nerve, bone, sinew, blood are made from the food which the stomach converts to our use.

How useless to treat disease with this, that and the other remedy and neglect the most important of all, the stomach.

The earliest symptons of indigestion are sour risings, bad taste in the mouth, gas in stomach and bowels, palpitation, all-gone feeling, faintness, headaches, constipation; later comes loss of flesh, consumption, liver and heart troubles, kidney diseases, nervous prostration, all of which are the indirect result of poor nutrition.

Any person suffering from indigestion should make it a practice to take after each meal one of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, allowing it to dissolve in the mouth and thus mingle with the saliva and enter the stomach in the most natural way. These Tablets are highly recommended by Dr. Jennison because they are composed of the natural digestive acids and fruit essences which assist the stomach in digesting all wholesome food before it has time to ferment and sour.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold by druggists, full sized packages at 50 cents. They are also excellent for invalids and children. A book on stomach diseases and thousands of testimonials of genuine cures sent free by addressing F. A. Stuart Co., Marshall, Mich.

PEACE CONFERENCE MEETS

Session of the Congress at The Hague Begun Under Favorable Conditions.

DE STAAL IS PRESIDENT

Will Consider Every Negotiation to Avert War Made Since the Days of Napoleon I.

The Czar Congratulated Upon His Birthday by Members—President McKinley Also Sends Message of Congratulation to Russia's Autocratic Ruler—America Shows the Way to Arbitration.

The Hague, May 19.—The Peace Congress was formally opened at the House in the Woods.

The delegates drove to the villa, where they were welcomed by the spokesman for the Queen, Dr. Beaufort President of the Council and Minister of Foreign Affairs.

M. de Beaufort felicitated the Czar on following the traditions of his grandfather, Alexander, in his efforts for peace, and took occasion to congratulate the Czar on his birthday.

He trusted that the day would in future results prove the great historical day of the century.

After M. de Beaufort had concluded M. de Stael, Russian Ambassador to England, took the chair, and expressed the thanks of his august master, the Czar, for the kindness and grateful hospitality of Queen Wilhelmina.

The Conference then sent a message of congratulation to the Czar on his birthday, and notifying him that the Conference had assembled.

Several of the delegates made speeches on the auspicious opening of the conference.

Count Muenster, Germany's chief delegate and M. Kavnebeek, of Holland, were named as vice presidents and the conference was divided into three sections for the discussion respectively of disarmament, the humanizing of war, and arbitration.

ENTRANCE TO THE CASTLE

A book containing a collection of acts relating to previous efforts in behalf of peace was given to each delegate.

Among the documents cited is the opinion of Mr. David Dudley Field, of the United States, as to fixing a permanent limit of military forces, the treaty of Washington of 1890, concerning the establishment of an arbitration tribunal for the North, Central and South American States, and the arbitration negotiations between England and the United States.

Before adjourning the secretaries of the conference were appointed. There were no Americans among them.

The final committee divisions were not made but these will probably be arranged at the next meeting.

The day was perfect and a great crowd gathered about the gates.

Soldiers, grim reminders of war, guarded the entrance and lined the drives. Guards were posted, too, at the doors and throughout the palace. As the delegates drove in the guards saluted. The Russian and French delegates went to the Russian chapel before the meeting to celebrate the birthday of the Czar.

Excepting the officers of the army and navy, some wore diplomatic dress, but many of them wore medals of various orders.

McKinley Congratulates Czar

Washington, May 18.—The following cablegram has been addressed by the President to the Emperor of Russia, on the occasion of the opening of The Hague conference:

To His Majesty Nicholas II., Emperor of all the Russias, St. Petersburg:

On this day of good omen I send my heartfelt congratulations on the opening of the conference at The Hague, which had its origin in the enlightened and generous initiative of Your Majesty.

WILLIAM M'KINLEY.

Business Looking Up Around Havana.

Havana, May 19.—Mr. John McLean, representing a New York and London Cuban Association, has been authorized to make surveys and estimates for a railroad from Havana to Guines, in this province, and forty-five miles from here.

Mr. George Dohoguos is making plans and drawing up estimates for an electric railroad to connect Havana with Vedado and Colon Cemetery.

A telegram received here from Guines says a number of bandits on an estate at Ceiba, owned by Lorgino Suarez have held up and robbed the latted of his money and watch. The bandits then drove in wagons to a warehouse and took eighty barrels of potatoes

Tie-Up in Paris.

Paris, May 19.—Business in the post offices is at a standstill, owing to a general strike of the employees. Not a single postman is on duty, and consequently not a letter has been delivered in the city.

The strike was due to the refusal of the Senate to concur in the increase of the wages of post office employees, which was granted by the Chamber of Deputies Soldiers will deliver the mails until the strike ha sended.

Strikers wrecked another street car with dynamite in Duluth.

KRUGER MASSING TROOPS.

Reports From Durban State That Boer Soldiers Are Massing.

Durban, South Africa, May 19.—It is evident that President Kruger of the Transvaal Republic, is preparing for a possible war with England. The stout Boer troops are mobilizing on the frontier in consequence of his orders.

The Boers are in greatest force near Ladysneck, which is looked upon as being the most vulnerable point in the little Dutch republic's frontier.

Another reason for the act was that President Kruger was informed by cable of the fact that England had ordered three batteries of field artillery to Ladysneck. This is near the scene of the British repulse in 1885.

Upon the arrival of the reinforcements England will have six strong batteries at that point. Oom Paul is taking every precaution to prevent the rebel conspirators from carrying out their plans.

The Transvaal Arrests

London, May 19.—A despatch from Cape Town this morning says that there is a general feeling of regret at the arrests made at Johannesburg by the Transvaal authorities, but that no sympathy will be wasted upon the men if they are found to be guilty of the offence charged against them.

The opinion prevails here that the affair is the outcome of the kind of secret service maintained in the Transvaal, the belief being that the prisoners are barroom loafers and persons of that class, and that they were arrested on the evidence of barmaids, who are known to be paid agents of the Government.

The Pall Mall Gazette gives an outline of the plan of the Transvaal revolutionists, some of whom are under arrest at Pretoria. According to this account, it was their intention to rush the fort on Hospital Hill at Johannesburg, sandbag the sentries, seize the police and take possession of the State's arms and ammunition.

They expected to be able to hold the town with the aid of dynamite bombs. Some of the Outlanders, the Gazette says, are opposed alike to England, Cecil Rhodes and the Boers and want to run the republic. Fearing that the coming meeting of Sir Alfred Milner, the British Commissioner and Governor of the Cape Colony, and President Kruger would settle everything in dispute, the rebels fixed an early date for action; hence the arrests.

Cape Town, May 19.—Transport Avoca, with 500 time-expired soldiers on board, which was detained at Simonstown presumably on the strength of the first exaggerated reports of the arrests in the Transvaal has left for England.

Want H. Clay Evans Removed.

Syracuse, N. Y., May 19.—The following resolution was adopted by the G. A. R. encampment:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this department that the administration of the Pension Department by H. Clay Evans meets the emphatic disapprobation of this department and of every veteran who is entitled to a pension under the law, and we ask that he be removed and the office filled by a man who will administer the pension law according to the intent of the framer of the law, the Congress that passed it and the President who signed it.

Deny Rumor of Trust.

Great Hole Torn in the Side of the Big French Ship—Barges Sent to the Bottom.

The Steerage Passengers of Vessel Panic-Stricken, and She Returns to This Port—Captain and Crew Done All in Their Power to Stop the Progress of the Fire—La Bretagne Is Sinking.

New York, May 19.—With her cargo on fire and almost one thousand souls on board in danger of their lives, the huge steamship Barbarossa put about off the Hook and staggered back to her pier. It is said by some passengers that her crew became panic-stricken when fire was discovered.

On the way back, almost helpless in the tide, she struck La Bretagne, lying at her pier, and stove a great hole in the side of the Frenchman. La Bretagne in turn cut an ice barge in twain, then rammed and sank another ice barge. This leaves both of the great ocean liners out of commission for a time at least.

That many lives were not lost was a marvel. Several persons were made unconscious by the smoke from the fire on the Barbarossa; others were slightly injured by the different collisions, but no one was killed or burned or drowned in the series of accidents.

All these things happened in a few hours, and it is a strange coincidence that the sailors' pet superstition has been triumphantly vindicated. The Rev. Dr. Briggs was one of the passengers on board the Barbarossa, and to the sailor a minister is "a Jonah on board."

The fine North-German Lloyd twin screw steamship left Hoboken having on board 500 first and second cabin passengers and several hundred in the steerage. There were 250 members of the crew, and everything on the newly-built, modern steamer was shipshape for a swift and safe run to Bremen—except the cargo. Below, among the general consignments of merchandise, were 5,200 bales of cotton. And in that cotton there was a little spark.

Dipping her flags to the cheers and waving of handkerchiefs from those on the pier who had gathered to wish friends godspeed the great steamship swung her length easily into the stream, and under the moderated force of engines capable of 7,000-horse power, lazily sauntered out on the tide.

Opinions differ as to the exact work done by the crew when the fact of the fire became known, though all agree that Captain Richter did his best to keep the men in hand.

Meanwhile the sailors seemed to have given up the idea of quenching the fire with water, and began stuffing the ventilators with bagging, while everything was ordered battered down and every crevice stopped up, in the hope of smothering the blaze, which had grown to such alarming proportions that three of the thick glass plates over the port holes on the starboard side had been broken by the intense heat

The steamship was turned into deep water and headed for the Narrows again. The marine observer long before that had made out the cry of distress and sent word to the city. The fire boats Zopher Mills and Robert A. Van Wyck immediately were sent to the assistance of the steamship. She was speeding for her pier so rapidly that the life saving corps at the Hook and the Government steamer Ordnance, which also had read the call for aid, were unable to overtake her.

The nerves of those on board were not improved when the burning vessel narrowly escaped running into a Christopher street ferryboat, missed the huge cattleship Buenos Ayrean by a nose, and then stove in the front of an Erie lighter. This, with the fierce fighting of the crew with the fire forward, had everybody on edge when the final blow came and the ship banged into La Bretagne.

The French liner was preparing for her regular trip on Saturday, and hundreds of men were working about her as she lay at her pier at Morton street. The wharf there is wide, and across the bow of La Bretagne lay two ice barges, the Richard Foster and the Le Roy, with the canalboat Flossie nearby. The Barbarossa staggering in, and utterly refusing to answer her helm, so as to swing the bow toward the New Jersey shore, cut off a triangular slice of Pier No. 41, then plunged into La Bretagne about fifty feet forward of the stern, at an angle of about thirty degrees.

As the Barbarossa turned and lumbered heavily away it was seen she had left La Bretagne in a badly damaged condition. A gap, wedge-shaped, was torn in her side, six to eight feet wide on deck and tapering to and below the water line. Canvas was placed over the break and all the pumps were put to work. Despite this, she had settled considerably in the water, though the officers of the line said they had positive assurance she would not sink. Continuing her unlucky way, the Barbarossa was assisted into her dock by tugs.

A later report says that the damage to La Bretagne was greater than first supposed, as the hole in her side runs from the deck to a point almost ten feet below the waterline. The cargo was being unloaded as fast as possible in the hope of lightening the ship, but she was said to be settling at the rate of almost a foot an hour.

STEAMER'S LOSS WAS UNAVOIDABLE.

Portland, Me., May 19.—Judge Webb of the United States District Court decided that the steamer Portland, which foundered in the great storm of November 27, was lost by the perils and dangers of the sea, without fault of anybody, and ordered a decree of exemption from entire liability of this company. The Judge also issued an injunction restraining any suit from being brought in the future in any other court.

The purchasing agent for one of the large brass rolling mills in Connecticut had a "mighty hard time" with his stomach. "I used to get up in the morning feeling 150 years old," he said, "and at meal time I felt faint, but still I had an insatiable appetite. I was cross and irritable. I didn't take any interest in business or anything else, and finally I got so bad I had the jaundice and was as yellow as sulphur. I was getting to be a perfect wreck and I didn't care so very much whether I lived or died. It was at this point that I began using Ripans Tabules, but before I had used three dozen my natural color began to return. All my stomach trouble has disappeared and now I consider myself well."

A new style packet containing TEN RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores. FOR FIVE CENTS. This low-priced sort is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (12 tabules) can be had by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York—or a single carton (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

Gen. Otis Has Received the Most Significant Overtures Yet Made by Filipinos.

ENVOYS TO VISIT OTIS.

Message of Submission Expected at Manila—Understood That Envoys Have Full Power to Surrender

Aguinaldo and His Cabinet Said to Have Met at San Isidro Before Americans Captured the Place and Determined to Accept the Terms of the American Commission.

Manila, May 19.—Aguinaldo has sent Commissioners to General Otis with the most significant peace overtures yet made by the rebel commander.

It is understood here that, unlike previous envoys, these are clothed with full powers to surrender all the armed forces of the Filipinos to the American authorities.

All former negotiations were rendered of no avail from the fact that the native delegates had no powers beyond those of learning the American terms and reporting back to the rebel Congress.

Knowing, as he does, that General Otis will consider no offer save that of absolute surrender and disarmament and make no promises save of a general amnesty to the insurgents, it is considered extremely unlikely that Aguinaldo sends any alternative proposition.

Aguinaldo and his Cabinet are reported to have met at San Isidro before the Americans arrived and captured that place, and decided to send a commission to General Otis to accept the terms of the proclamation.

Otis Confirms News

Washington, May 19.—The following from General Otis, was received at the War Department:

"Manila, May 18.

"Representatives insurgent Cabinet and Aguinaldo in mountains twelve miles north San Isidro, which abandoned 15th inst., will send in commission to seek terms of peace.

"Majority of force confronting MacArthur at San Fernando has retired to Pallica, tearing up railway. This force has decreased to about 2,500. Scouting parties moving in various directions. Aspect of affairs favorable. (Signed) "OTIS."

Washington, May 19.—At the War Department Gen. Otis latest despatch is regarded as the most favorable news received from him for some time. That Auginaldo has himself determined to sue for peace indicates that at last he has become convinced of the uselessness of longer continuing the fight against American control over the Philippines.

Secretary Alger said: "I am very much gratified over this news from Gen. Otis. Heretofore, I have not been sanguine that the peace overtures of the Filipinos were genuine, but now I am convinced that they are in earnest and that this marks the beginning of the end. Those people have been sanguine that the peace over and there is nothing left for them except to surrender. I think the action of Aguinaldo is due in large measure to the fact that his people have heard of the good intentions of the United States, and have been convinced at last that this Government means to treat them with justice. I believe the end is very near."

The views of Secretary Alger appear to be those of a majority of the army authorities. Like the Secretary, they looked with suspicion on the previous overtures of the Filipinos, but are now confident that some acutal arrangement for the restoration of normal conditions in the islands will result.

Most significant information about the military situation is contained in Gen. Otis's statement that the insurgent force which had confronted MacArthur at San Fernando had retired to Tarlac. On no other occasion have the Filipinos put so great distance between themselves and the American forces. They must have moved very rapidly, as Tarlac is fully fifty miles north of San Fernando. It is on the railroad, and the rebels must have made their retreat by train. This insurgent force, consisting as Gen Otis says, of only about 2,500 men, passed to the westward and far ahead of Gen. Lawton's tireless column now pushing north from San Isidro. Lawton is far in advance and to the north east of MacArthur.

It was apparently the plan of campaign to have Lawton move forward as rapidly as possible to the right of the insurgent forces, while MacArthur remained stationary at San Fernando. Then Lawton was to turn to the left with the intention of catching the rebel forces between his column on the north and that of MacArthur on the south. It is not yet certain whether or not he has failed in this object, unless the Filipino army has dwindled to the 2,500 men now at Tarlac.

In a recent despatch to the War Department Gen. Otis expressed the opinion that the enemy would make his last stand at Mount Arayat, which lies midway between the present positions of Lawton and MacArthur, being directly north of the latter and to the southwest of Lawton. Lawton is now about fifteen miles from Mount Arayat, and if the insurgents should attempt to make a stand there it would be necessary for him to remove to the west and then to the south, covering a distance of about twenty miles before the rebels could escape by moving northward.

There is no doubt in the minds of the military authorities that the insurgents are thoroughly demoralized. Old campaigners say that it must be almost impossible for them to get food and other necessary supplies at the rapid rate at which they are moving. Aguinaldo's army, consisting at one time of between 30,000 and 40,000 men under arms, has apparently disintegrated. The best evidence of its demoralization is found in the fact that only 2,500 men compose the force which retreated before MacArthur to Farlac and divided into scouting parties. The War Department officers do not expect any more severe fighting. They believe that the Filipino insurrection is over, and that Aguinaldo's Commissioners will submit to the terms laid down by Gen. Otis.

The War Department is not stopping preparations for sending the regulars to Manila, on account of the favorable peace dispatches. The troops are moving to the Pacific coast and will go on the transports as arranged.

McKinley Gets the News

Washington, May 19.—The despatch of Gen. Otis was immediately sent to the President at Hot Springs.

Secretary Alger said that the situation was most encouraging and that it was apparent that the Filipinos realized the strength of the United States and saw that resistance would mean extermination for them if they persisted in defying authority.

Speaking of the part taken by the volunteers in the Philippine campaign the Secretary says that instead of wishing to be home they would not have missed it, as it was an event in their lives, especially as the hard fighting has been crowned with success.

The Secretary believes that the commission which Aguinaldo is sending to Gen. Otis will accept any terms proposed by the United States.

Filipinos Deny It

London, May 19.—There is no rumor of the surrender or approaching surrender of Aguinaldo current in this city.

The Filipino Junta here reiterates that the latest cable despatches from Aguinaldo emphatically repudiate any intention to submit and contain the phrase:

"We demand absolute independence or will fight to the death."

West Virginia Republicans Astir

Wheeling, W. Va., May 19.—Republicans are already mapping out a campaign to retain domination of the State Government at the next election, while leading Democrats are also active.

The office of Auditor, the best paying political job in the State, is attracting a swarm of candidates. E. L. Boggs, private secretary to Gov. Atkinson, is out for the place. Other candidates are Arnold Scheer of Grant county and James K. Hall of Wheeling. Many Republicans are also swinging into line for the Governorship. Gov. Atkinson it is said will not be a candidate His place is sought by Internal Revenue Collector A. B. White of Parkersburg, Oliver S. Marshall of Hancock county, Col. Richard Fast of Morgantown, Judge Romeo H. Freer of Ritchie county, Thomas E. Davis of Grafton, Secretary of State William M. O. Dawson and Joseph Speidel. Speidel is a new element in politics and is a Wheeling wholesale grocer reputed to have a "bar'l." Democrats have mentioned for Governor Col. Thomas B. Davis of Piedmont, Owen S. McKinney and Col. Clarence Smith, both of Fairmont, and the Hon. Daniel B. Lucas, who is lovingly referred to by Democrats as the "silver sage of Jefferson." The auditorship is the main thing, however, for it pays in fees, enough annually to cover the salaries of a dozen Governors.

Squirrel Hole A Gold Mine.

Reading, Pa., May 19.—Augustus Schmeck, a jeweller, of Fleetwood, this county, while walking in a savine along the Irish Mountain, several miles south of that borough, was attracted by the glittering appearance of the earth around a squirrel hole. From a cursory examination he thought there were particles of gold in it and filled a handkerchief with the earth He sent it to Philadelphia for analysis and has just received $12 for the gold extracted therefrom. The earth filled a pint jar

The news of the discovery was made known to-day, but Mr Schmeck will not disclose the locality where the gold was found for the present There is great excitement in Fleetwood

Journalistic Guns.

As the correspondent of an English newspaper, remarks "Youth's Companion," watched from his point of observation the magnificent charge of the American soldiers at San Juan, he exclaimed: "Isn't it grand? I tell you those brave fellows are making history."

"Yes," replied the correspondent of an American monthly, moving a little higher up the slope, "for the magazines."

And he took another snap shot with his camera.

Mrs. Covington Stabbed Assailants.

Union City, Tenn., May 19.—Reports of an extraordinary tragedy at Haynes' Mills near Tiptonville, reached here this morning.

Three women—a Mrs. Mattox, Mrs. Edwards and Miss Brogdon—waylaid Mrs. Covington and attacked her with clubs. Mrs. Covington drew a knife and stabbed Mrs. Mattox through the heart, killing her instantly.

Mrs. Covington then plunged the weapon into the back and lungs of Mrs. Edwards, inflicting fatal injuries. The tragedy grew out of a quarrel among the children of the women.

Gen. Brooke Sends List of Deaths.

Washington, May 19.—Despatches received by the War Department from General Brooke at Havana chronicle the following deaths among the American troops:—

May 11, Sergeant Jack Sutherland, band, Second volunteers, Santiago, disease as heported; May 10; Frederick Lattimer, civilian, dysentery; May 12, Private John Hanson, H, Fifth infantry, drowned; May 14, recruit, Madison A. L. Jones, K, First infantry, Pinar del Rio, malaria; May 16, Carey Burgett, quartermaster's employe, Havana Hospital, meningitis.

Fire in Chicago.

Chicago, May 19.—The lumber district was imperilled by a fire which destroyed property estimated at from $250,000 to $300,000 in the block bounded by Loomis and Laflin streets, Twenty-first place and Twenty-second street.

Buffalo Firemen Quit.

Buffalo, May 19.—The marine firemen at this port have gone on a sympathetic strike. As vessels arrive the firemen quit work and will remain out until the dock troubles are settled.

Filipino Fighting.

One of the American soldiers gave the following interesting account of the situation in the Philippines shortly after the first engagement with the natives:—

"The Filipino method of fighting seemed somewhat peculiar to us. I saw several night engagements, which began precisely as the engagement of Saturday, February 4, is reported to have begun. It was the custom of the Filipinos at some time during the night to open fire on the Spanish lines and keep it up for two or three hours. The Spaniards from their works would reply in the same manner, and a large amount of ammunition would be expended by both sides with little result, beyond a few men wounded and possibly one or two killed. Such fights as these were of almost nightly occurrence, and I have no doubt that it was a fight of this kind that the Filipinos began on the night of February 4.

"According to their custom they probably considered it over when they stopped firing, and never for one moment supposed that the Americans would continue the battle the next morning and advance to the attack. When that happened they were not only surprised, but utterly unprepared. They had never been in the habit of fighting or seeing civilized troops fight outside of intrenchments, and it was beyond their comprehension that soldiers could be got to advance across the open and attack fortified positions. The experience was similar to nothing in their history, and the lesson, while it was a severe one, was necessary and had a most salutary effect on all future dealings between the Americans and the natives. The belief that the Americans were afraid because they treated the Filipinos fairly was rudely dispelled. It probably became apparent to them that the American troops are not to be trifled with, and that the commanding officers were thoroughly able to enforce their orders."

The Talk of the Day.

A soldier of the 13th Minnesota sends home this description of Aguinaldo: "He is quite an ordinary looking Filipino, small, smooth-shaven, wears his hair pompadour about six inches long, and is very badly smallpox marked. He was dressed in plain black clothes, and did not impress me very much. He had two of the biggest Filipinos I have seen standing on each side of the door with axes—those long poleaxes like they used in the Middle Ages. They were dressed in white trousers, red coats and brass buttons, and are his personal guard."

A simple and safe way to clean costly and easily-injured articles is to make a suds of hot water and Ivory Soap, and allow it to cool until lukewarm. This solution, while very effective, is perfectly harmless.

Ivory Soap contains no alkali. It will not destroy the surface or texture of any material, however delicate.

Ivory Soap differs from other soaps. It is more carefully made, and the materials used in its manufacture are the purest and best.

GEO. DEWEY IS THE IDOL

Everybody In New York Desires to Be on the Reception Committee.

VAN WYCK'S DILEMMA.

Has Been Compelled to Enlarge the Number From Five Hundred to Fifteen Hundred.

The Run on Bunting for Decorations Has Been So Great That Ordinary Material Is Exhausted—Estimated That Fully Twenty-Five Million Yards Will Be Used—Dewey's House.

New York, May 19.—In years gone by in making arrangements for public functions which require the supervision of citizen committees, the Mayor of New York has had trouble in securing 200 and 300 men of prominence who would serve. Personal appeals in many cases were necessary, and there have been occasions where not more than twenty-five members of a committee of 200 could be prevailed upon to attend a meeting. That species of embarrasment is not bothering Mayor Van Wyck in the make-up of a citizens' committee to take charge of the reception of Admiral Dewey. His first idea was to select 500 men, and the newspapers so announced, but when the Mayor looked over his mail the next morning he concluded to enlarge the committee to 600.

The following day his Honor looked with favor upon a suggestion to increase the committee to 750. On Monday of this week, after the mail had been disposed of, it was announced in the Mayor's office that the probabilities were that the committee would number 1,000. Wednesday Mr. Van Wyck declared he felt that due justice to the occasion warranted the designation of a committee of 1,500.

Thursday his Honor was inclined to still further enlarge the number. He has received by mail and in person applications from men who stand high in the mercantile, professional, political and commercial life of the city sufficient to render it advisable to appoint a committee of ten thousand. Nothing like the enthusiasm displayed in this Dewey reception matter has ever been observed at the City Hall.

It will be at least ten days before the Mayor will select the men, and when he does announce the citizens who will have charge of the celebration it is certain that no matter how large the committee may be hundreds of men who have asked to be included will be disappointed.

The homecoming of Admiral Dewey has caused a great boom in the dry goods trade. The demand for ordinary cloth and prints for conversion into bunting has nearly exhausted the supply, and it has been found necessary to take higher grades of materials, including what is known as "64 squares."

In the trade it is estimated that at least 500,000 pieces, or 25,000,000 yards, of bunting will be used to welcome the hero of Manila. This extraordinary demand coming on a rising market, it is said, will influence prices greatly.

The House for Admiral Dewey.

Washington, May 19.—The Dewey Home Committee has received the following telegram from Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, at Los Angeles:

"Let me suggest that each State or its citizens be invited to defray the costs of constructing some part of building; then set in wall a union tablet, bearing appropriate legend, telling story of how Dewey's home was built by his countrymen."

Worsted Yarn Combination.

Philadelphia, May 19.—The worsted yarn combination to be known as the United States Worsted Yarn Company, with a capital of $50,000, is practically an assured fact. All that remains to be done is the matter of formal organization. Nineteen worsted yarn spinners, including the largest spinners in the country, have agreed to enter the trust. Their plants have been appraised, and the prices at which they are to be taken into the new company have been agreed upon.

Among the firms that are said to have signified their assent to entering the trust are Thomas Wolstenhorne, Sons & Company, John Dearnly & Company, George Campbell & Company, Phoenix Mills Company, Yewdall & Jones Brothers, T. B. & B. W. Fleischer, all of Philadelphia; Griswold Worsted Company of Darby, Pa., and W. H. Grundy & Company, of Bristol, Pa.

Among the few who declined to enter the trust are Erben, Harding & Company, of this city, and Howland, Croft and Son, of Camden, both of which firms are classed among the large spinners of worsted yarns.

Lamp Chimneys in a Trust.

Pittsburg, May 19.—A combination of three of the largest manufacturers of lamp chimneys in the world and controlling absolutely the output of this country has been practically completed. The George A. Macbeth Glass Company and the Thomas Evans Glass Company have been merged into the Macbeth-Evans Glass Company, and the Liberty Glass Company, of Toledo, was absorbed by it. The company will have a capital of $2,000,000 and will operate five plants.

The combination will have an annual output of 5,000,000 dozen lamp chimneys.

Murdered by Indians.

Bellville, Ontario, May 19.—Early in April twelve Prince Edward county young men left here for the Atlin gold regions. Two of them were compelled to turn back by illness. From information received here it seems probable that the remaining ten were ambuscaded and murdered by Indians who were in search of loot. No particulars are yet obtainable.

The Dominion Government is quietly investigating the project of building a railroad from Edmonton to Dawson City. Several parties have been sent out.

Trouble Over an Appointment.

It is thought that from present indications the present Fish and Game Protector, Charles A. Shriner, of Paterson, is booked to go. Governor Voorhees has set up a violent opposition to Shriner and it is said that the commissioners have pratically decided that the executive shall have the Paterson man's head and that another protector shall be appointed to take his place.

It is said that strong influence had been brought to bear on the commissioners for the appointment of former Assemblyman Chas N. Codding to succeed Shriner, but some of the members failed to take kindly to the suggestion. The selection of Mr. Codding for the position of Deputy Supreme Court Clerk has removed him from the contest.

The appointment of a protector will probably be made at the next meeting of the commission when such other changes as may be deemed advisable will be made.

The Legal Association, an organization formed for the purpose of assisting poor people in seeking the aid of law to right wrongs which are thought to exist in the minds of those in charge of the association, has taken up the injustices that mortgage loan sharks perpetrate upon poor and ignorant people, and is becoming a regular bugbear to them. The Legal Aid Association is the pet scheme of a number of worthy women in New Jersey, and if it succeeds in preventing the nefarious work of the mortgage loan sharks it will be doing a worthy work not only for the people whom it assists but for the community at large in ridding it of such contemptible business people.

A WARSHIP ON THE MISSISSIPPI.

Warships don't happen every day in the middle west, and consequently the trip of the cruiser Nashville up the Mississippi as far as St. Louis attracted considerable attention. Enormous crowds gathered at all the cities and towns by which Uncle Sam's sea fighter passed. Captain J. W. Bryan, a veteran steamboatman, piloted the Nashville.

Councilman VanHerwerden informs The Daily Press that the street committee has not yet determined on the material to be used for a permanent pavement in the business portion of the city, and that the pavement will not be put down before late summer or early fall. The two materials now being considered are sheet asphalt and brick asphalt, and the committee will satisfy itself beyond any doubt as to the best before making any recommendations to the Council.

The Philadelphia Inquirer does not look for the millennium in the Czar's peace conference. It says: "The stand of the United States is in behalf of arbitration. It is indeed the only practical thing for the conference to do, for disarmament can only come in the course of natural events after arbitration has been found to be acceptable in all quarters of the globe. It must indeed be a development."

The Denver Republican remarks that our new possessions may overcome the opposition to the creation of new states in the west, and argues: "If Porto Rico is entitled to wear the honors of territorial government, then New Mexico and Arizona and Oklahoma are entitled to advance into a higher class—and there is no middle ground short of full statehood."

The corporations have won first blood in their battle against the operation of the Ford Bill by succeeding in inducing Governor Roosevelt to call an extra session of the New York Legislature.

Silas D Drake says that he will try to organize a Board of Trade or an organization that will boom Plainfield, that will amount to something. Silas has a big job before him.

When you see a young man and woman loving each other and refer to it as something as pretty as a picture, it is because it takes a dark room to develop it.

The Louisville Courier-Journal facetiously suggests that perhaps Aguinaldo has a Jersey charter for his rebellion.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Lewis Nixon, the ship builder of Elizabeth, was questioned recently relative to the published report that there was to be a combination of a number of yards. Mr. Nixon said that he had no knowledge of any such combination of shipyards. Such a combination would be a trust, he said, and he did not believe in a trust in the shipbuilding trade, but much preferred the healthy stimulus of keen competition now that there was a steady demand for ships.

* * * * *

William Brown, the proprietor of a small jewelry store at Westfield, has invented a ship log which will indicate on the bridge or in the captain's cabin of a vessel the exact number of miles the ship has traveled and the rate of speed per diem. The log has been tested by the Navy Department and found to work in a satisfactory manner. Brown is an Englishman and came to this country only a few years ago, since which time he has been at work on his invention. He secured his patent on the log only three weeks ago, since which time a stock company has been formed and capitalized at $25,000. The drag of this wonderful log is invented by Charles E. Delanoy, who wes interested with Lieutenant Hobson in the manufacture of the airbags and machinery made to raise the sunken Spanish warships.

—VanArsdale has just had made for his trade a woman's patent leather oxford—on the newest pattern—which is all right—the same for men's wear too.

ITEMS BRIEF AND BRIGHT

—Woodhull & Martin are to hold another of their great special sales tomorrow. From the variety of goods mentioned and prices quoted, we should judge this to be one of great importance to Plainfield people.

—A. E. Bicknell, the Somerset street fruit dealer, is selling bananas, oranges and pineapples at a very low price for the balance of this week and next week. He also makes a specialty of supplying grocers at wholesale.

—The method that Schepflin & Schultz, the enterprising clothiers, are using, warrants commendation. Rather than carry a lot of broken sizes, they place them on a bargain table and give the public the benefit. See their ad on another page.

—The New York Clothing Company, 315 West Front street, will start a great slaughter sale of a very fine lot of men's and boys' clothing. The prices will certainly make things lively this Saturday. Be on hand early and secure for yourself the greatest bargains that were ever offered in Plainfield.

Electricity in New York.

There are wonders in electricity at Madison Square Garden in New York, and the Electrical Show, which will last until early next month, is the resort of thousands of people every afternoon and evening, for there is so much to see, and the show is so brilliant and beautiful, that everyone visiting the city should take time to go into the Garden. Thousands of electric lights make it brilliant, and there are marvels in electrical accomplishment that seem almost startling in the reality of their execution. Electricity has been made harmless by invention, and it does so much in the big show at the Garden that everybody is amused and instructed. You may see a message sent by wireless telegraphy and be told how it is done. The radiophone, which has just been added to the attractions, and is shown there afternoon and evening, carries a message from one side of the Garden to the other over the rays of a search light, and every visitor may hear conversation, music and strange sounds coming without any wires whatever.

The Busy Store—VanEmburghs.

Each day our business shows the people are finding out we are pushing to the front with better goods, lowest prices, salespeople the very best, and last but not least the largest ten cent department carried by any one store.

He Fooled the Surgeons.

All doctors told Renick Hamilton, of West Jefferson, O., after suffering 18 months from Rectal Fistula, he would die unless a costly operation was performed; but he cured himself with five boxes of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, the surest Pile cure on earth, and the best Salve in the World. 25 cents a box. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

DRINK GRAIN-O

after you have concluded that you ought not to drink coffee. It is not a medicine but doctors order it, because it is healthful, invigorating and appetizing. It is made from pure grains and has that rich seal brown color and tastes like the finest grades of coffee and costs about ¼ as much. Children like it and thrive on it because it is a genuine food drink containing nothing but nourishment. Ask your grocer for Grain-O, the new food drink. 15 and 25c.

FLAX COLORED CLOTH DRESS.

A Description of the Manner in Which This Pretty Costume Is Made.

This dress is of flax colored riding cloth. The skirt, which is extremely tight around the figure, is made with a tunic, very long behind, cut away at the sides and forming a rounded festoon in the centre in front. This tunic falls over a shaped flounce, rather full at the bottom, and forming rather pronounced godets. The flounce is very apparent in front, less visible at the sides and almost disappears beneath the tunic behind, projecting only a few centimetres beneath it. The tunic is trimmed round the bottom with two bands of the cloth of which it is composed, of equal width.

The corsage is in shape like a small habit, very closely adjusted to the figure by being taken in, and without a seam down the back. The basque hangs easily in front, is rounded at the sides and in the back, and is slightly longer in the centre. The corsage fastens toward the left side with three large crystal buttons inlaid with gold in relief.

The upper part of the corsage is cut low, over a yoke of turquoise poult de sole, with spots of white silk worked upon it at regular distances. The m...

trimming is of the same materials. The fichu is split up in the centre of the back. The sleeves are quite tight from end to end, and are finished off at the wrist by a funnel shaped flounce, headed by two bands of stitched cloth.

The hat designed to complete the costume is flax colored toque of tulle, matching the dress. The ground is chiffonne, and the edges are trimmed with a drapery of tulle to match. On the left side is a large rosette of turquoise velvet draped and chiffonne, with an ornament of strass in the centre.

Smelling Salts Cause Wrinkles.

The woman who wishes to retain the beauty of her face—and what woman does not?—should forego the use of the smelling bottle, for, according to a well-known New York physician, who has lately been making experiments in that line, the use of smelling salts encourages wrinkles.

"If you don't believe me," he says, stand in front of a mirror and inhale the pungent odor from a smelling bottle and notice the number of lines that form about the eyes, nose and mouth. Each sniff taken from the bottle causes the same screwing up of the face, and each time the unbecoming lines deepen. Remember, also, that it is an unpleasant experience which has called up these wrinkles. Those caused by laughing and talking are bad enough, but the wrinkles formed by the use of smelling salts give an absolutely undesirable expression.

"But if you are already in possession of wrinkles which have been produced in other ways than by the use of salts, then smelling salts are a specific for removing them and causing them to stay away. In almost every case the wrinkles formed by laughing and crying are in an exactly opposite direction to those produced by inhaling salts, and in this case smelling salts act like a charm in causing the unbecoming lines to disappear.

Daintily Sweet.

Here are some excellent suggestions about perfume which, if followed, will keep milady as sweetly fragrant as a rose, although the fragrance, will be but the suggestion of fragrance—simply a fresh sweetness. As a foundation there is nothing better than orris, the pure Italian orris that is imported in large jars. With this large silk pads are filled, one being placed at the bottom of each drawer in the chiffonier. Little silk sachet bags are filled with it and sewn in the sleeves of each frock, and even in the bottom of the skirt. At the shoulder of each chemise there is put a silk sachet, attached to ribbons and daintily tied to the shoulder. These are embroidered with initials in white. For the bath little cakes of sweetness, that effervesce and dissolve when thrown into the water, imparting a delicate fragrance almost imperceptible, although lasting, should be used. A simple bath powder may be made by mixing violet with orris and keeping it in a large cut glass bowl, with an immense powder puff put temptingly on top. A massage with lanoline ointment is also recommended for thin hair.

Lokal-Nachrichten aus der alten Heimath.

Provinz Westpreußen.

Dirschau. Beim Brande eines Stalles auf dem bei Mewe gelegenen Gute Czierspitz kamen drei Arbeiter in den Flammen um. Der Materialschaden ist bedeutend; 60 Stück Vieh sind verbrannt.

Elbing. Arbeiter Heinrich Gehrmann wurde in seinem Wohnzimmer erhängt gefunden. Gehrmann hat vor etwa zwei Jahren auf der Schichau'schen Werft einen Unfall erlitten und einen Rippenbruch davongetragen, der nicht verheilte. In einem hinterlassenen Briefe schreibt Gehrmann, daß er es vor Schmerzen nicht länger habe aushalten können und deshalb sich das Leben nehme. Der Verstorbene war 45 Jahre alt und hinterläßt seine Frau mit vier Kindern.

Rheinprovinz.

Aachen. Eine von dem hiesigen Tuchfabrikantenverein einberufene, von 44 Fabrikanten besuchte Versammlung beschloß, angesichts der bedeutenden Steigerung des Preises der Wolle und des Garnes eine entsprechende weitere Erhöhung der Verkaufspreise für fertige Waare sofort eintreten zu lassen.

Heerdt. Auf Anregung unseres Bürgermeisters Spickenheuer wurde ein gemeinnütziger Bauverein gegründet. Der Verein wird mit dem Bau von Arbeiterhäusern sofort vorgehen, da für die weniger Bemittelten eine Wohnungsnoth hier vorhanden ist.

Koblenz. Von der hiesigen Gefängnißverwaltung ist eine Abtheilung Gefangener nach Simmern gesandt worden, um dort an den Meliorationsarbeiten auf der in Gestaltung begriffenen königlichen Domäne beschäftigt zu werden. Der Schinderhannesthurm, in dem die Abtheilung einquartirt ist, bildet kein sicheres Gewahrsam. Dieser Tage entsprangen zwei Gefangene und wanderten von Simmern unmittelbar hierher, um wieder im „Mutterhause," wo es ihnen weit besser gefällt, Aufnahme zu suchen.

Provinz Sachsen.

Erfurt. Der im vorigen Jahre verstorbene Ehrenritter des Johanniterordens, Rittergutsbesitzer v. Seebach, hatte dem Orden ein Legat von 200,000 Mark vermacht. Wie im letzten Kapitel beschlossen wurde, soll das Legat zur Errichtung einer Heilanstalt für Lungenkranke im hiesigen Regierungsbezirk Verwendung finden.

Merseburg. In Loebnitz kenterte in Folge zu schwerer Belastung die Flußfähre. An Bord befanden sich größtentheils junge Leute, die von einem Tanzvergnügen in dem am anderen Ufer der Mulde gelegenen Dorfe Rösa kamen. Alle stürzten in's Wasser und 14 von ihnen ertranken.

Provinz Schlesien.

Glogau. In dem Orte Kuttlau brach neulich Vormittags ein Feuer aus, welches sich in Folge starken Windes sehr schnell verbreitete und in kurzer Zeit 13 Besitzungen mit 14 Wohnhäusern, 12 Scheunen und 13 Stallgebäuden einäscherte. Eine Person erlitt leichte Verletzungen. Bei der schnellen Ausbreitung des Feuers konnte fast nichts gerettet werden.

Liegnitz. Unter dem Vorsitz des Grafen von Lüttichau in Niesky hat sich ein Komite gebildet zur Gründung eines Krüppelheims für die Provinz Schlesien. Eine Anzahl Herren aus der Provinz haben an der stattgehabten Berathung theilgenommen und haben beschlossen, das Krüppelheim in Rothenburg, O.-L., zu gründen. Es hat sich bereits ein Arbeitsausschuß konstituirt.

Provinz Schleswig-Holstein.

Kiel. Auf Howaldtswerken lief ein deutscher Postdampfer für die Linie Kiel-Korsör glücklich vom Stapel. Das stattliche Schiff erhielt den Namen des jüngsten Sohnes des Prinzen Heinrich „Prinz Sigismund." — Der Schuhmacher Bernhard Röbel aus Gröbnig in Schlesien drang in die hiesige Heiligengeistkirche, erbrach den Altarschrank und stahl zwei werthvolle silberne Armleuchter, die die Gemeinde vor 30 Jahren der Kirche geschenkt hatte. Als der Dieb die zusammengeschlagenen Leuchter verkaufen wollte, wurde er verhaftet.

Itzehoe. In der nahen Ortschaft Sude wüthete ein verheerendes Feuer. Drei Wohngebäude und mehrere Nebenhäuser wurden zerstört. Es verlautet, daß Brandstiftung vorliegt.

Provinz Westfalen.

Dortmund. Der Bergmann Franz Dutz schlich sich hier Nachts in den Stall des Verwalters Henkel, um dessen Ziege zu stehlen. Er hatte schon das Thier abgeschlachtet, als Henkel durch ein Geräusch aus dem Schlaf geweckt wurde und hinzukam. Als der Dieb sich entdeckt sah, wandte er sich gegen Henkel; dieser ergriff einen Spaten und zerschmetterte dem Eindringling den Schädel. Zu Tode verletzt, wurde Dutz in das Krankenhaus gebracht.

Soest. Das hiesige Archigymnasium geht aus dem Besitze der Stadt in den des Staates über. Die Stadt tritt den sämmtlichen Besitz an den Staat ab und leistet künftig als Zuschuß für das Staatsgymnasium jährlich 15,000 Mark.

LESSON VIII, SECOND QUARTER INTERNATIONAL SERIES, MAY 21.

Comments by Wm. K. Fisher—Subject: Christ Before the High Priest, John 18: 15-27—Golden Text: He Came to His Own and His Own Received Him Not, John 1: 11. (Commit Verses 23-25.)

15. "And Simon Peter followed Jesus, and so did another disciple; that disciple was known to the high priest, and went in with Jesus into the palace of the high priest."

The "other disciple," who was none other than John himself, showed his deep, abiding friendship by keeping as close as possible to his Master's side, and through his acquaintance with the palace and the servants he was permitted to pass through the door or wicket gate.

16. "But Peter stood at the door without. Then went out that other disciple, which was known unto the high priest, and spake unto her that kept the door, and brought in Peter."

If we see others following Christ "afar off," or standing outside the door, let us, like the loving John, endeavor to get them near the Saviour.

17. "Then saith the damsel that kept the door unto Peter, Art thou not also one of this man's disciples? He saith, I am not."

The revised version reads: "Art thou also one of this man's disciples?" She knew that John was, and it was but reasonable that she should take it for granted that the one for whom he requested admittance was also one of the disciples. Then Peter, who had been so bold when by the Saviour's side, and even assaulted an armed man when surrounded by a number of friends, now shrank from a mere maiden, and said, "I am not."

19. "The high priest then asked Jesus of His disciples and of His doctrine."

This inquiry probably had two objects: One was to entrap Jesus into saying something which could be twisted into a charge of blasphemy, the other that it allowed time for the Sanhedrim to be summoned, and messengers were dispatched to scour the city for the members.

20. "Jesus answered him, I spake openly to the world; I ever taught in the synagogue, and in the temple, whither the Jews always resort; and in secret have I said nothing."

The revised version says that one of the officers struck Jesus "with his hand;" the margin reads, "with a rod." Whitelaw says, "Literally, gave Jesus a stroke or blow (rap); but whether a slap on the face, a box on the ear, or a stroke with a rod, cannot be determined. In either case it was an insult."

Jesus in answering did not rebel, but in that way emphasized that He had been unjustly smitten.

"Annas, therefore, sent Him bound unto Caiaphas." It is presumed that during the unofficial investigation, Jesus had been relieved of His fetters, and at the close of it He was again bound and taken before Caiaphas, who, as the real high priest, was president of the Sanhedrim. The penalty of the charge (blasphemy) was death, according to the Jewish law. The two men who were witnesses perverted a saying of Jesus and did not agree in their testimony. Peloubet says, "The sentence was pronounced, the charge being confirmed by Jesus' witness to the truth when He could keep silence no longer, because, being put under oath, His silence might be construed as a withdrawal of his claims. He told them plainly that He was the Messiah, the Son of God, and that they should yet see Him "Sitting on the right hand of power and coming in the clouds of heaven" Having formulated their charges, they must adjourn till dawn to bring the case before the Sanhedrim at a regular meeting in their own hall of meeting. During the time of adjournment there was a period of waiting of at least two hours before the formal meeting could take place. In this interval Jesus was insulted and struck and shamefully treated by the crowd. In the original, no less than five forms of beating are referred to by the evangelists in describing this pathetic scene.

"One of the servants of the high priest, being his kinsman whose ear Peter cut off, saith, Did I not see thee in the garden with Him?"

27. "Peter then denied again: and immediately the cock crew."

John merely says, "Then Peter denied again," but Mark, whose gospel is supposed to have been derived from Peter, says that he began to curse and swear. Stalker says, "Like a bull in the arena, attacked and stabbed on every side, Peter became blind with rage, terror and shame; and pouring out denials he added to them oaths and curses, hurled at his adversaries." Then Jesus looked at Peter and the look broke his heart and caused him to weep bitterly (see Luke 22: 62).

The formal condemnation of Jesus by the Sanhedrim was at dawn, Friday morning, and is recorded in Luke 22; 66-71.

Monte Cristo Nowhere.

The increase of wealth has been prodigious since the time of our civil war, especially in America. When I was a boy, says a writer in St. Nicholas, any one who had $100,000 to his name was considered fairly rich, but at present people think little of a trifle like that. Even in Europe, where fortunes are gained much less rapidly than with us, a property must now be many times larger than in the first half of the century before it begins to dazzle society. I suppose some of you have read "Monte Cristo," and you know that few things were too extravagant for the imagination of Alexander Dumas. He meant that his romantic hero should lead the whole world in magnificence, and probably thought of giving him the biggest bank account ever head of. But Monte Cristo was worth only a fraction of what several real men now living can show. This was not the sort of mistake you would have expected from Dumas. It would have cost him only a stroke of the pen to multiply the hoard in the Mediterranean Island a hundred times; but, although his novel was written when he was forty years old, he could not foresee that his fiction would be utterly distanced by solid facts before he died.

A law in New Zealand compels intoxicated men to have their photographs taken and distributed to barkeepers, who, therefore, must refuse to sell them liquor

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 21—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

TOPIC.—The gift of power.—Acts i, 1-8.

Power was to follow the gift of the Holy Ghost. The Holy Ghost is the power in the Christian's heart and life. Just before the death of Christ. He promised His disciples that, though He was to leave them, another would come to replace Him, even the Spirit of Truth, and that He would abide with them forever. With His coming the power was to come. "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you."

1. The gift of the Holy Ghost, and consequently the gift of power, was conditioned upon obedience. They were commanded to tarry at Jerusalem for the promise of the Father, which was the promise of the Holy Ghost. To obey required faith. Obeying in faith, we are not surprised to know that they soon met and prayed for the gift of the spirit and power. Obedience, faith and prayer are still the prerequisites to the reception of the Holy Ghost for power.

2. The power given was to be power for Christ. They were to receive the power through the gift of the Spirit and then to be witnesses unto Christ, both in Jeusalem and Judæa, in Samaria, and into the uttermost parts of the earth. In the power of the Holy Ghost they were to declare Christ to be the Saviour and Redeemer of the world. This would insure the success of their mission and their message. Only the Holy Ghost can seal home the truths of Christ to unregenerate human hearts. What we always need in presenting Christ to men or in undertaking any form of work for Christ is Holy Ghost power. We can't succeed in spiritual work without Him. It is not by might, not by power, but by the Spirit alone, that success can crown our labors. "Paul may plant Apollo's water, but God must give the increase." The Holy Ghost is the particular person in the Godhead who furnishes this divine power for successful testimony and service.

3. The apostles fulfilled the conditions imposed upon them and received Holy Ghost power. So may we. God is more willing to give His Spirit to them that ask Him than earthly parents to give good gifts to their children. The apostles had no monopoly of the power of the Holy Ghost. The gift of tongues has ceased, but not the gift of power. The Spirit is to abide with us forever. Let us believe, obey, pray, that we may have a fresh baptism of the Holy Ghost for service and for work.

Bible Readings.—Neh. ix, 20; Ps. lxviii, 18; Isa. xxxii, 13-15; Luke xi, 9-13; John iii, 34; vii, 39; xiv, 15-17; Acts ii, 1-5, 39; v, 32; x, 44, 45; I Cor. ii, 12-16; Gal. iii, 14; Eph. i, 16, 17; I John iii, 24.

Some Rules For Christians.

You must acquire a habit of living by the minute. Trust in God now. Do God's will now. Do not offend God. Now you are to act for the future, but act by the moment. "Be careful for nothing, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be known unto God."

Do all you do in the name of the Lord Jesus. The Saviour expects you to dress, eat, drink, spend your time, talents, property and transact business with reference to the same object for which you pray, read your Bible and worship God. Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink or whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God.

Cultivate the deepest reverence in your approaches and addresses to God. Never allow yourself to use light or irreverent expressions of God or His work. Remember you are a "temple of the Holy Ghost." Therefore be careful and walk softly before God. "I am the Almighty God. Walk before Me and be thou perfect."—Presbyterian Banner.

Human Brotherhood.

The great truth of human brotherhood implies positive obligations. The fact that every one has some influence, that it is possible for him to be useful to his fellows, implies that it is his duty to exert his influence in the right direction and to assist his brethren as opportunity may offer. We owe our fellow men not only material assistance, if needed, but also a helpful spirit and uplifting example. We owe humanity an interest in its well being and pure, generous, unselfish personal lives. And, above all, we owe to the individuals who compose society, brotherly tenderness, kindness and love. These things all can give, and he who withholds them God will not hold guiltless.—Universalist Leader.

A Question.

Candidly, are we, every one of us, reading and studying the Scriptures to find out what they teach, or are we trying ingeniously to construe them into teaching what we want them to teach? Are we honestly trying to bring our actual experience into perfect harmony with the Bible, or are we trying to make the Bible fit into our experience? Are we accepting revelation at the risk of personal, social, political, national, universal revolution? Are we afraid of the Bible or afraid it will not have its full saving sway at all times, in all places, among all people, under all circumstances?—Christian Standard.

Popular Sermons.

The sermons of Jesus were popular. They reached the people. His address was direct, and His illustrations were as clear as they were simple. He never theorized nor discussed doctrine. With Him religion was a life, not a scheme. Schemes, theories, doctrines, have their day, and then they pass away. But life is the same yesterday, today and forever. To be popular is not to be vulgar. It is to be serviceable.—Reformed Church Messenger.

Sure to Move.

The prayer that starts from God's promise is sure to move His hand.—Ram's Horn.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning May 21, "The Gift of Power." Text, Acts i, 1-8.

"Ye shall receive power and ye shall be witnesses unto Me unto the uttermost parts of the earth."

Three years Jesus had lived in close intimacy with the people and had repeatedly shown His inner life by displays of power in healing disease as well as by His words. The last weeks have been full of strange events. Betrayal, crucifixion, resurrection, had followed each other in quick succession. Forty days have elapsed with frequent appearances of the risen Master, but no resumption of the old life of journeying, teaching and healing. Then came the ascension, and after that ten days of anxious, prayerful suspense. A promise of power had been given, and the group of believers are gathered in Jerusalem in expectancy of some new and wondrous experience, of whose nature no one can be certain.

The morning of the feast which commemorated the giving of the law to Moses on Sinai, came. Jerusalem was crowded with pilgrims from all parts of the world, who had come up to worship in the temple on this anniversary.

The law had been given by God to Moses. Now God gives, not words of a commandment, but the spirit of holiness to abide in the soul, enabling one to love and do the commandment. Before this the burden of obedience had been heavy. Men saw the right, but found it hard to do it. Now they seemed to themselves and others to be filled with ecstacy and joy in doing God's bidding. Timid ones became bold in proclaiming the truth and pressing home its claims on their hearers. Love overflowed from full hearts and transformed speakers and hearers. The promised power had come.

A Secretary of Wesley Guild.

The Wesley guild is to Methodism in England what the Epworth League is to Methodism in America. Rev. Simpson Johnson is one of the secretaries and is well known on both sides of the water. He has filled some of the most important circuits of the Wesleyan church in England and has during all his ministerial career been in close touch with the young people. His services as a speaker are in great demand. Those who were present at the Toronto convention will not soon forget him. He is in his prime, being about 45 years of age.

Power.

It does not consist in any particular position. He who has it makes positions where none before existed. It does not largely lie in opportunity, but the man of power seizes and controls opportunities. It is not dependent on physical conditions in any great degree, but changes conditions to meet its need. It is not in voice or manner, not in expression or gesture, but back of all these and under all. Power lies in the inner soul. It is in consciousness, in the real self, and controls all faculties. Whoever has it seems to himself to be able to see more clearly, feel more intensely and act more determinedly. Strength comes to him, enthusiasm warms him, impulses drive him. Speak and act he must and will whatever may hinder. The strength seems to him to be that of some force not himself, and yet he holds it and uses it while it still holds and uses him.

Higher Grading.

For some years a movement has been progressing to bring our schools and colleges into closer union and secure greater uniformity in courses of study and in methods of management. This work has found an able leader in Dr. Charles H. Payne, the secretary of the board of education. Cordial co-operation has been given by most of our leading educators, and system is appearing in the work of the schools as never before. The annual report of the board of education gives information which is surprising to one who has not kept close watch of the rapid development of our educational interests. The number of our institutions and the high grade of work done are a revelation of industry and success and Providential blessing.

Trust In God.

O Lord, how happy should we be
If we could cast our care on Thee;
If we from self could rest
And feel at heart that One above
In perfect wisdom, perfect love,
Is working for the best!

Could we but kneel and cast our load,
E'en while we pray, upon our God,
Then rise with lightened cheer,
Sure that our Father, who is nigh
To hear the ravens when they cry,
Will His own children hear?

Lord, make these faithless hearts of ours
Such lessons learn from birds and flowers:
Make them from self to cease;
Leave all things to a Father's will
And, on His mercy leaning still,
Find the eternal peace.

William G. DeMeza, as counsel for Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson, petitioner, is appearing before Special Master Chas. A. Reed today, who is taking testimony in the application for a divorce of Mrs. Wilson from her husband, John Wilson. The grounds are desertion. The defendant did not put in an appearance.

A TREAT FOR ENDEAVORERS.

Yale Missionaries to Conduct a Meeting in This City

To the Y. P. S. C. E. of Plainfield and vicinity:

The missionary department of the Plainfield Christian Endeavor Union has been preparing a treat for the Endeavorers of Plainfield and vicinity and are now ready to make it known.

The union has been exceedingly fortunate in being able to secure several members of the Yale Missionary Band of Student Volunteers who will give their valuable assistance at a meeting to be held in the First Baptist church, Friday evening, May 26th, at 8 o'clock.

The members of the Yale Missionary Band are graduates of the class of '98, who have given themselves to the work of Foreign Missions.

During the past year they have conducted missionary campaigns in the larger cities, and the results have been most gratifying. They have aroused great enthusiasm, and in many instances have created marked interest which failed to exist before their visit. They are men full of the Holy Ghost and endured with power from on high, and so are able to command the attention of the largest audiences. The missionary department of our union is exceedingly anxious that the Endeavorers of Plainfield show their appreciation of the Yale Band by supporting the meeting by their presence and by extending the invitation to their friends and urging them to help spread the good news. Let us be untiring in our efforts to secure a large attendance.

A special feature of the meeting will be a conference conducted by a member of the band, and a grand opportunity will be given to receive answers to difficult questions. There seems to be no reason why this conference should not be one of the best ever held in Plainfield. Above all let us remember this occasion in prayer continually, believing that God is waiting to bless us, and will manifest His presence in our midst. Please set aside Friday evening, May 26th, for this special occasion, and please do not permit any other engagement to interfere with your attendance.

Alice S. Runyon.
Supt. Miss. Dept.

A Sociable at Trinity.

Under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church a very pleasant sociable was held in the lecture room of the church last evening. There was a very good attendance of young people and all joined in playing various kinds of games, which was the feature of the affair. During the evening refreshments were served by the social committee, consisting of Miss Cora Laire, Miss Edith DuBois, Miss Corrine Young and Miss Lottie Wilson.

Entertained Her Scholars.

Mrs. T. W. Powell, of Fairview avenue, entertained her Sunday-school class at her home last evening. There was vocal and instrumental music. W. R. Ross also entertained those present with phonograph selections. After spending an evening of pleasure refreshments were served.

To Amuse Arcanumites.

The next regular meeting of Plainfield Council, No. 711, R. A., will be held Monday evening. Prof. Adrian Plate, the celebrted conjurer, will be present and give an exhibition of sleight-of-hand, card tricks, etc. Afterwards refreshments will be served.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

MORE FACTS IN RELATION TO THE FAILURE OF CHAS. EISENBERG.

Large Quantity of Stock Found By the Trustee's Representative in a Duer Street Barn—Outstanding Contracts

In connection with the failure of Charles Eisenberg, dealer in wall-papers, paints, etc., who conducted a store on West Front street in the Stillman building, some additional facts have been secured. Wm. Newcorn, attorney for Mr. Shew, who represents George D. White, who in turn is acting as trustee for the National Wall Paper Company, has discovered since the failure that a quantity of wall paper, paints and varnishes were stored in a barn at 62 Duer street. There were about twenty-five bundles of paper containing about twenty-five rolls each, and a large quantity of paints and varnishes. At a place on Somerset street nineteen bundles of wall-paper, together with about $50 worth of paints and varnishes, were found. At both places workmen employed by Mr. Eisenberg were residing, and it was claimed that these goods were stored for the purpose of completing contracts now outstanding.

Mr. White, the trustee, also assumes the contracts now out standing and through the attorney will see that obligations are kept. These goods stored away have been moved to Newark, where they have been stored in the Springfield avenue store of Chas. Eisenberg.

Holds 20,000 Rolls of Wallpaper.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Newark, May 19—George D. White, trustee for the National Wallpaper Company, now has in his possession 20,000 rolls of wallpaper formerly held by Chas. Eisenberg, which was stored away in a vacant store in this city. It has been removed to the Springfield avenue store of Mr. Eisenberg. It is reported that the National Wallpaper Company have carried Mr. Eisenberg along in business about a year.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New York, May 19—Mrs. Joseph J. McCune, of West 126th street, New York, went to Plainfield last Wednesday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Springer. When Mrs. McCune returned to her home Wednesday evening she found her rooms disarranged, and an examination disclosed the loss of the articles mentioned.

Don't annoy a silent editor; he may be a reformed prize fighter.

Don't forget that it's economical to write on both sides of the paper, and editors admire economy.

Don't fail to submit a list of fifty alternative titles for your manuscript. They will please the editor and keep him out of mischief.

Don't send an article without having it cross-written, as it makes it bright and attractive. It may try the editor's eyes, but what of that? Spectacles are cheap.

A Good Sum of Money in the Treasury to Start the Work With But the Union is in Serious Need of Liberal Support—Addresses by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell—The Officers That Were Chosen.

The annual spring meeting of the City Union of the King's Daughters was held yesterday afternoon in Trinity Reformed church. The election of new officers resulted in the choice of Miss Fiorella Blish for president; Mrs. Charles A. Reed for vice president; Miss Linda Butler for treasuer; Miss Lillian A. Force for recording secretary, and Mrs. DeGraff for corresponding secretary.

The report of the secretary was read and a brief account of the work of the city nurses for the past year. Five-hundred cases were treated during the year, which is a creditable showing. In addition to the report of the secretary of the union, the secretaries of the individual circles made reports, showing what they have been doing.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell delivered an address in which he laid special emphasis upon the co-operation of the circles, and the heartiness with which they all combine to make the work of the nurse and the life at the camp possible.

The union will begin the erection of another camp just as soon as the money has been secured. The old camp, it will be remembered, was destroyed by fire a few weeks ago, with all its contents. The camp cost $300 to build.

Although it answered its purpose a larger one would be appreciated and if enough money can be secured a larger one will be erected. The treasurer's report showed that over $900 has been donated last year, all of which has been expended except $35. This and the $50 given them from the proceeds from "Diplomacy" is all they have to start on. Miss Butler will gladly receive any contributions for this purpose.

Then furniture is needed to equip the camp when built. Miss Little, chairman of the camp committee, will receive these articles. A new location has been offered the union, that is nearer the Mountain Park Inn than the former one, and therefore more suitable to their needs.

Before the meeting adjourned a vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Pierre Mali for allowing the union to have the baby camp on her property for three years. Eleven circles responded to the roll-call

The new city nurse is Miss Setzer a graduate of St. John's Hospital, New York, and has served on the field as an army nurse.

Make a Nuisance of Themselves.

There are a number of boys who make a practice of loafing around the platform of the United States Express Company nights, smoking cigarettes on the trucks and amusing themselves turning everything topsy turvy. Thursday night E. W. Mills, manager, notified the police that the boys must be kept away, and Officer Saffron made a raid upon the crowd about 8 o'clock. No arrests were made, but the lads were warned that if they did not stay away in the future, they would find themselves in the jail.

A Smoking Image.

When the committee of seven from No. 2 Engine Company returned from Princeton a few nights ago they brought with them a present which they prize very much. It is an image representing some ancient god, inside of which there is place for machinery. By winding the machinery the heathen is made to smoke a cigar, pipe or cigarette. The present will be placed in some convenient corner, where it can entertain the boys when necessary.

Want a New Bridge.

The representatives of South River and Sayreville townships have asked Middlesex Freeholders for an appropriation of $10,000 for a bridge over the South river at Sayreville. This was refused. Later the request was modified to $6,000, and this will probably be granted.

Hook and Ladder Truck in West End.

The old hook and ladder truck now in the possession of the fire department and which is stationed in the West Second street house, will at the proper time be located in the new engine house in the West End where it will do duty.

NURSERY FABLES SEEN IN REAL LIFE.

Mother Goose Sale of Church of Redeemer a Success.

MANY UNIQUE FEATURES.

A WILLOW AVENUE HOUSE DEVOTED TO THE AFFAIR.

Mrs. A. E. Faber Chairman of the Sale—Booths Look Rustic and Are Filled With Articles That Are Designed to Divert Cash From Sightseers' Pockets Into Church Treasury.

One of the most successful events of the season is the Mother Goose sale which opened yesterday afternoon in the house at 20 Willow avenue, Washington Park, under the auspices of the Church of the Redeemer. It will be continued this afternoon and evening. The affair is notable for the many novelties introduced that represented well-known characters in nursery fables.

Under the direct supervision of Mrs. A. E. Faber, Jr., who is chairman of the sale, those in charge made a decided hit in their arrangement of so many unique designs. Every booth has a rustic appearance and together with a rich display of bunting, roses, etc., the best effect is obtained. In every room the quaint and remarkable sayings of Mother Goose and her family are to be seen in printed form.

There is the fancy booth where Mother Goose, in the person of Mrs. Samuel J. Townsend, holds forth, and a portion of her family consists of Mrs. Geo. P. Dupee, Mrs. W. M. Downey, Mrs. Chas. Matthews, Mrs. Thos. Burr, Mrs. E. C. Perkins, Miss Josephine Brock, Mrs. Moore and Miss Crocker. These women also act as a reception committee.

In one of the main rooms is stationed "Little Miss Muffett, who sat on a tuffett, etc." Mrs. Frank S. Brown, has special charge of this booth where all kinds of pretty sofa pillows are on sale. In the same room there is to be found the "Maid in the Garden," where a booth is devoted to small linens and fancy articles. Miss Florence Stevens is in charge, assisted by some of the other young women.

On the opposite side of the hall in another room there is 'Ding-dong bell," where for a moderate price one can purchase the finest lemonade. This is in charge of Mrs. Gilbert T Rhoads, assisted by several young women.

One of the best attractions at the sale, and surely one of rare beauty, is the flower and candy booth. One whole room is devoted to this department. It is under the direction of Miss Minnie Wilson. The rarest flowers are exhibited and arranged in the most artistic style. The room devoted to candy is also a thing of beauty, and a number of "pretty maids all in a row" are in charge to serve the many customers.

Old Mother Hubbard is much in evidence at the grocery booth, and those assisting her are Miss Phillips and Miss Barlow.

A place that is crowded continually during the sale is the dining room. There is everything on the list from a up to tea and coffee. The King and Queen, represented by Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Stevens, are found in the dining room, where the King looks after the money and the Queen attends to the serving of the dinner, assisted by several women of the church.

Mrs. Frank Rowley represents the old woman in the shoe and has a wonderful assortment of dolls. W. W. Moore has a room all to himself, where he entertains visitors with phonographic selections, and on the top floor there is a shooting gallery where Young America has plenty of chance to knock out the Filipinos. Messrs. Faber and Townsend are in charge here. In the main hallway there is a fishing pond in charge of Mrs Conkey.

The women who form the executive committee of the affair and to whom a great deal of credit is due are as follows: Mrs. A. E. Faber, Jr., chairman; Mrs. W. M. Downey, Mrs. Geo. P. Dupee, Mrs. H. R. Phillips, Mrs. Chas. Matthews, Mrs. J. O Stevens, together with the chairmen of the various booths.

Jewish Christian Service.

Messrs. Cohen and Schapiro, Jewish Christians, of London and New York, will speak in Trinity Reformed church tomorrow evening. Jewish people are very cordially invited to be present and hear these gifted speakers.

Late Judge's Estate to be Sold.

The estate of Judge Thomas F. McCormick, of Elizabeth, has, on application of his widow, been ordered sold to pay the debts, amounting, it is said, to $20,000. The sale will be subject to the widow's right of dower.

TRIED THE SUICIDE ROUTE TO ETERNITY.

Desperate Act of Alida Messler, of Scotch Plains.

AIMED BULLET FOR HEART.

CORSET STEEL SAVED HER FROM AN INSTANT DEATH.

Girl Had Been in Trouble With Her Father and Visited Lawyer DeMeza's Office—He was Too Busy to Hear Her and She Went Into Hallway and Shot Herself—Chances for Her Recovery.

At an hour yesterday afternoon when the streets were filled with shoppers, and the merchants experiencing their heaviest work, a tragedy occurred in the hallway of the Codington building, on Park avenue, that caused a momentary lull in the business of the hour. Miss Alida Messler, of Scotch Plains, the twenty-year-old daughter of Charles Messler, of that place, attempted to end her life with a bullet, and may accomplish her object Time only can tell.

No reason can be assigned for the desperate act, except that the young woman has had trouble at home over the attentions of a young man of her village, who her father did not approve of. She is reticent as to the motive for the action, and will give no information in regard to herself.

It was about 5 o'clock when William G. DeMeza, who has offices in the Codington building, was called upon by Miss Messler. What her business with him was she did not have time to tell. Mr. DeMeza had to catch a train for Dover, N. J., and told her to call again today at 2 o'clock when he would have leisure to listen to her.

She is said to have remarked, "No, I wont come tomorrow; I'll shoot myself first," and with this she turned to go out. Mr. DeMeza thought it a strange remark, but let her go without any more words. Hardly had the door closed on her than he was startled by a pistol shot, and hurrying into the hall found Miss Messler leaning against the wall with blood streaming from a wound in her breast.

H. C. VanEmburgh, who has an office across the hall from Mr. DeMeza, also heard the shot and was on the spot simultaneously with Mr. DeMeza Together they supported the girl until help arrived. "I've shot myself," she said, and retained her nerve all the time.

Mr. VanEmburgh telephoned at once for the police, and was answered by Roundsman Flynn and later by Chief Grant. The ambulance was called and the unfortunate girl was conveyed to the hospital. There the physicians found that a thirty-two calibre bullet had penetrated her side, and was lodged somewhere in her back. The bullet had struck a corset steel, been diverted from its course, and circled around the heart.

When questioned as to who she was and why she had done the deed, Miss Messler refused to say a word. In the meantime word had reached Mrs. Radin, of North avenue, the girl's aunt, and she reached the hospital as soon as the ambulance. At the sight of her relative the girl admitted her identity, but still refused to say why she had done it.

Mrs. Radin, in a conversation with a Press reporter, said that the only reason she could assign for the act was domestic troubles which Miss Messler had had at home.

Some time last month Harry Ball, of Mountainside, with whom Miss Messler had been keeping company, had a dispute with Mr. Messler, which ended in blows. Ball was not agreeable to the elder Messler as a suitor for his daughter, and finding him there one evening, it is said he threw him bodily out of the house.

This led to a complaint being made before Justice Clark, of Scotch Plains, by Ball against Messler, charging him with assault and battery. Messler pleaded guilty to the charge, and was held in $100 bail to appear before the Grand Jury.

But things became so unpleasant for Alida at home, it is alleged, because she still continued to receive the attentions of Ball, that she left her father's roof and sought employment at Walpole's Hotel, where she was living until yesterday.

She came to this city some time during the afternoon, and was seen by several people whom she knows. They spoke to her, and was answered pleasantly by her. To Tony Lusardi, of North avenue, she gave a laughing greeting as she passed, and continued on her way up Park avenue. It is supposed that she went directly to

WILL WIDEN AVENUE

PROSPECT OF TROLLEY GOING THROUGH ROSELLE.

A Hearing Given by the Board of Aldermen Last Night—Second Avenue Route Seems to be the Favored One

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Roselle, May 20.—The application of the Westfield & Elizabeth Street Railway Company for a trolley franchise which will allow the company to build its line through the borough of Roselle and thus form the connecting link of the south side trolley, now being built between Elizabeth and Plainfield, was again before the Board of Aldermen at a regular meeting held last evening.

The railway company wanted a franchise over First avenue at this place which is a continuation of South avenue in Cranford. The Board of Aldermen refused to grant a franchise over this avenue but at a previous meeting informed the railway men that they might grant a franchise for Second avenue, provided the company would widen that thoroughfare from 60 to 80 feet. This the company agreed to do and a public hearing was held on the subject at last evening's meeting.

The attendance of citizens at the meeting was small and many expressed opinions, the prevailing sentiment appearing in favor of the Second avenue route which will connect with the North Jersey lines on West Jersey street at Elizabeth, and the South avenue line at Cranford. Chandler W. Riker and Colonel E. W. Hine explained the plan to the citizens in detail. The Board of Aldermen are now expected to grant a franchise.

UNIQUE MINSTREL SHOW SEEN IN WASHINGTON HALL.

The Entertainment Given Under the Auspices of Mizpah Lodge, of Odd Ladies, Some of Whom Assumed the Parts.

Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, I. O. O. L., held a strawberry festival and dance last night in Washington Hall. Before the dancing was begun an entertainment was given by "Jolly Joe's" lady minstrels, a company of local artists. Who the ladies were that took part in the show could not be learned, as they took great pains to keep their identity a secret. Blackened and arrayed in picturesque garb, they amused the audience for an hour or more with jokes and songs.

The entertainers were obliged to cut off a part of the entertainment because a gang of hoodlums in the rear of the hall kept up an incessent yelling and hooting, and so annoyed the performers that they could not go on with the exhibition.

The floor was cleared for dancing about 10 o'clock, and it was kept up until midnight. Professor Guttman furnished the music.

KILLED ON THE TRACKS.

Former Plainfield Boy Met a Sad Fate at Dover.

Elmer S. Ball, aged 21 years, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ball, formerly of Plainfield, now residing at Dover, Morris county, was instantly killed early yesterday morning by an express train while walking on the railroad track near his home. The young man was always of an absent-minded turn of mind and probably was in that mood while walking on the track yesterday morning. The engineer of the locomotive blew his whistle, but he apparently did not hear it. The funeral services will be held Tuesday afternoon next at 2:30 o'clock in the Second Reformed church, Somerville.

REED ASPIRES FOR SENATORSHIP AGAIN.

He Doesn't Propose to Be Downed By Thompson.

ALVAH CLARK INTERESTED.

CONTEST ATTRACTING ATTENTION ALL OVER THE STATE.

New York Herald Devotes a Column Story to a Review of the Situation in Somerset County—Alvah Clark Involved and an Attempt to Get Gov. Voorhees Mixed Up in the Affair.

The contest between Senator Reed and Chancery Clerk Thompon for the control of Republican politics in Somerset county has become so bitter that it is attracting attention in political circles throughout the State. The New York Herald this morning contains the following about the fight:

It looks as if there were going to be hot times in Somerset county over the Senatorial nomination this fall. Chas A. Reed, the presentre presentative of the county in the State Senate, achieved the presidency of the Senate last winter on the understanding that he was not to seek a re-election.

Courtesy to a retiring Senator who was not expected to have another chance for the distinction induced his fellow Senators to place the gavel in his hands. Current rumor was that he was to hold himself in reserve as an aspirant for Congressional honors, and then it was said he might seek one of the vice-chancellorships under the Republican who is to succeed Chancellor McGill.

It was gratifying news to "Lew" Thompson, the Clerk of the Court of Chancery, that Reed was not to enter the race for renomination to the Senate. Thompson is a Republican "boss" in Somerset. He does not like an iron gray hair in Senator Reed's head. He had made public announcement that Reed was withdrawing because he knew the nomination would not be given to him. That seems to have piqued Reed, and of late he has allowed it to be understood that he is willing to lead the battle for the Republicans again. That has not pleased Thompson quite as much as the rumor of Reed's decision to abstain from running pleased him, and he has started out for Reed's scalp with the fiercest tomahawk he has in his collection of political weapons.

The fight is on with a vigor that has already embroiled Alvah A. Clark and that attempted to embroil Governor Voorhees as well. Clark is a Democratic boss in the county. He enjoys the distinction, too, of being Senator Reed's father-in-law. His interest in Reed is so deep that, it is said, Mr. Clark forgot he was a Democrat when Reed ran for Senator three years ago, and the politicians insist that Mr. Clark went out of his way to get Democratic votes for his son-in-law. Thompson insists that Senator Reed's Republicanism is quite as thin where his father in-law is concerned.

Mr. Clark used to be a Representative in Congress. Just now he is Postmaster at Somerville. His term is on the edge of expiration, and there is great trouble between the factions for the selection for his successor. Representative Howell, in whose Congressional district Somerville is, has selected Assemblyman Cooper for the position. The Thompsonites say that through a little deal between the Democratic father-in-law and his Republican son-in-law they were euchred out of their innings in the game of selection.

Mr. Clark, so their charge is, placed his resignation in Senator Reed's hands and he in turn put it in his pocket and kept it there till Cooper's name had been forwarded to the White House. The Thompsonites say that as they did not know that Clark had resigned they had no opportunity to say a word as to who should succeed him. They have succeeded in having the nomination "held up" for the present. They hope to induce the interested officials to keep it held up till after the fall elections.

Meanwhile they are exerting all of their energies to induce Representative Howell and Senator Sewell to have a name more acceptable to them substituted for Cooper's, and in that line they waited upon Gov. Voorhees recently. They want the Governor to see Gen. Sewell and have him prevent the selection of Cooper by preventing Cooper's confirmation. The conference was a long one. It was a particularly interesting one, too, because Thompson is a bitter foe of the Governor, and it was odd at least to see Thompson seeking for the Governor's favor. The Governor is said to have decided that it is a controversy in

HOME TRADE TO BE THE BUSINESS SLOGAN

To Counteract Influence of the Newark Merchants.

MATTER TO BE TALKED OVER.

MEETING OF THE MERCHANTS TO BE CALLED FOR NEXT TUESDAY.

S. D. Drake Explains the Need of Local Business Men Becoming Alert and Active to Protect Their Own Interests—Committee of Representative Men Appointed to Arrange the Meeting.

"The Home Trade and Improvement Association" is the suggestive title that was adopted at the meeting of the business men of Plainfield in S. D. Drake's office last night to take action to counteract the attempt of the Newark Board of Trade to secure the running of more through trains on the Central railroad between Newark and Plainfield in order to divert the local trade into the Newark stores to a greater extent.

Though the association will be used to develop and bring out the advantages of Plainfield as a place of business and residence, in order to secure new residents to come here, their first purpose will be to agitate the need of home trade. J B. Coward was made chairman of the meeting last night, and George F. Brown secretary. Mr. Drake explained the need of Plainfield business men being active and alert at this time when Newark people are doing their best to take away the trade that belongs naturally to Plainfield. He said that if Plainfield merchants ever needed to be aggressive to protect their own interests it was now.

After a little discussion it was agreed that the best policy would be to call a meeting of all the merchants of the city for next Tuesday evening, and to arrange to have several speakers at that time who would dwell on the attempt of the Newark Board of Trade to gain Plainfield trade and to point out ways and means by which the Newark people could be euchred. Chairman Coward appointed Fred Dunn, Mayor Smalley and Assessor Elston M. French as a committee to arrange that meeting. The meeting will not be a promiscuous gathering, but will be attended by invitation so as to give it character and prestige in the community. A sufficient number of tickets are being printed to afford everyone whose interests are concerned to have a chance to attend.

Miss Scribner Surprised.

Thursday was the eighteenth birthday of Miss Lulu Scribner, of Washington street. A few of her friends surprised her that night. The surprise was an agreeable one to the hostess, and she entertained her guests royally. Music and games took up the evening. Several handsome presents were received by Miss Scribner.

Looking for a Loan.

Pastor Scott Wallace, of the Calvary Baptist church, together with Spencer Conway, an elder of the church, went to New York yesterday to look after some business in connection with the church. Mr. Wallace says that he will soon secure the desired loan of $5,000 which they failed to secure from the Financial Agency Company.

LUNA CAPTURES ENVOYS.

He Detains Two Who Were Despatched to Confer With General Otis.

PEACE AT ANY PRICE.

Reported That Aguinaldo and His Advisers Send Their Envoys in an Humble Mood.

Generals Luna and Rio del Pilar and Their Forces Alone of All Filipinos are Opposed Bitterly to Surrender—MacArthur Still at San Fernando—Otis Sends List of Killed and Wounded.

Manila, May 20.—The Filipino Commissioners Buencamino and Herrera, who were on their way to Malolos to join the other insurgent Commissioners, are reported to have been captured and detained by Gen. Luna, who is not in sympathy with the peace negotiations. The Commissioners were coming to Malolos presumably in accordance with the resolutions recently passed by the Filipino Congress providing for the surrender of the insurgents on the best terms obtainable.

Brig.-Gen. Funston has relieved Gen. Wheaton, who is to be assigned to the command of a new expedition.

The 13th Minnesota Infantry has been withdrawn from the front to allow the men to rest.

Manila, May 20.—The long-delayed submission of the Filipinos, their unconditional surrender to the demands of the United States Government and the absolute termination of the war are expected momentarily.

General Otis is now awaiting the announcement of Aguinaldo's seven peace envoys that they, in the name of Aguinaldo and the Filipino people, will accept, in good faith, the proclamation of the American Commissioners and sue for peace.

The envoys of Aguinaldo, four military and three civil commissioners, are due here from the mountains beyond Isidro, where the rebel government established its headquarters after General Lawton captured the city. The envoys are Buencamino, Del Pilar, Arguelles, Torres, Pamprenos, Paterno and Herrera.

They remained at General Lawton's camp over night and started in the morning for Manila. They took a special train from Malolos.

They are empowered, it is said, to arrange all the details of surrender which Aguinaldo now sees must be without condition or reservation.

Two of the Commissioners were in San Isidro when General Lawton occupied the town. The others fled northward to join Aguinaldo.

The two who surrendered to the Americans say the Filipinos now want peace on any terms.

Generals Luna and Rio del Pilar and their forces alone, of all the Filipinos, are still opposed bitterly to the surrender. They want the war continued and have used every influence in their power to urge a prolongation of hostilities. But the mass of the people, and the greater part of the rebel army are weary of the fighting and the defeats.

General MacArthur is still at San Fernando, while General Lawton and Major Kobbe are carrying forward the fighting lines. For a distance of fifty miles north of Manila, the valley is held by the American army, and Laguna de Bay is guarded by gunboats, so that all retreat to that body of water is prevented. Cavite, south of Manila, is completely subjugated, and the Filipinos are strategically helpless.

Otis Reports Casualties

Washington, May 20.—Gen. Otis has sent the following list of additional casualties:

Killed—22d Infantry—May 18, L, Corporal Henry Longford.

Wounded—Sergeant Peter Cosgrove, arm, slight; Privates Carla Carlson, abdomen, moderate; L. Simon Shueller, abdomen, severe.

13th Minnesota, 15th, F, Private W. E. Tew, thigh, slight; 2d Oregon, L, Private Frank Butts, thigh, slight.

Pension Frauds Found.

Washington, May 20.—The Commissioner of Pensions some time ago sent a committee of special examiners to New York to investigate the workings of the Pension Office in that city. The committee has brought to light many cases where frauds have been perpetrated upon the Government. Old soldiers have been found drawing two pensions, and widows drawing pensions of deceased husbands. Other methods to defraud have been discovered and it is expected that when the committee makes its report there will be interesting developments. After leaving New York, the examiners will go to Chicago and other large cities, where charges of fraud have been made.

No Transvaal War.

London, May 20.—In the House of Commons the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, gave the names and the identity of the men arrested at Johannesburg.

All of them, excepting Tremlett and Fries, were former non-commissioned officers in the British Army. He added that President Kruger had informed the British Agent at Pretoria that there was no proof that the prisoners were British officers and that in any case the incident would not be allowed to disturb the friendly relations existing. (Cheers.)

Jersey Murder Victim Known.

Rutherford, N. J., May 20.—The body of the man supposed to have been beaten into insensibility and laid on the trolley tracks near here, to hide the crime, has been identified. The victim was Daniel Ricker, of Mountain View, near Singac, on the Greenwood Lake Railroad. The cause of his death, however, still remains a mystery.

Peffer Leaves Populists.

Topeka, Kan., May 20.—Senator Peffer has left the Populist and has returned to the Republican fold. The Senator says that he was always a Republican at heart except on the money question, and that, he says, seems to have settled itself, so no barrier exists between him and his old party.

BOY POISONER

Cincinnati Colored Boy Confessed to Poisoning Three.

Cincinnati, May 20.—The police are puzzled over the case of James Weaver, an eleven-year-old boy, who has already confessed to poisoning his father and his brother, and who early this morning acknowledged having given his stepmother poison, from the effects of which the woman died three months ago. The boy's brother died from the poison given him, but the father recovered. The Rev. John Jackson, a preacher, died from poisoning and the police of this city are firmly convinced that young Weaver knows something of Jackson's death also. He says he gave the preacher a glass of water when the latter called at the Weaver home the day before he died.

Young Weaver is as a cool as possible and does not seem to realize the position he is in. He chats about the deaths of his relatives and that of the preacher, and maintains that no one but himself is responsible for the deaths of his stepmother and brother but himself.

In telling of the poisoning of the stepmother, young Weaver said, that he found some stuff in a bottle, which he put on some bread and gave it to his stepmother, who ate it and died soon after. Weaver is a colored lad.

Swindle in Navy's Name.

Philadelphia, May 20.—Two men who are alleged to have swindled many leading manufacturing concerns and contractors here as well as in New York and Brooklyn are under arrest here. They are John H. Klein and William A. Barclay, both of Brooklyn. Their scheme is supposed to have netted them upward of $20,000.

The men represented themselves to be working for the benefit of the League Island Relief Association, and, it is alleged, obtained many paid subscriptions for a book to be issued for the navy yard men. A similar scheme is alleged to have been worked in the name of the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

No Word From Reina Mercedes.

Washington, May 20.—Nothing has been heard of the former Spanish cruiser Reina Mercedes, which sailed from Santiago for Norfolk on May 13, and she does not appear to have been spoken in the meantime.

The vessel ought to have reached Norfolk by this time. While many Navy Department officials are anxious to hear from her they are satisfied that she is safe.

The Merritt Wrecking Company, which is bringing the Mercedes north, will receive $75,000 when she is delivered safely at Norfolk.

To Save City Ownership

Detroit, Mich., May 20.—Governor Pingree's friends, anticipating defeat in the Supreme Court, where the McLeod bill is the question, are planning to save the salient features of municipal ownership.

It is suggested that the Street Railway Commissioners organize as an incorporated company and then go before the Common Council and ask for three-cent fare, and a further provision that the franchise shall become the city's when favorable legislation can be procured.

No profits will accrue to the incorporators, but the profits are to be placed in a sinking fund for the redemption of the bonds which would be used to acquire the property from the present owners.

Saved If McKinley.

Washington, May 20.—Charles Farris, Company H, Third United States Volunteer Infantry, was found guilty of murder by a court-martial in Santiago, Cuba, and was sentenced to be shot.

The case was sent to the President for review, and the death sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment and dishonorable discharge from the army.

The President directs that the prisoner be confined at Fort Leavenworth, Kan.

Paris Strikers at Work

Paris, May 20.—The striking Post Office employes have resumed work. They marched into the Post Office building in a body and proceeded to the sorting rooms.

Professor F. L. O. Wadsworth, late of the Yerkes Observatory, Chicago, has been appointed director of the Allegheny Observatory, Pittsburg.

Queer Beliefs About Seven.

So numerous are the queer beliefs concerning the number seven that a narration of them all would fill a volume, but we may mention a few of them. From the very earliest ages the seven great planets were known and ruled this world and the dwellers in it, and their number entered into every conceivable matter that concerned man. There are seven days in the week, "seven holes in the head for the master stars are seven," seven ages both for man and the world in which he lives. There were seven material heavens, and in the underworld described by Dante the great pagan dead who were not good enough for heaven or bad enough for hell reposed in a seven-walled and seven-gated city. There are seven colors in the spectrum and seven notes in the diatonic octave, and the "leading" note of the scale is the seventh. Be it noted that the seventh son is not always gifted with beneficent powers. In Portugal he is believed to be subject to the powers of darkness and to be compelled every Saturday evening to assume the likeness of an ass.

IN FAVOR OF ARBITRATION

Majority of Peace Congress Delegates Think Arbitration the Most Feasible Solution.

TRIBUNAL OF NATIONS.

A Plan Has Been Presented For the Formation of an International Commission Similar to Postal Bureau.

The Turkish Delegates Entered Protest Against the Position Accorded the Bulgarians on Account of Their Country Being a Vassal State—Baroness Von Suttner is Credited With Prompting Czar

The Hague, May 20.—The despatches to the Peace Congress held an informal consultation to arrange the order of business.

The most important decision reached was that a large committee on war should be named, to be sub-divided afterward into naval and military sections.

The delegates had so few differences of opinion to reconcile that the programme will probably be announced Saturday, instead of waiting until next Tuesday, as had been planned.

Most of the delegates are credited with accepting the arbitration plan offered by the United States as the most feasible solution of the problem of preventing wars.

A plan has been presented for the formation of an international tribunal on the lines of the railway postal international bureau, and it is understood that this suggestion will be favorably recommended to the conference by the section on arbitration.

The Turkish delegates entered a protest against the position accorded the Bulgarians, on the ground that they represented only a vassal State.

To Baroness von Suttner is attributed the sugestion that prompted the Czar to propose the Peace Congress. She is an Austrian, and the founder of the Peace League in the dual Empire. She possesses much ability and is a clear and persuasive writer. The organ of the Austrian Peace League, "Die Waffen Nieder" ("Down with Your Arms") is published under her direction. She used this same title on a romance which she published two or three years ago, which was in effect a plea against war, aimed at the great, anxious heart of the Vaderland. It depicted the horrors of war in a most vivid manner.

FEDERATION OF WORLD.

Utopian Scheme of the Czar as Published by a London Newspaper.

London, May 20.—The Westminster Gazette gives a forecast of the Czar's peace programme, which formulates an idea, practically, of a federation of the world, with the disarmament conference as the starting point. The conference is to become a permanent tribunal, meeting every three or five years. It is proposed to establish a small body to settle questions of fact, reference of which to the tribunal will not be obligatory. The decisions of the minor body, will not necessarily be accepted, but it is expected that its convenience will make the practice universal of submitting questions of honor to the mediation suggested. In regard to armaments it is proposed to arrest their increase and to proportion military and naval estimates to the total expenditure.

Prof. Von Stangel of the Munich University, one of Germany's delegates to the Peace Conference, the Gazette says, is no longer hostile to the objects of the conference. He now regrets having issued his pamphlets defending war and declaring that eternal peace ought not to be the aim of culture.

To Stop Siberian Horror

St. Petersburg, May 20.—A canference with the object of the abolition of transportation of criminals to Siberia was held under the presidency of the Czar, who views the present system as a serious obstacle in the way of the development of Siberia.

As a result of the conference the Czar will order the assembling of a commission under the presidency of the Minister of Justice to consider the question of substituting another penalty for that of transportation to Siberia.

Two Killed in Texas Riot

Dallas, Tex., May 20.—Reports from Columbus, Colorado County, state that a renewal of old factional hostilities of a year ago has occurred there.

Richard Grant, a desperate negro, and Richard Reese, a white deputy sheriff, are dead and a number of persons are wounded.

Reese was a brother of Sheriff Reese, who was killed two months ago in another street fight. Governor Sayer's has sent a force of State Rangers to Columbus.

Presbyterian Assembly

Minneapolis, May 20.—There was a little breeze at the meeting of the Presbyterian General Assembly over the report of the Committee on a Roman Catholic Chapel at West Point. The report was read by Chairman Wallace Radcliffe. The committee was appointed especially to influence the President against signing the bill passed by Congress allowing the erection of the chapel, but failed in its efforts, and so reported.

Prince of Sugar Planters Dead

New Orleans, May 20.—Leon Godchaux, the richest sugar planter in the United States, is dead, aged seventy-five. He could not read, and only of late was able to sign his name. Born in Herbvillers, France, he came out here from Bavaria with a pack on his back, a poor Jewish peddler. From clothing he went into sugar and dies easily worth $10,000,000.

Jailed for Hypnotic Kissing

Wichita, Kan., May 20.—Professor Charles Benning, of Kellogg College, is in the city jail charged with hypnotizing several of his young women pupils and kissing them when under the spell. The warrant was sworn out by Mrs. Ella Whalley, whose daughter was among the hypnotized ones.

The Havana Customs authorities have seized 500 revolvers.

Not Fit Company for a Dog.

The lessee and manager of one of the most successful and conspicuous American theaters says that Ripans Tabules have made a different man of him and explains their use in the following terms: "I am of a nervous temperament, sanguine in disposition, energetic, and often for a considerable time labor under severe mental strain. I was in a bad condition really, and had tried many things suggested, but with no satisfactory result until Ripans Tabules were recommended to me by friends. In two weeks I took about twenty Tabules and the result was marvelous. I had eaten my meals only as a matter of form, and then so very little that for awhile I was almost starved. There had been no desire to eat, I did not enjoy the food and I could not sleep. Between loss of sleep and lack of food, I was not fit for a canine's society. Now it is different: I eat my meals with an appetite and enjoy them and have never slept better than at this time. I have never felt better mentally or physically than I do now, and I gained five pounds in weight in the first ten days after I began taking Ripans Tabules."

A new style packet containing [illegible] in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. [illegible] intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (sixty tabules) will be sent by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, [illegible] (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents. RIPANS TABULES may also be had of grocers, druggists, pedlers, news agents and at liquor stores and barber shops.

TO DISARM THE CUBANS

General Brooke Asks for Definite Instructions On the Subject.

WHAT LEADERS WANT.

Manifesto of Gomez Advising Cubans to Comply With American Demands and Lay Down Arms.

General Brooke, Unless the Malcontents Speedily Agree, Will Address Himself to Cuban Privates and Pay Off Those Willing to Comply With the Conditions Without Further Consideration of the Disgruntled

Washington, May 20.—"It is the sheerest nonsense," said Secretary Alger commenting on the published story that the President or himself countermanded the order of Gen. Brooke relative to the disarmament of the Cuban troops.

The state of the case, in brief, is as follows: The President canvassed very thoroughly with Secretary Alger and Gen. Brooke the best method of securing the disbandment of the Cuban troops and their re-entry into industrial life. It was decided that the surrender of their arms was necessary lest some, if not a large portion, inclined by their past predatory existence, should lapse into brigandage.

So the President himself ordered Gen. Brooke to cause the arms of the Cuban soldiers to be delivered to representatives of the United States army. Gen. Brooke has been patiently striving to carry out the President's plan, but the Cuban leaders, as a matter of sentiment, make it a condition of disarmament that the arms shall be placed in the custody of the Mayors of the Cuban towns. Gen. Brooke has telegraphed to Secretary Alger the facts and asked for a decision. The Secretary in turn has communicated with the President and asked for instructions. The President has not yet notified the War Department of his intentions.

It is said that should the Cuban leaders refuse to accept Gen. Brooke's offer, whether it is conditioned upon the surrender of arms to United States army officers or to Cuban Mayors, that will terminate the efforts to come to an arrangement with these leaders. Gen. Brooke will then address himself directly to the Cuban private soldiers. He will have his agents—United States army officers—pay off every bona fide Cuban soldier who is willing to comply with the conditions laid down by him, and this will be done without further reference to any of the malcontents, who have so long retarded a settlement.

Havana, May 20.—The manifesto issued by General Gomez advising Cubans to comply with the American demands and lay down their arms, has created excitement throughout the island.

Despatches from towns in all the provinces state that the Cubans are divided as to what policy they will pursue with regard to the American occupation in future.

One Cuban general and three colonels left Havana for Matanzas to call their troops together, supposedly to take to the woods.

Brooke and Gomez

Paris, May 20.—A dispatch received here from Havana says that an agreement has been arrived at between General Brooke and General Gomez, the latter having issued a manifesto declaring that he remains on the side of the people. He exhorts the people to remain calm, and promises that he will plead the cause of Cuba and the independence of the republic at the White House in Washington.

Predict War in Cuba

Mexico City, May 20.—The organs of the Spanish colony predict that the United States is on the eve of a long and costly war in Cuba as well as in the Philippines, basing their predictions on suposed inside information from Cuba. Correo De Espano says:

"The United States will be obliged to sustain in Cuba a long and costly and barren war, such as they are waging in the Philippines. We may be told that now the Cubans will have no one to furnish them with arms and ammunition, but they will find some one."

Fireproofing Company Incorporated

Trenton, May 20.—The Fireproofine Company was incorporated here with the Secretary of State with a capitalization of $2,000,000. The company proposes to manufacture and deal in chemicals and all materials non inflammable when exposed to fire. One half of the capital stock is preferred, bearing a cumulative dividend of 7 per cent. The incorporators are Ansel L. White, W. P. Rice, W. A. Tonner, D. B. Provost and C. G. Kidder of Jersey City.

Tunnel Will Be Built

New York, May 20.—Mayor Van Wyck promised a delegation of men representing various labor organizations that the Rapid Transit tunnel road would be commenced before the end of his term as Mayor.

NICARAGUAN CANAL.

Admiral Walker Estimates Expenditure for the Project at $125,000,000.

Washington, May 20.—Admiral John Walker, the president of the Nicaragua Canal Commission, called at the State Department and had a long talk with Secretary Hay respecting the work of the commission and the course to be pursued by the new Isthmian Canal Commission, which is to be appointed to carry forward the work of the present Nicaraguan Canal Commission. Admiral Walker was able to announce the completion of the work of the present commission and promised to have the final report ready for submission to the President by next Monday. He intimated that the estimate of cost of the projected canal was $125,000,000, the mean between the estimates of the individual members.

As soon as he receives the report of the present Commission the President will announce the names of the new Commissioners, who are to be appointed under the act of the last Congress to canvass all of the isthmian routes suitable for canals. He has already practically selected the personnel, and it may be stated positively that the nucleus of the new Isthmian Commission will be formed by Admiral Walker, Colonel, Hains and Professor Haupt the three members of the expiring Nicaraguan Canal Commission. Several members will be added, mainly engineers of high technical acquirements, and among them will be Major Simons, of the United States Engineer Corps.

Tax Smellers

Cleveland, May 20.—A decision of great importance in Ohio was handed down in the United States Circuit Court by Judge Augustus J. Ricks in which he restrained the collection of a half million dollars in taxes in Richland county which was reported delinquent. Suit was instituted by the Treasurer of Richland county against the Aultman-Taylor Machinery Company to recover $228,000 for taxes on property, for which it was claimed no return was made between the years 1893 and 1898. A like action was brought against George Brinkerhoff of Mansfield as administrator of the estate of the late Michael D. Harter. The suit against the Harter estate sought to recover taxes to the amount of $162,918. The combined amounts, with accrued interest, aggregated $500,000.

The defendants at once applied to the Court of Common Pleas for an injunction to restrain the collection, and later brought the action into the United States Court here on the ground that the county was trying to take their property without due process of law, which was contrary to the Constitution of the United States. Judge Ricks then allowed the temporary restraining order, and has granted the injunction.

By the Morganthaler Inquisition law, any person in Ohio who can find any corporation or person who has failed to make a true return of property for taxation, by revealing this fact to the proper county officer, will be entitled to 5 per cent. of the return. By Judge Ricks' decision the tax inquisitor in this case, W. F. Charters, loses about $25,000. New York is full of Cleveland residents who are nominally living there to escape the tax-smellers, but who in fact are engaged in business in this city or who retain homes here, but designate New York as their domicile.

Miners Are Impatient

Pittsburg, May 20.—The miners of the Pittsburg district are becoming impatient over the delay in the settlement of the differential question, and National President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers has been asked to call a convention. Heretofore he has refused to interfere with the district officials, but it is understood that he has decided to make the matter a national issue.

The quotations for iron and steel in the Pittsburg and Valley markets will probably be advanced again within a few days, although Bessemer was fixed at $15 recently. Furnace men all through the district have been demanding $16. The Executive Committee of the American Flint Glass Manufacturers' Association is in conference with the Scale Committee of the workers' union, which is demanding an advance in wages averaging 20 per cent. The American Window Glass Company has advanced prices 5 per cent.

Dewey Displeased at Dearness

New York, May 20.—At the annual session of the Reformed Presbyterian Church Synod, Elder William Dearness, of Cincinnati, very emphatically said: "Any man who reads approvingly of Dewey's doings of those of his fleet should learn something about the first principles of Christianity. Uniformed men are a disgrace to any Christian country, and it is time we learned to civilize men without killing them. This is a religious body, and we should not set our approval upon any war, the justification of which is in great doubt. We should approve no war, except one waged in strict self-defense. I move that all references to the war be eliminated from the proceedings of this synod."

A South Dakota Gold Find.

Deadwood, S. D., May 20.—A vein of ore carrying ten thousand dollars in free gold has been discovered on a ranch near Custer City. The vein is fourteen inches wide and has been uncovered for a distance of thirty-five feet, but no sinking has been done yet. It is the first quartz that has been found in that vicinity, although rich placers have been worked. The find has created an excitement in Custer which amounts almost to a stampede. All the surrounding country is being staked off and located.

Crowd Cheers Schley.

Omaha, Neb., May 20.—Admiral and Mrs. Schley arrived from the East and were received by an enormous crowd of enthusiastic admirers at the depot. They crowded around the Admiral's car and cheered for a half hour in spite of a pouring rain. General Manderson and a committee escorted the visitors to the Manderson home.

More Office for the Finlanders.

Helsingfors, Finland, May 20.—An Imperial ukase just issued directs that the Finnish Diet hereafter must only meet every four years.

THE LATEST NEWS.

STRIKE SETTLEMENT IS FAR AWAY.

Buffalo, May 20.—At a meeting of representatives of the Lake Carriers' Association and the Western Elevating Association, in the Iroquois Hotel, a resolution denouncing the attempted interference of the Chicago Board of Trade was passed. The board had passed a resolution demanding the abrogation of the grain shoveling contract with Contractor Conners. The lake carriers resented the action as attempted interference with their contract, and passed resolutions denouncing outside influence of any kind.

President McMahon of the strikers' union and John Cumneen had a conference with Conners and his attorney, William F. Hoyt McMahon, presented a proposition that the strikers send ten of their number from each elevator to Conners, he to choose one boss scooper from each ten. Conners rejected the offer. McMahon then called a meeting of the men and put the proposition to them. Before he was half through reading it the men began shouting: "Throw Conners in the creek; we won't work for him!"

The strikers then instructed the Executive Committee to make no settlement unless the contract is taken from Conners and made direct with the men.

A LACE IMPORTER IN LAW'S GRASP.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., May 20.—Thomas Emberson, the millionaire lace importer of New York, slipped across the border and was arrested by special Treasury agent Charles E. Lewis. Emberson has been in Canada ever since the custom officials raided his store at No. 923 Broadway in April of last year and seized smuggled laces valued at $35,848. The warrant which Lewis served on Emberson was issued by United States District Attorney Henry L. Burnett in New York on April 18, 1898.

Last week the United States Circuit Court in New York handed down a decision by which Emberson's sister-in-law, Mrs. Emma L. Mildenberger, who held a bill of sale for the seized goods antedating their seizure, was awarded the whole lot, provided she pays the Government $12,500. The court's decree also ordered the release from Ludlow Street Jail of Robert Little, the engineer of the steamship Paris, who was arrested and held as a witness against Emberson.

AUTOMOBILES FOR SEVENTEEN STATES.

Trenton, N. J., May 20.—Seventeen electric vehicle transportation companies were incorporated here yesterday. These companies were formed by the Whitney-Elkins-Widener syndicate to operate automobiles in different States. Each firm has an authorized capital of $100,000, except the one formed for the District of Columbia, which has an authorized capital of $6,000,000. The capital in each instance is supposed to be a merely nominal amount, to be increased later. The incorporators for each State are James E. Hayes, a Jersey City lawyer, and clerks in his office. The States for which these companies are formed are Tennessee, Georgia, Ohio, Kentucky, New Jersey, Louisiana, Delaware, California, Michigan, Minnesota, Iowa, Maryland, Wisconsin, Indiana, Missouri, Virginia and District of Columbia.

O'BRIEN WHIPPED BY JOE WALCOTT.

New York, May 20.—In a hurricane fight in the Broadway Athletic Club Joe Walcott, the colored pugilist, whipped Dick O'Brien of Lewiston. The finish came in the fourteenth round. The men had been fighting two minutes at a terrific pace. Suddenly Walcott's right went straight to the point of the jaw, and O'Brien went down in a heap. He stayed down the full limit of ten seconds, and when he got up he was groggy. There was a rapid mix. Again Walcott's right flashed to the jaw, O'Brien measured his length on the floor, and the fight was over. The round lasted 2 minutes and 32 seconds.

ALL NEGROES MUST QUIT PANA.

Pana, Ill., May 20.—As the result of a conference of coal mine operators, the State Board of Arbitration and the United Mine Workers' officials, an agreement was signed formally settling the long-drawn-out struggle here between union miners and operators. The agreement gives the union recognition and declares that all negroes shall leave the city, and only union men be employed.

"Isn't that new neighbor of yours rather eccentric?" inquired the commercial traveler.

"No," answered one of the village's prominent citizens. "He ain't rich enough to be called 'eccentric.' He's just a plain crank."—Washington Star.

Too Short Intermissions.

Mr. Hayseed (arriving at city hotel)—I suppose I kin hear the gong here when it rings for dinner, can't I?"

Clerk—We have no gong. We have breakfast from 6 to 11, dinner from 12 to 6, supper from 6 to 11.

Mr. Hayseed—Jehoshaphat! How am I to git time to see the city?

His Back to the Foe.

An army officer tells that in one engagement there were numbers of young fellows who smelt powder for the first time, and it is not surprising that at times the recruits were a trifle unsteady.

"However," said the old officer, "I only remember one case of actual flight, and when I think of it I can scarcely refrain from laughing.

"In the very thick of a hotly contested engagement one of my own men threw down his rifle and bolted.

" 'Here, you coward,' I roared after him, 'what are you running for?'

"Without so much as a glance over his shoulder, the fellow replied: 'Because I'm in a desprit hurry, an' I can't fly!' "

Wasted Sweetness.

"O, Edward," she cried, "do you know what? I dreamed last night that you had told me to go down town and buy that beautiful $27 hat I spoke of the other day."

"Well that proves it," he replied.

"Proves what, dearest?"

"That dreams go by contraries."

Knew His Love of Money

"There is something in this litidle fellow I like," said an appreciative visitor to a young hopeful he was trotting on his knees.

"Now," said the boy, "how did you know I had swallowed a quarter?"

New Form of an Old Question.

"So you wish to marry my daughter?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, can you support her in the condition of idleness to which she has always been accustomed?"

Why, then, do so many men
Straightway leave off thinking when
Once their tongues are fairly started!

The Philadelphia Record very opportunely calls the attention of the people in the North, who are advising the colored man what to do to better his condition, to the difficulty that would be experienced by the black man should he attempt to break through the barriers erected by the trades unions and try to become proficient in any of the mechanical crafts. This leads the Paterson Press to say: "It is a well-known fact that while the colored mechanic is often skillful, it would be next to an impossibility for a young negro to secure an opportunity to become an apprentice in any locality where trades unions are powerful. It is only in the small towns that a colored man is given a chance to become anything but a porter, waiter, bootblack or coachman. No matter how earnest or competent, the Afro-American has less chance to become an artisan in the North than he has in the South. If people in the Northern States could be persuaded to set a better example to the South, it would probably go a great way in solving the race problem."

Co-operative stores, tried in several places in this country including Plainfield, and generally resulting in failure, are doing a successful business in Iowa, according to reports recently made, covering the results in 1898. There are about twenty of these store in the State, morally, if not physically, united, and acting as a unit in the one very important matter of buying their goods. At stated periods each store estimates its needs, and the combined orders are obtained from one wholesale house at a marked reduction. This is regarded as better than the tentative plan of establishing a wholesale depot at least until the stores become more numerous and of greater resources. The oldest of these stores in the State has been in operation for ten years, and one exceptionally profitable store reported for last year a profit to the stockholders of 60 per cent., the profit, of course, represented savings.

THE LORD BISHOP OF CHESTER.

The moving spirits in "The People's Refreshment House Association, Limited," the latest effort to inculcate temperance in England, are the Bishop of Chester, the Bishop of Rochester and Cardinal Vaughan. Pure liquors only are sold in the Association's inns, and barkeepers are given a share of the profits from the sale of non-alcoholic drinks. No credit is given. Stockholders are to have 5 per cent of the profits.

Plainfield has no such institution as a municipal cow, but that does not prevent humorous comment on the false rumor that it has got one, as the following from the Newark Advertiser indicates:

The Mayor of Passaic presumably had the famous municipal cow of Plainfield in his mind when he sent his annual message to the City Council. In it he refers to the complaint of the manager of the poorhouse that while Passaic has been paying twenty-seven cents a pound for butter, a better article can be obtained selewhere at a much smaller price. In the meantime the Plainfield cow is chewing her cud of contentment, knowing well that her abundant supply of cream and milk will be converted into the finest butter and cheese without any expense but the labor of churning, while Passaic's Mayor is worrying about high-priced butter. Fortunate Plainfield! Unhappy Passaic!

The Elizabeth Journal discusses at some length a suggestion in The Daily Press based upon the report of the State Board of Taxation relating to property valuation in Passaic county, that the question what is the "true value" of a property is a hard one to get at. The Journal says in conclusion: "The fact is simply this: While it might be impossible for experts to agree to a dollar upon the true valuation of every piece of property in the State, they could come so near to an agreement that the values would approximately represent the true value of all that is taxable, and this would be vastly better than the unjust, inequitable system that is now everywhere in operation."

The man who writes "The Tip of the Tongue" column in the New York Press is a pretty smart chap, who has a tart way of putting things. In answer to a correspondent who wanted to know something of the ways of Wall street, he says: "Avoid Wall street as you would avoid hell. In that zone of chance all hope is abandoned. Consider well. You go there to make much out of little. You help to support over 6,000 brokers who live in splendid style. You are hedged about with the mystery of margins and bound with miles of tape—white and red. If you get out alive you are lucky."

Notwithstanding the fact that City Judge Runyon is not a candidate for member of Assembly, the papers have pleasant things to say of him. The Rahway Advocate says:

City Judge William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, is mentioned as a candidate for the Republican nomination for Assembly this fall. Judge Runyon is a young man of much ability and would prove a strong candidate if nominated.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The charge made in the Union county courts that some Plainfield coal dealers have systematically reduced the avoirdupois of a standard ton to 1500 pounds, reminds one of an incident that occurred in Somerville years ago. A member of a leading firm of retail coal dealers attempted to discharge the driver of a coal wagon, advising him to go back to Ireland, as he was "to dumb to ever learn anything in this country," and got the ready reply, "I have already learned that in this yard siventeen hundred makes a ton!" The man was retained as long as he wanted to stay in that position and now ably fills the much more responsible and honorable office of Street Supervisor, but that coal firm is now defunct, the former members thereof being perhaps hauled over coals in another region.—Bound Brook State Centre.

PASSING COMMENT

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

Possibly the greatest advance in the use of the trolley car is in Pittsburgh, where an express company, using specially made trolley cars for transportation, has begun business. These express cars, which are similar to trolley mail cars, but with large sliding doors on the sides, are run on all the street railroads in Pittsburgh and Alleghany. The work of receiving and delivering packages is a little slow at the start, but it is expected to deliver a package or to receive one and give a receipt for it in about the time it takes for a passenger to board or leave a car. At the suburban terminals of the trolley lines the express cars are met by auto-mobile wagons, which continue the delivery for miles into the country where the condition of the roadway permits. These wagons are electrically charged to run seventy-five miles, and they travel at a rate from twelve to fourteen miles an hour.

SHE TRIED SUICIDE.

DeMeza's office.

The doctors who attended her at the hospital were much impressed by her pluck. Although suffering intense pain, and with the chances against her recovery, she was conscious all the while, even while she lay on the operating table and allowed the physicians to probe for the bullet.

The news of Miss Messler's attempt on her life soon reached her parents, and they came to the hospital at once. Landlord Walpole, for whom she worked, says that she threatened to take her life there, but he gave the remarks no thought. When he heard of her act he searched for his revolver and found she had taken it.

This is not the first time Miss Messler has tried to take her life. A year ago she took a dose of laudanum while employed at a hotel in Bound Brook. It is said that trouble over a man was at the bottom of her actions then.

This morning the girl was resting comfortably and the doctors think that she will pull through. Chief Grant will visit her sometime today and try and induce her to make a statement.

which he had better take no hand.

Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

Resented the Insult.

James Spirey and Joseph Carter met as they were walking along the county road at Mountainside Saturday night. They had no previous acquaintance, but Carter asked Spirey if he was out looking for chickens. Spirey considered the question an insult, and the result was a fight in which Spirey claims he had to defend himself. The officers are looking for Carter on a charge of assault.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 20—A slight accident occurred to Walter Adams' wagon yesterday afternoon as he was driving along Church street, which frightened his horse and caused a runaway. The king pin fell out, which let the front wheels slide out from under the wagon body. This frightened the horse and away the animal ran until stopped by Willard Apgar. Adams, who was on the seat, sat there and was not injured.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, May 20—Charles H. French has secured the contract from the Town Committee for the two steel cages for the proposed jail. The price to be paid is $230. This, Mr. French says, will give the township two of the most improved cages in use. The cages are expected to arrive within 60 days.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press)

Westfield, May 20.—At a meeting of the township committee held last evening the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railroad Company was given an extension of time in which to complete the building of their trolley line through Westfield. The company is to have the road in running order by the first of September instead of the first of June as required by the franchise.

Miss Martha Russell died at the home of her nephew, A. L. Russell on Park street Thursday afternoon from heart failure. She was 82 years of age and had lived in Westfield for a long time. Private funeral services were conducted by Rev. Dr. James A. Danforth, of the Congregational church at her late residence last evening and this morning the remains were taken to her former home at North Bradford, Conn., for burial.

Lucky No One Was Hurt.

While the 8:30 o'clock New York train was standing at the station yesterday morning waiting for passengers to get aboard, the train from New York due in this city at 8:16 ran into the station cutting off passage to the other train. Several persons wanting to get on the New York train narrowly escaped collision with the incoming train in their endeavor to get on their train. This is a gross infraction of the rules for a train to run into a station while another train is standing there.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Making Paper Flowers

Of all tissue paper flowers chrysanthemums are the most effective for decoration, and when natural flowers are scarce these take their places most acceptably. Large masses of them put in a handsome vase make a beautiful spot of color. There are so many colors and shades of color among them, as well as sizes.

They are very easy to make from directions, but to achieve really artistic success they should be copied after natural models, since there are so many varieties of this royal flower.

There are ragged ones, large and spreading, small ones scarcely larger than a nickel. Some are outcurved and some incurved, so that one need not fail of finding variety.

The colors range from white to dark bronze brown, with all shades of yellow, pink and purplish. The calyx is almost exactly like that of the daisy.

The buds are made by having a flattened bunch of wax, slightly rounded at the top. Over this is pasted around and around a strip of green paper of which one is slashed, so as to give it that overlapped appearance. The center is pinched together. The leaves can be purchased, all cut and pressed into shape, by the dozen, in different sizes. These are of a thick waxed variety of paper and the best, though the artist may cut hers herself, by following the model herewith, and being careful to crease them where marked.

To make chrysanthemums, cut four sets of plates, for petals of four sizes, with six each for the large in or out curved varieties, and four each for the more open and straggly kinds. The model will be found on diagram 1, Fig. 1. They may be six inches in diameter, or two, or even less, according to the kind.

The incurved ones are to be creased and each petal slightly curled at the same time, and the smallest sizes slipped over the stem and up to the calyx and turned over that, as is done in making roses. The pressure must not be great enough, however, to crush out the creases.

When all the petals are on, a few drops of mucilage may be dropped along in among them to hold them strongly, and then a little green wax is brought up against the outside row of petals, and this covered with slashed green paper makes it look like the natural flower. The petals are opened with the hatpinlike roses.

The stems to chrysanthemums are quite stiff and rather rigid. Where they do branch the junction is rather rough. The leaves almost always curl backward. Large and small ones grow close together. It is the very irregularity of leaves, flowers and branches that makes these so valuable as decorative plants.

When the bunch is ready to be mounted, the leaves are fastened to the stems by gluing the ends around them. On the diagram the mark on the leaves shows where they are to be creased. A circle like No. 3 may finish the flower as its base and also make a bud instead of the long strips.

All flowers can be copied by following nature both in cutting the petals and in making them up.

Lamp shades are made of crape paper and decorated with rich ribbon tied around the upper part, and often a spray of some kind loosely fastened to one side. Small candle shades for dinner table decoration are also made of tissue paper and decorated as one's taste may dictate.

The crape paper may be purchased ready crimped; but, as it is not always at hand, it is well to know how to make it. For a banquet lamp made over a wire frame it requires six sheets of soft tissue paper 18 inches wide. Paste these together to make one piece 6 yards long and 18 inches wide. Lap the edges flat and paste them and leave them to dry. When it is perfectly dry, gather it into the hands little by little until you grasp the whole six yards. Then begin and gently rub it downward, slightly twisting it at the same time until it is like a club and reduced to its smallest possible diameter.

Then hold it up to the frame and work it around the top, spreading the bottom a little, but keeping the top close. Let the paper extend about two and a half inches above the top of the shade frame, or globe, if it is applied to a globe. When it fits around, hold it with both hands while some one draws a wire around it twice and fastens it.

The ribbon is now to be tied around it outside the wire, and the bow should be rich and ample and also graceful. When the bow is tied, take hold of the upstanding part of the paper and pull it gently to open it out to form a full ruffle, which, however, is to stand up. Three inches of the crape paper at the lower edge is also to be pulled smooth in the same way, which leaves it in a beautiful fluted frill.

Shades to fit down over globes may be formed of net drawn over wires twisted and fastened to fit the shape. Some are made of cardboard sewed together. The net is preferable. The paper is craped and tacked top and bottom with needle and thread. A wreath at the top and a fringe at the bottom are to be made of daisies, violets or some other flower with a flexible stem, or a moss border can be made of finely slashed and crimped paper with a pretty spray of flowers at one side.

FOR DAISIES, SWEET PEAS AND CARNATIONS.
1. Daisy plate. 2, 3 and 4. Petals for sweet peas. 5. Green calyx. 6. Calyx for carnation. 7. Petals for carnation.

Butterfly lamp screens are made of tissue paper craped over cardboard. Their bodies are made of cotton. Their feelers of fine wire wound with paper and tipped.

Fans may be covered with crape paper, bordered with violets or some other flower or bordered with a moss and with a rose spray. A bow of ribbon on the handle makes a finish.

There really is no limit to the dainty and pretty things one can make of tissue papers. As soon as you have learned to make one thing the rest seem to come easy, and one needs no teacher, but patience and a close study of nature.

OLIVE HARPER.

FOR POND LILIES AND VIOLETS.
1. Half of pond lily petals, to be cut in a circle of six points. 2. Green plate for base of pond lily; half of green petal for bud; white also same shape. 4, 5 and 6. Different sizes of petals for violets. 7. Violet leaf.

FEMININE NOTES.

Miss Marion Jean Craig, a bright young Milwaukee woman, is engaged in teaching Boston clubwomen the fine art of impromptu speaking.

From the pen of a Chicago woman, Mrs. Adelina Cohnfeldt Lust, comes what promises to be one of the most popular novels of the year. It is entitled "A Tent of Grace."

Miss Helen M. Cole of Boston gives interpretative Bible readings before assemblies of clubwomen. Her calling, in which she has spent several years of preparation, she regards as sacred as the ministry.

Lady Marcus Beresford conducts a veritable paradise for cats, housing and feeding her pets in really regal style. She is said to have the finest collection of feline specimens in England, some of the blnest blooded of them costing $250 each.

Miss R. Louise Hopkins of New York is the promoter of a new idea in servant girls' clubs, her aim being to foster amicable relations between the employer and the employed and furnish some practical points for the improvement of both.

With the hope of establishing a precedent and helping to liberate womankind from bondage to their servants, Mrs. W. T. Moore, president of the Christian Female college at Columbia, Mo., has begun a suit for $500 damages against her negro cook for leaving her service.

The Boston board of education has inaugurated a new departure in the introduction of bathing appliances at the primary schools, matrons being appointed to conduct the bathing in the girls' departments.

Mrs. M. T. Shelford, wife of the pastor of the George Road Baptist church, near New Brunswick, N. J., recently surprised her husband's congregation by appearing in the pulpit and delivering a sermon in his stead, the husband being unexpectedly called away.

The English quarter sessions court at Surrey has put its ban on bloomers. Lady Florence Wallace Harburton, a viscountess who wears the so called "rational costume" when she would a-wheeling go, recently rode up to the hostelry of Martha Jane Sprague for rest and refreshment and was refused admittance to the ladies' sitting room, being told that she must go to the public coffee room, where men were smoking. Her ladyship is an officer of the Rational Dress league and brought an action against the landlady to test the rights of wheeling women to wear bloomers. The learned judge decided that Mrs. Sprague had a right to exclude Lady Florence from the ladies' sitting room.

In the Bathroom.

The towels that should always hang in the bathroom are, first and foremost, the bath towels of the best quality and largest size. Then there should be the very fine damask towels, and also two or three towels of rather heavier damask. This face-cloth will often remove dust and dirt from the face where a sponge is practically useless. The number of sponges can only be decided upon by one's personal ideas, but there must be at least two—one large and one small. A much disputed question of the day is the soap. The fine French soaps are the pleasantest, but they do not agree with everyone's skin, and some people prefer the plain soaps. In fitting up a bathroom for a guest there must always be a fresh cake of soap in its paper wrappings. This soap can afterwards be taken, washed off and used by children or servants, but it is the height of rudeness to offer a guest any soap that has been used before.

The flesh brushes seen in every well-appointed bathroom are of course private belongings.

Novel Use for Paper

Crinkled Japanese paper may be used for decorative as well as useful purposes in the bedroom, dressing room or boudoir. It can be used to cover the tops of tables, shelves, &c., hanging down over the ends, and with its slightly ruffled edges it makes a most artistic appearance, especially when selected to harmonize with the wall hangings and draperies of the room.

I saw a very pretty boudoir and dressing room combined fitted up in greens and dull tans, which blend so well together, and the walls, ceilings, carpets, rugs and cushions were all of these tints in plain or blended patterns. Coverings of all shelves tables, dresser top, &c., were of the same tinge of green, with the edges pulled out ever so slightly, and the effect was most pleasing.

An Artistic Room.

Books are the best possible ornamentation for all rooms. They are at once furnishing and decoration. In straight, unbroken lines around a wall, however, they are sometimes too severe to suit feminine taste. If the shelves are built with breaks as are these in the illustration the effect is extremely graceful.

BOOKS AS ORNAMENTS.

Moorish Tea.

Tea a la Morocco is made by putting the requisite amount of leaves in the teapot and pouring a small amount of hot water over them and immediately pouring it off again. This frees the tea from dust or any foreign matter which by accident or design, may have been mixed with it. After the first water has been turned off sugar is put into the teapot, one lump of sugar for each cup; the pot is then filled with boiling water and allowed to stand for a few minutes; neither milk nor cream is ever used; freshly gathered leaves of wild thyme or verbena are often added to give flavor to the beverage.

To Wash Muslins.

To Wash Muslins and Flowered Cottons.—Wash in plain water with very little soap, then boil in rice water. Oriental washermen, having so washed muslins, would refrain from ironing them. All the requisite ironing would be done by means of a polished stone, rubbed gently over the slightly damp fabric. But this is too lengthy an operation, and if the muslins are ironed gently, with a piece of white muslin between them, they will not receive damage.

A Hint for Mothers

Don't let the children get into a stooping position while eating. In their fear of spilling or dropping the particles they sit with their heads pitched forward and down between their shoulders, which looks badly, to say nothing of the habit of stooping that is being formed. Teach them that the chest must be thrown upward and out at the table as well as on the street, and that their hands were made to carry food to their mouths and not their heads to dive for their food.

Worth Knowing.

Try steaming fowls instead of boiling and you will find that the meat is always tender and the fine flavor of the fowl is retained.

To keep cakes fresh have large cake boxes or a stone jar always covered closely with a tight-fitting lid.

When a child pinches his finger get him to plunge it into water as hot as it can be borne, as this will very speedily lessen the pain and prevent the wounded member from throbbing.

Keeps the Fruit Firm.

A little alum added to cooking fruits, liable to fall to pieces in the process, will keep them firm and whole.

Sachsen.

Dresden. Den Stand der antisemitischen Bewegung in Sachsen illustrirt der geschäftliche Erfolg des größten sächsischen antisemitischen Organs, der „Deutschen Wacht" dahier. Dieses Blatt hat von dem 239,000 Mark betragenden Aktienkapital, nach dem letzten Geschäftsbericht, bereits 186,938 Mark verloren. Die Einnahmen aus dem Abonnement sind auf 49,000 Mark gesunken; die früher 25,000 Mark betragenden Redaktionskosten haben auf 10,000 Mark vermindert werden müssen.—Einige Beamte des Arbeiterkonsumvereins für den Plauen'schen Grund haben für 3918 Mark ausländisches Fleisch unversteuert verkauft. Das hiesige Landgericht verurtheilte jeden derselben zu 1896 Mark Strafe, außerdem haben sie gemeinschaftlich den Konfiskationswerth des Fleisches mit 3918 Mark zu bezahlen.

Eibenstock. Nach dem Schlachten einer milzkranken Kuh erkrankte der Fleischer und Oekonom Schildbach von hier. Von dem hinzugezogenen Arzt wurde sofort eine Milzbrandinfektion festgestellt, welcher Schildbach nach kurzer Zeit erlag.

Leipzig. Vom Centralvorstande des Gustav-Adolf-Vereins dahier wurde beschlossen, für 1899 für die große Liebesgabe (18,000 bis 20,000 Mark) die drei Gemeinden Olmütz, Lechschütz und Troisdorf (Rheinprovinz) vorzuschlagen. Die Entscheidung hat die Hauptversammlung des Vereins, die in diesem Jahre in Braunschweig abgehalten wird, zu treffen. Auf der Vorschlagsliste zu stehen, ist auch für die unterliegenden Gemeinden werthvoll, da sie immerhin ein „Schmerzensgeld" von 7000 bis 8000 Mark erhalten.

Meißen. Hier ist das sogenannte Weinert'sche Haus niedergebrannt. Besitzer war ein gewisser Weser, der das Haus von oben bis unten mit gefüllten Getreidesäcken vollgepfropft hatte. Seit 1893 hatte er kein Getreide mehr verkauft, da er immer auf den Eintritt einer Theuerung wartete. Das Feuer griff so rasch um sich, daß Weser zusehen mußte, wie der bei Weitem größte Theil seiner Schätze verbrannte. Ein Rettungsversuch bekam ihm sehr schlecht, er trug dabei erhebliche Brandwunden im Gesicht und an den Händen davon.

Zwickau. In Folge des Kohlenabbaues war im ganzen südlichen Theile des Stadtparkes hier eine bedeutsame Bodensenkung eingetreten. Letztere ist innerhalb der letzten 12 Monate durch Auffüllung, wozu das Material eines großen Lehmlagers verwendet worden ist, ausgeglichen worden. Gegenwärtig wird noch die Wiederbepflanzung dieses Theiles der Anlagen ausgeführt. Die sehr bedeutenden Kosten hierfür hat der betreffende Steinkohlenbauverein, durch dessen Kohlenabbau die Senkung hervorgerufen wurde, zu tragen.

Thüringische Staaten.

Gera. Die hiesige Handelskammer begeht in diesem Jahre das 50jährige Jubiläum ihres Bestehens. Durch den Kommerzienrath Nürmberger wurde 1849 die Handelskammer Gera auf freiwilliger Organisation in's Leben gerufen. Jetzt geht man damit um, die Handelskammer obligatorisch zu machen und auf das ganze Fürstenthum auszudehnen.

Jena. Das Interesse für die Feuerbestattung steigert sich bemerkenswerth. Anfang 1898 gab es in Deutschland 20 Feuerbestattungsvereine mit 12,000 Mitgliedern, Anfang 1899 bereits 37 Vereine mit etwa 37,000 Mitgliedern.

Weimar. Der vor einiger Zeit in Dresden verstorbene Wirkliche Geheime Rath Dr. Hugo Müller, von 1850 bis 1865 Bezirksdirektor des fünften weimarischen Verwaltungsbezirks, hat sein in diesem Bezirk gelegenes Rittergut Wöhlsdorf und den Hauptthelt seines nicht unbeträchtlichen Baarvermögens der großherzoglichen Staatsregierung zu einer Hugo Müller-Stiftung überwiesen, aus deren Ertrag bedürftigen Personen des Bezirks, die das 60. Lebensjahr zurückgelegt haben, ein sorgenfreier Lebensabend verschafft werden soll.

Freie Städte.

Hamburg. Das Seeamt hat in Sachen des Postdampfers „Pretoria," welcher im Februar auf halbem Wege nach New York, nachdem er in einem schweren Orkan die Steuervorrichtung gebrochen hatte, mit seinen 800 Fahrgästen unter Ablehnung fremder Hilfe nach England zurückkehrte, nunmehr das Urtheil gefällt; dasselbe stellt dem Führer der „Pretoria," Kapitan Korsowa, dem ersten Steuermann v. Hoff und insbesondere dem ersten Maschinisten Korte für seine Leistungen bei Wiederherstellung der Steuerfähigkeit des Schiffes sowie der ganzen übrigen Besatzung ein glänzendes Zeugniß aus.

Bremen. Dompastor Frickhöffer, der lange Jahre einer der geistigen Förderer des Protestantenvereins war, ist, 72 Jahre alt, gestorben.—Unweit Bremerhaven ist auf der Weser das Tourenboot des dortigen Rudervereins gekentert. Hierbei sind die Amateur-Ruderer Hechtel, Rohlfs und Osmer ertrunken.

WOMAN'S WEAPON.

"What is a woman's weapon?"
I asked a charming girl.
She dropped her lashes shyly
And stroked a vagrant curl,
Then consciously she murmured—
"This rosebud newly out—
"I have a strong suspicion
Her weapon is a pout."

"What is a woman's weapon?"
I asked a lover true.
He turned him to a maiden
With eyes of heavenly blue.
Her velvet lips were parted,
All innocent of guile,
And eagerly he answered:
"Her weapon is a smile."

"What is a woman's weapon?"
I asked a poet then.
With sudden inspiration
He seized upon his pen.
"Oh, I could name a thousand!"
He cried in accents clear;
"But woman's surest weapon,
I grant you, is a tear."

TO-MORROW AT NOON

For hours before the Chicago express entered the Grand Central Station a passenger in the sleeping-car Arcadia was in a state bordering on frenzy.

He had smoked so many cigars that the porter regarded him with apprehension. He had stamped up and down the aisle so fiercely that a baby had shrieked in fright whenever he appeared. He had cursed so horribly that the ancient spinster in the section next his had been on the point of swooning several times.

He was a big, athletic fellow, with a ruddy complexion, determined lips, and eyes like gray velvet, with black lashes and brows. His face would have been noticeable at any time, but now, crowned with an enormous silver-embroidered sombrero and distorted with impatience, it was doubly conspicuous.

"That cowboy must be getting ready to kill somebody," said the commercial man from Omaha to the railroad man from Buffalo.

"Either that or he's going to see his girl," replied the other.

The railroad man was a keen judge of human nature. Tom Weir, ranchman from the Valley of the River of Lost Souls, Col., was on his way to New York to find his sweetheart.

As he sat moodily biting an unlighted cigar and counting the mile-posts he recalled, as in a dream, his meeting with the exquisite creature he was seeking. He remembered that clear, bright morning when he rode jingling and clattering into Durango, just as the train from Alamosa was pulling up to the station; how he threw himself off his mustang and joined the crowd of miners, cowboys, loafers and "greasers" on the station platform to see the passengers alight.

He heard again the murmur of admiration as she stepped from the train and walked through the throng with the air of a princess.

His heart pounded madly as he recalled the masses of red gold hair, the luscious lips, the eyes of most unholy blue—the blue of the mountain sapphires—and the graceful svelte form.

His thoughts shifted to the afternoon when he was introduced to her at the ranch adjoining his own. She had come to visit her school friend, the wife of his neighbor. He remembered her wonderful pink gown with clouds and billows of lace, the tiny fan she wielded so coquettishly, the rings on her white fingers. She looked like an angel to the big, clumsy, blushing, stammering ranchman—a pink and white angel with a halo of dazzling blonde hair.

Poor Tom Weir then and there lay his great, unsullied, honest heart at her tiny feet. From the first moment she spoke to him he was her slave.

Now he thought of those heavenly days that followed; the long walks and rides in that glorious air that mounted to their heads like champagne; the nights when the great red moon swung over the snow-covered mountain peaks; the first mad kiss, the tender confession, the sweet surrender and the solemn betrothal.

And now he was going to see her!

Two years had gone by since the girl of his heart had said good-by to him; since he had held her to his brawny breast and with swimming eyes and husky voice had begged her not to forget him.

She had written him often sweet, kind, tender letters, letters he had kissed and cried over and put under his pillow at night. She had kept her word. She had not forgotten him—that radiant creature. O, where was a man so madly happy as he? And O, when, when, would this train get into New York?

There was only one little bit of alloy in this happiness; a mere trifle, to be sure, but still there. A few words in her last letter had troubled him. He had read and re-read them, trying to discover just what caused his uneasiness, but in vain. Still a vague, intangible something seemed threatening him. Some instinct sounded a note of alarm as he pored over the perfumed paper in his hand.

"I am tired of teaching," the letter ran. "The life of a governess is so narrow, so confining. So I have gone in for art."

That was all.

Art—art? Art is perfectly harmless, to be sure, but it was strange he had never seen her draw or paint anything. Indeed, he remembered that when with the enthusiasm of the typical Western ranchman, he had pointed out the beauties of his beloved mountains she had seemed rather bored than otherwise.

He made a sudden resolution. He would go to New York. He would see her and beg her to give up art and come near to nature's heart with him. There was no reason why their marriage should be longer delayed. He could give her a pleasant home even if a trifle lonely. But she would never be lonely. Would he not be with her? And she could paint all the pictures she wanted in Colorado as well as in New York.

Yes, he would go to her. He would sweep her off her feet by his passionate pleading; he would carry her away with him; he would bring her back to the mountains and to his home.

The train thundered into the station.

Tom Weir had never been east of Denver before. The babel and confusion annoyed him. He thought of the solemn, wind-swept mountain spaces and of the wide-spreading, peaceful plains. He longed to find a quiet corner. But the clatter and hubbub pursued him to his hotel.

The address of the letter he was carrying over his heart took him far uptown. When he succeeded in mastering the intricacies of the bells in the apartment he found a door was opened by a pert little maid, who stared superciliously at his height and breadth, his clothes and his sombrero.

"No," she drawled, "Miss Cameron is not in; she is driving in the park."

"Can I see her this evening?" he demanded imperiously.

"Why, no," she said, with astonished eyes, "of course not. No one ever sees her in the evening!"

"When can I see her?" he felt himself going hot and cold by turns.

"You might possibly see her at noon to-morrow," snapped the maid. "She's never up before noon." Then she shut the door with a decided bang.

Tom strode away, hurt, angry, suspicious. What did it mean? Art, a carriage, living in luxury. Never up before noon. Suddenly he stopped and cursed himself for a mean, pitiful cur that he should suspect her of anything that was not good and pure and womanly. To-morrow—to-morrow at noon, he would see her. Everything would be explained, and on his knees he would beg her to forgive him for his unworthy suspicions.

As he entered his hotel he ran into a man from Denver whom he knew. They shook hands and adjourned to the bar. Tom was honestly glad to see him. To tell the truth, the ranchman was lonely and a bit homesick.

"Got the dumps?" laughed the man from Denver. "Oh, brace up! Go to the theater and amuse yourself. Let's see. Go to the Gotham. There's a great show there. Out of sight. Say, but there's a girl there that's a beauty. The town has gone wild over her. She is on only for a few moments, but she leaves an impression. I'll see you to-morrow about noon. Good-night—in a —— of a hurry," and he was gone before Tom could tell him that to-morrow at noon he had an engagement.

The theater was crowded. The stage was peopled by hosts of pretty girls with brazen smiles and alluring eyes. There was plenty of fun and music and dancing and laughter.

But Tom was not interested. Perhaps his lonely life had not fitted him to enjoy such a shaking of folly bells. Perhaps the heart that had always reverenced womanhood despised the dubious jest, the offensive innuendoes. He wondered as he looked about how nice women could bear to listen to such stuff.

At times he lost sight of the stage. "To-morrow at noon," ran in his mind. It throbbed through the melody of the orchestra, it resounded in the strains of song. The violins breathed and whispered and sobbed the refrain over and over, "To-morrow — to-morrow at noon."

At last the stage was darkened. He heard some people next him talking about the beautiful woman who was to pose as a statue. He leaned forward.

The curtains parted. On a pedestal stood a woman with masses of clustering hair falling over her white shoulders. Her superb form stood out like marble against the somber background.

* * * *

What was it the men were calling out as the carriages rolled up to the door of the theater? Oh, yes, how stupid of him! "To-morrow, at noon," of course. And what did all those blazing letters read in the glittering signs along the crowded thoroughfare, "To-morrow at noon—to-morrow at noon."

He went to his room. He laughed as he flung himself upon his bed. "To-morrow—to-morrow at noon."

* * * *

The man from Denver knocked on his door and rattled and shook it. "Wake up Weir!" he shouted, "wake up. It's Darling of Denver. Come, you lazy beggar, I want you to go to luncheon with me."

There was no answer.

"Wake up, Weir!" he called again, banging the door with his fist.

But no answer returned from the silent room, where the brawny form lay stretched upon the bed and where the blood was slowly trickling down from the white forehead in which the ranchman's sure bullet was buried.

Fine Churches in Manila.

By far the most striking characteristic of Manila is the number, size and splendor of the religious edifices. Though the walled area is only about 250 acres in extent, within these limits are half a dozen churches, including a cathedral. The spires and bell towers of these massive structures form the most picturesque characteristic feature of the city. The oldest of the existing churches, that of St. Augustine, was founded more than 300 years ago. That it has withstood the typhoons and earthquakes of three centuries is proof of its solidity and also of the ability of its architect, a nephew of the builder of the Escurial at Madrid.

CHURCH CONSOLIDATION.

If Holy Cross and Church of Redeemer Unite Rev. Mr. Downey Will be Rector.

The Daily Press is informed on the best of authority that if the Church of the Redeemer and the Church of the Holy Cross unite it will be essentially on the terms as offered by the Church of the Redeemer, which practically means that their rector, Rev. W. M. Downey, is to be the rector of the consolidated church.

The Church of the Redeemer is at present in a very flourishing condition. They have no debt, and in addition to owning a valuable piece of property, corner of Propect place and Grove street, upon which they intended to erect a new church building, they have met all expenses during the past year, and have a large sum of money in their treasury.

In view of these facts it appears to many that the Church of the Redeemer have a good deal to lose if they unite on any other than the terms they propose.

Grading of School Grounds.

The grading of the grounds about the Watchung school in the borough has attracted considerable attention from passersby for the natural beauty in appearance. Michael Uhdal, whose artistic grading and arrangement of grounds has won for him praise, did the work around the school and it is one of the best jobs to be seen in this locality. Mr. Uhdal has a great reputation for this kid of work, and this, his latest effort, will add still further to his list of recommendations. The walks about the school were laid by Michael Powers, under the direction of Mr. Uhdal.

Leg Broken in a Runaway.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, May 20.—A serious runaway occurred here this morning in which Fred Koenig, the baker, and J. Schmitt, ex Fire Chief, were injured. The carriage collided with a tree, throwing both men out. Koenig's left leg was broken, and Schmitt was hurt on the right knee. His right hand and arm are also bruised. Dr. Alfred Pittis, of Plainfield, who was passing, went into Love Brothers store, where Koenig had been carried, and made him as comfortable as possible until the arrival ef Dr. Sinclair.

Chickens Did $5 Worth of Damage.

The chicken case which has been making trouble between Mr. and Mrs. Lewis E. VanNest and Marshal Whitely, of the borough, came up for trial again yesterday afternoon in Justice Smalley's court. After being out over an hour, the jury brought in a verdict of $5 for the plaintiff.

Death of Dr. Nivison.

The death of Dr. Mark Nivison, of Forty-second street, New York, died at his sister's home, Dr. Anna F. Nivison, of Roseville, N. J., yesterday. Dr. Nivison was well known to many Plainfielders.

Discovered by a Woman.

Another great discovery has been made, and that, too, by a lady in this country. "Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but her vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She finally discovered a way to recovery by purchasing of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night, and with two bottles has been absolutely cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." Thus writes W. C. Hamnick & Co., of Shelby, N. C. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

Regular size 50c. and $1.00. Every bottle guaranteed.

HURRAH FOR JULY FOURTH.

Red Men Take Initiative in Attempt to Celebrate the Day.

Miantomo Tribe of Red Men are the first to arrange for a Fourth of July celebration this year. The initiative was taken last night at their meeting, when it was decided to appoint a committee, consisting of William Newcorn, William Westphal and Howard Wilson, to meet committees from all other organizations and see what can be done in the way of a celebration.

The motion to take these steps was made by William Newcorn and seconded by Mr. Westphal. This same motion was made and seconded by the very same persons four years ago when the tribe celebrated Independence Day in much the same manner they intend to celebrate it this year.

This committee will hold a meeting Monday night to make plans for the celebration.

HONOR FOR ASSESSOR ELSTON M. FRENCH.

Elected Chairman of the Somerset County Board.

IS THE YOUNGEST MEMBER.

MATTER OF "TRUE VALUATION" WAS DISCUSSED.

Mr. French Has Made a Thorough Study of Taxation Problems During the Past Year and He was Able to Enlighten His Colleagues on Many Points—To Assess at True Valuation.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 22—The annual meeting of the assessors of Somerset county was held Saturday afternoon in the TenEyck House in this place, and the plans upon which they will prosecute their work of making valuations for the coming year were discussed and mutually agreed upon. Assessor Kennedy, of Bedminster, who was chairman of the Board last year, resigned and necessitated the selection of a successor. Assessor Elston M. French, of North Plainfield, was nominated and unanimously chosen as presiding officer, notwithstanding that Mr. French stated that he had no desire to occupy such a prominent place among the assessors of the county. Mr. French is the youngest member of the Board, and his selection for the position is quite an honor for him.

Assessor Charles V. Voorhees, of Somerville, was re-elected secretary of the Board.

Taxation problems in Somerset county, as well as those general in all communities, were discussed with a view of overcoming the unsatisfactory features and making the work of assessors as nearly satisfactory and as just to both the public and the individual alike as it is possible. During the past year Mr. French has devoted a great deal of his time to the study of taxation, having read many of the standard works of this sort, as well as observed the methods that prevail in other states. He gave an instructive and interesting review of what he had learned in his observations, with suggestions to be applied locally in the work of assessing valuations in Somerset county. His thorough study of the subject had put him in a superior position as compared to the majority of his colleagues, and his talk and the answering of questions put to him by the other members he was able to enlighten the Board on many valuable points.

One of the most important matters brought up was the question of assessing at true valuation. The recent order of the State Board of Taxation to the Passaic county assessors to assess on this plan, as well as the agitation in the same direction in other parts of the State, was called to the attention of the Board. Some were in favor of a resolution being passed calling upon the various assessors of the county to assess at true valuation, but this action was not taken; instead it was mutually agreed that valuations named for taxable purposes should be as near real as it was possible for the assessor to get it.

A uniform rate of assessing corporation property lying in different towns was also settled upon so as to avoid charges of discrimination by the latter.

The work of assessors will be started this week in earnest and it is calculated that in most of the towns they will have finished their rounds of the property in four or five weeks.

Ocean Trip to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Maze Edwards sailed Friday for California, by Steamship Finance, of the Panama Railroad Company, via Panama and Pacific Mail Steamers, to San Francisco. The voyage will take about one month, and after they leave Panama they will make several stops at various Central American and Mexican ports up the Pacific coast. Mr. and Mrs. Edwards are taking the trip for their health and to visit Mr. Edwards' mother whom he has not seen in twenty years, and whose eightieth birthday she hopes to celebrate in July. Mr. Edwards expects to return to Plainfield about August 10th, in time to open Music Hall for the season.

Fire of Little Consequence.

Last evening about 9:30 an alarm of fire was sent in from Box No. 63, corner of South avenue and Berckman street, and the department responded. The fire was of small consequence as it consisted only of a few railroad ties burning in the rear of the carpet works. Very soon after the alarm was sent in the recall was sounded, and it required little effort to put the fire out.

SPEED CONTESTS OF A NOVEL CHARACTER

Trotting to See Who Could Come Nearest to 2:50.

VAIL WON FIRST PRIZE.

TWO HEATS TROTTED AND TIME AVERAGED TO GET RESULTS.

There Was a High Wind, But Good Time Was Made by the Horses in the Other Contests—Silver Prizes for the Winners—"Myrtle Twig" Won the Race in the 2:25 Class—A Racing Dog on Hand.

Saturday afternoon witnessed several exciting contests in speed at the Plainfield Driving Park. The weather was hardly fit for fast trotting, but despite the high wind some pretty fast time was made.

The most interesting event of the day was the trial of speed to see who could drive nearest to a 2:50 clip. This seemed easy to experienced horsemen, but many of them were fooled badly by the gaits of their horses and made the mile in several seconds more or less than the requisite 2:50.

The horsemen were allowed to go in any style of vehicle they chose, alone or in groups. They were not to carry watches or be prompted by any one along the track. Two heats were trotted and an average struck, which decided who was entitled to the cup.

A. C. Vail, with his bay horse "Bud Onward," succeeded in winning the first prize, a silver cup, and Robert Fairbairn took the silver soup ladle as second. George Tobin was fortunate enough to win the silver spoon as third.

Mr. Vail trotted his first heat in 2:58¾, and the second in 2:41¼. Averaged these records made 2:50 exactly.

Mr. Fairbairn's two heats were trotted in 2:55 and 2:40, making him 5 seconds out of the way. Mr. Tobin made the first mile in 2:51¼ and the second in 2:54, making him 5¼ seconds out of the way.

Other contestants were C. L. Wright, 3:05 and 2:45; Henry Hays, 3:00 and 2:53¼; John Mantz, 2:35¼ and 3:20; Horace Martin, 2:55 and 2:57½; W. A. Coddinton, 2:43 and 3:06½; J. W. Johnson, 2:51 and 2:56.

Two races were trotted, in two heats each, which broke up the monotony of the other sport.

The first was between W. A. Coddington's bay mare, Mayor Smalley's bay horse and David Smalley's bay horse. The first heat was won by Mayor Smalley in 2:35¼, with Coddington second and David Smalley third.

The second heat was won by David Smalley in 2:29¼ with Coddington second and Mayor Smalley third.

The second race was of the 2:25 class. The entries were Osborne's "Linola," from the Woodbrook Farm; Darby's "Sunday," and Brantingham's "Myrtle Twig." The two heats were won by Osborne, with Brantingham second and Darby third. Time, 2:29 and 2:26¾.

An amusing feature of this last race was a large dog of the greyhound breed, who started with the horses and kept up with the leader until the three-quarter post had been passed, when he gave out. The dog did not seem to annoy the horses at all, although Darby's "Sunday" faltered a little when he came up with the animal.

A PRESUMPTUOUS OFFICER

A Jersey City Special Got His Face Punched Saturday Night.

John Neuman and Patrick Lawler were arrigned before City Judge Runyon this morning on the charge of disorderly conduct on Somerset street Saturday night. They were having a wordy set-to with a Scotch Plains man when James McKeon, who claims to be a special officer at Jersay City, attempted to act as peace maker. McKeon's participation in the argument was resented and Neuman landed a sockdolager on his face. Then McKeon retaliated by hitting Lawler and sending him sprawling out into the street. Subsequently Lawler was put under arrest, as well as Neuman.

McKeon appeared in court this morning and explained his part in the fracas. His reason for interfering with the men was that he is a special officer in Jersey City, but just what a Jersey City officer had to do with the peace and good morals of Plainfield was not dilated on by the court officers. The Judge suspended sentence on the prisoners. It appeared as though McKeon's conduct was presumptious.

Talked in Jersey City Y. M. C. A.

F. H. Martin, of West Front street, addressed the Y. M. C. A. of Jersey City yesterday afternoon in the Hasbrouck Institute. He gave an illustrated talk upon "Candles."

BURLY HIGHWAYMEN TOOK SMITH'S $14.

Anticipated Their Holdup and Hid His Gold Watch.

ROBBED NEAR "EIGHT ROW."

ON HIS WAY FROM NEW MARKET TO PLAINFIELD AT 3 A. M.

William Smith, of New Market, Was the Victim, and He Was on His Way to Plainfield to Get Supply of Bread for His Route—"Come up Now With What You've Got," He Heard.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 22—A daring holdup occrred here early Saturday morning, near the "Eight Row," on West Front street. Two highwaymen successfully attacked William Smith, of New Market, and took from him the sum of $14 in money, but were prevented from getting any more booty by a trick he played on them.

Smith has a bread route, and was out at the early hour going to Plainfield after the day's supply of bread. When near Rock avenue Smith noticed two men in the road ahead of him, who seemed to be loitering along. As the horse came abreast of them one of the men seized the animal by the bridle, saying in a low voice, "Come up now with what you've got."

At the same time the second highwayman ran up to the wagon and ordered Smith to hand over his money. Smith, who was supicious the minute he saw the men, had quickly unloosened his watch chain and dropped his gold watch into one of the bread boxes, before they had time to reach him.

He had a pocketbook containing about $14 in his pocket, and this he handed out without a word. To his surprise the men left him as soon as they got the money.

Smith continued his drive to Plainfield and got his supply of bread. Later in the day, when the story of the holdup had become noised about the borough, George Pizie came forward with Smith's wallet, which he had found along the road where it had been thrown by the men. As Smith is unable to describe the men, no clue to them can be secured.

JEW CHRISTIANS HEARD.

Interesting Address Made by G. Herr Cohen Last Night.

Last evening at Trinity Reformed church a large and thoroughly interested audience had the pleasure of listening to an address by G. Herr Cohen, a Jewish Christian, of London, who is now traveling in this country enlisting the sympathies of the Gentiles in behalf of his people. He was accompanied by B. A. M. Schapiro, superintendent of the Christian Missior to the Jews, 129 Boerum street, Brooklyn. The object of the service was to secure funds to carry on the work in Brooklyn among the Jews. Through the earnest talk of Mr. Cohen a great many people present were induced to contribute to the cause.

Mr. Cohen's remarks were chiefly devoted to the Jew as he is at his home in Jerusalem, and in several other countries. He spoke about the manners, customs, etc., of the Jew, and of how he is persecuted throughout the world. Mr. Cohen exhibited several articles of dress worn by the Jews and explained their use. Altogether the service was an interesting and helpful one to all present. Any person desiring to contribute to this work can send their money to John W. James, treasurer, 123 Maiden Lane, New York.

Many persons attending the meetings at the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon and Trinity Reformed church last evening, were impressed with the fact that Mr. Cohen, one of the Jewish speakers, resembled very much many celebrated paintings of the Saviour.

Writ of Attachment Issued.

T. J. Carey has had an attachment issued by Justice Nash on the goods of Mrs. Bogert, who was about to move them out of the state without paying an alleged storage bill. Carey has been storing the goods for sometime, and when they were removed last week and put on the car this morning without Mrs. Brgert satisfying the bill, which amounted to $9, Carey swore out the writ.

Interment of Mrs. Cushing.

The remains of Mrs. Cushing, wife of Milton F. Cushing, for many years editor of "The Plainfield Union," this city, were interred in the family plot of the North Plainfield Cemetery on Saturday, beside her husband, who died February 8th, 1875.

MIDST OF POKER GAME POLICE CAME.

Eight Colored Men Were Caught in the Raid.

ONLY ONE WAS PUNISHED.

HE WAS CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN WHO RENTED THE ROOM.

The Arrests Made in a Garret Room in the Hetfield Row by Three Officers—Judge Runyon Decided That Chamberlain Was the Only One Who Had Committed an Offence Against the City Law.

Since the decision of Judge Runyon that it is not a crime to play cards in a private house, even for the money, the police have made but few arrests on the charge of gambling. Early yesterday morning, however, the minions of the law donned their warpaint and went forth. The result was shown in police court this morning when eight gentlemen of color lined up in front of City Judge Runyon, all charged with being in a full fledged poker game which Sergeant Kiely, Roundsman Frederickson and Patrolman VanDerweg raided at 1 o'clock yestermorning in the top room in one of the houses in Hetfield row on Arlington avenue.

For sometime past the police have been suspicious of the place and have been waiting their chance to unearth what they thought to be a complete gambling outfit. Shortly after midnight yesterday the trio of officers decided that the opportune time had arrived. Having located the suspicious place before they had no trouble in making direct for it. Up to the garret room they went, and in some hokus-pokus method gain admittance in impromptu manner.

The scene that met their eyes would doubtless have whetted the appetite of a Mazeteer. Eight gentlemen of color were in the room, six of whom were engaged in playing the festive game around a table covered with a bed quilt to deaden the sound of cards as they were thrown down by the interested players.

While all was quiet on the scene before the advent of the police, the moment they appeared the room was in utter confusion owing to the prompt and promiscuous manner in which the dusky players endeavored to conceal their acts. But the police were too quick and in a minute the occupants of the room submitted to arrest as well as confiscation of their paraphernalia and money. They were all taken to the police station and locked up till morning.

Yesterday morning they were arraigned before Mayor Rockfellow and released to appear before Judge Runyon this morning. The names of the prisoners were as follows: Charles Chamberlain, proprietor of the room, Gilbert Thompson, Charles Crouse, Jed Freedman, Leander Brown, Charles Jefferson, Rowley Crouse and Reuben Ray.

This morning they were brought before Judge Runyon and the story of the raid told. The Judge decided that under the law he could not hold any of the prisoners but Chamberlain, whom he adjudged guilty of conducting a gambling house. He fined him $25, which was paid. The others players were discharged.

RED MEN TAKE THE LEAD.

Miantonomo Tribe to Push Fourth of July Celebration Idea.

A meeting of the Fourth of July committee of Miantonomo Tribe of Red Men will be held tonight in William Newcorn's office on West Front street when a form of invitation will be drawn up to be sent to all the societies and organizations of Plainfield asking them to send representatives to a general meeting to be held probably June 6th.

The celebration will be handled with all the skill the originators put into it four years ago, and if the weather is propitious a celebration second to none will take place. It is the intenton of the committee from Miantonomo Tribe to invite every society to participate, so that it will not be considered as altogether a Red Men's affair.

Borough Arrests.

Thomas Martin, of New York, who has been engaged hereabouts for a short time doing odd jobs, was arrested Saturday evening in the borough for being intoxicated. This morning Recorder Long imposed a fine of $5, which was paid. Ceasar Taylor, colored, was also arrested in the borough Saturday night on a charge of being intoxicated, and he was fined $5. Up to noon he had failed to raise the cash and he may go to Somerville for a few days.

MINISTER SAYS THE 'PLAINS IS WICKED.

Rev. Mr. Shott Refers to Desperate Act of Miss Messler.

HAS SECURED HER STORY.

VISITED HER AT THE HOSPITAL YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Stated in His Sermon Last Night That She Made a Statement to Him That He Would Not Repeat Until He Had Investigated It—Promises Some Revelations in His Sermon Next Sunday.

The attempted suicide of Miss Alida Messler in the hallway of the Codington building on Park avenue last Friday afternoon as a result of the trouble she had gone through with her parents, who did not like the company she went with, was the basis for a statement made by Rev. Mr. Shott, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, yesterday, during the course of his sermon, that Scotch Plains was the most sinful town he had ever lived in.

Miss Messler is a member of the Baptist congregation and this fact has led Rev. Mr. Shott to take a special interest in the attempted suicide of the girl. Yesterday morning Rev. Mr. Shott intimated that Miss Messler's desperate act was the result of the disgraceful things that transpired in that place last Sunday when a party of Plainfield sports visited the place. He said that it was his intention of going to the Muhlenberg Hospital in this city in the afternoon and interviewing Miss Messler. In view of this he said he might have something interesting to say in the evening.

The fact that the minister was going to the hospital became noised around town during the day and a large audience was attracted to his church in the evening. During the course of his sermon Rev. Mr. Shott said that he had visited Miss Messler during the afternoon and that she had told him her story. He said that the statements that she made were very startling to him, but they were of such a nature that he did not dare repeat them in his pulpit till he had had a chance to thoroughly investigate them. During the week he said he would take the pains to investigate what Miss Messler had said to him and if he found them true he would make them public in his pulpit next Sunday. The remarks of the pastor made quite a sensation in the church.

It is known that Miss Messler made a statement to Dr. Long at the hospital in the presence of witnesses, and judging from what is known of this statement Miss Messler did not go to Lawyer Wm. DeMeza's office Friday afternoon to attempt to adjust difficulties alleged to have existed between herself and her father. A Press reporter saw Dr. Long this morning and was informed by the doctor that he understands that there were other motives that called her to the Coddington building, but he declined to discuss the statement made by the girl or to give out any facts regarding it. He does not think that this is the proper time for it to be made public.

The latest advices from the hospital are that Miss Messler will recover. It looks now as though she pulled the trigger of the revolver twice, as next to the cartridge that exploded is one with a dent in the cap, as if made by the sharp point of the trigger. The shell evidently did not go off, and Miss Messler, determined to do the deed, pulled it again.

FOR DR. FRENCH MEMORIAL.

Junior Endeavorers Made $14 for a Worthy Object.

The Junior Christian Endeavorers of Trinity Reformed church held a cake and candy sale Saturday afternoon in the Primary Department room. The tables were very attractive and tastefully arranged with flowers and pink trimmings. The cake table was in charge of Miss Bessie Reighton, Miss Lizzie Trimmer, Miss Mary Neil and Miss Mabie Vanderhoof. The candy tables were superintendened by Miss Ada VanDoren, assisted by Morris Brokaw, Alice Pugh and Anna Randall. Mrs. C. Schenck, superintendent of the Junior society of the church, was present during the sale and by her presence and advice the young people were very materially assisted.

The society feel very thankful for the liberal patronage of their friends, everything being disposed of and about $14 realized for the object, the memorial fund to the memory of the late Dr. French.

TRAIN'S VAIN RACE TO SAVE A YOUNG LIFE.

Miss Edith Taylor Died on Her Way Home.

A FEW MINUTES TOO LATE.

SHE HAD BEEN IN COLORADO FOR PAST TWO YEARS.

Returning to the East in a Special Car When Death Overtook Her at Omaha, Neb.—Doctors Were on Hand, But Train Arrived Too Late—Family Resided on Rockview Terrace.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Omaha, Neb., May 22.—Just as the handsome private car Atlantic, on the Rock Island Railroad, drew into the Central station yesterday afternoon, Miss Edith Taylor, a member of a well known family of Plainfield, N. J., died from pulmonary complications. The young woman was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. M. S. Taylor, and her brother, Frederick.

The private car of the company was attached to the Eastern Express at Colorado Springs Saturday. Miss Taylor was ill, and two professional nurses were engaged for the trip. When the lower altitude was reached the young woman exhibited signs of exhaustion, and as the train approached Omaha a supreme effort was made to save her life.

Physicians were consulted by wire and a specialist hurried to the railroad station with a machine prepared to administer oxygen to the dying girl the moment the train arrived.

Two persons accompanied the specialist, and the machine was prepared for work on the platform about where the special car would stop.

As the train halted the specialist leaped aboard ready for work, but was met by the weeping parent of the young woman, who had died but two minutes before. The oxygen might have preserved her life, and the engine driver made an especially fast run for forty miles with the hope of reaching Omaha in time.

The brother of the dead girl offered a large sum of money as a premium to the engine driver if he could rush the train ahead of time, but after all efforts the young woman died when help was near at hand.

The special car was sidetracked here and the body prepared for shipment to the east. The family is well known in the east. The father, a merchant of long standing, died several months ago. He had resided for some time at Plainfield, N. J.

The family had been traveling west for several months.

Miss Taylor, whose sad death is recorded in the above despatch from Omaha, was well-known in Plainfield. For several years the family lived on Rockview terrace, and were active in social and church circles. For the past two years Miss Taylor and her mother have been in Colorado in the hopes of benefitting the former's health. Recently they decided to come east as Miss Taylor was not improving and she desired her last days near her old home. It was while making the trip that death occurred as stated above.

Last Saturday S. St. John McCutchen, of Rockview avenue, received a telegram from Mrs. Taylor requesting him to rent a cottage for them at Belmar for the summer. Saturday he went to Belmar and made arrangements for the cottage. Yesterday Mr. McCutchen received a telegram conveying the news of Miss Taylor's death. The remains will be brought to this city for interment.

Talked to Trinity Sunday-School.

Mrs. E. B. Horton, of Cranford, who is employed by the board of domestic missions to personally visit the Indian schools and churches in the west, yesterday afternoon gave a very interesting account of a recent visit to an Indian church at Oklahoma. Her talk was so entertaining that all of the 325 scholars and teachers present were really sorry when it was time for her to stop. One of the small boys, Elmer Bohan, was dressed as an Indian warrior, and stood on the platform beside the speaker, as an object-lesson.

Successful Church Sale.

The Church of the Redeemer sale held Friday and Saturday at the house, 20 Willow avenue, came to a close Saturday evening and was eminently successful, socially and financially. It is estimated that the sum of $158 will be cleared above all expenses. The attendance Saturday afternoon and evening was larger than the most sanguine anticipated, and everything was disposed of.

BRILLIANT MUSICALE AT THE "CHESTNUTS."

Correct and Spirited Expression of Miss May's Pupils.

AN APPRECIATIVE AUDIENCE

TEACHERS AND PUPILS MEMORIZED EACH SELECTION.

The Event Was Given in Study Hall of the Seminary Saturday Afternoon—Showed Great Proficiency on the Part of the Pupils and Appreciation by the Audience—Those Who Took Part.

Blooming branches of dogwood in profusion made an artistic background for Study Hall at the Plainfield Seminary on Seventh street, where a musicale was given Saturday afternoon that showed great proficiency on the part of the performers and thorough appreciation by a large audience.

Expression in musical technique counts for as much as expression in elocution or oratory, and this musicale, given by Miss May's pupils, was characterized by correct and spirited expression. The following programme was rendered with accuracy, taste and skill, that in some cases reached brilliant performance:

Hungary—From "The Nations"..Moszkowski
Miss Emily Grovesteen and Miss Ruth Dudley.
Evening Song.....Thallon
Serenade.....Kirchner
William Schoonmaker.
Arietta.....Grieg
Il Penseroso.....Heller
Miss Katherine Gold.
Song.....Miss Agnes Anderson.
Song Without Words.....Mendelssohn
Brooklet.....Heller
Miss Jane Allen.
Tarantella.....Piccsonka
Miss Helen Bushnell.
Knight of the Hobby Horse..... } Schumann
Catch Me if You Can..... }
Arabesque.....Meyer-Helmund
Miss Ruth Dudley.
Prelude and Fugue.....Bach
Shadow Dance.....MacDowell
Miss Mary Wadsworth.
Song..... Miss Anderson
The Flatterer.....Chaminade
Miss Emily Grovesteen.
Impromptu.....Schubert
In Springtime.....Grieg
Miss Ruby Kieb.

The audience showed especial appreciation of Miss Jane Allen's performance of the "Brooklet" with its waves and ripples of music; Miss Helen Bushnell's brilliant rendering of the "Tarantella," full of sprightly and swaying measures; Miss Ruth Dudley's varied selections; Miss Mary Wadsworth's "Prelude Fugue" and 'Shadow Dance," which was quite masterly in its execution; Miss Emily Grovesteen's ability in the "Flatterer" and Miss Ruby Keib's skillful rendering of Schubert's "Impromptu" and Greig's "In Springtime."

Miss Agnes Anderson from New York charmed the audience with songs given in a rich, clear voice, combining sweetness with compass and a distinct enunciation that left no doubt of her meaning. The song "Misgiving" elicited an encore, "The discontented Duckling." The Scotch song "Bonnie Dundee" with the call to arms of two hundred and fifty years ago was followed with "The Meadow-talk" for an encore. Miss Anderson's concluding number was a "Bed-time Song" by Robert Louis Stevenson, set to music.

A pleasing feature of the entertainment, not on the programme, was the exquisite music of Miss May, who, in response to an unwritten demand, performed two selections with rare ability, taste and feeling. A noticeable method of Miss May's and her pupils is the absence of notes, herself and pupils memorizing each selection, when learned. They need never excuse themselves from playing with the tiresome plea, "I haven't my notes."

The walls of Study Hall were decorated with water colors and the drawings in black and white of the pupils of the Seminary under the teacher, Miss Eitlitz, of New York. Miss Harriet Efner Strong was awarded the prize for superiority in drawing.

Acted Only as an Agent.

Robert L. Pierce, of New Market, who was connected as agent with the financial concern which the Calvary Baptist church claims cheated them out of $240, explained to a Press reporter Saturday how he came to be connected with it. Mr. Pierce says that he answered an advertisement in the New York Herald for a financial solicitor, and took up the work for them. He negotiated the loan for the church. But Mr. Pierce says he did not handle a cent of the advance money.

HOSTILITIES SUSPENDED.

Otis Declined an Armistice But Refrains Temporarily From Aggressive Action.

TO DEFEAT DECEPTION.

Lawton Still on Aguinaldo's Trail. Will Be Assisted By Kobbe and His Forces.

The Washington Administration Expects News of an Agreement With the Filipinos Very Soon—Military Authorities Think Lawton's Flying Advance Has Had Demoralizing Effect.

Manila, May 22.—Major General Otis has declined to recognize the rebels to the extent of agreeing to an armistice, but he has ordered the American commanders to refrain temporarily from aggressive action. Thus he is in a position to resume hostilities at any time. This will defeat any subterfuge to gain time on the part of the rebels, which would not be the case if the General agreed to an armistice. The Filipinos are said to be so deceptive that persons here hesitate to credit with good faith their latest overtures. But more attention is now paid to them than was paid to their previous advances.

The Filipino Commission is acting under instructions from Aguinaldo, and the Congress, but it is possible that if peace is arranged, Gen. Luna and Pio del Pilar and their followers will continue a guerrilla warfare.

Manila, May 22.—Aguinaldo's Commission has requested that an armistice be granted by the Americans until the people can be consulted upon the question of peace or a continuance of the war.

The Commissioners have also asked permission to confer with a commission representing the Filipinos living in Manila.

Gen. Otis refused to consider the first request, but has granted the second request upon the condition that the Commissioners act as representing the Filipinos generally.

Washington, May 22.—News of an agreement of peace with the Filipino insurgents is expected to reach the War Department very soon. Gen. Otis's latest despatch reports the capture of Candaba, to which place Aguinaldo fled on Thursday from the American forces under Gen. Lawton, at San Isidro. That Aguinaldo has again been forced to flee is particularly gratifying to War Department officers. It is evident, they say, that he is thoroughly frightened, and would gladly come to an agreement of peace. But if the latest profession of a desire for peace is merely a pretension to enable the Filipinos to recuperate after their many defeats, they will probably be disappointed, for it is certain Gen. Lawton will continue his advance until an understanding is reached.

Gen. Lawotn is expected to continue his pursuit of Aguinaldo and his followers, and will be assisted in this by Col. Kobbe's forces. The natives succeeded a day or two ago in reaching Tarlac, nearly thirty miles from San Fernando, and it is believed that Aguinaldo will endeavor to effect a junction with them there, if he has not already done so. As Tarlac is on the Dagupan Railroad it is not improbable that Gen. MacArthur may decide to send a body of soldiers by rail from San Fernando and break up the Filipino headquarters later.

It is recognized by military authorides here that Gen. Lawton's flying advance through the insurgent country has done more than anything else to cause Aguinaldo and his adherents to desire peace. A few more such relentless sweeps will, it is believed, be followed by such complete demoralization in the Filipino ranks that they will throw down their arms and surrender without any idea of terms.

Washington, May 22.—A Manila newspaper, the American, which has been received here, under date of Sunday, April 16, contains news of an attempt to assassinate Gen. Wheaton, which seems to have either escaped the attention of the American newspaper correspondents at Manila or to have attracted the blue pencil of the censor. This item reads: "Last Friday evening Brig.-Gen. Wheaton, while away from headquarters, was attacked by one of his native servants, who made an attempt upon his life. After attacking him, stones and other missiles were thrown at him. The General was brought to the city last night for medical attention, and it was discovered that he had three ribs broken. He, however, refused to go to the hospital, but returned to his command an hour later on the North Line."

GENERAL LLOYD WHEATON.

The same newspaper contains a curious story of the arrest and imprisonment at Manila of the noted insurgent leader, Gen. Pio Del Pilar. The department has no official advices of this character, nor has it been mentioned heretofore in press despatches.

Luna Breaks With Aguinaldo

Manila, May 22.—General Luna has dissolved the peace commission appointed by Aguinaldo. Two of its members—Buencamino and Colonel Arguelles—have been put under arrest at Tarlac, where Luna's government is established.

Four other commissioners were appointed, who came into General Lawton's lines at San Isidro. Their authority is limited to asking a cessation of hostilities. The new commission is headed by General Gregorio del Pilar.

Colonel French, with the Twenty-second infantry was sent down the river three miles from San Isidro by General Lawton. He met the enemy, driving them out with the loss of four Americans.

Major Kobbe with the Seventeenth and Ninth regiments, is expected to meet Colonel French at Arayat.

The Rio Grande will then be clear of natives.

Filipino Hearing To-Day.

Washington, May 22.—The following despatch from General Otis was received at the War Department.

Commissioners of Aguinaldo arrived Wish to consult United States Commission, which they will do to-day. Their power limited and apparently armistice a condition precedent to negotiations. Aguinaldo asks cessation hostilities to ascertain desires of Filipino people.

(Signed) OTIS.

DEWEY RETURNS

Admiral Dewey Starts on His Journey to America Amid Booming of Cannon and Streaming Bunting.

Manila, May 22.—Admiral Dewey has started for home.

The cruiser Olympia left her anchorage in Manila Bay Saturday steaming out between the cruiser Baltimore and the battleshp Oregon.

The scene as the Admiral left the waters in which he had made himself famous was an inspiring one.

All the ships were gayly decorated, and as the Olympia slowly picked her way out of the bay each vessel fired an admiral's salute.

The crews stood at quarters and cheered frantically, while the bands with one accord, played "Home, Sweet Home."

Throughout the ovation the Admiral stood uncovered on the quarterdeck of the Olympia.

The cailors on the British cruiser Powerful manned the rigging as the Olympia passed and gave three ringing cheers.

Admiral Dewey says he expects to reach New York about September 1.

The Olympia will stop at Hong Kong from which port she will go to Singapore, thence to Colombo and Aden. She will also possibly call at some port in Greece.

Admiral Dewey says he expects to reach New York about September 1.

Barker in Command

Washington, May 22.—A message from Captain Barker, of the Oregon, received by Secretary Long, announced that Admiral Dewey had started home.

Just how long it will require the Admiral to get home will be determined partly by his own pleasure, but Secretary Long believes he will be here in August.

Dewey's Itinerary

Washington, May 22.—This computation of the distances and probable time of Admiral Dewey's trip home is furnished at the Navy Department:

Manila to Hong Kong, 630 knots; Hong Kong to Singapore, 1,440 knots; Singapore to Colombo, 1,560 knots; Colombo to Aden, 2,130 knots; Aden to Suez, 1,310 knots; Suez to Port Said, 724 knots; Port Said to Gibraltar, 2,020 knots; Gibraltar to New York, 3,264 knots. Total, 12,366 knots.

Allowing an entire day and night for the passage through the Suez Canal, which is the regulation time, the remainder of the voyage, 12,294 knots, will probably be made at an average speed of eleven knots an hour or in forty-six and one-half days.

Navy Department officials are satisfied that the Admiral will stop at least a day or two at Malta, where his life was saved fifteen years ago by means of a critical operation, and where he spent several months recuperating among loving friends who now wish to welcome him.

MRS. HOWE BITTER

Says if Negroes Cannot Be Protected Flag Should Be Lowered.

Boston, May 22.—At the anti-lynching mass meeting called by the women of Boston, Mrs. Butler R. Wilson, wife of a well-known colored citizen, presided. On the the platform were Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, Mrs. Edna D. Cheney, Mrs. Alice Freeman Palmer, Mrs. Richard Hallowell, the Rev. Mary Whitney, Mrs. Florida Ridley, Mrs. Harriet Reed and Mrs. Mary C. Leavitt.

Mrs. Cheney, Mrs. Ridley, a colored woman, and Mrs. Howe were among the speakers. Mrs. Howe said: "I hold that the Federal Government is bound to see that the negro vote in the South is properly counted, and that military protection be afforded the negroes in dangerous sections. If the central government cannot do this, Americans might as well take down their flag and raise the black flag of piracy."

Haverhill, Mass., May 22—At the convention of the Colonial Baptist Ass'n (colored) resolutions were adopted appealing to the Christian ministry and the churches to unite in an appeal to God in behalf of suffering humanity in the South, where "lawlessness is on the increase to an alarming extent," and where "neither the local nor national government seems to care enough about the negro to protect him, leaving the race to the mercy of mobs."

Match Consolidation.

New York, May 22.—There was a report in circulation from Akron, O., of an advance in Diamond Match stock because of an announcement that Edwin Gould had signed contracts for the transfer of the interests of the Continental Match Company to the Diamond. Mr. Gould said that he had not heard of the report. He said there might be negotiations pending between the Continental and Diamond companies, but that he did not know what results had ben accomplished yet or what might be. He declined to discuss the situation further. The report from Akron intimates that the Union Match Company, recently incorporated in New Jersey, had been formed as an agency for the Diamond, with the object of securing control of several smaller companies, and that this object is being attained already.

THE LATEST NEWS.

THE PARIS STRUCK ON MANACLE ROCKS.

Falmouth, England, May 22.—The American Line steamship Paris, known as the Yale in the Spanish-American war, Captain Watkins, from Southampton and Cherbourg for New York, struck on an outlying ridge of the Manacles at a point half a mile from where the wrecked Atlantic transport liner Mohegan lies. The vessel is still on the rocks, and an attempt to get her off at high tide failed.

Captain Watkins says that the steamer struck in a fog. This is disputed by several passengers. They say the night was misty, but not foggy.

One captain whose vessel passed near the rocks before the accident says the lights were clearly visible and the bell buoy could be plainly heard. He He cannot understand how the Paris got into the position she is in. W. H. Southworth, an English passenger, says that the ship's log shows that the Paris was further out of her course than the ill-fated Mohegan.

The weather is mild, and unless it changes there is strong hope of saving the vessel. All of the 386 passengers were taken off safely, and lighters were at work removing the baggage.

The Paris, which sailed from Southampton, called at Cherbourg, France, and picked up fifty passengers, and about seven hours afterward left Cherbourg at high tide and in a dense fog. At high tide and in a dense fog she ran ashore. From the first there was no danger. Lifeboats and tugs were soon literally swarming around the vessel to give assistance.

The first intimation of the vessel's striking the rocks was a slight, grating sound, which was followed by a second and more pronounced shock. The lookout shouted that there was something looming ahead, but before there was time to reverse the engines the ship had gone on the rocks two hundred yards from shore.

When the vessel struck the crew was ordered on deck. The passengers when appearing were met at the companionway with comforting words and assurances of their safety. Exceptional coolness was shown on all sides. Captain Watkins had his gig lowered and rowed ashore in order to ascertain his whereabouts and to telegraph to Falmouth for tugs to assist his ship. In the meantime rockets were sent up and signal guns were fired.

When dawn broke every one on board was relieved to find the shore on one side and lifeboats lying near on the other. The vessel lay with her head to the southwest, the reversing of her engines having put her broadside onto the rocks.

When Captain Watkins returned from his trip ashore he learned that there was already considerable water in the hold, and the tugs which had arrived stood by in readiness for any emergency. All the passengers were transferred to the tug Dragon, but beyond the clothes they wore they took nothing with them. They were all landed at Falmouth.

DAWSON CITY HAS A BIG FIRE.

Victoria, B. C., May 22.—An extra ceived by the steamer Tees, contains ceived by thes teamer Tees, contains the following report, wired from Bennett to Skaguay:

"Another disastrous fire has visited Dawson City, this time fairly wiping out the entire business portion of the town, creating losses that will aggregate $1,000,000. The news was telegraphed from Bennett by the special correspondent of the Daily Alaskan, who received it from a man named Tokales, who has just reached Bennett from a long and perilous trip out from Dawson. Mr. Tokales reports that the fire occurred on April 21 in the heart of the business centre of the city, beginning near the Opera House, on the water front, and spreading with unusual rapidity, destroying everything in its way on that street down to and including Donahue & Smith's establishment, and taking in all of the water front. The fire crossed the street, burned through and spread over to Second street, covering the principal business portion of Dawson, leaving it all in ashes, with the firemen powerless to do anything. The fire consumed everything from the Simmons Royal Cafe down to and opposite the Fairview Hotel.

SON SUSPECTED OF KILLING TWO.

Bellefontaine, Ohio, May 22.—Mrs. Rachel Austin and her son William were murdered in their homes at Middleburg, this county, and their bodies nearly cremated in the house, which was set on fire, and Ernest Austin, a younger son, lies at the point of death in a neighbor's house from a bullet wound in the breast.

The crime is shrouded in mystery. Ernest appeared at the door of the neighbor's house. He was desperately wounded. He said he was awakened by a rap at the door. When he went down stairs he was met by a robber, who shot him, killed his mother and brother and then set fire to the house to conceal the crime. Soon after making the statement he became unconscious, and it is not believed that he can recover.

Notwithstanding the story told by Ernest, the neighbors believe that he killed his mother and brother and then shot himself, although there is no positive evidence on that point. The Austins were notorious for their quarrels, and Ernest was especially high-tempered. A servant who was at their house said the two men and the mother were quarreling over the property, the mother declaring that she would apply to the courts for a settlement, and Ernest had declared that he would never permit that.

An unsolicited testimonial to the value and excellence of Ripans Tabules comes from one of the best known stenographers in Philadelphia, a gentleman who for a number of years has been connected with one of the largest brokerage firms in that city: "Stenography," he says, "has been my life study To it I have given all my time and attention. I occupy a position of trust and in order to merit the confidence reposed in me I have to give very close attention to my duties. I would be unable to do this were it not for the use of Ripans Tabules, which I consider the only successful remedy for ills of the stomach and liver, and furthermore the nerves. About a year ago I became a sufferer from nervous dyspepsia and indigestion to such a degree that I was in constant dread of falling behind in my work. It was a friend who first told me of Ripans Tabules and advised me to make trial of them. I did so and the relief was absolute and immediate, and in a month I was practically as free from the trouble as I was before it began. I have continued to take the Tabules, at intervals, ever since, because I find them not only excellent for keeping the general system in tone, but for the purpose of occasional slight stimulation. I can sincerely recommend Ripans Tabules. The duties incumbent upon an expert stenographer and practiced typist are severe and exacting. To be able to take dictation at a rapid rate and from men who are entirely different in their methods requires a steady hand and a clear head. The ordinary stenographer will tell you that he cannot do his work properly unless his physical condition is good."

A new style packet containing FIVE RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENT—a low price for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (sixty tabules) can be had by mailing forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce Street, New York, and a single carton (five TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

CUBAN DISPUTE SETTLED.

Alger Cabled Directions to Proceed With Distribution of the $3,000,000.

GIVE ARMS TO MAYORS.

Weapons to Be Kept in United States Armories and Under the Care of Cuban Armorers.

Cubans Thus Will Have a Proprietary Interest in Weapons and be Trusted With Their Keeping—Arrangements for Surrender and Future Care Already Provided for By Brooke.

Washington, May 22.—President McKinley has had a conference with Secretary Alger, the result of which was that the Secretary cabled directions to Major-Gen. Brooke at Havana to proceed immediately with the distribution of the $3,000,000 furnished by the United States for the payment of the Cuban army on condition that it surrender its arms and disband. This marks the end of the embarrassment arising from the negotiations between Gen. Brooke and Gen. Maximo Gomez, which threatened at one time to prove serious. The action of the President and the Secretary of War was made possible by more accurate knowledge of the plan of Gen. Brooke for disposing of the arms to be surrendered by the Cuban soldiers. Although the agreement between Gen. Brooke and Gen. Gomez is a modification of that outlined in the original instructions of President McKinley, it is of such a character that the President and Secretary Alger had no hesitation in approving it, and the directions to Gen. Brooke were sent accordingly.

The arms are to be surrendered to the Alcaldes in the presence of United States officers designated by Gen. Brooke, and not directly to these officers, as originally directed by the President. The Alcaldes are then to turn over the arms to the American representatives and representatives of the Cuban army, and they are to be shipped under guard to Havana and Santiago, where they are to be placed in United States armories. At the armories they will be under the immediate care of armorers appointed by Gen. Gomez, and are to be exhibited as relics of the Cuban insurrection and Spanish-American war. In this way the Cubans will have a proprietary interest in the weapons and will be charged with their preservation, while the American authorities will be in practical possession of them. After being made acquainted with these circumstances the President and Secretary Alger decided to approve General Brooke's agreement with Gen. Gomez.

The arrangement for the surrender and future care of the arms was set forth in an order issued by General Brooke, which he has sent to the War Department for its information. The order provides for the distribution to the Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Corps of the Cuban Army of their portion of the $3,000,000 allotted by the United States. It is similar to other orders dealing with the remaining corps. In this order Gen. Brooke names the Commissioners who are to have charge of the distribution.

New Military Stations in Cuba.

Washington, May 22.—The War Department has received from Gen. Fitzhugh Lee the information that he has established three military stations in the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio. They are known as Camp Egbert, at Pinar del Rio city; Camp Columbia, in the province of Havana, and Camp Young, at Guanajay City.

Gen. Lee has ordered that the commanding officers at Camps Egbert and Young are to act as district commanders, supervise matters relating to civil administration, direct the distribution of rations to indigents, assist the authorized Red Cross agents in the discharge of their duties and generally supervise affairs in their respective districts. The order says:

"Civil laws will be administered by civil officers, with whom there should be no interference, except in cases of emergency, and in all such cases immediate report, embodying all facts, should be transmitted brough he proper channels to these headquarters."

Gen. Lee has begun arrangements for the construction of target ranges at all the principal camps in his department, with a view of having the troops enter into target practice as soon as possible. Officers have been asked to submit estimates and report on suitable grounds for target instruction.

Gen. Lee has announced the following assignement of troops in the provinces of Havana and Pinar del Rio:

Headquarters and Troops A, B, D, F, H, K, L and M, Seventh United States Cavalry, and Light Batteries A and F, Second United States Artillery, at Camp Columbia.

Headquarters and eight companies First United States Infantry and Troop E, I, C and G, Seventh United States Cavalry, at Camp Egbert.

Major William E. Dougherty and four companies First United States Infantry at Camp Young.

Following Day in Porto Rico.

Washington, May 22.—Several orders have recently been promulgated by the commanding officer of the Department of Porto Rico regulating the administration of municipalities. One of these, issued by Gen. Henry shortly before his departure for the United States, orders the observance of the eight-hour law throughout the island. The order says:

"Eight hours in twenty-four shall be considered a day's work throughout the island.

"There shall be no tax on salaries of men or women employed by working in any capacity whatsoever.

"Only taxpayers shall be members of the Municipal Councils and no Councilman shall be exempt from paying any portion of his share of legally and duly apportioned taxes.

"At the end of each calendar month Municipal Councils shall make a report of absentees from their sessions to the Secretary of State, and any Councilman absent from three consecutive sessions without just cause shall be dropped under instructions from the Secretary of State and his place duly filled."

QUESTION VETO POWER.

Right of Gov. Stone to Recall and Veto a Bill He Had Approved.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 22.—Mandamus proceedings are about to be instituted against Gov. Stone and Secretary of the Commonwealth Grist in the matter of the approval and subsequent veto of the McClain bill, providing for the incorporation of companies which could not be chartered under the Corporation law of 1874. The square issue will be raised as to the right of the Governor to first sight a bill, then recall it from the Secretary of the Commonwealth and veto the measure.

Representative George Hosack, of Pittsburg, Chairman of the House, Ways and Means Committee, is understood to be back of the movement to mandamus the Secretary of the Commonwealth to compel him to issue a charter to a company formed under the McClain act. It will be contended that the bill was regularly signed, and certified copies, as approved by the Governor, were furnished by the Secretary of the Commonwealth before Governor Stone discovered the alleged fraudulent change in the interest of distilling companies and vetoed it. It will not be a difficult matter to prove by the State Deparment officials that the bill became a law in the regular way, and that the withdrawal of the measure by the Governor was after certified copies of the act had been obtained by lawyers interested as counsel for companies which are ready to apply for incorporation under its provisions.

Application will probably be made for a charter for some company not entitled to a charter under the present law. This will be refused by the State Department on the ground that there is no law in existence allowing the incorporations of such companies as the one in question. Then would follow the petition for a mandamus to compel the Secretary of the Commonwealth to issue a charter and to decide whether the McClain act is a law or not.

How the McClain act came to be doctored in the interest of distilling companies is said to be well known, and an exposure is probable. A certain clerk in one of the Departments is mentioned in the gossip about the alleged fraud. It is related that he went into the transcribing room on the night the bill was being transcribed and, pretending to assist the transcribers, made the change that resulted in the provision giving distilling companies the right to be incorporated. This clerk's connection with the bill is also said to involve another person prominent in political circles.

Alaskan Boundary Dropped.

London, May 22.—The news from Washington that the resumption of the Anglo-American-Canadian Commission's labors depends upon a settlement of the Alaskan boundary dispute is denied here on unimpeachable authority, his statemen being:

"The thorny nature of the Alaskan question makes it probable that on the resumption of the sittings of the Commission it will be withdrawn from discussion, to be taken up later, should circumstances be favorable. The Alaskan question, in fact, has practically been dropped out of the discussions, and the statement that its discussion and settlement will be made the sine qua non of the resumption of the sitting of the commission is inaccurate."

It is said that the matter has been discussed in the most conciliatory spirit on both sides.

HIGH LIGHTS.

It generally turns out that a broken deal was always cracked.

If you ask a woman for a reason give her time to make one up.

Dismal people would never smile were it not for other people's bad luck.

A cynic sneers whenever he sees a frosted wedding cake in a bake shop window.

Extravagant people are sometimes cured by having to earn the money they spend.

After marriage a girl becomes too economical to cry on her husband's coat collar.

Man gets ready for winter by saving money; woman gets ready by making money fly.

It is the people without background who generally scramble to be seen in the foreground.

Pig Iron Getting Scarce.

Youngstown, May 22.—A local manufacturer is authority for the statement that if the present rate of consumption of pig iron is maintained much longer many mills will soon be forced to shut down for lack of material, the demand far exceeding the supply. He adds that should such a contingency arise the mills of the Mahoning Valley will be able to continue in operation, having purchased largely for future delivery. Inquiries coming to the furnace men from other iron districts would indicate that a similar state of affairs exists throughout the country, and that the foresight of the Mahoning Valley manufacturers in buying so far ahead of their actual requirements now promises to net them handsomely.

To Buy out Cement Factories.

Toledo, O., May 22.—A syndicate of English capitalists is being organized to buy up the Portland cement factories of the United States. Leland White, Anthony White, C. B. E. Cheffins and R. Carling Styles, of London, are here, having come from Michigan Mills to view the big plants at Castalia and Sandusky, O. The scheme is to use English money to buy the plants. The smaller institutions will be closed and a factory o fgreat size will be erected at Quincy, Ill. Land has already been purchased. The company will be capitalized at $1,000,000. The plants to be absorbed are at Buffalo, Akron, Sandusky, Castalia, Union City, Coldwater, Bronson, Chicago and Cleveland.

Good Times for Glass Men.

Pittsburg, May 22.—An increase in wages for 7,500 men was the result of the annual scale conference between the American Flint Glass Workers' Association and the Association of Flint and Lime Glass Manufacturers. Of this number 1,500 skilled workmen will receive an increase of 10 per cent., and 6,000 unskilled hands an advance in proportion. The advance will go into effect at the beginning of the next fire, and will restore to he men the wages they received in 1892 and 1893.

INFORMALLY DISCUSSED.

The Question of Permitting Privateers to Prey Upon Commerce Comes Up.

ENVOYS ARE DIVIDED.

American Delegates in Favor of Prohibiting Privateering But Other Nations Opposed to Action.

Baron De Staal Placed Before the Conference the Czar's Proposed Permanent International Arbitration Tribunal Suggesting That Members Be Nominated For Three or Five Years.

The Hague, May 22.—The question of permitting privateers to prey upon commerce during war was informally discussed yesterday by the delegates to the Peace Conference.

The sentiment was strongly against allowing the subject to come up at the sessions.

The American delegates were in favor of prohibiting privateering, but most of the other nations, led by Italy, were opposed to any action.

Baron de Staal placed before the Conference the Czar's proposed permanent international arbitration tribunal, suggesting that members be nominated for three or five years.

Baron von Stengel's declaration that he regrets having written his much cited and attacked brochure defending warfare is being widely discussed. He says it was taken down by a stenographer from a lecture which he delivered in private before he was selected as a delegate to the Conference. He claims that the pamphlet was only directed against the Utopian vagaries of the numerous peace societies of Europe and America.

Britons Challenge Yankees.

London, May 22—The American Line steamer Paris, which sailed for New York takes a challenge from Oxford and Cambridge Universities to the universities of Yale and Harvard for an athletic contest to take place on the grounds of the Queen's Club, London, during the last week in July.

The programme consists of the following events: 100-yard dash, 120-yard hurdle-race, quarter-mile run, half a mile run, three-mile run, hammer-throwing, high jump, long jump.

This is the regular Oxford and Cambridge programme, with a half-mile run substituted for putting the weight, to the new rules of which event the English university men are not yet accustomed.

The challenge rigidly insists that every American opponent must, like the Englishman, be absolutely a student and absolutely an amateur athlete.

From the communications already exchanged between the representatives of Oxford and Cambridge and parties in America there is little doubt that the challenge will be accepted.

The meeting will be a great attraction at the close of the London season, more especially if the presence of the Prince of Wales, the United States Ambassador, Joseph H.Choate, and Lord Rosebery is secured, as is already stated to be the case.

The university men here who have the matter chiefly at heart, including members of both teams are most anxious for the match. They feel that the proposal sent to the United States is a very sportsmanlike offer and they are confident it will be welcome.

The Englishmen point out that so far as the Americans are concerned they know their own strength and the strength of their rivals, as shown by the Oxford and Cambridge sports in March, but they (the challengers) are ignorant of what their opponents may have succeeded in accomplishing in intercollegiate sports. This, they say, bodes nothing but good, and a most genuine match, with the most genuine desire that the best side may win

The Ohio Under Way.

San Francisco, May 22.—The construction of the battleship Ohio has been fairly started, the first rivet having been driven at the Union Iron Works. The performance was attended with considerable ceremony, the entire Government force being present.

Washington, May 22.—Charles H. Cramp, of the Philadelphia Shipbuilding Company, called at the Navy Department to urge speedy action with regard to furnishing armor plate for the battleships Alabama and Maine, now building in Philadelphia, and which soon will be ready for their armor. Mr. Cramp said that if the plans for the construction of the battleships and cruisers were ready, his company would be prepared to bid upon them, and that a recent extension made to the Cramp Works would enable them to construct a considerable number of the twelve ships provided for, and complete them within the time that would be stipulated.

Fifteen Men Whipped.

Wilmington, Del., May 22.—Fifteen men were publicly whipped in the Newcastle jail yard and two of the number also stood one hour in the pillory. This is the greatest number of whippings in one day for many years. About one hundred spectators were present, including officials of Pennsylvania penal institutions and numerous women, attracted out of curiosity. The culprits whipped stood at the posts with bare backs, while Sheriff Taylor plied the cat-o-nine-tails. It took just twenty-eight minutes to flog all. The prisoner's backs were streaked with welts where the rawhide thongs struck. No blood was drawn.

Lassoed Prisoner in River.

Decatur, Ind., May 22.—City Marshall Wagner and Patrolman Weathers attempted to arrest Ben Middleton for drunkenness. Middleton broke loose, ran to the river, and, wading in to his armpits, defied the officers. They got into a skiff, but ran ashore when Middleton threatened to upset their craft. Finally Wagner, with a lasso forced Middleton beyond his depth, compelling him to swim, nd he was captured, sober. He stood for three hours in the water, while hundreds of people watched the performance from the bank.

Home Trade Question.

There must be something wrong when business men of a town feel that they keep trade at home only by discouraging better outside communication. That is the Plainfield recipe for retaining local trade.—Newark News.

There is nothing wrong with Plainfield at all. The merchants of this city are established here to do business, and to make as much money as is possible out of the trade that is at hand. Plainfield trade naturally belongs to Plainfield, the same as Newark trade belongs to Newark. Does the News or anyone else believe that the Newark Board of Trade would sit idly by if the big department stores of New York were making a special effort to divert the trade of their city into the metropolitan stores? Certainly not.

If the Central Railroad of New Jersey ran trains direct from Plainfield to Newark a dozen times a day the Plainfield merchants would continue to live and do business. Perhaps some of their customers would go to Newark now and then, and thus cause a slight decrease in the revenues of the local stores. But so far as affecting them materially it would not make a great deal of difference, because Plainfield stores are carrying quantity and quality of stock that can easily compete with Newark.

No matter how small the dribble of trade is that is threatened to be diverted from the local stores, the merchants of Plainfield would be lax and unwise not to retain it here if such a thing is possible. The movement to counteract the efforts of the Newark Board of Trade to secure more Plainfield trade is in direct line with enterprise and energy that contributes to make Plainfield one of the best trading centres in Northern New Jersey, and puts her merchants in a superior position in catering to the trade of neighboring towns.

However, the question of Plainfield trade being diverted to Newark is not the sole issue that is interesting Plainfield merchants now; there are other considerations more important that are agitating the movement for an organization to be known as the "Home Trade and Improvement Association."

CAPTAIN LEARY AND THE YOSEMITE.

The cruiser Yosemite, formerly El Sud, of the Morgan steamship line, carries to Guam, our possession in the Ladrone islands, its new governor general, Captain Richard P. Leary. The Yosemite, in addition to being the governor general's fleet, will also be his home until suitable quarters can be constructed on land.

The Fall Election.

Sheriffs will be elected in seventeen counties next fall. Eleven of the Sheriffs to be elected to succeed Republicans, and six will succeed Democrats. The counties to elect in place of Republicans are Atlantic, Burlington, Camden, Cumberland, Essex, Gloucester, Mercer, Morris, Ocean, Salem and Union. The counties to elect in place of Democrats are Hudson, Hunterdon, Middlesex, Monmouth, Sussex and Warren.

It is urged that with the ordinary care on the part of the Republican managers in the respective counties, all the Republican Sheriffs will be succeeded by men of that same faith. It is also quite possible for the Republicans to win in Middlesex County. Congressman Howell carried the county by over 200 last fall, and the Republican standard-bearers have been very successful in that county during the past few years. The other counties having Democratic Sheriffs now, are pretty certain to return Democrats.

Besides this general election of Sheriffs to create a great interest in the contest, there will be State Senators elected in seven counties, who will have a vote on the election of a United States Senator to succeed Senator Sewell. These counties are Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Monmouth, Salem, Somerset and Warren. Of these seven six will elect both a Senator and a Sheriff, viz: Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Monmouth, Salem and Warren. Six of the seven Senatorial counties are now represented by Republicans, and one—Warren—by a Democrat.

The total assessed value of railroad property in the State of New Jersey is $230,000,000, and the total contribution of the railroad corporations to the State revenue constitutes a considerable item of the whole amount. It is estimated that the railroads of New Jersey contribute $1,200,000 a year to State taxes, $500,000 a year to local taxes, and Federal taxes to the amount of $100,000, bringing up their total payments on Government account to $1,800,000 a year.

The World says that Assemblyman Robert Houston, of Elizabeth, is letting no grass grow under his feet these days in keeping his candidacy for Sheriff before the public. He is at every prominent gathering. He is former Mayor Rankin's choice and will have the support of the most of Elizabeth's delegates, but Plainfield has a county candidate in John W. Murray and will demand recognition.

The Medical Record gives the following "more or less good advice to doctors"—and it sounds as though it might also be good for their patients: "Drink less, breathe more; eat less, chew more; ride less, walk more; clothe less, bathe more; worry less, work more; waste less, give more; write less, read more; preach less, practice more."

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

The Elizabeth Journal suggests J. Franklin Fort as a suitable successor to Chancellor McGill. If Gov. Voorhees wishes to do the people of New Jersey signal service he will reappoint Chancellor McGill to "hold the fort." It is time that the leading judicial office of the State was taken out of politics.—Bayonne Herald.

* * * * *

Local merchants will not appreciate any effort of the Board of Trade to secure lower fares between this city and New York. They would like to see the fare twice what it is now, or high enough to make it costly to take a shopping trip there. They say that altogether too many people do their buying out of town. In Plainfield, the merchants of that city are strenuously opposing the efforts of Newark to secure an increased train service between Newark and Plainfield for shoppers. They claim that it would result in the loss to Plainfield of a large share of the local trade.—New Brunswick Times.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

The practice of kissing the Bible no longer prevails in the Middlesex County Courts, the officials following the terms of the act of the last Legislature which makes it sufficient for those taking the oath to have a hand on the Book.

* * * * *

One of the rarest freaks among the feathered tribe that has ever been hatched by a Plainfield hen is a chicken with four legs. Harry Denckla has been experimenting with double-yolk eggs to see if he could not get one to hatch. This chicken is the result and the first return he has ever had for his efforts. The forward legs join the body at the breast-bone, and the rear pair at the hips. The toes of the front legs point forward and those on the hind legs backward. All four legs are perfectly formed.

FOR LOWER RAILWAY FARES.

James E. Martine Says That Present Rates are too High.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Extending through New York city and away up into Westchester county the trolley lines are now carrying passengers for low fares—5 cents as far as Tarrytown. This is doing much to build up Westchester county. Yet New Jersey, with soil far better adapted for homes and with beauty of country unequalled, is still compelled to pay for the same distance the old high rates of railroad fares. Is not this the explanation of the too frequent sign "To Let" in New Jersey towns? Railroad fares, under old conditions, seemed low, but now all this is changed; and if New Jersey expects or desires to hold her residents, and build up the beautiful towns adjacent to New York city, railroad fares must be reduced to a much lower rate. It will not do to answer that commutation is low; this only reaches the head of the family. The wife and daughters will not be satisfied unless they may cheaply reach that great social centre, New York city. Will not our enterprising New Jersey Central start this movement? Something must be done to check further depletion.

J. E. Martine.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press)

Westfield, May 22.—Decoration Day exercises at Westfield will be in charge of a detail from Winfield Scott Post of Plainfield. The graves of the soldiers in Fairview Cemetery will be decorated in the morning. In the afternoon there will be services at Westfield Club Hall, at which addresses will be made by the Westfield clergymen.

Harry Cornish, of the Adams' poisoning case, who is manager of the Knickerbocker A. C. baseball team, which played at Cranford Saturday, was accorded a great deal of attention. He kept score for the visitors but at one part of the game took an active part in an argument with the umpire. The game ended in favor of the Knickerbockers by a score of 14 to 4. Tabor and Hall did good battery work for the home team but their support was very poor, especialily the infield. Dissoway pitched for the New Yorkers and did good work as did Voorhis behind the bat.

Preparations are already being made to hold a big time in Westfield the Fourth of July. A meeting will be called at an early date for the purpose of selecting a committee to make the preparations for the observance of this day which is always the most important one of the year in Westfield.

Dr. Fred A. Kinch, Township Attorney Paul Q. Oliver and Constable Fred Todd will be initiated into the mysteries of Court Provident, No. 3130, I. O. F., at their regular meeting this evening.

Free Mail Delivery for Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 22.—Somerville is soon to have free mail delivery. The business of the office reached the limit some time ago, but owing to apparent indifference of the business men to a change, no action has been taken. Postmaster A. A. Clark sent a communication to the Board of Commissioners Monday night, stating that he was assured of a reasonable prospect of a free delivery, provided the streets had signs at their respective intersections and the houses were numbered. The board made a contract at once for providing signs for the street corners, and passed a resolution requiring cttizens to number their houses. The new system will probably not be adopted until Mr. Clark's successor has been named.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongued coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed, at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store

DIVIDED OVER THE ELDERSHIP.

Question of Life Membership in the Session Disturbs a Church.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 22.—Some of the members of the congregation of the Westminster Presbyterian church want the term specified for which an elder is appointed to serve on the church board. Heretofore the appointment of elders to membership in the session has been for life, but now many favor the election of members of the session for a stated period, and not for life. The matter was discussed recently, but no definite conclusion was reached, and there will be another meeting next week at which the proposed change will again come up.

Westminster church is without a pastor and there is a division in the church in reference to calling a new minister. Those members of the church who favored the call to Rev. Dr Ecob, which was declined, are in favor of electing members of the session for a limited term.

Want Father Bogan to Remain.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, May 22—The congregation of St. Mary's church, this city, were surprised to learn that Bishop Wigger had decided to remove Rev. Bernard Bogan, assistant rector of St. Mary's, to Union Hill. Father Bogan, during his two years in Rahway, has greatly endeared himself to the people of St. Mary's. A strong effort will be made to have him retained at St. Mary's, and it is said that an appeal to this effect, signed by the principal members of the congregation, will be presented to Bishop Wigger.

THE BELLES OF CUBA

CHARACTERISTICS OF THE DAUGHTERS OF THIS ISLAND.

They Possess Many Graces, Love Music and Are Passionately Fond of Dancing—Always Accompanied by a Chaperon—The Custom at Weddings and Christenings.

No other word than Chaucer's "shimmering" can portray the peculiar sunshine in Cuba when the air appears to be full of floating gold dust. The balmy climate, the fragance of tropical flowers, with their soporiferous perfume, steep the senses in a dreamy languor, and all the enchantments which nature weaves in the Pearl of the Antilles render Cuba a veritable Garden of Eden.

The passage of the time is almost imperceptible, as there is no radical change of season to mark its course, for summer only differs from winter by virtue of greater heat and heavy rains, while vegetation and foliage are perennial and gladden the eye all the year round.

The daughters of Cuba possess a languid grace and soft, caressing ways particularly charming. They are very fond of music, and in that hour when the sinking sun still gilds the landscape and tempers the evening air, often leave their homes to drive about the city and listen to the bands in the plazas. In these daily airings they are always accompanied by their mothers, or some elderly female relative. Propriety demands this concession in Cuba, as in Spain, whence most of the prevailing customs are derived.

While the band fills the drowsy air with alternating languorous airs and surring martial strains, a steady stream of carriages circles about the plaza. Few men ride on these occasions. They promenade on foot upon the walks, which are laid just inside the carriage drive, always going in the opposite direction to the string of vehicles. By this plan the men secure the coveted advantage of a direct look into each carriage as it passes, and their glances can thus meet the dark eyes of their inamoritas. Occasionally a carriage will turn aside and stop, when a number of gallants are sure to seize the opportunity to pay compliments to the fair occupants. Etiquette still demands that most of these remarks be directed to mamma or the accompanying duenna. In this respect, however, there are already signs of reversion to the greater social freedom indulged by Americans, and there is little doubt that a new social era confronts Cuba. This, no doubt, will be welcomed by the Cuban society girls, notwithstanding their long affected habits of reserve.

When the concert ends the carriages whirl away to the cafes, where they draw up at the curb, waiters hastening to serve the occupants with ices and refections. These are consumed while seated in the carriage, for Cuban women never enter the cafes unless in company with father, husband or brother. It sometimes happens that when the bill comes it is found to have been paid by some unknown admirer, who takes this rather substantial way of showing devotion.

Cuban society women are passionately fond of dancing, although the "danza" has been long discountenanced by fashion. The Spanish officers, who have for centuries taken a principal part in social affairs, have gone, but in their places are the American officers, who are not slow to admire the Cuban belles. So the remainder of the winter bids fair to be merry. Already a number of sumptuous entertainments are contemplated. The presence in Havana of a large American element will give additional zest and variety to the social season. At these functions Spaniard, Cuban and American will continually meet, and there, at least the spectre of war will be buried.

Weddings usually are celebrated in church, the favorite hour being four o'clock in the morning, as more fitting for the celebration of early mass, without which function no Roman Catholic considers the ceremony complete.

Christenings serve as an excuse for social gatherings. The infant is carried to church by the godparents, who return to the parents' home after the baptism. A collation is then served, and baptismal ribbons, bearing their names, attached to silver or gold coins, are distributed among the guests. On the way from church the carriages are followed by a lot of urchins vociferating for some souvenir of the occasion.

To Keep the Packet Closed.

This illustration shows the general effect of a new packet-closing device. It is utilitarian and can be easily adjusted to any skirt. It comes in sets of a half dozen pairs and is easily sewed on.

PACKET-CLOSING DEVICE.

A Peculiar Case.

Deafness is a peculiar thing, and the ear seems to be a weak sister, which suffers seriously from the ills of other parts of the body. A woman who had for quite a length of time been suffering from deafness and did not know the sound of her own doorbell, went not long ago to a throat specialist for some trouble of that organ. She was treated, went home relieved, and the next day was sitting sewing, when she was greatly startled by the sound of a bell, which was so unusual that her first thought was of a fire. On second thought she knew it could not be that, and upon investigating she found that it was the forgotten sound of the doorbell which she had heard. With the benefit of the throat treatment her hearing had returned, and she could hear as well as ever.

THE SINGER'S RUSE

It was one of those cold rainy days. Everybody knows what that means on shipboard: the deserted decks flooded with water and the saloon crowded with listless and unhappy passengers. Each time I thrust my nose outside, a fierce gust of rain and fog tore the door from my grasp. Invoking such injured and wrathful glances from my fellow voyagers, that I finally abandoned all hope of fresh air, and succumbed to the glare, heat and general stuffiness of the salon.

Too sluggish to give more than half attention to the book I was reading, I ensconced myself comfortably in a corner, with cushions at my back and an incandescent light directly over my head, and proceeded in a desultory fashion to inspect my traveling companions. Some, like myself, were pretending to read. Some were dozing, and a few were simply sitting—waiting for something to happen. It occurred to me that the only passengers who were not distinctly bored, were a group of six or seven gathered about the piano. When I looked closer and perceived who were in that group I did not wonder. A man with a gray beard was sitting on the stool. Near him stood a beautiful young girl with a violin. She had been playing the intermezzo from Cavalleria Rusticana, rather well. I also recognized some young men, who were returning home after a year or two's study of music in Paris and Berlin. They had been honoring one another with various exhibitions of skill; but just then were engaged in chaffing the gray beard.

"Ah, do sing for us!" exclaimed the young girl, with extravagant emphasis, "I am sure you have talent, I can tell it by the noble line of your brow." Her beautiful eyes when turned on the older man, were very pleading, but behind his back she gave the youngsters a killing wink. And they were hugely flattered by this bit of by-play, and at once began vieing with each other in elaborate efforts to cajole the stranger.

Finally, to my surprise, he did sing. He gave them a queer, outlandish song, in a cracked and quavering voice. They pretended to be in raptures. And the more they urged, the more he sang—simple hearted and obliging.

This little farce continued throughout the voyage. Not content with amusing themselves at the expense of the feeble old singer, these young humorists sought to enlarge his audience. I heard one little girl rush up to her parents and say—"Oh, we are having such fun! We tell him his songs are lovely, and then we look at each other and laugh!" This child was a mere infant, and her fond mother smiled admiringly upon her, and then glanced proudly over her little curly head at me.

Toward the close of the trip, the last day out, in fact, the lovely violinist proposed that he give a concert for the benefit of the crew. In reply to his suggestion that she join him in the programme, she said that she would not dream of matching her poor talent with his! Thus saying she turned her back, and glanced significantly at the others present. Smiles of sympathy greeted her. She was very beautiful.

I smiled too. At last I began to smile, and then my smile broadened into a laugh, and I choked, and had to leave the room. I returned just in time to hear that old fool—I beg your pardon—that most amiable clown, consent to give the concert.

As he did so, a grave child in brown, who had been all alone but a silent observer like myself, left her seat and came hurriedly to his side. She looked up at him with gentle determination. "No, don't give the concert," she said, "the people are all thinking about landing, and won't listen. It would simply be kindness thrown away."

"You don't like to hear me sing?"

"Not now," she answered, bravely meeting his gaze. Then she added, glancing at the others with a half smile that bespoke her less the child than I had fancied: "We are a very egotistical set, you know, and are little interested in anybody's talents but our own."

The man's eyes flashed with a sudden resolution; but the next instant he simpered fatuously, and said: "I will sing to-night. I will sing just one song, and it shall be for you! Now I must go—and shave."

They all laughed. And the girl in brown flushed painfully—he ought to have taken her kindly hint, instead of which he was rendering her ridiculous!

I smiled; at least I commenced to smile, but it ended in a laugh.

That evening he was late in joining them; but when he did enter the salon, he strode straightway to the piano—took his seat—and commanded their attention by one, sweeping, masterful chord.

What was this? The lovely violinist forgot to solicit appreciative glances from the assembly.

A graceful, rippling prelude, and then his magnificent voice burst forth in all its fullness. They were amazed—stunned! They forgot where they were—where they had been, where they were going—in the one overwhelming consciousness of that superb voice!

Leaving the piano, he bowed low to the little lady in brown. He was shaved; they recognized ——— ———, the famous baritone.

This time I did not even begin to smile, I laughed from the outset.

You see I had always claimed that my friend was as great an actor, as musician. This trip proved it. He had boarded the Lucania too late to have his name entered on the passenger list. And he vowed he would enjoy the freedom of his vocation, and his barbarous beard, up to the day of landing in New York.

A few nights later little Miss "Brown" had the pleasure of hearing the opera from a box.

Saturday afternoon the baseball team from the Plainfield High School met on the Crescent Oval a team claiming to come from Hasbrouck Institute. If such is a fact the institute ought to be ashamed to send such a team out to play the National game. The team came to Plainfield with two men short, and Messrs. Dupee and Meeker from this city, filled the vacancies. The visitors did not know the first principles of baseball and simply served as an easy mark for the home team. At no time during the contest was there doubt as to who would win, and the home boys had everything their own way.

During the eight and half innings played by the home team they scored 22 runs, while the visitors made 5 runs. The home team made 19 safe hits, and Edwards, pitcher for the home team, struck out 13 of his opponents. The visiting pitcher did not get a strike out to his credit and his team only secured 6 hits off of Edwards. The home team made very few errors, while a number were made by their opponents.

Those who represented the home team are as follows: Morgan, 1b; Radford, lf; Fisher, ss; Miller, rf; Droll, cf; Craig, 3b; Mason, 2b; Squires, c; Edwards, p. The visiting team was made up as follows: McCaffery, 2b; Dear, ss; Scott, c; Coolidge, p; See, rf; Negus, lf: Dupee, 1b; Hall, 3b; Meeker, cf.

The only redeeming feature credited to the visiting team was a double play in the third inning, when See caught a fly batted by Edwards, and he threw Squires out, who was running to second base. Both Dupee and Meeker, Plainfield boys, who played with the Institutes, put up very good ball and held their own. The defeat cannot be attributed to them.

It is to be hoped that the management of the home team will not have the trouble of meeting such class teams again. They are not to blame, however, for the visitors came well recommended.

Pond's baseball nine crossed bats with the Bound Brook nine Saturday afternoon on the latter's grounds at Bound Brook, and were defeated by a score of 17 to 1. There was good playing on both sides and the game was an exciting one, although all one-sided. Squires, for the Pond men, pitched a sharp game and struck out twelve men. Brampton, the Bound Brook's pitcher, is said to have pitched for the New York League team, and is a dandy. He only struck out ten of the visitors, however. The teams lined up as follows:

| BOUND BROOK. | | PONDS. |
|---|---|---|
| Fuller | 1st base | Stevens |
| Enright | second base | Morgan |
| Hurley | third base | Corey |
| Brampton | pitcher | Squires |
| Newhouse | catcher | Doily |
| McDowell | left field | Croke |
| Fox | right field | Muldowney |
| Doyle | centre field | Dodd |
| Kelley | short stop | Scott |

| | | | | | | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Bound Brook | 5 | 6 | 0 | 0 | 2 | 0 | 0 | 4 | 0—17 |
| Ponds | 1 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0 | 0— 1 |

The Woodside nine defeated the Plainfield Juniors on the Giraud avenue grounds Saturday afternoon by a score 24 to 12. Mottely and Nostrom were the battery for the Woodside and Trotter and Lucky for the Juniors.

The Acme Baseball Club played the West Ends Saturday afternoon over in the borough, and defeated them by a score of 52 to 4. Montrose and Mollison were the battery for Acmes, and Sprague and Pangborn, for the West Ends, Keen, Lawler and Scott made home runs.

GOLF.

The Park Golf Club grounds were visited by many golfers Saturday. There were no special events during the day, although it was expected that the preliminary round for the Hooley cup would come off. The first round will probably be played next Saturday. This week it is likely that the summer schedule will be announced.

The only interesting event on the links of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club Saturday afternoon was the semi-final play for the Fisk cup, junior handicap, between George Richards and Morris Dumont. The former won by 5 up and 4 to play. Mr. Richards was in excellent form and played a fine game, while his opponent was very much out of practice, owing to not being able to play much of late. The final play will take place next Saturday, when Mr. Richards will contest for the permanent ownership of the cup with Parker W. Mason, who drew the bye.

Surprised His Parents.

J. D. Brown, of Alliance, Neb., who has been seriously ill for some time past, surprised his parents last Saturday by arriving at their home. Mr. Brown has of late been detained at the Presbyterian Hospital, Chicago but the physicians thought it best for him to come east for awhile, and he will stay with his parents on East Fourth street. Mr. Brown was formerly a resident of this city, but has been a resident of the west for several years.

STRAW ON FIRE TWICE

BOTH BLAZES IN THE BOROUGH DISCOVERED IN TIME

First Fire Was in the Stables in the Rear of a Feed Store on Somerset Street—Another Blaze in Somerset Hotel Barns.

Last Saturday afternoon about 4 o'clock Mr. Lunger, manager for Simonson & Co., of Somerset street, dealers in feed, hay and straw, went to the stables in the rear of the building to get a horse. Approaching the stables he smelled smoke and a hasty examination disclosed the fact that there was a quantity of straw on fire in one of the stalls. The fire had gained little headway, and Mr. Lunger was able to quickly extinguish it. Boys are supposed to have been responsible for the fire.

About 7 o'clock Saturday evening a fire was discovered by Wm. Debele in the rear of Dreyer's Hotel, corner of Lincoln place and Somerset street, where recently the barns and sheds were partially destroyed by fire. The fire was in a quanity of straw stowed away in the lower part of one of the barns. An alarm was sent in from Box 142 by Will Van Winkle, of Somerset street, and the firemen responded at once. Several lengths of hose were laid and a considerable quantity of water was used to extinguish the flames. In a few minutes the fire would have had strong headway, and would have endangered adjoining property. The supposition is that boys are responsible for this fire.

Bernardsville, May 22—Daniel Johnson, editor and one of the publishers of the Bernard Star, a local newspaper, which made its first appearance April 28th, has been missing from home since last Monday, and his wife and friends claim entire ignorance of his whereabouts.

Johnson is 30 years of age and was married last August to a young lady in Morristown. They came to Bernardsville about four months ago.

New Jersey Crop Conditions.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, May 22.—The observers and crop correspondents report for the week ending May 15th that the temperature has been slightly above the normal. Although the nights generally were a little too cool for grass and tender vegetation, the days were warm, with more than the average amount of sunshine. Strawberries are now safe, and a good crop is assured; sweet potatoes, cabbage and tomatoes set out in the fields, are in good condition; grain and grass are improving, and rye in all sections is heading out well, but the straw is short. In the central and northern counties much corn and potatoes have been planted; oats are up and growing, and garden-making about completed; orchard fruits are doing well, the trees having a good set for fruit. Reports from Hunterdon and Sussex counties indicate that the outlook for peaches is decidedly more encouraging.

Children Needing Homes

The New Jersey Children's Home Society on May 11th had on hand seventeen children needing homes, ranging in age from two weeks to twelve years. The larger part of them are boys. During the past four weeks the society has received twenty-six children and has found homes for twenty. This is the largest month's work in the history of the organization. Families wishing children should write immediately to the Superintendent of the Society, Rev. M. T. Lamb, Trenton. The society closes its fifth year this month. Contributions for the work will be especially appreciated at this time, inasmuch as the increase in the number of children handled has laid additional burdens upon the management.

Trolley Runs to Raritan.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, May 22—The trolley cars began running to Raritan Sunday. The Somerset street excavation under the Central Railroad is nearly completed. The sidewalks are now being laid, and the roadway macadamized. The sides of the excavation are being walled up and the whole thing is very satisfactory. The work has cost something over $30,000, of which the trolley company paid $10,000, and the Central Railroad the remainder. It does away with a very dangerous and disagreeable grade crossing.

No Endeavor Meeting Tonight

Mr. Dawson, of New Brunswick, who was to address the Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church tonight, is not able to be present, and his address will be given Wednesday evening at the regular church prayer meeting. No Endeavor meeting will be held tonight, therefore.

What the Comet Teaches.

The comet is 35,000,000 miles away. So is the tramp spectacle man when you want to exchange that misfit pair you bought of him. Collier is a permanency. Goods bought or repaired there are guaranteed and if the need ever arises you always know where to find the guarantor.

Full Turnout of Call Men.

THE WORM TURNED.

Mr. Hornifex Accumulated Some Information at the Expense of the Grocer.

"Here's your change, Mr. Hornifex. Anything else?"

"I believe not."

"Like to sell you some cheese."

"I don't care much for cheese."

"You'd like this. Here, let me give you a taste of it. How's that?'

"M——'m——it isn't bad."

"You bet it isn't. They don't bring that kind of cheese to town every day, I can tell you."

"Still I—"

"Doesn't have any bitter taste, does it?"

"No."

"Doesn't bit the tongue, does it?"

"Not a bit."

"Rich, too, isn't it?"

"Yes, it's rich enough."

"You bet it is. The beauty about this cheese is that it's made by the best dairyman in the state, and it's pure goods. There's no 'filled cheese' about this."

"Got plenty of it?"

"Enough to feed a regiment."

"Is it all like this?"

"Every pound of it."

"Would there be any discount on a whole cheese?"

"Let me see. Naught's naught. Six two's is—yes, I'd throw off 5 cents."

"How much does a whole cheese weigh?"

"Fifty or sixty pounds. These are big cheeses."

"How soon could you deliver it?"

"Inside of two hours."

"Warrant all of it to be like the sample in color?"

"Sure, where will you——"

"This kind of cheese toasts well, does it not?"

"Splendidly."

"Would it make a good Welsh rabbit?"

"Best you ever tasted. Where——"

"Good cheese isn't unwholesome, is it?"

"Unwholesome? people grow fat on it. Look at me."

"I suppose people who don't really care for cheese can learn to like?"

"I should say so."

"Well, if I ever learn to like it I'll buy some of you. Good day."—Chicago Tribune.

CALLED SWINDLERS BY THE GRAND JURY.

Foreign Building and Loan Associations Censured.

IMPOSING ON ILLITERATE.

AGENTS ACCUSED OF QUESTIONABLE PRACTICES.

The Grand Inquest Has Investigated the Matter and Finds That Certain Associations Are Imposing Upon the Ignorant Classes of the Community—Stringent Laws Are Recommended.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 23—The following is the wording of the presentment made by the Union County Grand Jury against foreign building and loan associations doing business under the laws of adjoining States:

The grand inquest of the body of the county of Union presents to the court:

"That it has been brought to the attention of said grand inquest that certain associations, purporting to be building and loan associations, incorporated and doing business under the laws of adjoining States, are imposing upon the ignorant and illiterate classes of this community to such an extent that the grand inquest deems it its duty to call the attention of this court and the public to the deception practiced by the agents of many of such associations.

"The practice of such agents (whose compensation depends upon the amount of business procured) is to visit the homes of the working classes, and servant girls at the residences of their employers, and to those particularly who have not the time to investigate the truth of the statements made, or the provisions of the constitution and by-laws of such associations, by promising large profits on money invested, and an early maturity of the shares purchased, and extremely liberal terms to those wishing to borrow, to inveigle large numbers of our citizens into investing in the shares of such association, to the inevitable disappointment of and loss to such investing shareholders, who finally become aware that the profits are not so large as promised, that the shares instead of maturing in eight or nine years will, if the association lasts so long, mature in about eleven or twelve years, and that the money when wanted by would-be borrowers has been used in the payment of salaries and commissions to the solicitors of new business. The grand inquest recommends to the public in the Legislature of this State, that stringent laws be enacted for the protection of the people against these foreign building and loan associations, and that heavy penalties attach to the violation of the provisions of such laws."

HOME FOR UNION MEN.

Chairman Gottlob Will Push the Scheme From Plainfield.

Henry J. Gottlob, chairman of the executive board of State Federation of Labor and Trades Union, took up his headquarters in this city today in order to push to a consummation the project of a home for aged union men at Lincoln. This afternoon Mr. Gottlob is conferring with an architect who is designing the building that it is proposed to erect on the fifteen acres of property that will be given to the Federation on the south side of the Central and Lehigh Valley tracks at Lincoln.

It is expected that by the last of this or the first of next week the project will be in such shape that Chairman Gottlob will be able to announce definite plans to the labor union men throughout the State, whose aid will be sought to put the scheme in operation.

Great Bareback Rider.

William J. Melrose, the champion bareback rider, will appear at each and every performance of LaPearl's Great Allied Shows that exhibit at Fourth street and Monroe avenue tomorrow. He is pre-eminently distinguished from all other riders by his noted originality, unequaled skill, daring evolutions, dangerous exploits and wonderful agility, by his rapid succession of dexterous somersaults, by his bird-like flights from the ground to the back of his flying steed. Mr. Melrose is the most daring of all equestrians, and is especially noted for his exploiting upon the back of a fast running horse all the acrobatic feats that are usually accomplished upon the ground.

New Rector at All Saints.

Rev. R. E. Pendleton, of Brooklyn, who received a call to All Saints P. E. church, Scotch Plains, has entered upon his duties.

THE YALE MISSION BAND

EFFORT TO BE MADE TO STIR UP UNION COUNTY.

Members of the Band to Visit Several Places in This Vicinity—Meeting in the First Baptist Church Here.

The Yale Student Volunteer Band, who have aroused so much enthusiasm among the young people of large cities, will conduct a missionary campaign in Union county Friday evening of this week, members of the Band visiting Plainfield, Westfield, Elizabeth and Rahway and holding mass meetings in the interest of missions.

The churches and young people's societies of all religious denominations are expected to join in the movement and great results are hoped for in an increased interest in missions.

The meeting in Plainfield, which will be held in the First Baptist church, will be one of special interest.

Addresses will be made by members of the Band whose names will be published later and the programme which has been carefully arranged by the committee in charge contains features which will be of unusual interest to those who attend.

It is believed that a large and appreciative audience will greet the Yale men in the First Baptist church, and all who come will receive a hearty welcome.

Special attention is called to the fact that there will be no collection taken at the meeting.

FOR A GLORIOUS FOURTH

CELEBRATION COMMITTEE OF RED MEN TAKE INITIATIVE.

The Hearty Co-operation of all the Societies of the City is to be Sought to Make Celebration a Great Success.

William Newcorn, William Westphal and Howard Wilson, who comprise the Independence Day committee of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men, held their first meeting last night in Mr. Newcorn's office and began the arrangements for the celebration.

It was decided to follow the same plan that was pursued four years ago, and ask for the hearty co-operation of all the societies and organizations in the city, both civil and fraternal. A circular letter or invitation will be mailed to them, asking them to appoint a committee from their number to meet the committee from Miantonomoh Tribe in Red Men's hall June 6 h.

It is hoped that the societies will anticipate their invitation a little and hold their meeting and appoint their committee this week. In this way the work of the committees will be lessened.

THE HOME-TRADERS.

A Big Meeting Expected to be Held This Evening.

It is expected that there will be quite a large turnout of business men at the meeting of the "Home Trade and Improvement Association" in the Coward Hall on Park avenue this evening, when the matter of Newark merchants trying to divert Plainfield trade into their stores, as well as other matters of interest to the city, will be discussed.

The committee who has charge of the meeting has had many applications for tickets. They have arranged for several speakers to be on hand to talk of Plainfield's advantages and needs.

To Put Up a Sounding Board

A sounding board is much needed in the Park Avenue Baptist church, and the Ladies' Aid Society have promised to provide one. There has always been an echo there, at first making it extremely difficult for the congregation to hear the speaker. Wires were stretched across the church from end to end, and this somewhat helped the speakers, by throwing their voices downwards, thus enabling the people to hear more distinctly. But the trouble has not been entirely removed, and the only preventative for the echo is a sounding board. It is said that one will cost $200.

Now an Express Messenger.

Charles Conover, of Elmwood place, who has been employed for several years by Woolston & Buckle, the North avenue painters and wall paper dealers, has secured an excellent position with the United States Express Company as railway express messenger. At present he is making trial trips between Jersey City and Scranton. Mr. Conover's many friends wish him all the success possible in his new position.

Honeyman Party Expected Today.

The Honeyman party is expected to arrive in New York sometime today, after a very successful trip through the Holy Land.

SENATOR KEAN TALKS OF TRUSTS IN JERSEY.

Speaks of Benefits Derived From the State Laws.

EASY ON THE INDIVIDUALS.

FIGHT AGAINST TRUSTS NOT FEARED BY REPUBLICANS.

Declares That New Jersey People Do Not Share in the Criticisms Made Against the Practices Allowed in Their State—He Thinks the Profits Derived Pleases the People of Jersey.

United States Senator John Kean, of New Jersey, has expressed his views respecting the effect that a war upon trusts will have in the State he represents. He does not in the least believe, so he says, that it will result in making the State again Democratic.

The Senator says that there has been some effort "to cite New Jersey as a frightful example because of the laws which invite corporations to organize within our State, but the New Jersey people do not sympathize with this criticism. We compel the payment of a fee, based on the amount of capital specified in the certificate of incorporation, whether the stock has been issued or not, and the result is that our revenues have increased this year at least $400,000 or $500,000.

"The last Legislature made generous appropriations for the blind asylum, the Reformatory at Rahway, the equipment of the National Guard and the additional payment to the soldiers who served in the war with Spain My information is that all of these extraordinary expenses of the State will be met by the fees from corporations, organized under our laws this year.

"The annual revenue from the tax on the capital of all corporations created under our laws now amounts to between $800,000 and $900,000 a year. You can readily see that the people who benefit from this influx of wealth are not apt to be antagonistic to the corporations which contribute it.

"Corporations select New Jersey," the Senator added, "not because our laws are not legitimate, but simply because we do not require returns from private corporations. Public concerns, such as banks, insurance companies, etc., must file their statements, but private corporations are exempt. I understand that Delaware, attracted by the increase in our State revenues, has enacted similar laws with very much smaller fees, in order to divert corporations away from New Jersey."

SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS.

The Subject Debated by Y. M. C. A. But No Decision Reached.

The alleged evils of the Sunday newspaper were discussed at length last evening at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Literary society, and several members of the society offered their opinions whether they are evils or not.

A debate was arranged between T. A. Cuming, C. E. Drange and Paul S. Whitall, on the affirmative side, and R. W. Davis and C. M. Dolliver, for the negative. Mr. Cuming wrote to Dr. Wilbur F. Crafts, of Philadelphia, and to Rev. Josiah Strong, of New York, for their opinions on the subject, and read extracts from a sermon on "Sunday Newspapers" written by Rev. Dr. Burrell, of the Marble Collegiate church, of New York.

No decision was reached, but next week judges will be appointed, and a decision given. Other features of the evening were literary readings and an oration by Mr. Cuming.

Decoration Day Excursion.

May 30th, Memorial Day, the Central Railroad Company will run an excursion to Mauch Chunk, Glen Onoko and the Switchback Railroad. A special excursion train, with lunch car attached, will leave this city at 9:30 a. m., and the fare for the round trip will be $1.50, children $1.13. These outings have always proved to be thoroughly enjoyable and no doubt a great many from this city will accept the opportunity to take a day off in the mountains.

Change of Reporters.

Herbert Martin, of West Front street, resigned his position with the News yesterday, and has secured a position as salesman in a New Brunswick shoe store. Lindley Hillman, of this city, has taken Mr. Martin's place on the News.

To Attend Divine Service.

Next Sunday evening the G. A. R., Sons of Veterans and Woman's Relief Corps will attend divine services at the First Baptist church, when Dr. Yerkes will preach an appropriate sermon. There will also be special music.

DYNAMITE FOR TROLLEY

STARTLING THINGS BURIED ON VAN NESS' PROPERTY.

The "Count" Says That He Does Not Want the Tracks Laid on His Land—Company Anticipates Little Trouble.

The Plainfield Street Railway Company is still anticipating trouble with "Count" J. K. VanNess, of East Front street, in building their extension to Scotch Plains. After the road leaves East Second street it goes on to private property, over which it runs till Fanwood township is reached. A portion of the surveyed route is on property owned by VanNess.

Recently VanNess has declared that he will not permit the company to lay their tracks across his fields. The company has announced its determination to go ahead with their work as they have planned, and if they do this, and VanNess sticks to his word about not letting them cross, there is likely to be trouble. The workmen employed by Contractor Serrell have been regaled, it is said, with many startling stories by VanNess since he has taken his stand against the company. The most exciting one is that he has planted large sticks of dynamite at several points along the surveyed route of the trolley on his property, to which electric wires are attached. He says that if the company attempts to break ground on his property he will touch off the dynamite and blow the workmen sky-high.

Last Friday the contractor cut down a couple of trees on VanNess' property to bring his opposition to a head, but as yet VanNess has done nothing more than talk about what he is going to do.

PLEASANT SOCIAL TIME.

Termination of a Series of Festivities in Honor of a Visitor.

The termination of a series of festivities was enjoyed last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Martin, Park place, when a number of friends and relatives gathered in honor of Mrs. E. S. Miles and her daughter, Miss Nettie Miles, of Hyde Park, N. Y., who have been guests of their relatives in this city for two weeks. Mrs. Miles is a sister of Joseph Martin, Horace J Martin, Mrs. Harry Moore and Mrs. Chas. Steiner, of the borough, and during her stay here each one has taken turns in entertaining her, and on each occasion there were about the same persons present. As Mrs. Miles returns home tomorrow the affair of last evening was arranged.

During the evening there was good music by a quartette consisting of Robert M. Clark, Edward Clark, Bert Moore and Joseph Martin, who sang a number of the latest songs, and some of the old-time familiar ones. There was also phonographic music to entertain the guests, and some of those present enjoyed playing games. At the conclusion of the entertainment refreshments were served in abundance. As the guests departed the quartette sang "Good Night Ladies," "How Can I Bear to Leave Thee," and several other popular songs.

Dr. Richards to be Present.

The regular prayer meeting service at the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow evening promises to be of special interest. The subject will be "Deliverance From Fear of Death." It is expected that the pastor, Dr. Richards, will be present, and the Bible class will be omitted to afford the members of the church an opportunity of giving him a welcome.

In Justice Nash's court a summons has been issued against Negley, and in Justice Mattison's court summons have been issued against Arthur, Hoagland and Irby. They are all returnable May 29th.

Had His Toes Crushed.

Henry Domminick, of this city, while at work unloading rails for the trolley road being built from Plainfield to Elizabeth, had his toes crushed at Cranford yesterday and had to be removed to his home. The work of laying the rails will commence at once. There are eight car loads at Westfield and six at Cranford.

SALOON QUESTION IN THE WEST END.

One Man Who Thinks a Licensed Place Would be Best.

LOTS OF ILLEGAL SELLING.

QUESTIONS POLICY OF COMMON COUNCIL'S ACTION.

John Dickson Says That the Present Condition of Affairs in the West End Fosters "Cider Joints" and Like, Which Are Far More Objectionable to the Residents Than a Licensed Saloon Would be.

There is no denying the fact that there are a number of residents in the West End who honestly believe that a saloon below Grant avenue would be a good thing, inasmuch as it would tend to put a stop to illegal selling that is evidently going on now. In view of these facts a resident of the West End, John Dickson, has communicated with The Daily Press and gives some pointed truths concerning the license question in his section of the city.

Upon learning that a recent application for a license in the West End was either thrown out or laid over at a meeting of the Council, Mr. Dickson says, that while he never advocated licensing the liquor traffic it seems to him that there is an unfair distribution of licenses in the West End, as they are all located on West Third street, where between Liberty street and Plainfield avenue there are three, while there are none below Plainfield avenue. Mr. Dickson cites the fact that several applications have been presented for licenses during the past few years and all have been refused, and he wonders whether the persistent refusal is productive of much good to the community. He does not believe that people can be made sober by laws or decree, and if people are denied the privilege of entering a respectable saloon they will defy the law and encourage illegal selling.

Still further, Mr. Dickson says, that if those who oppose the granting of a license on Grant avenue lived in that vicinity they would be convinced from observation, especially Sundays, that "of two evils choose the least," and would grant a license to someone and thus end a disgraceful condition of affairs. He says that he fully believes that there is more drink illegally sold, "not a hundred miles from Grant avenue," one day in the week than there is in some of the licensed saloons in the centre of the city for a whole week. He believes that the Council is simply voting for illegal selling, illegal buying, drunkenness and immorality in its worst form.

MISS MESSLER IMPROVING.

At the Hospital it is Thought She Will Recover in Time.

Miss Messler, of Scotch Plains, who is confined to the hospital, still continues to improve, and it is not now believed that any fatal effects will result from the shooting. The exclusive story published in The Daily Press yesterday regarding further developments caused quite a sensation about town, and last evening there was more than one group discussing the subject, and more than one person signified their intention of going to Scotch Plains next Sunday to hear Rev. Mr. Shott.

A Press reporter held a conversation this morning with Health Inspector Addis, who was the first person to enter the hall in the Codington building after the shooting last Friday afternoon. Mr. Addis states that he at first thought that a bicycle tire had exploded, and going into the hall he saw Miss Messler standing against the wall and holding her left breast with her hand. Mr. Addis attempted to remove the hand, but he had great difficulty. He asked Miss Messler why she committed the deed, but she would give no answer.

Chance to go to Lake Hopatcong.

The Central Railroad Company, desiring to give the people along their line an opportunity to enjoy a day off in some of the beautiful places in Jersey, have arranged a special excursion for Memorial Day that will run to Lake Hopatcong. Special tickets will be sold from Plainfield to the Lake May 27th, 28th, 29th and 30th, good to return until May 31st. Fare for the round trip will be $1.80. Arrangements have been made for good train service, as will be seen by the advertisement in another part of the paper.

Nurses to be Graduated.

The board of governors of Muhlenberg Hospital have issued invitations to the graduation exercises of the Training School for Nurses to be held next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church. There will be two graduates.

THE CYCLING CHRISTIANS

THIRD SEASON OF THE CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR BICYCLE SQUAD.

First Run of the Season to be Held This Evening—Two Previous Seasons a Great Success—E. E. Anthony is Captain.

For the third season the "Bicycle Squad" of the Christian Endeavor Societies of Plainfield will be formed this year, the first run of the season being held this evening to Marconnier chapel where a strawberry festival will be attended.

The bicycle squad has proved a great success for the Endeavorers, as they say that before it was organized many of their members were neglectful of the meetings in the riding season. But since they have used the bicycle in the society work the inroads of the wheel in distracting the attention of lukewarm members from society affairs has been perceptibly less.

During the two seasons that the squad has been in existence it has been the practice of the Endeavorers to arrange a run once a week to some neighboring town where a society was visited and the devotional exercises participated in In this way the members were able to enjoy the exercises on the bicycle and spiritual benefit as well.

E. E. Anthony, of West Front street, treasurer of the State Society of Christian Endeavorers, will be the captain of the squad this year. They will meet in front of the Park Avenue Baptist church at 7:30 this evening to start on their first run.

ASK COUNTY PRIVILEGES.

TROLLEY COMPANY MAKE REQUESTS OF BOARD OF FREEHOLDERS.

Scotch Plains and Fanwood People Want Short Section of Mountain Avenue Macadamized to Connect Two Counties.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, May 20—Colonel Hine and Mr. Gaddis, representing the Westfield and Elizabeth Street Railway Company, were in attendance at the meeting of the Board of Freeholders last week seeking the right to run their tracks for a trolley road between Rahway and Westfield over portions of the county roads, and to cross a county bridge in Cranford.

The matter was presented at the previous Board meeting by resolution of Freeholder Scudder, but County Attorney Codington decided that the company must make a formal application for the franchise, which must be advertised and a date fixed for a public hearing.

Colonel Hine gave the application to Freeholder King, and it was regularly presented, followed by a resolution which fixed June 9 as the date for the public hearing.

Former Sheriff Kyte and other property owners on Mountain avenue, a highway from Scotch Plains to Berkley Heights, petitioned to have the road adopted and improved as a county road, thus connecting the Union and Somerset county improved roads systems.

Freeholder Robison said that the signers on the petition represented every foot of land fronting on the road.

The petition was referred to the Board as a whole to meet Wednesday, May 24, at 1:40 p. m., at the Fanwood station, and to go over the road in carriages.

Director Hubbard announced the standing committees. Two changes only were made, and these were to provide for Freeholder Cady, the new member from the city of Summit. Mr. Cady was made chairman of the committee on miscellaneous accounts, and placed on the committee on buildings and grounds, of which Freeholder Farrell, of Rahway, is chairman.

A Spiritual Campaign.

The Salvation Army will open a spiritual campaign next Tuesday, Decoration Day, which will be conducted by Brigadier Brengle, of New York. At 8 o'clock a unique meeting of an international character will be conducted in the Salvation Army Hall. Wednesday special services will be held in the hall, followed by a half-night of prayer. Beside the Brigadier other officers will assist at these services.

BOARD OF TRADE GETS UP FROM ITS SLEEP

An Attempt Made to Inject New Life Into It

MANY THINGS TALKED OF.

PRESIDENT LOUNSBURY'S RESIGNATION WAS NOT ACCEPTED.

Mr. Lounsbury Decided That He Would Retire if That Would Benefit the Board to Any Extent, but the Members Wanted Him to Remain as Its Head—Trolley Out Arlington Avenue.

The Board of Trade started out to take on a new lease of life at their meeting last evening. There was a quorum present and President Lounsbury was in the chair. After the resignation of Elston M. French was received and accepted, the president arose and stated his position to the Board. He said that for some time past he was fully cognizant of the fact that there was a lack of interest, and he had been investigating matters to some extent. He said that there was no trouble to get a quorum out when the building ordinance was under discussion, or when action relative to the Martin Act was being considered. He had heard, however, that some were dissatisfied with the president of the Board, thinking that some other person, possibly a merchant, ought to hold the position. In view of these facts, Mr. Lounsbury stated that he occupied the position as president simply because he is interested in the city and its welfare. He thought that good work had been accomplished by the Board. He said that he had no axe to grind, no ambition other than that the city might benefit as a result of the Board's existence. It had been remarked within his hearing that "Lounsbury wanted the honor of being president, but was not willing to do any work." In connection with this remark he did not believe that it is the duty of the president to go about the streets with a sign on his back or to even distribute circulars.

After making these few remarks Mr. Lounsbury tendered his resignation as president, and asked J. C Pope, vice-president, to take the chair, after which he retired from the room while the resignation was under discussion.

Mr. Schwed moved that the resignation be not accepted, and this motion was seconded. This brought forth remarks from L. B. Woolston, who said that he did not believe that it was the duty of the Board of Trade to father real estate schemes. He believed that Plainfield is one of the finest cities in the world. He then spoke of cheap railroad fares, and said that other suburbs of New York were receiving benefit from cheap fares, while Plainfield suffered. He believed the Board should remain in existence, even with a membership of twenty-five.

R. A. Meeker stated that he believed that the Board of Trade had been turned into a real estate exchange to boom pet schemes, now that such a real estate exchange had been started by some other citizens he was convinced that the Board could return to the transaction of business for which it was organized. He did not favor cheaper fares as the retail merchant is bound to suffer. He thought the Board was not dead and they should not accept Mr. Lounsbury's resignation.

At this time Mr. Pope stated the reason Mr. Lounsbury offered his resignation was on account of reports that he had used the Board for political purposes in the last campaign in the city. Rather than be a clog in the wheel of progress, he resigned.

These things were all pronounced untrue and finally by a unanimous vote it was decided to retain Mr. Lounsbury in office. The president thanked all for the vote of confidence. Following this J. C. Pope's resignation was taken up, but the president destroyed it by consent and it did not come before the meeting.

The balance of the meeting was devoted to discussing trolley matters, and it was agreed that strong efforts be made to secure a trolley out Arlington avenue to Metuchen. If the Plainfield company do not intend to build it was suggested and decided that overtures be made to the Brunswick Traction Company. Chas. W. Runyon was made a committee of one to see Superintendent Radel, and Secretary Runyon was appointed a committee to learn what the Plainfield company will do.

Another matter discussed was the rate of trolley fare between this city, Dunellen and Bound Brook, and this matter wil be attended with a view to

A sort of grinding pain across my back at times extended up to my shoulders and there was a lameless over my kidneys and severe headaches. When I stooped I always felt dizzy and sometimes was fairly blinded. In the mornings I felt stiff and sore until I got some exercise. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in my city paper and so highly recommended for kidney complaint that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good. # SUNK BY THE DETROIT?

Rumor that the Nicaraugan Gunboat San Jacinto Fired Upon Our Cruiser.

LACKS CONFIRMATION.

Standard Books on Naval Subjects Make No Mention of the San Jacinto. Probably a Converted Tug.

Washington Authorities Do Not Anticipate Any Serious Trouble With Nicaragua Even If the Reported Firing at the Detroit Be True—Will Probably Demand Indemnity.

Colon, Colombia, May 23.—A rumor which has reached here from Bocas del Toro says that the Nicaraguan gunboat San Jacinto fired at the American cruiser Detroit, and that the latter replied, sinking the gunboat. The report lacks confirmation.

Washington May 23.—No official confirmation of the reported engagement between the United States cruiser Detroit and the Nicaraguan gunboat San Jacinto had been received by the naval authorities. The standard books on naval subjects do not contain any reference to the San Jacinto, but she is probably a very small vessel, converted from a yacht or tug, and not an actual man-of-war.

In February last she was sunk in the Indian River by the Honduranian steamer Tatumbia after a brief engagement.

The San Jacinto was under General Reyes's order to pick up a band of revolutionary rough riders at Monkey River. When the Tatumbia was sighted Captain Simons, the San Jacinto's commander, tried to escape with his craft, but was overhauled.

Granting that the report from Colon is true, it is not likely that a war between Nicaragua and the United States will result. If the San Jacinto fired first, as reported, the Government will probably demand an immediate apology and the payment of a heavy indemnity, and will permit the matter to pass with that. Nicaragua is not likely to make a commotion over the incident.

The existing difficulties in Nicaragua are the outgrowth of the recent rebellion in the department of Zelaya, of which Bluefields is the capital. Col. Reyes, the head of the revolutionary movement, opened the Bluefields Custom House and proceeded to levy duties at the rates charged by the Government. There are large American interests at Bluefields, chiefly in the hands of the Bluefields Steamship Company of New Orleans. American merchants paid duty to Reyes on consignments of goods received during the revolution, and after it had ended the Government of Nicaragua insisted that the American merchants should pay the duties over again. The merchants refused to pay, and were subjected to persecution by Col. Torres, the new Governor of the department, who had once been removed after the Corinto trouble, on the demand of the United States. Torres is a bitter enemy to Americans, and he did not hesitate to show his dislike.

The merchants were advised by the United States to pay the extra duties under protest and trust to the refunding of the money through diplomatic means, but they declined, and sealed up the warehouse in which their goods were stored, raised the Stars and Stripes over these buildings. Col. Torres then called the attention of the merchants to the law of Nicaragua, that no foreign flags should be flown except over the legations and consular offices or on national holidays. The merchants said they did not give a rap for the law, and kept Old Glory on the poles. Torres was evidently afraid to open the warehouses forcibly while the American flag was floating over them, and the goods were not seized. Finally it was arranged between Nicaragua and the United States that the duties should be paid by the merchants to the British Consul at San Juan del Norte or Greytown, and held by him pending a diplomatic adjustment. This was satisfactory to the merchants, and the matter is now being discussed diplomatically. The feelings engendered by these incidents have been bitter, however, and Americans are not popular in Nicaragua. Owing to her draught the Detroit has been unable to get within several miles of Bluefields, and the converted yacht Vixen has just started from Hampton Roads for Bluefields to give more immediate protection to Americans and their interests.

The Detroit is commanded by Commander James H. Dayton. She has been stationed at Bluefields ever since the beginning of the existing troubles between American merchants and the Nicaraguan Government over the payment of duties on goods which had already been taxed. The Detroit recently went to Colon, Colombia, to coal and to communicate with the Navy Department, messages from Commander Dayton having failed to reach Washington. She has just returned or is returning from Colon to Bluefields. The Detroit's most notable experience was at Rio de Janeiro during the Brazilian revolution. The United States had determined to break the blockade established by the revolutionists and Admiral Benham directed Commander Willard H. Brownson of the Detroit to escort two American merchantmen to docks at Rio. Two big Brazilian armorclads in the possession of the revolutionists cleared for action. As the little Detroit passed alongside with her convoy a shot from a gun on the Aquidaban was fired across her bows. Commander Brownson ordered a gunner to put a shell in the Brazilian, but the man misunderstood and fired to one side. Then Brownson cried out:

"If you fire again I'll return the fire; if you strike me I'll sink you."

The Detroit proceeded on her way without molestation, firing a musket ball into the sternpost of one of the insurgent ships to see if the Brazilians would reply. The revolutionary Admiral tendered his sword in surrender to Admiral Benham, but the latter refused to accept it. The Detroit's plucky action ended the revolution and saved Brazil from returning to a monarchial form of government.

Brooklyn, May 23.—Three men and six horses were burned to death, sixty families were made homeless, many women narrowly escaped with their lives, two firemen were injured and $300,000 of property was destroyed in a four-alarm fire of unknown origin on Freeman and Eagle streets, Brooklyn.

The fire next caught the stair building establishment of Peter Bierschenket, Nos. 105 to 109 Freeman street, and totally destroyed it.

The place employed sixty men. The loss will be $60,000.

Then the long streams of fire reached over and swept the entire row of three-story frame tenement houses from No. 98 Eagle street to No. 112 sending sixty families in panic to the street without anything but their night clothes and leaving the buildings total ruins.

THE LATEST NEWS.

FATHER SHOOTS AN INSANE SON.

New Orleans, May 23.—News has reached here of the horrible work of a crazy negro near Mount Carmel, Covington County, Mississippi. Simon Newton went to the room where his brother was sleeping and cut his throat from ear to ear with a razor. He cut off his brother's head with an axe beat it into a jelly and threw it into the yard. He then cut off an arm and began to eat the raw flesh, when he was interrupted by his sister.

Enraged by the interruption he made a rush for the woman, stabbing her in the breast and face. The sister's screams attracted her father. The insane negro abandoned the attack on his sister and attempted to assault his father. The old man eluded him and got a gun. With a wild yell the son turned and fled. Bringing his weapon quickly to bear, the father fired, the load taking effect in the crazy negro's shoulder. He was then caught and bound. He is now in jail at Williamsburg, and will be sent to the insane asylum.

CHILD BRANDED BY REFORMATORY.

New York, May 23.—With a red hot iron a four year old boy was branded in a horseshoer's shop in No. 323 Delancey street; William Masterson, 17 years old, was arrested and taken before Magistrate Kudlich, charged with the crime, although he stoutly denied his guilt.

Morris Braf is the name of the little victim. He lives with his parents, at No. 41 Goerck street. His story is that he was passing the horseshoeing shop when a man stopped him and offered him a penny if he would come inside. He accepted the offer. There were five men there, and the man who invited him in thrust an iron into the forge and heated it red hot.

Then, according to the boy's story, he was stripped from his waist down, and the iron was applied to his body. He screamed and pleaded to be released but he says the men only laughed at him.

LUMBERMEN IN FIERCE BATTLE.

Huntington, W. Va., May 23.—A "blind tiger" on the Kentucky side of the Tug River, opposite Wharncliffe, was the scene of a terrible battle. About fifty woodmen, crossed from this side to drink "moonshine" whisky. They were met by a gang of Kentucky lumbermen, and a fight started.

William Bucher was shot dead and Frank Moore and William Tawdry, all Kentuckians, were fatally wounded.

Just as the fight started, Horace Millender, a member of the West Virginia Legislature and manager of the lumber company, crossed the river to bring his men home. He was set upon by the Kentuckians, and would have been lynched but for desperate efforts of his own men. Millender disengaged himself from the rope, plunged into the river and swam to West Virginia. He was closely followed by his enemies, but he boarded a Norfolk & Western train that happened to be passing.

Further trouble is expected.

HE NARROWLY ESCAPED MOB FURY.

Chattanooga, Tenn., May 23.—Northern Georgia is in a flame of excitement over the crime committed by Bill Martin, a white man, and the attempt at lynching. Martin is in the employ of the Government at Lythe, Ga., near Chicamauga Park. He beat his wife in a horrible manner, tied a rope around her neck and tied her to his horse's tail, mounted the steed and made off through the woods. The woman was dragged a long distance, but not killed.

Martin was arrested and taken to Lafayette, Ga., before a magistrate. He was held under $1,000 bond. When the citizens learned of the case they congregated round the jail and threatened to lynch him. He would now be dangling from the end of a rope were it not for the fact that two employes at Chicamauga smuggled him away, thereby saving his life.

GENERAL OTIS WILL RULE.

Report of His Appointment as Governor-General of the Philippines Confirmed.

THE MATTER IS SETTLED.

New Government to be Military, and Conducted on the Same Lines as that in Cuba.

The Present Situation in the Philippines Described in an Important Message from General Otis—Filipinos Are Returning to Their Homes—The Request of Aguinaldo's Commissioners Denied.

Washington, May 23.—The report from Manila that a form of government has been proposed to the Filipinos, including a governor general, cabinet, and advisory council, is confirmed at the State Department. The plan is the result of numerous cable and mail exchanges between President Schurman, of the Philippine Commission, and Secretary Hay, as well as advices from Gen. Otis and Admiral Dewey. The proposition to have a governor general and cabinet is substantially the same as the system now in operation in Cuba. Like the Cuban system, the administration would be military in character, for the time being at least, while conditions were unsettled.

It was understood at the time Major-General Lawton went to Manila that Gen. Otis would become Governor-General, while Gen. Lawton assumed active direction of military affairs. It is not improbable that this plan might be carried out if the Filipinos accept the scheme now proposed.

The proposed advisory council is also similar to that in Cuba, where Governor-General Brooke has the advice of a native council as well as that of the military officers under him.

Washington, May 23.—An important despatch from Gen. Otis describing the present situation in the Philippines has been received at the War Department. Gen. Otis announces that he has denied the request of Aguinaldo's commissioners for an armistice. That the insurgents are returning to their homes is regarded as a sign that they are tiring of war and are anxious for peace. Gen. Otis's despatch is as follows:

"Conditions as follows: In Bulacan province troops maintained at Quinga, Balinag, San Miguel; Lawton proceeding down Rio Grande River from Isidro, has driven enemy westward from San Antonio, Cario and Arayat, where he was joined yesterday by Kobbe's column; will reach Santa Ana and Candaba to-day. MacArthur still at San Fernando and will occupy cities south and westward.

"Insurgent forces disintegrating daily. Luna's force at Tarlac much diminished; has destroyed several miles railway in his front; number of officers of rank have deserted Luna and few have entered Manila for protection. In Pampanga and Bulacan inhabitants returning to homes; only fear insurgent troops south of Manila; insurgent disintegration progressing, though large force stilled maintained; conditions improving daily; send battalion troops and gunboat to Negros to-morrow to allay excitement in southern portion of island and west coast Cebu. Have denied request of Aguinaldo's commissioners for armistice. OTIS."

The War Department officers do not feel alarmed over Gen. Otis's remark that the only fear is of insurgent troops south of Manila. More regular troops have recently arrived at Manila and greatly reinforced Gen. Otis's forces. The latest arrival is the Warren with the 6th Artillery and a detachment of recruits. The Warren's arrival was reported by Gen. Otis as follows:

"Transport Warren arrived 18th inst. No casualties. OTIS."

Plainfield, N. J.

The President of the W. C. T. U. in a Pennsylvania town describes the experience of her husband, who was treated by many physicians of note, but obtained no relief. "He was in a deplorable condition," she says. "Some physicians thought it paralysis, others thought it tobacco heart. His arms would get numb from the shoulders, and on rubbing them they would pain him severely, the hands being almost entirely helpless. Rest at night was out of the question. He had a bad stomach, a burning sensation after eating, and complexion of a yellowish cast showed that his liver was not discharging its duty. On receiving some Ripans Tabules he commenced the use of them at once, and I am most happy to say they have helped him greatly, and we would not be without them. The result is no doctor bill. Heretofore we have had large ones."

A new style package containing TWELVE RIPANS TABULES in a paper carton (without glass) is now for sale at some drug stores—FOR FIVE CENTS. This new form is intended for the poor and the economical. One dozen of the five-cent cartons (containing sixty tabules) will be sent by mail by sending forty-eight cents to the RIPANS CHEMICAL COMPANY, No. 10 Spruce St., New York. Single cartons (TEN TABULES) will be sent for five cents.

LABOR TROUBLES.

Indications Point to an Early Ending of the Strike at Buffalo.

Buffalo, May 23.—The situation indicates an early ending of the dock troubles. All monthly men who began a sympathetic strike last week have gone back to work. The strikers at the Northern Elevator were refused work, but may be taken later.

Considerable work was done at the Lackawana, Erie and Central docks by imported labor. Should the freight handlers resume work, as now appears probable, these imported men, or as many of them as the Lake Erie men would be willing to dispense with, would, no doubt, be given work shoveling grain. Many of these outside men are, however, employes of a different railroads, picked up from along their lines, and will go back to their work of repairing tracks, etc. The situation on the coal and ore docks is unchanged, only a very small number of men being at work.

Duel in the Street.

Joplin, Mo., May 23.—As a result of a street duel here one negro is dead and three white men are wounded. Dewitt Leonard, foreman of the Chicago consolidated mines, was walking along North Main street with one of his men, when he asked Mrs. Andrew Woods, wife of a negro barber, if she was going to church. She struck him, knocking him off the sidewalk. He returned the blow and went on his way with several companions.

They were overtaken in the next block by Andrew Woods, who had a pistol. Woods struck with his pistol the first man he met. He struck another, and finally hit Leonard, knocking him down.

Leonard then snatched a pistol from a police officer and the two fired at each other. Woods was shot three times and killed, while three bystanders were hit by stray bullets. One of the three men was wounded in the breast, and the other two in the legs. Much excitement exists among the negroes and trouble is feared.

Five Plead Guilty.

New York, May 23.—Herman L. Cohen, 31 years old, of 1,725 St. Mark's avenue, Brooklyn; George Yarrington, 60 years old, of 130th street and Seventh avenue; Arthur Pollock, 36 years old, of 627 East 137th street, Ruth Howard, 28 years old, of 86 Ashland place, Brooklyn, and William Price, 24 years old, of Newark, all pleaded guilty to grand larceny before Judge McMahon. They are the members of a gang that swindled merchants in this city out of thousands of dollars by representing themselves as agents of Deming & Co., commission merchants of New street.

They ordered goods that they said were to be sent to South America. Cohen, Yarrington and Price were sentenced to six months in the penitentiary. Sentence was suspended in the case of the woman, and Pollock was remanded to the Tombs for sentence later.

Tobacco Men Organize.

Philadelphia, May 23.—A convention called to form a National Leaf Tobacco Board of Trade was held in the Stratford Hotel. Delegates were present from every city where there is an organization of leaf tobacco dealers except New Orleans and Charleston. They hope to form an organization which shall be strong enough to effect legislation, not only in the tobacco growing States, but in Congress, whenever trade considerations demand it.

The necessity for a National Board of Trade was manifested early during the present year, when Commissioner N. B. Scott of the Internal Revenue Department prohibited any dealer from selling less than a bale of leaf tobacco from $100 to $600 unless he took out a manufacturer's license. It was only after concerted action on the part of a dozen boards of trade that there was a reversal of this ruling.

Killed His Son-in-Law.

Evansville, Ind., May 23.—William Orwick a well to do farmer living near West Franklin, this county, shot and killed his son-in-law Thomas Sanders. Domestic trouble was the cause of the murder. Sanders has been drinking, and started to smash in the door, which was closed in his face. Orwig seized his shotgun and fired the contents of both barrels into Sanders's body, killing him almost instantly. After doing this the father-in-law threw his victim's body into the road and gave himself up. The killing took place in the presence of Sanders's wife and children. Sanders was 25 years of age, and Orwick is over 70.

Movements of Warships.

The Marblehead arrived at Rio on her way from Norfolk for the Pacific station. The Wilmington sailed from Pernambuco for Rio. The Alliance and the Amphitrate have arrived at Fort Monroe. The latter comes for a supply of ammunition and will return to her station off Port Royal to further instruct her class of seamen gunners. The Essex has arrived at Fort Monroe.

Sioux City and Pacific to Be Sold.

Omaha, May 23.—The Sioux City & Pacific Railroad will be sold at public auction, on Friday. This line extends from Sioux City to Oneil, Neb. It is said that James J. Hill has arranged for its purchase. Donald McLean, the boomer who was killed in Chicago a few days ago, was arranging to extend the line to Ogden. It is now believed that this scheme will be carried out by the Hill interests.

Rode Quint Century.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 23.—Herbert C. Gurnee, of this city, completed a 500 mile run, according to Century Road Club rules, in 49:31. This is the second quint century ever made in the country. Gurnee's actual riding time was forty hours, as he took an hour's rest at the close of each fifty miles. The rider was examined by physicians at the end of every 100 miles.

HOW TO STOP LYNCHINGS

Former Governor Northen of Georgia Tells of the Hose Case.

OPPOSED TO MOB LAW.

Georgian Invades the Hotbed of Negro Agitation—Shots for Boston Critics.

Claims Negroes Are Lynched for the Same Reason in the South as in the North—"Stop the Crime and the Lynchings Stop"—Criticises the Press of the North.

Boston, Mass., May 23.—Former Governor Northen of Georgia, and Bishop Arnett, of the A. M. E. Church, spoke to the Congregational Church on the subject of lynch law in the South. There were many ladies present, nevertheless the former Governor described the crime of Sam Hose in vivid language.

"I am asked," he said, "why are negroes so frequently lynched at the South? I reply, for the same reason that they are lynched at the North. I repeat, with emphasis, that violence for crime is administered without distinction as to race, when the crime is the same. It is not the color of the skin that brings the punishment, but the nature of the crime committed.

"Let it be distinctly understood that, personally, I am absolutely opposed to mob law for any and all offenses. Human nature is the same throughout the civilized world, and say what you may, Massachusetts will not be one whit behind Georgia when you make Mrs. Cranford, the wife of a farmer in your State, and Sam Hose, a brutal fiend in human shape, a neighbor near her home.

"The policy of the press at the North in condemning the lynchings, while they maintain an ominous and painful silence about the crimes that provoke them, is incendiary in the extreme, as it encourages negroes to a repetition. It is worse than cruel to the broken-hearted victim and the community that has suffered death in its tenderest relations.

"Do you ask me how these lynchings can be stopped at the South? I answer promptly—just as they can be stopped at the North, and in no other way. Stop the outrages and the lynchings will cease. Continue the outrages and the lynchings will always follow, regardless of threats by the law, whether in Georgia, Minnesota, Illinois or other States.

"Is it forgotten that the people of Massachusetts, themselves, burned a negro woman at the stake who had been simply suspected, and not convicted, of poisoning a white man and his wife? We can't tell what is going to happen, even in the best regulated families."

McCoy's Messages not Understood.

St. Louis, May 23.—"Tommy" Ryan has accepted the offer of a $10,000 purse made by C. W. Houghton, of the West End Club, of this city, for a twenty-five round fight with "Kid" McCoy, to take place during the national meeting of the Elks here in June.

A telegram from "Kid" McCoy at Denver states that he will not box any this summer. It was followed by another message stating that he is matched with Choynski in July. McCoy's messages are not fully understood.

Meade has a New Leak.

Washington, D. C., May 23.—Quartermaster General Ludington received the following cablegram from Quartermaster Swobe, at Ponce, regarding the return of the transport Meade, which has the Nineteenth Infantry aboard:—"Ponce, May 23.—After leaving Ponce another leak developed, not large, but too serious to proceed, returned here to repair, will take four or five days."

ACCUSED OF SWINDLING.

New York Detectives Arrest a Man Who is Charged With Annoying Merchants.

New York, May 23.—Detectives Foye and Funston, of the Central Office, arrested in the Brooklyn General Post-Office a man whom they believe has been carrying on more or less successfully a wholesale blackmailing scheme, but just what it is the police cannot quite make out.

For several months past Capt. McClusky has received complaints from big Broadway merchants. They were all similar. Each had received letters from a certain individual, who wrote in a large, flowing hand, who offered for $1,000 or more to inform them how they were being robbed to the extent of many thousands each year by their employees.

Some of the merchants who received letters were Mills & Gibb, Broadway and Grand street; Bernard Veith, 627 Broadway, P. K. Wilson, 473 Broadway, and Austin Nichols & Co., the wholesale grocers.

Mr. Nicols was determined to discover the persistent letter writer, and acting upon the advice of Capt. McClusky, followed the directions as laid out by the writer. But the latter became suspicious and except for an unforseen clue from O. T. Vreeland, of 807 Garfield avenue, Jersey City, no arrest would probably have ever been made.

Under the name of "John Doe" the prisoner was remanded from the Centre Street Court to Police Headquarters, where he will be held until a case can be made out against him.

Mr. Nichols was determined to discover the anonymous letter at his house, 155 West Fifty-fifth street. The writer promised to inform him of a scheme of robbery upon the conditions that the identity be kept secret and that he get $1,000 for his pains. The merchant was to answer through the personal columns of a morning newspaper.

If he acquiesced he was to insert the following advertisement:

XX.—Yes, I do.

The merchant, after consulting with Capt. McClusky, inserted the advertisement and kept up a correspondence with the unknown until May 1, when a letter came saying that the writer had given up the project.

About this time O. T. Vreeland, of 807 Garfield avenue, called at the Detective Bureau. He had received a letter signed "Selah K. Hemphill," who promised for $400 to return $5,000 worth of Gas certificates which Mr. Vreeland had had stolen.

"Hemphill" Writing was the same as that of the anonymous letter writer whom Mr. Nicol had tried to run down.

Mr. Vreeland was told to communicate with the writer at Bridgeport General Post Office. Detectives Foye and Funston were sent to Bridgeport to learn there that Hemphill had left for Brooklyn where he wanted all his mail forwarded. The detectives followed to Brooklyn and made the arrest.

BODIES ROBBED

Testimony at the Inquest into the Reading Disaster Goes to Show That the Victims Were Robbed.

Philadelphia, May 23.—At the inquest held at Reading in the matter of the Reading wreck at Exeter, in which thirty people were killed, Major Pennington testified that uniformed men robbed the bodies of the dead.

The Reading railway accident at Exeter station occurred on the night of May 12.

The prime cause of the wreck was the pulling out of a drawbar on a coal train which was taking a siding at Readsboro to permit the passing of an excursion train from Harrisburg, bearing excursionists from the Hartranft unveiling.

The first section of the excursion train was held up by the coal train and was crashed into by the second train.

In many instances there was evidence that the bodies of the victims had been robbed. Their pockets were turned inside out and rifled.

Murder at Asbury Park.

Asbury Park, May 23.—What seems to have been a murder was perpetrated at West Park, Asbury Park. Mrs. Lavinia Harmon, thirty-two years old, was found leaning against a pump in the yard of the Boston Cottage, where she resides, breathing heavily and suffering intense pain. She said George Smith, a colored man, had struck her in the breast. Mrs. Harmon was carried into her house, and, after repeating the charge against Smith, died. Smith was arrested and the Coroner was summoned.

Man Is Kicked to Death.

South Bethlehem, Pa., May 23.—William F. Delameter, a horseman, met a terrible death while driving along a country road two miles from Helletown. He was found dead in the road with a piece kicked out of his skull. There was no trace of the horse or cart. It is supposed that as Delameter leaned out to whip the horse the animal kicked him on the head. The missing piece of skull was found half a mile from the body.

Bloodshed in Russia.

St. Petersburg, May 23.—Advices from Riga, capital of the Baltic Province of Livonia, announce that the workmen employed in a jute factory there struck for higher wages, and joining with the workmen of the Phoenix Arms factory, destroyed and burned a number of houses and fought the police and military.

The latter finally triumphed and rigorous measures have been taken against the leaders of the disturbance.

Gave His Life for His Child's.

Chicago, May 23.—Charles Krutchen, a cabinetmaker, went into the country taking his 7-year-old daughter for a day's ramble in the woods.

The little girl ran upon the railroad tracks, not seeing an incoming train bearing down upon her. Krutchen ran to save her and threw her to one side, but in doing so he lost his balance, fell on the track and was killed by the train.

Suicide with His Wife.

Boston, May 23.—W. T. W. Ball, a newspaper man, and his wife were found dead in bed in a room filled with the fumes of illuminating gas. Letters written by Mr. Ball, which were lying open on a table, disclosed the fact that it was a case of suicide. He was sixty-six years of age and his wife was seventy-three.

COMING EVENTS.

May 25 and 26—Strawberry festival in lecture room of Trinity Reformed church.

Voorhees is Reed's Friend.

If Senator Reed keeps all the press comments concerning his contest for the leadership of Somerset county with Chancery Clerk Thompson, he will be obliged to add several more books to his library of personal reminisences. The following from The New York World's Jersey page is the latest summing up of the situation in Somerset county:

The attempt of Clerk in Chancery Thompson to get Gov. Voorhees to take a hand against Senator Reed's candidate in the factional fight of the Somerset Republicans over the Somerville postmastership is looked upon by close observers as not helping Mr. Thompson's own chances to reappointment by the Governor in 1901. The Governor's friendliness for Senator Reed is quite as well known as the fact that Thompson himself was against Voorhees' nomination for Governor as long as he had an opposing aspirant.

It is probably reasoned out by Mr. Thompson that whatever his own chances of reappointment are they would not be increased by Reed being in the Senate when the appointment is due. The Thompson folks are out to prevent Reed's renomination as Senator this fall, on the ground that he could not be elected if nominated.

Conservative Republicans are conceding that whether Reed is renominated or not the next Senator from Somerset county will be a Democrat.

Bad Loan Associations.

The presentment made by the Grand Jury against certain building and loan associations doing business in this State under laws of adjoining commonwealths, which, if not fraudulent, is not desirable, is in line with what many, who have had sorry experiences with this class of institutions, believe should have happened long ago.

There is no town in New Jersey, probably, where these foreign loan associations have worked more extensively than in Plainfield, and the result to the local subscribers has often times been disastrous. There are several sound and successful loan and building associations in this city, officered and controlled by local people, that ought to afford every investor ample chances to put his money where it will be safe and make a profit for him, without entering the associations which the Grand Jury has had occasion to so severely censure.

Doubtless the action of the Grand Jury in the premises will result in a law being introduced into the Legislature and passed at the next session, as recommended by them, aiming to stop such business in New Jersey. Such legislation is needed.

The selection of Assessor Elston M. French as chairman of the Somerset County Board of Assessors is a recognition and honor that the young North Plainfielder may well feel proud of. Mr. French is the youngest assessor in the county and that he should be selected to preside over his colleagues, many of whom were members of the Board while he was yet in knickerbockers, is a recognition of his capabilities in that line of official work that is not only a credit to himself but as well to the municipality which he represents.

Senator Joseph Cross seems to have a clear road so far to succeed himself. While there are candidates in plenty for the offices of Sheriff and County Clerk on the Republican side no one as yet has popped up to dispute Senator Cross' right to a renomination. He has made, it is conceded, a good Senator, and as he only served one year to fill a vacancy his friends say he is entitled by party usage to fill a full term of three years.

The Newark newspapers seem to be thoroughly aroused over the disposition that the Plainfield merchants have shown in the endeavor to retain home trade. Be calm, dear brethren of Newark. Plainfield may be one-fifteenth as large as Newark, but when we get through with this matter of home trade we will show you that all things do not go according to the size of the town.

Whatever else may be the result of the agitation of the Newark Board of Trade for more Plainfield custom for the merchants of that city, and the counteracting influences that Plainfield merchants are resorting to, it is certain that Plainfield, as a city, is receiving a lot of free advertising that is not doing it any harm.

ADMIRAL DEWEY, HIS FLAG AND THE OLYMPIA.

It will be a great day for America when the Olympia sails into New York harbor flying the four-starred blue flag and bearing Admiral George Dewey, the hero of Manila. The glory will not be New York's alone, for Dewey belongs to us all, and the whole country will throw up its hat and shout for the doughty admiral. The Olympia will probably arrive on some day between the fifteenth of July and the first of August.

WHAT THE SHEARS FIND

Editorial Comment From Other Papers of Interest in Plainfield.

Plainfield has a man over fifty years old who has never been to New York, has gone to Newark but once, has never seen a steamboat and has but once ridden on a railroad train. The Plainfield business men ought to build him a monument. He is a type of the kind of citizens they are trying to encourage.—Newark News.

* * * * *

The leading merchants of Plainfield are about to take retaliatory action against the Newark merchants and Board of Trade, and will do all they can to prevent the running of through trains on the Central Railroad between their city and Newark. Meanwhile what are the Elizabeth merchants going to do about it?—Elizabeth Journal.

* * * * *

Three leading items of the annual estimates of the Board of Chosen Freeholders for the expenses of Union county for the ensuing fiscal year afford an interesting study, viz: Court expenses, $35,000; county jail, $6,000; lunatics, $42,000. The first two items represent the total expenses incurred by the county on account of its criminals. The excess of the third item suggests that Union suffers less from evilmindedness than from feeblemindedness.—Newark Advertiser.

* * * * *

The attempt of the Elizabeth politicians to make a political office out of the Chief of the Fire Department in order to reward some one with an increased salary having failed, the annual election of Chief Engineer and two assistants will take place on Memorial Day. Plainfield is about to try the experience of a paid fire department, while Elizabeth, the foremost city in Union county, is content to struggle along for another year with volunteers. There are indications, however, that next year it will be ready to follow the example set by Plainfield and that this may be the last election for Chief Engineer of the Volunteer Department.—New York World.

PASSING COMMENT.

Things that Are Not Exactly News but Just as Interesting.

It is a well-known fact that J. H. Leggett, the druggist, can compound prescriptions to suit the most particular, but his reputation as a marksman was never fully established until the other day, when he brought down a possum with the skill of an expert. The vigil animal was prowling about Mr. Leggett's chicken coop at 417 Central avenue, and Mr. Leggett happening to be about the house at 5 o'clock that morning saw the possum running about. He at once secured his Remington rifle and walking to his hennery killed the possum with one shot. She proved to be an exceptionally fine one and with her were ten little possums

Edward H. Radel, secretary of the Brunswick Traction Company, is undoubtedly the heaviest insured man in New Brunswick, he now carrying $210,000 insurance, $10,000 of which is in fraternal organizations. Last December he was insured in the Mutual Life, of New York, through Harkins & Victory for $100,000. Wednesday he took out another policy, in the Metropolitan Insurance Company for $100,000. This insurance was written by a special agent sent out from New York. Both of these $100,000 policies are practically the same, the premiums being $5,000 a year on each. At the end of twenty years Mr. Radel will receive 200 twenty-year $1,000 gold bonds, bearing interest of 5 per cent. After the bonds have run twenty years they will be paid, Mr. Radel receiving $400,000. If he should die before the expiration of the twenty years, his wife will get the bonds.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, May 23.—The tenth anniversary of the Epworth League was celebrated Sunday night in the Methodist church. Rev. Martin Sindall, Ph.D., delivered an address upon "Nothing from Nothing," and a paper entitled, "Origin and Progress of the Epworth League," was read by Rudolph Fisher. Rev. E. S. Jamison, Ph.D., installed the new officers, who are: J. E. Henry, president; Miss Millicent Vail, first vice-president; Miss Ethel Jamison, second vice-president, Miss May Apgar, third vice-president; Miss Grace Vail, fourth vice-president; Rudolph Fisher, secretary and Miss Lulu Gise, treasurer. There was also special music by the choir.

Some one entered William H. Carman's butcher shop Saturday night but only got away with a few pieces of bologna. They got in through a loose window, and helped themselves. Mrs. Josephine Dunham, of Church street, also heard some one prowling about her house during the night, and suspected that it was burglars trying to force an entrance. She arose and began moving around the house and this frightened the men.

Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Jamison went to Elizabeth yesterday afternoon where Dr. Jamison made an address last night at a re-union of former pastors of the Park Methodist church. Today he will preach a sermon. They will not return home until the last of the week.

Mrs. Richardson, of North avenue, who has lately learned to ride the wheel, had a fall yesterday afternoon. She was not injured, and nothing about the bicycle was broken except a pedal, which prevented her from riding home.

Work on Jefferson avenue was begun yesterday. The street on the borough side will be graded and scraped. Nothing will be done on the Plainfield side yet.

The Methodist Sunday-school have decided to go on their annual excursion to Asbury Park July 27th.

R. W. Smith and family have taken possession of the Ryder house and moved there last week.

Miss Annie Fenner, of Plainfield, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Harry Swackhamer.

Abner Corlell, the borough engineer, is spending a week in Trenton.

Harry Swackhamer was at Asbury Sunday visiting relatives.

John Fenner spent Sunday with his parents in Pluckamin.

NEW MARKET.

(Special Correspondence to The Daily Press

New Market, May 23—While burning a brush heap on the farm of Lewis F. Randolph a few days ago, his hired man discovered a number of loaded gun-shells placed in such a position as to discharge in different directions. The fire was started on the opposite side from where they were placed, and were fortunately discovered before the fire reached them, otherwise the men might have been injured by their discharge. How they came there is a mystery as Mr. Randolph is not known to have any enemy.

J. N. Apgar has been appointed to take the school census in place of R. B. Titsworth, who was forced to resign the appointment on account of other business.

Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Dunellen, visited her uncle, Manning Randolph, of Piscataway, yesterday.

Miss Emma Nelson resumed her place as organist in Holy Innocents' church Sunday.

Mrs. Ann Logan has improved her property by flagging it.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence of The Press.)

Scotch Plains, May 23.—There seems to be a burglary or sneak thief scare in the borough and village. Friday evening the Perry residence in the borough was entered, also the Larry J. Ellis house. A lamp and several pieces of bric-a-brac were taken from the first place, but the thieves were probably scared away from the Ellis house, as nothing but an open window told of the attempt. Mrs. Charles N. Flanders lost a number of laundry pieces which had been left hanging on the clothes line. From the attempts and articles taken it surely shows the work of a novice.

A committee from the Board of Freeholders meet in the village Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock to look into the advisability of macadamizing Mountain avenue from Stansbury corner to the Hunter bridge. This will make a continuous macadam from Newark through to Plainfield. If the committee recommend to the Board the advisability of so doing the road will come under the control of the county. The cost to the property owners along the line will only be a nominal sum and the improvement to the property will be a good thing.

W. D. W. Taylor, of New York, is visiting friends in town and looking after some improvements he is making in his Front street property.

Mrs. Fred Ross, of Plainfield, who has been seriously ill at the home of her parents, Mrs. F. W. Gibbs, is improving very nicely.

Thomas Coles, who has been visiting his mother, Mrs. Jacob V. Coles, has returned to his home in New York.

Clarence Schulbert, of Brooklyn, has been visiting his friend, Richard Robison.

John R. Haskard and family, of Plainfield, spent Sunday with his mother.

Scheelen Bros., the Fanwood grocers, are out with a handsome new delivery wagon.

Miss Bertha Crooker, of Plainfield, has been visiting friends in town.

WESTFIELD

(Special Correspondence of The Daily Press)

Westfield, May 23.—A man giving his name as George Washington Whitaker, of Scotch Plains, was arrested by Justice of the Peace Collins last evening while acting in a drunken and disorderly manner. William Perrine, of this town, was arrested with him, and another man, who had but one arm, was let go.

The Branch Mills Sunday-school has elected the following officers: Superintendent, F. A. Fowler; assistant superintendent, Hiram L. Fink; secretary, E. G. Fink; assistant secretary, W. E. Jobs; treasurer, S. K. Parkhurst; librarian, E. H. Miller.

Mrs. James Wood, mother of Frank Wood, of Mountainside, died at her son's home last evening, aged ninety-six years. Mrs. Wood has been ill for some time past and died from the effects of blood poisoning.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongued coated, pain continually in the back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters;' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50cts., guaranteed, at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store
